'Secret' Was Aired on TV Last January

LBJ RIPS BARRY ON A-PACT

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Sen. Barry Goldwater "the new and frightening voice of the Republican Party" Saturday and said some Goldwater accusations are impulsive, imprudent and erroneous.

Johnson, holding another of his Saturday afternoon news conferences, scoffed at charges by Goldwater that the administration is "soft on communism" and is keeping secret a proposed treaty aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

As for the soft-on-communism allegation, Johnson said:

"I see in the papers—that is the only information that I have—the new and frightening voice of the Republican Party is merely trying out this charge at the moment to see if it works. On that basis, my own advice would be to drop it."

Johnson, referring to "this sort of nonsense," said he believes Goldwater's nuclear-treaty accusation "was the product of some third-string speechwriter and accidentally got into the public print without prudent or careful screening."

Johnson didn't name Goldwater, but in addition to his mention of the "voice of the Republican Party" he referred once to "the Republican candidate."

The President said he announced the nuclear weapons treaty proposal before live television cameras last January and that "there is no secret of any kind." He said Goldwater's statement "is simply some more evidence that impulsive people should probably get themselves properly briefed."

Goldwater has said that he has doubts about the wisdom of the proposed treaty because, he said, it might be signed by Communist China.

Johnson said the Communist Chinese are "violently opposed" to any such treaty and that the Soviet Union has not accepted the idea.

On other major topics, Johnson told newsmen that the Secret Service has no complaints about his conduct in crowds and, in fact, believes that impromptu stops among throngs of people are one of the most important deterrents to risk.

He said "None of you need be worried about my physical safety between now and November." And he volunteered praise for the Secret Service and the FBI — two agencies rapped in the Warren Commission Report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

29 Die in Louisiana Twisters, Hurricane

Toll Rises as Hilda Strikes

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Hurricane Hilda smashed full force across southern Louisiana with 120-mile-an-hour fury Saturday night and shrieked inland, dealing death and destruction behind an advance string of killer tornadoes.

At least 29 persons were dead, most of them tornado victims.

Six were killed in the wreckage of a city hall crushed by a water tower.

Hundreds were injured and damage was soaring into the millions as the vast storm slowly pushed inland through a Cajun-country slot between Avery Island and Morgan City, southwest of New Orleans.

Its path took it in Baton Rouge, the capital, and Lafayette. New Orleans was getting side winds and rain. Flooding was becoming a major threat.

* * * *

IT WAS ONE of the worst storms in Gulf Coast history. It approached in death-dealing mighty Hurricane Carla which killed 34 in Texas and 5 in Louisiana Sept. 12-14, 1961.

However, there appeared little chance Hilda could match Hurricane Audrey which killed an estimated 500 persons in the same general area in 1957.

Tornado alerts remained in effect through the night in southeast Louisiana and southwest Mississippi, where people began moving to high ground.

Three twisters ripped with the whistle of jet engines into the shrimp-fishing town of Larose in Lafourche Parish, 30 miles south of New Orleans.

As many as 40 houses were ripped to pieces or badly damaged in a 200-yard-wide swath one mile long.

Eighteen people died, three of them children. Of the town's 2,800 people, 162 were injured, many seriously.

Another five were killed when their car was swept into Bayou Manchac south of Baton Rouge.

Bloodied survivors dug through rubble for victims until forced out by the onrush of Hilda's terrifying winds.

Barry Says LBJ Selfish on Medicare

Politics Killed Social Security Raise, He Charges

By BILL SUMNER
L. P-T Washington Bureau

MOLINE, Ill. — Sen. Barry Goldwater charged here Saturday that President Johnson killed an increase in Social Security benefits just to "jam his Medicare scheme down everybody's throats."

"We do know, once and for all," said Goldwater in a speech, "just how far the interim President will go to harm the public for selfish purposes."

The Republican nominee blamed Johnson for the death of the Social Security bill in Congress Friday. The administration's Medicare program to provide hospital care for the aged was tacked onto the bill and Senate-House conferees could not agree on a compromise.

* * * *

IN ANOTHER speech, Goldwater referred to President Johnson as a clever compromiser and a scheming wire puller whose example was contributing to a breakdown of law and order in the United States.

These descriptions of Johnson, amost the roughest of the campaign to date, were contained in an accusation-laden speech at the Wheaton College football field in suburban Chicago.

The reference was indirect, but it followed a recitation of scandal and cover-up in which he called the administration "sick" and "riddled with abuse." "To restore public virtue, and thereby law and order," Goldwater said, "there is no place for the dealership of a clever compromiser, a scheming wire puller, a master politician. There is instead urgent need for leadership, dedicated to the principle that moral law binds both the high and the low, the public law must and should be enforced."

CARDS, REDS TIED

Incredible Mets Snarl It, but Good

The lowly New York Mets hit five home runs to wallop the St. Louis Cardinals 15-5 Saturday and plunged the National League into a tie between the Cardinals and idle Cincinnati with one game to wind up the season today.

It was the Mets' second victory in a row over the Cardinals.

If both Cincinnati and St. Louis win their single games Sunday, a National League playoff will be necessary. If St. Louis loses and Philadelphia beats Cincinnati, the result would be a three-way tie.

Manager Johnny Keane used eight pitchers in an effort to stop the flow of Met hits, which reached 17 including George Altman's home run in the second, Ed Kranepool's three-run homer in the third, Charlie Smith's 19th homer in the fifth and a three-run homer by Bob Klaus and a solo homer by Joe Christopher in the sixth.

The possibility of a four-way first-place finish was dispelled when the San Francisco Giants dropped a 10-7 decision to the Chicago Cubs.

In college football, Michigan State upset USC, 17-7. Minnesota toppled California, 26-20, and Iowa knocked off Washington, 28-18, as Big Ten schools made life miserable for West Coast teams.

Top-ranked Texas scored two fourth-period touchdowns to whip Army, 17-6, but third-rated Auburn wasn't as fortunate, losing to Kentucky, 20-0. Notre Dame won its second game, defeating Purdue, 34-15.

Viet Drive Nets 46 Reds Killed

SAIGON Viet Nam, Sunday (AP)—Government forces killed 46 Viet Cong and captured 16 others during a battle on Communist-infested Ca Mau Peninsula, the defense department reported today.

The government said it suffered two dead during the helicopter-borne operation near Tan Phu outpost in An Xuyen Province, 160 miles southwest of Saigon.

One Dead as Cycle Hits Car

Two youths, riding double on a newly purchased lightweight motorcycle, smashed into an automobile late Saturday night at Willow Street and Lakewood Boulevard when a stuck traffic light led them to believe they had the right of way.

The driver of the motorcycle was killed instantly. He carried no identification other than a bill of sale for the motorcycle dated Sept. 25.

SERIOUSLY injured and undergoing emergency surgery early today was Edward Charles Hoffman Jr., 18, of 7508 E. Racine Ave., Paramount.

He was pinned in a twisted piece of motorcycle wreckage when ambulance drivers arrived at the scene.

Driver of the automobile, who was unhurt in the collision, is Touissaint Parker, 27, of Los Angeles.

Police found signals at the heavily traveled intersection stuck on green and amber.

GOLDWATER LEADS ONLY IN DIXIE

Polls Forecast President's Victory in All but 3 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polls reaching the White House, it was learned Saturday, show that President Johnson was leading Republican Barry Goldwater in 47 of the 50 states on the days the polls were taken.

The three states missing from the Johnson column at this point are in the South and the outlook from one of them is described as fuzzy. The other two are unexpectedly close compared to what the Democrats thought the showing might be.

The word is, also, that there is room in polls for an error of 4% either way, so that Johnson doesn't have any solid expectation of grabbing off 47 states.

* * * *

THE WHITE HOUSE information is that the maximum change in October, in the history of polls going back through the 30s, was the 5% swing in the Truman-Dewey race in 1948, in which President Harry S. Truman squeaked through with an actual minority of popular vote. Usually the change is more on the order of 2% in one direction or the other.

In the 1960 presidential contest, there was practically no change in October, and in the two Eisenhower-Stevenson battles in 1952 and 1956 the poll percentages shifted only a couple of points, according to the figures made available to the White House.

At this point, the indication of the polls overall is that the President has about a two-to-one edge over his rival, with 62 to 32% and the rest undecided.

Johnson isn't taking anything for granted and tells friends that he intends to keep on working and trying to "get every vote we can."

Since he has been President, he has gone into about 30 states—many of them since his presidential nomination, and he hopes to get into perhaps 25 before the Nov. 3 voting.

* * * *

HE ISN'T sure just which ones he will hit and which he will miss, but Alaska and Hawaii look as if they are out of range. Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wife of the vice-presidential nominee, is going to those two.

Mississippi and Alabama are considered the two states most likely to wind up with Goldwater. In Louisiana, a poll that has come to White House attention shows that Goldwater has dropped 8% and Johnson is up 6% since the last count. A Mississippi reading was 70-30 against Johnson.

FIRE ALARM CRIES 'WOLF'

SEATTLE (AP)—That $700 fire-alarm system installed by Edward Charles kept blasting off with false alarms and scaring the children. When it set up a clatter during a television program, Charles said, he shut it off and forgot to turn it back on later.

Firemen said the long-smoldering blaze in Charles' basement workshop Friday did $1,000 damage.

LBJ Adds 3 States to Junket

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson added Tennessee, Montana and Nevada plus additional parts of California Saturday to the weeklong campaign expedition he starts next Tuesday.

The trek will take him coast to coast and border to border.

The White House announced that on Friday, Oct. 9, the President will be going into Tennessee, between stops at Louisville and New Orleans. The specific place or places in Tennessee have not yet been determined.

* * * *

HE PLANS to spend a let-up day on Saturday, Oct. 10, on his Texas ranch near Johnson City, and attend a Columbus Day parade in San Francisco on Sunday.

The following day, the President will be campaigning "somewhere in California," and then move on to Butte, Mont., and back to Reno, Nev.

The trip starts Tuesday when Johnson sees Mrs. Johnson off on the "Lady Bird Special" campaign train that will take her through Dixie.

L.A.C. Says:

Sermon That Caused a Political Furor

A noted clergyman who was born in the White House as a grandson of President Wilson has created quite a furor by one of his sermons. He is Dean Francis Sayre of the Episcopal National Cathedral in Washington, D. C. Since the sermon he has been besieged with phone calls, letters and newspaper correspondents and columnists—and answered by other leading clergymen.

In his sermon Dean Sayre said: "This summer we beheld a pair of gatherings at the summit of political power—each of which was completely dominated by a single man—the one a man of dangerous ignorance and devastating uncertainty; the other a man whose public house is splendid in its every appearance, but whose private lack of ethics must inevitably introduce termites at the very foundation."

Bishop Creighton of the church disagreed with the sermon, saying: "I would prefer to judge the candidates on the basis of their programs." The Rev. Dr. Shirkey of the Washington Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church says: "Both are worthy, good men. Not once have I had any reason to doubt the sincerity, the honesty; nor to question the motives or the basic character of the two men."

This difference of opinion was further increased the past week when Sen. Karl Mundt referred to the campaign as "Low level and schoolyard." He labeled it as "dirtier" and more diatribe-filled than any campaign of recent years. He said: "We all know in our hearts that Barry Goldwater is not a raving, ranting demagogue as charged by Johnson. Just as we know that President Johnson is not a crook."

The President made his charges in a speech to the Steel Workers Union. The reference to the President's honesty comes from the revelation of how his family fortune has been accumulated in his radio and TV monopoly made possible by rulings of the Federal Communications Commission over which he has had great influence—and the members of which he has the power to appoint. It also stems from his close association with Bobby Baker.

Last Sunday the minister of the First Christian Church where Mr. Johnson is a member replied to Dean Sayre as follows: "It is regrettable that you have spoken so as to discourage support of a leader qualified as none other to discharge the awesome responsibilities of the office of President in these world-shaking and threatening times." He also asked his congregation, including the President and Mrs. Johnson, to pray that the Chief Executive "be upheld by the electorate."

It is probable most of the voters have made up their minds as to the extent of "dangerous ignorance" that should be applied to Goldwater. But it seems there is a definite "blind spot" for those who shrug off the Johnson fortune and Bobby Baker association. When church people refuse to consider these activities as reflecting on a man's character they are, in effect, approving them. If this is their attitude, the question is: Where do they draw the line on such moral issues? What moral standards do they set up for the public officials in their teaching of young people? Wherein do they disagree with Dean Sayre's remark that "a lack of ethics must inevitably introduce termites at the very foundation?"—L.A.C.

All-Digit Opponents Lose Another Round

Opponents of the all-digit dialing system lose another round today.

An estimated 7,500 telephone numbers in Long Beach will be changed to an all-number series which begins with 59.

Hemlock exchanges account for most of the new numbers, but some Garfield numbers are also included, according to a General Telephone Company spokesman.

Letters on the 5 and 9 dial positions are JKL-WXY. Just try and fabricate a pronounceable prefix out of that!

STATE BALLOT PROPOSALS

$1.25 Billion Actual Cost if $790 Million Borrowed

By JIM McCAULEY
I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

(First of a Series)

SACRAMENTO — Three proposals for further state bonded indebtedness will top the list of 17 state propositions on the California ballot Nov. 3.

The bonds, proposed to finance recreation, school building and state construction projects, are ballyhooed as costing $790 million. Actual expense to taxpayers will be hundreds of millions of dollars higher.

If you figure in anticipated interest over the next 25 years, the legislative analyst estimates, ultimate cost may be $1.25 billion.

PROPONENTS say that future generations will use the projects for a long time, it is only right that they should help pay for them. It is cheaper to borrow for projects now rather than pay an inflated price for them later, according to another proponent argument.

California's buy-now-pay-later credit plan, financed by bond issues, has been growing in recent years. Californians thus far have approved some $6 billion in bond issues, and some critics assert the state's fiscal good health will be perilled if it goes too deeply into hock.

EARLIER this year Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh and Senate President Pro Tempore Hugh M. Burns warned that the point just about had been reached where it would be necessary to turn to pay-as-you-go financing. However, legislative leaders allowed the three current bond issues to go on the ballot and are not campaigning against them.

The financing can be OK'd by a bare majority of voters, a softer requirement than the two-thirds approval required on local school bonds. The California Republican Assembly opposed all three bond issues.

Proposition 2 for a $380-million bond issue for college-state institution building projects and Proposition 3 for a $260-million bond issue for loan-grants to local school districts will be discussed separately in future articles.

Proposition 1 should be familiar to 1962 voters. A similar $150-million-bond proposal for parks and recreation was rejected by voters then.

The new proposition proposes $85 million for beach-park land acquisition, $20 million for land development, $40 million for grants to cities and counties for local recreation projects and $5 million for wildlife conservation —another $150 million catch-all package.

The proposition's backers say the need was demonstrated by California's recent 50% increase in population. In that same era, park-beach lands increased only 24% Yet recreational use soared 430%, they assert. Turned away from state recreational facilities were 500,000 persons.

State park-recreation officials forecast it may be necessary to increase recreation fees and apply reservation restrictions if the bond issue is defeated.

"Our existing system of beaches and parks barely meets the needs of our 18 million Californians. Unless the system is expanded, it will not be adequate for the 27 million persons expected in our state by 1970," said Assemblyman Carley V. Porter, D-Compton.

Writers of the pro-bond arguments call the situation a "recreational crisis." They are Walt Disney, Judge Ronald Cameron of the Placer County Superior Court and Alvin C. Weingand, a state senator from Santa Barbara County.

Proponents further say needed acreage is disappearing through private purchase.

THE LEGISLATIVE analyst's office noted that current State Parks and Beaches Division revenues from service fees amount to only one-third of operating costs. That was a hint that if new facilities are added, they will add to the drain on general fund sources.

The office also estimated that the $50-million bond issue would cost taxpayers an additional $77 million in interest. The interest cost isn't mentioned in the ballot argument.

Opponents of the proposition charge the issue would encourage unsound projects. They also urge development of presently owned state lands rather than purchase of others.

"PRESENTLY there are vast acreages of land previously acquired by the state for recreational purposes which are lying undeveloped and idle," charged Sen. Carl L. Christensen Jr., D-Humboldt, and Paul Sheedy, executive vice president of the Property Owners' Tax Association of California, Inc.

Christensen and Sheedy also assert that placing more lands under state ownership will erode the tax base. "This diminution of the taxe base has the effect of producing higher taxes on remaining property," they say.

'COKE' CAPER

Bottles Up Waitress, Takes $90

A 220-pound man got away with $90 from a Hawaiian Gardens restaurant Saturday and the only "weapon" he used was a huge soft-drink machine, according to Lakewood sheriff's deputies.

The man entered the restaurant at 12440 Carson St. shortly before 6 p.m., and ordered dinner from waitress Jo Ann Whitlock, 22, who was alone at the time.

When she entered the kitchen, deputies said, the man, described as being approximately 45 years old and having long black hair, jumped off a stool, slammed the kitchen door and pushed the soft-drink machine in front of it.

He then rifled the till and walked out.

Dies Following Football Game

A Lakewood man died saturday night following a football game he participated in with neighborhood children.

Jack Hinsche, 45, of 3216 Arbor Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital at 7:55 p.m.

He was discovered in a semi-conscious state on the patio of his home. Hospital officials said he apparently suffered a heart attack, but had no previous history of cardiac trouble.

Congress had adjourned without acting on health insurance for the aged under Social Security, Johnson said, "We confidently feel we will find a way to get agreement (on it) in the next session." The President said it was unfortunate that Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee had joined Republicans to create an "impasse" on the bill. He said he was certain Mills was sincere.

Johnson announced that the Defense Department's civilian payroll will be reduced by another 2,000 by mid-1965 and reported that non-defense agencies this year have racked up annual savings of $310 million through economy programs.

Discussing a progress report on a Pentagon study on whether to continue the military draft, Johnson said Americans "want to minimize the use of compulsion" but will run no risks in military security. He said the study will be available in April.

In dealing with Goldwater's accusations, Johnson seemed to be consulting papers lying on his desk. Presidents frequently prepare statements in anticipation that certain questions will be asked at news conferences.

After arguing that there was no secret concerning the proposed nuclear arms treaty, Johnson said that as long as he was President, he would work hard to reach agreements designed to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

At another point, Johnson was told by a reporter that some candidates for high offices have been using words like "lies, deceit, drift and defeat."

Asked to comment on "that kind of campaign," Johnson at first refused, then added that people know "candidates don't spend much time recommending the other fellow."

And Johnson repeated a past statement that, in his view, voters aren't interested in his opinion of Goldwater or Goldwater's opinion of him.

The chief executive, in an opening statement, expressed optimism about meeting his budget targets.

He said budget spending during July and August was $676 million less than in the same months last year and that federal civilian employment on August 30 was 17,000 less than a year earlier.

As has become his custom, Johnson read still another statement detailing some of the most recent economic statistics — all glowing -- and said, "Our great gains are not being eroded by inflation."

On another favorite topic, Johnson said 88 more women have been appointed or promoted to high-pay federal jobs in recent weeks. He said that since he began a women-in-government drive early this year, the number of such appointments and promotions has risen to 1,610.

Weary Congress Adjourns After Upping Vets' Pensions

—AP Wirephotos

PAGE BOYS in House of Representatives chamberglecfully toss papers in the air to signify long-awaited adjournment of 88th Congress. House wound up its business in mid-afternoon a few hours after Senate quit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A politically impatient Congress disposed of some odds and ends Saturday, then shut up shop and hustled off to the hustings —where its lengthy legislative record will loom large in campaign oratory.

Sine die adjournment came in the Senate at 1:41 p.m. EDT and in the House at 3:16 p.m. Both adjourned until Jan 4 which means the 88th Congress has completed its record—unless it is recalled in special session by President Johnson.

As the windup came the President was urged to do just that. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., sent Johnson a telegram urging a post-election sitting to deal with a massive revival program for Appalachia and with health care for the aged—two major administration projects left stranded by adjournment.

THERE WAS no hint from the White House whether the chief executive is considering such a step. oJhnson's readings of the election results could determine his course on these matters, at least one of which—health care under Social Security seems certain to be a top campaign issue in many districts.

Regardless of issues, the adjournment only a month from ballot day means that members of the 88th who want to come back with the 89th—as nearly all of them do—must do a fast job of pointing with pride and viewing with alarm. All House seats and a third of those in the Senate are to be filled.

Principal last-day actions clearing the way for adjournment were:

—Acceptance by both chambers of a $1.1-billion supplemental appropriations bill providing operating funds for several agencies, including $800 million for the new one to administer the new anti-poverty program.

—Passage of a compromise bill raising veterans' pensions and reopening the federally subsidized national veterans insurance program for a limited number of former servicemen.

The last-minute agreement which rescued the pension bill from the shelf provides for a 5% increase in all pensions now being paid to veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict. The estimated added cost is $80 million annually.

The compromise also settled one of the longest-standing legislative disputes between House and Senate. Seven times the Senate approved reopening of the National Service Life Insurance program for veterans who didn't take it or let it lapse under present law. Seven times the House refused to go along.

This time the conferees, led by Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., and Sen. Russell Long, D-La., agreed to a provision which will allow reopening on a limited basis.

THOSE ELIGIBLE to apply will be those who served in the armed forces between Oct. 8, 1940, and Dec. 31, 1956, and who have a service-connected disability or are regarded by private companies as uninsurable risks.

The 88th was one of the sittingest of congresses. It was in session more than 11 months in 1963 and nearly 10 months this year.

Despite heavy Democratic majorities—about 2 to 1 in the Senate and 3 to 2 in the House—it frequently frustrated the plans of Democratic Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

After former Sen. Johnson succeeded the assassinated Kennedy last November, the Southern Democrat-Northern Republican combination became less effective against administration aims. In the end, Johnson saw it enact 24 of his 30 principal "must" measures—and give him the basic foundation on which he is waging his campaign for election in his own name.

Ethics Panel Still Awaits 1st Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate adjourned Saturday without having named the members of a special bipartisan committee to investigate charges of misconduct against senators or Senate employes.

The Senate amended its rules last July 24, by a 61-19 vote, to provide for the committee, in the wake of its Rules Committee's report on its Bobby Baker investigation.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., author of the resolution creating the Committee on Conduct and Standards, deplored in a brief Senate speech Saturday that no senators have been named to bring it into being.

HOWEVER, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana assured him that "the committee will be appointed."

Mansfield said he and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois "will take this up at an appropriate time with the president pro tempore and see that the will of the Senate is carried out."

Cooper noted that investigation of the Baker case has been reopened by the Rules Committee and said, "It is apparent that whatever the committee may do, it will be charged with politics."

He said he feels the special committee voted for by the Senate last July, to be composed of three senators from each party appointed by the president pro tempore, would command the respect of the country and be as nonpolitical as possible.

DIRKSEN voted against creation of the committee, and Mansfield previously had said that he knows of "no volunteers" to serve on it.

Cooper, a member of the Rules Committee, said it is "not sufficient to say that senators will not serve" on the special committee assigned to check up on any illegal or improper conduct by their colleagues.

AN APPEAL FOR SAFETY

Jazzman to Be Parade Marshal

Ward Kimball will be grand marshal of the 40-unit parade which gets under way at 12:30 p.m. today in downtown Long Beach to celebrate National Fire Prevention Week.

Kimball is a nationally known trombone player and unofficial chief of the Dixieland combo the Firehouse Five—Plus Two.

He will be riding on one of five ancient pieces of fire-fighting equipment entered by the Long Beach City Fire Department for contrast with the four pieces of most modern equipment which also will be in the parade.

THE PARADE, which will begin at Ocean Boulevard and Magnolia Avenue and end at Ocean and Alamitos Avenue, kicks off a week-long celebration, sponsored by the area fire departments and the Long Beach Safety Council.

A highlight of the parade will be Los Angeles County's Truck No. ½, a team of comedy firefighters whose antics always please the crowd and particularly the small children.

Marching bands and units from all military installations in the Long Beach area, including the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard, will participate.

FIRE DEPARTMENTS from surrounding cities, including Los Angeles City and County, Signal Hill, and Seal Beach, will be showing off their latest equipment.

Beauty Queens, including Miss Long Beach and Miss White Hat, will be riding on floats entered by civic and industrial groups.

WARD KIMBALL
Firehouse 5+2

Kimball will lead off the parade and the line of old-time fire units riding in the two-wheel hose reel, known in its heyday about 1812 to 1900 as a Jumpe, Leader Cart or Tender. It was, and still is, capable of hauling up to 600 feet of hose.

TWO OTHER old units, dating about 1894, will be a steamer-type Amoskeag 882, and a horse drawn hose wagon. Both these items were purchased and restored to their original glory by members of the Long Beach Fire Department.

After the parade the Long Beach Fire Department will conduct a special fire fighting and rescue demonstration at 600 E. Ocean Blvd.

VISITS 270 TOURISTS

Johnson Says Hand-Shaking Safe, Then Proves Point

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson reasserted Saturday his idea that he is safe in shaking hands with crowds and then went out and practiced his preaching with a throng at the White House gate.

He wound up ordering the gate opened — after asking the Secret Service agents around him if it would be all right -- and making a quarter-mile circuit of the grounds with some 270 tourists in tow.

The President traded chit-chat, handed out autographs, shook a lot of hands, walked along hand-in-hand with a couple of youngsters, and seemed to be enjoying himself just as much as his guests.

"NOT AN easy job to be President, huh?" one of his younger visitors inquired.

"No, it's good," the President assured him.

With a smile, he told "you pretty girls to get up here with me—don't let those men crowd you out." He cautioned a boy to stop shoving — "you're messin' up my writing." That was when he was autographing a Johnson campaign poster someone brought along.

The President took just two turns around the grounds but it required about an hour and a quarter because of long stops here and there to talk with trailing reporters.

After he got through, he invited newsmen into the cabinet room to see some color slides of himself in Providence, R.I., and Hartford, Conn., last Monday.

The pictures showed some of the huge throngs and the wild enthusiasm of shouting people with hands reaching out for his.

"I want to build my image," the President said at one point. And at another: "Go slow; I like 'em."

LBJ Bids 15 Study with Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson established Saturday a program for White House fellows—15 young men or women who will be given "first-hand, high-level experience" with workings of the government and an increased "sense of participation in national affairs."

A 12-member commission, headed by David Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, will select the fellows.

The qualifications: Age 23 to 35 years, American citizenship and graduation from an accredited four-year college.

THE 15 FELLOWS will serve 15 months beginning about June 1, 1965.

The White House said it is not a college or scholarly program, since the fellows will have completed their educations and a number of them will be well into careers. It said they will be chosen from business, law, journalism, universities, architecture or other occupations. It said each will have demonstrated "high moral character, exceptional ability, marked leadership qualities and unusual promise of future development."

EACH WILL be on leave from his present occupation and will receive a base salary of $7,500 to $12,000, plus additional amounts to take care of family responsibilities. The program is supported by a Carnegie Foundation grant.

Four of the 15 fellows will be assigned to the White House staff and one to the office of the vice president. One each will be attached to the 10 Cabinet members.

Stalemate on Food in 21st Day

The wholesale food tie-up is 21 days old today and negotiators of the Food Employers Council and the Teamsters reported no quick solution in the strike-lockout stalemate.

Federal mediators Saturday requested that Teamsters delay on their threat to fly pickets here from Northern California and other states.

Early Saturday, negotiators announced some progress. A Food Employers Council spokesman said, however, "It is not over and probably won't be for some time."

Negotiations were expected to continue through today. Both sides have agreed to seek a breakthrough in the dispute which has affected some markets and left others virtually untouched.

Caught in Big LBJ Jam-Up, He 'Joined' Secret Service

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI) — A college student said Saturday his being mistaken for a Secret Service man was and not intent.

The Brown University Herald reported Friday that Neil P. Coady, 19, of North Smithfield, a student at Johnson and Wales Junior College here, helped Secret Service men control crowds during President Johnson's visit.

The college paper said Coady assisted Mrs. Johnson while the chief executive spoke at City Hall and later at the university.

The Herald said it had "absolute" pictorial proof that Coady took part in the incident.

Coady said Saturday in an interview with a Boston radio station that he went to Providence to see the President and was caught up in a huge crowd. He said he helped police hold back the throng which was swarming beside the motorcade.

He said he took advantage of the situation to jump on one of the cars and rode along the motorcade.

Coady had told newsmen: "At one point a uniformed policeman tried to push me away but a motorcycle policeman stepped in and said, "No, he is one of the Secret Service."

The student said he chatted briefly with Mrs. Johnson and helped her from the car when the motorcade reached the auditorium where the President was to speak and receive an honorary degree.

"At one point Mrs. Johnson rolled down the window and said something about the reception the state gave her husband. . . I agreed with her and that was about the extent of our conversation," the Herald had quoted Coady.

Coady said the Secret Service told him "it was a rather risky thing to do." He said the Secret Service told him they did not know whether any action would be taken against him.

HE SAYS FATHERS SHOULD STAND BY

Pastor Faints Easily but Witnesses Births

(Editor's Note: On Sept. 20th, The Independent, Press-Telegram carried an article, asking the question: "Should a Father Witness the Birth of His Child?" The Rev. Robert H. Stearns, pastor of Community Assembly Church, 1243 E. Fourt St., and Mrs. Stearns, impressed with the article, wrote their own views on the subject.)

By REV.
ROBERT H. STEARNS

Should a father witness birth? For some reason, the experts quoted in your interesting article neglected to present their qualifications to speak for the fathers. How many of the experts witnessed the birth of their own children- If they did not witness the birth of their own children, how could they be in a position to state what is and what is not good for the physical mental, and psychological condition of either parent?

I have been privileged to witness the birth of two of our three children, and it is from personal experience I write this letter. One of the most regretful decisions my wife and I have ever made was for me to waive the witnessing of the birth of our third child. It creates a wholeness of the family to have both parents in the delivery room. The father was present at the conception of the child—why exclude him from the miracle of birth—in which he played such an important role? The father and mother together should be allowed to enjoy the birth of their offspring.

Physically, the father is on the scene, to strengthen, and to encourage his wife. He is not sitting in a gloomy waiting room with its worry and anxiety, but rather is where he can be assured that all is well. The father belongs with his wife.

I would like to examine the reasons for exclusion of the father from the delivery room.

1. "The fathers fainting" This writer is one of the individuals given to fainting upon the sight of blood. I have fainted during routine blood tests, and even in the dentist's chair! Yet, in the delivery room, under the pressure and the excitement of the birth, I did not even get "woozy." Many fathers have served in the Armed Services, and have witnessed things much more likely to cause one to faint than the birth of a child. It is as logical to state that the father might faint as a reason for his exclusion as to state that the doctor . . . or aid might faint.

2. "The father is apt to get excited." Again, this is an illogical statement. From my own personal experience, I can say that there is much more pressure, worry, anxiety and undue excitement for the father in the waiting room, as he is wondering . . . wondering . . . always wondering . . . if all is well, than being on the scene of action. During the birth of our second child, my wife did not make it into the delivery room and I found myself "pinned" between a wall and the delivery cart. Did I panic? No indeed! In fact, I was given a task to do in the assisting at the birth due to its suddenness.

3. "The danger of infection is greatly increased." I wonder does the doctor, who comes from his home or office, wears clothing such as you and I, and drives a car which came from the same assembly line as ours, become immune to germs because of his profession? Of course not! He scrubs with soap and water and disinfectant at the hospital and puts on hospital garb. Won't soap, water, disinfectant and hospital garb do the same job for the father?

As a father who has witnessed the birth of his children, I feel fathers should, if they so choose, and their wife agrees, be permitted to observe the birth of their children from the delivery room.

Mother of Three Urges Mates Be Given a Choice

By VIRGINIA STEARNS

Having had my husband by my side at the time of two of our three children's births, I am for allowing the husband to be with his wife in the delivery room. I don't say that it should be mandatory for husbands. Most men probably prefer not to be there, but why prevent those who want to be there from being with their wives?

The miracle of birth is a wondrous thing. Why should only the doctors, nurses and mothers be privileged to witness this wonder of all creation? Do we three groups of people feel like the father is intruding? This is unfair to the father; after all, if it were not for him, there would be no child. Why not let him witness the culmination of this miracle of life?

The silent nearness of my husband, his strong hand holding mine, gave me strength and courage. I also say that I had emotional support from him from the first of my pregnancies. What a thrill it was to have my very own husband tell me that we had the son we so wanted and the daughter we looked forward to having. It must have been a thrill to him, too, like opening a surprise gift himself, and not having someone tell him. He had seen the child for himself.

Never once did my first doctor exclude my husband. Even during regular monthly visits, the doctor would chat with him while examining and caring for me. As a result, there was a special understanding of one another and a union of purpose.

I have read of a hospital in the Eastern U. S. which has provided a husband's observatory room for them. They feel so very much that the husband should witness the child's birth that they orientate the husband for this experience.

Therefore, both my husband and myself feel wholeheartedly that the medical reasoning is unfounded and that those husbands who so desire should be allowed to attend their wives in the delivery room.

BOUNCED FROM WYOMING TO ALASKA TO SEATTLE

Rejected Girls Plead for Orphanage

SEATTLE (AP)—You could hardly call the letter formal, but King County's juvenile court judges deemed it literature when they opened the envelope and read:

"DEAR YOUR HONOR,

"My name is . . . I am in the 7th grade and I am 12 years old. I wish that I could go to Washton Childern's Home. I promise I will be good and obey my houseparents. My case is that my mother does not want me and my father wants me but doesn't have enough to support me and my little sister, she is 10 years old and in the 5th grade. We don't want to go with our mother. We been here 3½ months. There is 11 kid in our family so that's why my father can't suport us. I don't care much what happens to me but please give my sister a place to go. We will try our hardest to be good where ever you put us."

"All true," said Mrs. Charmaine Ashcraft Saturday—except, perhaps, for the part about the father. He's demanding a refund for the unused part of the plane tickets he bought to send the daughters back from Alaska to their mother in Wyoming.

* * * *

MRS. ASHCRAFT is a case worker at the King County Youth Service Center, which has been all the home the girls have known since they were brought in July 15 from the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

The Travelers Aid Society found them there, waiting out a five-hour layover in a flight from Anchorage to Denver. Suspicious, the society telephoned a Wyoming town and found the mother had disappeared without leaving a forwarding address.

Mother had shipped them unannounced to father in Alaska, said Mrs. Ashcraft. Four days later father had started them back. Mother never has been located.

All their lives the attractive little girls have been bounced from relative to relative and the rejection has rubbed off. They are not little angels, said Mrs. Ashcraft. "They have not been trained to live in a compatible social group."

The Youth Service Center does not divulge the girls' names and the juvenile court judges haven't said as yet how they plan to reply to big sister's letter.

Nuclear China Tops U.S.-Russia Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet-American talks on critical cold war issues, including Red China's nuclear weapons potential are expected to resume in New York soon after the Nov. 3 presidential election.

They were suspended for the duration of the election campaign.

U.S. and Russian officials said Saturday that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko undoubtedly will confer during the opening days of the United Nations General Assembly. The assembly opening also was postponed from September to Nov. 10 in deference to the election.

* * * *

OFFICIALS said that if President Johnson is elected, the talks could pave the way for a summit meeting some time next year between him and Soviet Premier Khrushchev. First, however, Johnson would meet with British, French, German and Italian leaders to avoid any appearance of dealing with Moscow behind their backs.

The knowledge that Red China apparently is close to testing its initial nuclear device undoubtedly will be discussed. Rusk predicted this week that the blast could come "in the near future." If it has taken place by the time he meets Gromyko, increased urgency will attend their talks.

The Russians were said to have shown no interest in July 1963, when Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman suggested to Khrushchev the possibility of exploring ways to dissuade Red China from developing nuclear weapons. The Soviet leader felt that the limited nuclear test ban treaty then being negotiated might provide enough worldwide pressure to accomplish that.

Soviet and American officials said Rusk and Gromyko probably would devote a major portion of their talks to disarmament.

No Negotiated Peace Seen for Cyprus

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Saturday prospects for a negotiated Cyprus peace settlement in the foreseeable future can be virtually written off.

President Archbishop Makarios was seen to be simply biding his time and determined to take the Cyprus issue to the United Nations General Assembly next month.

There the Cyprus leader expects to win majority support from non-aligned nations for a resolution calling for complete independence of Cyprus, in defiance of Turkish claims.

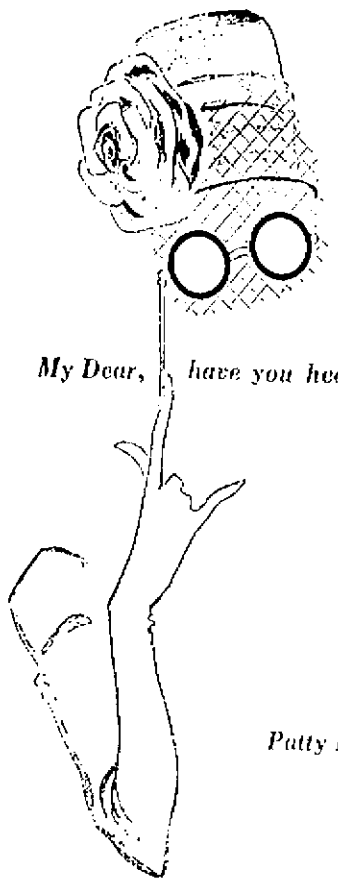

Ike Backs Drives for Election Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower endorsed Saturday the raising of campaign funds to help in the election of Republican congressmen.

In a letter to Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, Eisenhower commended the recent establishment of the Republican Congressional Boosters Club, which is to raise funds for G O P congressional candidates.

Hurricane's Blast Tears at Louisiana

roof. All inside the house escaped.

At Erath, some 70 miles southwest of Baton Rouge, 100-mile-an-hour winds hurled a 70-foot water tower onto the small building that served as town hall. Nine Civil Defense workers were trapped in a 25x30-foot room.

Two got out, both injured.

* * * *

SEVEN remained inside, Leo Bernard, a Civil Defense worker, said six were dead. He could see the bodies, he said.

A crane was brought in to pull the wreckage away. The winds threatened to topple the crane.

In New Orleans, fire swept up through a grease duct from the basement to the roof of the 15-story New Orleans hotel. Some 300 guests, many in nightclothes, some of them mothers with children, fled into rainswept Canal Street.

Firemen quickly doused the blaze, the guests returned. No one was hurt.

* * * *

LIGHTS went out in town after town and flood waters rose as the winds rose.

Still more people fled to shelters. The Civil Defense director, Frank G. Spiess, said 150,000 Louisiannans had fled the storm.

The Red Cross said 66,702 of them were housed in 231 shelters around the state. The rest sought private havens.

The aroma of shrimp, rice, coffee, bread and humanity mingled in school gymnasiums, courthouses and other sturdy buildings set up with cots, blankets and kitchens. Some people fled to the Lafourche Parish jail in Thibodaux. It welcomed them.

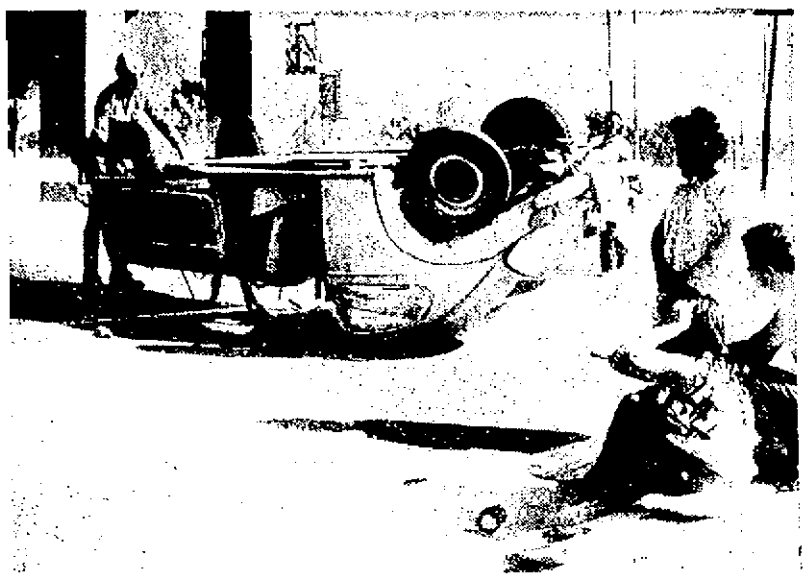

* * * *

WATER rose in Bayou Teche, the main artery in New Iberia. Lights blew out. Windows broke.

"It's blowing like hell here," was the word.

A window taped against the onslaught caved in and burst anyhow.

The three tornadoes that hit Larose were among a series of eight that danced erratically around the storm area, adding to the danger.

FREEWAY FLIP

A 16-year-old driver survived unhurt a 224-foot skid, a crash against a concrete divider and an 88-foot upside-down skid in his small foreign car Saturday under the Sixth Street overpass on the Long Beach Freeway. Fernando J. Botello, of 2128 E. 124th St., Compton, comforts passenger Ruth Contreras, 15, of 13101 Cargo Ave., Compton, seated, who suffered ankle injuries in the mishap. Esperanza Gamola, 12, of 13107 Largo Ave., Compton, standing, suffered possible head injuries. Motor Sgt. Gil Smith has just pulled the car—all by himself—on its top off of the freeway to allow traffic to pass. Botello was cited for speeding.

'MON DIEU, MON DIEU . . .'

Dazed Bayou Fishing Town Covers Dead in Streets

By ED McCUSKER

LAROSE, La. (AP) — The French woman, her head covered by a kerchief, cried: "Mon Dieu. Mon Dieu." My God. My God.

Down the road lay the still bodies of the first victims of Hurricane Hilda. They were covered with Indian blankets and rags and other remnants of a devastating tornado spawned in the vanguard of the hurricane.

The tornado cut a 50-yard swath through this French Cajun Bayou LaFourche fishing town, leaving in its path the death of at least 20 persons and the destruction of 30 or more homes.

* * * *

WITH Associated Press photographer Jack Thornell, I rushed to the scene in this town 55 miles southwest of New Orleans.

The bodies were laid out on makeshift mattresses on the side of a street that runs along the bayou.

Sheriff Eddie St. Marie, with blood stains on his shirtsleeves, said his count showed at least 20 bodies.

"We need doctors," said Ed Callais, a LaRose merchant.

* * * *

"WE HAVEN'T been able to reach any. We've been trying. But no success. A nurse just came in. That's all we have. Later, the Coast Guard flew in a Navy physician. He said about 425 people had taken shelter in the school.

"The people were trapped in their homes when they collapsed," Callais said. "They had broken ribs, broken arms, broken legs."

"We know at least two children have been blown into the canefield," said T. M. Barker, the parish Civil Defense director.

Orange County Traffic Kills Two

An Anaheim man and a Wilmington woman were killed in Long Beach-area traffic accidents Saturday.

Carl Heinz Wenske, 31, of 301 N. West St., Anaheim, was killed when his foreign auto flipped after being struck by another car. He was dead of head injuries on arrival at Orange County Hospital.

California Highway Patrolman Harry Gillespie said Wenske's car was struck by an auto driven by James Leslie Tirtle, 41, of Orange.

Gillespie said Wenske had indicated he was going to turn right onto Douglas Road from Katella Avenue. Apparently he changed his mind and swerved in front of Tirtle's car. Tirtle was not cited.

Dora Mae England, 51, of 1005 W. Cruces St., died early Saturday in Harbor General Hospital of head injuries. Her husband, Arron, 54, who was driving when their car crashed into a light post on Anaheim Street, was in satisfactory condition late Saturday at Harbor General.

Officer Donald Musselwhite said England apparently fell asleep at the wheel. His car ripped out a power-pole guy wire and hit a concrete light standard near Bay View Avenue.

Recovery Inc. Sets 2nd Group

The group will meet at 1 p.m. in Temple Sinai, Seventh Street and Molino Avenue. The first Recovery Inc. group, which opened at the Brewitt Branch Public Library Auditorium, 4036 East Anaheim four years ago, still meets there at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

Italy Opening Great Superhighway Today

ROME (AP) — Italy's "Highway of the Sun," a 470-mile superhighway unparalleled since the ancient Romans laced the Mediterranean world with roads leading to Rome, will be inaugurated today.

The highway, running from Milan to Salerno, took more than eight years and nearly a half billion dollars to build.

Christmas Mail Deluge in Prospect

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The post office warned postmasters across the country to be prepared to handle 7 billion letters, cards and packages during the Christmas season this year.

Postal officials, in a special 56-page bulletin on preparing for the annual holiday deluge, based its forecast on the 6.7 billion pieces of mail handled last year during the two weeks before Dec. 25.

For those sending Christmas packages overseas by ship to persons who receive their mail through Army post offices, the department said items must be mailed by Nov. 20 if they are to arrive on time.

Other deadlines:

Nov. 30—All surface mail to Hawaii and Alaska.

Dec. 5—Parcels to distant points in this country.

Dec. 10—Air parcels to Army post offices.

Dec. 10—Greeting cards to distant points in this country.

Democrat Drive for Registering Voters Succeeds

By BILL BROOM
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Concentrating on precincts picked out by the late President John F. Kennedy, the Democratic National Committee is nearing the end of its most successful voter-registration drive in history.

In California alone, 1,006,613 new voters have been registered since 1961. Nearly two-thirds (66.4%) of them are Democrats.

There are 31,000 new voters in Barry Goldwater's hometown of Phoenix, and 73% of them are Democrats.

The campaign was aimed at 12 states with electoral votes totaling 255—just 15 short of the number needed for election. The greatest effort was concentrated in traditionally Democratic precincts which gave Kennedy at least 60% of their vote in 1960.

As a result of the registration drive, Democratic leaders look forward to these developments in the November election:

—A significant increase in the percentage of the Democratic vote, which will show up sharply in traditionally Democratic areas.

—Decline in the Republican vote in areas where the GOP usually has been strong, because the GOP registration drive has not kept pace.

—A dramatic increase in the minority vote—Negroes, Puerto Ricans and persons of Mexican descent in Texas and California.

—A record election-day turnout of 74 million persons.

The registration figures are a major reason President Johnson whistles a happy tune as he surveys the election scene. The President is known to believe he is a certain winner in more than 30 states. He expects to win at least 40. Among the 20 or fewer in which a chance is conceeded to Sen. Goldwater, there is only one of the big industrial states—Ohio, with 25 electoral votes.

Under direction of Matthew A. Reese Jr., a tall, bluff West Virginian, the drive was aimed primarily at California, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey, Illinois, Maryland, Wisconsin and Indiana. Kennedy won eight of them in 1960, losing in California, Ohio, Wisconsin and Indiana.

IF A PRECINCT or county cast at least 60% of its vote for the Democrats in 1960, it immediately became a candidate for the registration drive. As a result, there were 18,000 precincts in 50 target areas eventually chosen.

After Lyndon Johnson became President, the basic plan was submitted to him. He ordered it followed without change.

Reese's organization developed its registration procedures and tested the plan in key interim races — the Hughes gubernatorial campaign in New Jersey (1961), the Don Fraser congressional campaign in Minnesota (anduresh2), d-tu ne,-H,ll (1962), and the Barton mayoralty campaign in Indianapolis (1963).

Barry Says LBJ Politics Hurt Benefits

sweep scandals under the rug. He implied that through prolonged investigation, acting Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach was stalling on the Bobby Baker case.

* * * *

"THE COVER-UP has gone so far," he said, "that my opponent's curious crew tries to turn your attention away from the White House." Police officers are abused at will, Goldwater said, but Bobby Baker has to be investigated carefully and put to trial before anything is said about him."

He said there is much more to high standards than merely staying within the law, and declared:

"It is up to public officials to prove their innocence of moral stain, not up to the public to prove their guilt. This is not a question of crime and punishment. It is a question of moral purity in public service."

Goldwater also renewed his attack on the Supreme Court. He charged that with its present makeup it was legislating rather than interpreting the Constitution and, he said that when vacancies occured men should be appointed who would respect the Constitution.

HE SAID, too, that he would promote a constitutional amendment that would negate recent Supreme Court decisions affecting the rights of defendants in state and local courts.

"Such amendment," he said, "should give back to the states those powers absolutely necessary for fair and efficient administration of criminal law. It should safeguard rights of defendants, while giving the states power to enforce law and order."

But it was on Lyndon Johnson that Goldwater heaped the full measure of his scorn.

"We want humility and honesty of service in the White House, not arrogance and personal power," he said. "We want and we pledge an administration that will respect and support, not overlook or undermine, local law enforcement. We want to make it safe to live by the law. Enough has been done to make it safe to live outside the law."

GOLDWATER also rapped Johnson for covering up a proposed treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The announcement of a treaty draft on nuclear weapons, one that would pledge present nuclear powers against spreading this form of weaponry to other nations, was made Friday by British Prime Minister Alec Douglas Home. Home said he believed that the Anglo-American plan provided for the participation of Red China.

At a station stop at Galesburg Saturday, Goldwater described it as "a treaty that is in the process of being formed between Great Britain, the United States and Red China."

He said there were times and places for secrecy in the conduct of government, but that "I don't think there should be any secrecy when our country is dealing with the enemy."

He asked why the United States had to rely on a report from London to hear about it.

"Our press," he said, "is recognized around the world for honesty. Why can't we trust them? Why not give them the story? Why do we have to break a story in a political speech that should have been broken to the American people yesterday — not waiting until last night — and again this morning."

N.Y. Paper Breaks Tradition for LBJ

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune Saturday night endorsed Lyndon B. Johnson, the first Democratic presidential candidate the newspaper has backed in its 124-year history.

The newspaper said in an editorial that it was "Republican before there was a Republican Party, has been Republican ever since and will remain Republican."

But it said the choice of Johnson over GOP candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater was "inescapable."

It said the Herald Tribune had hoped that Goldwater, whose nomination it had opposed, would prove during the campaign that its fears were unfounded.

"He didn't. At every step of the post-nomination way, two things became ever more evident: 1) That Sen. Goldwater, for all his obvious sincerity, simply does not have the combination of personal talents necessary for the presidency of the United States; and 2) that his course, if pursued as he has pursued it, would wreck not only the Republican Party but the two-party system."

The newspaper said it was supporting Johnson "with our eyes open and our fingers crossed." It said is disagreed with some Democratic Party doctrines, but that Johnson is "a man of vast experience and competence."

"Moreover, Lyndon Johnson's greatest talent," the editorial said, "is the one needed now as seldom before in our history; that of reconciling the seemingly irreconcilable, and pulling opposites into a consensus.

"In a nation torn by racial and sectional strife, its divisions exacerbated by the ugly passions stirred up (on both sides) by the Goldwater candidacy, the nation needs a president who can bind up its wounds and let it finds its soul again."

PENSIVE VIETNAMESE LEADER

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, prime minister of South Viet Nam, looks thoughtful during news conference in Saigon before saying he plans to return to military duty but would accept a draft if the people want him to remain as premier when the government returns to civilian control.

Khanh Plans to Call Army to Break Strike

SAIGON (UPI) — Government sound trucks rolled through the streets of Saigon Saturday warning that the army will be called in to break up labor demonstrations scheduled for Sunday.

If the government carries out its threat it will be the first time it has forcefully intervened in demonstrations before they degenerated into riots.

Such a policy would be in line with Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's warning Friday that "security and order will be protected, by force, if necessary."

Khanh ordered troops into the town of Qui Nhon and the surrounding region 270 miles north of Saigon last week after demonstrations led to three deaths. He also threatened force when mountain tribesmen revolted two weeks ago.

* * * *

TODAY'S demonstration was planned by several Saigon unions which claim the government failed to carry through on the promises it made to end a general strike on Sept. 22.

At that time the government promised to intervene with the local Vimytex textile mill to reinstate workers the unions say were fired on unfair grounds. The workers who called Sunday's demonstration said Vimytex has failed to take back those it fired.

In a major political development Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, commander-in-chief of the Vietnamese armed forces, postponed his reluctant trip abroad for the second time in two days.

Khanh has been acting commander-in-chief in preparation for Khiem's departure for Europe on a hastily-arranged "goodwill mission."

Khanh, under pressure from Buddhists and a group of young army officers, asked Khiem to leave Thursday but Khiem said he was unable to go on such short notice. He was to have left Saturday but did not for unexplained reasons. He told newsmen he would go later this week.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

5 Mississipians Seized by FBI

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The FBI, armed with civil rights warrants, arrested five Neshoba County men Saturday, including Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy, Cecil Price, on charges of violating the rights of Negroes.

All were released on $1,000 bonds on each count after about three hours in custody.

Rainey, 41, and Price, 26, were picked up at the courthouse in Philadelphia, about 40 miles from here, by FBI agents. Others seized were former Sheriff Ethel Glen Barnett, 42, and two Philadelphia city policemen, Richard Andrew Willis, 40, and Neal Otha Burkes, 71.

* * * *

THE MEN were accused of subjecting a Negro, Sam H. Germany, to "deprivation of rights by arresting, incarcerating and detaining" and "striking, beating and whipping him. . . ."

The accusation said four other Mississippi Negroes were deprived of their rights by the same men.

The indictments were issued Friday by a federal grand jury which held two weeks of secret sessions in Biloxi, Miss., hearing about 125 witnesses. The jury was called to probe, among other matters, the case of three civil rights workers whose bodies were unearthed from a dam near Philadelphia.

French Plane Wreckage Found

TREVELEZ, Spain (AP) — The wreckage of a French airliner was found Saturday high on a peak in southern Spain, the bodies of the 80 persons aboard scattered over the headstream of the Valley of Hell, civil guards reported.

Some villagers reported seeing burning parts falling from the sky Friday, the day the plane vanished on a flight from Paris to Africa, the civil guard said.

Whether this meant the plane exploded in air or the villagers had seen debris falling from the point of impact on 11,043-foot Alcazaba Peak was not known. All aboard were reported to be French or Mauritanians.

3 Killed in Navy Air Crash

MANILA (AP)—A U.S. Navy plane plunged into the sea Saturday moments after leaving the flight deck of the Aircraft Carrier Kearsarge, killing all three men aboard, a Naval spokesman at Sangley Point announced.

The men were:

Lt. Harold S. Roach Junior, 31, of Sacramento; Lt. (JG) Gregory K. Hudson, 21, of West Sacramento, and Horace E. Rainey, 26, aviation electronics technician of Talladega, Ala.

Brown Rips 'Reckless' GOP Pair

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Declaring Barry Goldwater and William Miller a "reckless pair of political hijackers who have temporarily seized the leadership of a great political party," Gov. Brown Saturday called on Californians to lead the way in "repudiation" of the Republican presidential ticket.

Brown told a $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner at the Biltmore Hotel "acts of overt vandalism . . . have marked this presidential campaign ever since Barry Goldwater entered the California primary."

Mrs. Goldwater to Tour 9 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Barry Goldwater, wife of the Republican presidential candidate, is going to step up her own campaigning—with visits to at least nine states on her own in the next three weeks.

Up to now, Peggy Goldwater, who says quite frankly she does not like political campaigning, has been accompanying her husband on his trips around the country.

This coming Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 7 and 8, Mrs. Goldwater will make a two-day tour, taking her to her home town of Muncie, Ind., and then into Ohio. Later she will visit Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Illinois, New York, Colorado, and California.

Spectacular Gas Line Break

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP) A natural gas pipeline exploded about 15 miles southwest of Ottawa Saturday night with a towering blast of flame that was seen as far as 70 miles away. The break was in a field about a mile from U.S. 50 and there were no reports of injuries.

Marines, Spanish to Storm Beaches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 28,000 U.S. Marines will join Spanish military units in storming beaches in southern Spain this month in a joint exercise.

The defense department said Saturday that 50,000 men would take part in Exercise Steel Pike I, which is designed to test fast movement and support of amphibious units overseas.

Leathernecks from the 2nd Marine Division and 2nd Marine Air Wing will leave the United States today to join a reinforced battalion of Spanish marines in amphibious landings Oct. 26.

During the simulated attacks, a Marine innovation for improving air support of ground units will be tested. It involves quick construction of an "aircraft carrier" flight deck on land.

Carrier-launched Marine jets will be able to land and take off from the field, equipped with landing arresting cables and other equipment used on carrier decks.

* * * *

KNOWN as short airfield for tactical support, the field built under combat conditions will free support aircraft from the need of carriers and established land bases.

Eighty warships from the U.S. Sixth Fleet and the Military Sea Transportation Service along with 10 American merchant ships and 14 Spanish warships will take part.

Spanish air units also will participate. Spanish paratroops belonging to a special air force mission will make jumps.

Adm. H. T. Smith, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Command, has named Vice Adm. John S. McCain Jr. as commander of the U.S. amphibious task force.

Conceptive Facts Told in Report

By BEN ZINSER
L. P-T Medical-Science Editor

A research team at Harbor General Hospital offered evidence at a medical meeting Saturday that modern intra-uterine contraceptive devices don't slow up activity of male and female reproductive cells in the body.

Instead, the devices, commonly called IUCDs, appear to speed the travel of the female cells (ova) in the female reproductive tract.

This rapid movement appears to be the mechanism that prevents fertilization from occurring.

* * * *

SCIENTISTS have long known that IUCDs are effective in preventing conception but don't understand why the insertion of an inert object into the womb prevents pregnancy. IUCDs are metal or plastic rings, bows or spirals.

The goal of investigators is to find methods of contraception that will be acceptable to all. Systems that prevent ovulation or bar or destroy sperm are unacceptable to some.

Harbor General researchers reported their findings in New York City at the International Conference on Intra-Uterine Contraception, a meeting attended by hundreds of scientists from more than 40 nations. The conference was sponsored by the Population Council, a private foundation.

Dr. Luigi Mastroianni Jr., chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Harbor General and holder of a $163,000 grant from the Population Council, told of his research with macaque monkeys.

* * * *

COIL-TYPE Intra-uterine devices known as Margulies spirals were inserted into the wombs of adult macaque monkeys. Ovulation (release of female reproductive cells) was achieved by giving the animals a hormonal preparation called Pergonal.

The monkeys were artificially inseminated. Later, surgical inspection of the animals' reproductive tracts was undertaken.

In monkeys in which coils had been inserted, there was rapid discharge of ova from the fallopian tubes — the ducts in which fertilization occurs.

* * * *

HERE, briefly, is a description of the fertilization process:

The ovum (egg) is released from the ovary, the female reproductive gland. Liberated, it enters the fallopian tube, a passageway to the womb. If sperm (a male germ cell) is present, it may meet and penetrate the egg to fertilize it. If not, the ovum degenerates within the tube and eventually is dicharged from the body.

A ripened ovum has a short life span—probably not more than 48 hours. Unless the sperm and egg meet within this time, the egg will die and will be shed.

Dr. Dean Moyer, co-director of the Reproduction Laboratory at Harbor General, says that the ovum ordinarily remains in the fallopian tube for three days, whether in monkey or human.

* * * *

BUT IN those monkeys with intra-uterine coils, ova were flushed out of the tubes before conception could occur, he reported.

Dr. Moyer said ova were flushed out of the tubes in less than 12 hours.

The research team, which also includes Dr. Chusri Hongsonand, reported that sperm migration remained unimpaired in animals with intra-uterine coils.

Dr. Mastroianni said efforts are now being made to recover ova from the wombs of experimental animals in a further attempt to assess the relationship between rapid transport of ova and the contraceptive process.

BEACH Combing

with MALCOLM EPLEY

IT WAS ludicrous—and a little sad.

Here the taxpayers had spent millions for a freeway segment to ease traffic through the area—and it's opening was celebrated by one of the biggest traffic snafus in local memory.

Where did the cars come from that suddenly swarmed like a horde of Mormon crickets on the newly dedicated nine-mile stretch of San Diego Freeway through L. B. and western Orange County?

Where would they have been routed by their drivers if the new freeway hadn't been there?

There can be no positive answers to that mystifying question. They might have been obtained by sending a survey crew out on the jammed-up highway and asking each driver. The surveyors would have had ample time to ask their questions, but they might not have gotten answers.

Judging from the grim and angry faces I saw out there—yeh, I was in the middle of it—those drivers might not have taken kindly to nosy questioning. It's easy to imagine a pollster being told it was none of his damned business.

MY OWN presence in the horrendous thing might help provide a partial explanation.

My normal course homeward—downtown to College Park—is by Seventh St. That evening I decided to satisfy my curiosity as to how it would go if I drove up Long Beach Freeway and out east on the new San Diego Freeway segment to Studebaker Rd.

I got my painful answer. And I suppose a good many others, out of curiosity, drove the route that evening even though it was off their normal or even logical course.

But who, but me, would publicly confess such idiotic judgment.

THE DEDICATION ceremonies that preceded the snafu, incidentally, were marked by the longest list of personal introductions within my experience as a veteran attendant at such events.

It was staggering. Minor and major politicos, minor and major civic leaders, (these minors and majors from two counties and seven cities), a raft of highway officials, contractors and their men and others got the call.

There were enough introductees, if they had all decided that evening to return to the scene of their brief moments in the sun, to create a fair-sized jam. Maybe they did.

OUR CITY'S firemen get an accolade today relayed through this dept. from Mrs. Patricia Canale, 816 Cerritos, who hailed the fire laddies for an unusual problem involving a pup.

Mrs. Canale found it necessary Friday to leave a mother Labrador Retriever and three day-old puppies for about an hour.

When she returned, one puppie was lodged between her washing machine and drier.

Unable to extricate the pooch, Mrs. Canale called the fire dept. The firemen responded immediately, freed the puppy and departed.

One wonders if some old-time householder ever cocked an ear at the doorway and snarled, "It's slanted."

You couldn't nowadays proclaim that it's "9 o'clock and all is well" without somebody giving you an argument.

MARINES ENTER 'VIETNAMESE VILLAGE' TO HUNT 'GUERRILLAS'
Realism Stressed at Training Ground, Even to Costumes and Livestock

LEATHERNECKS TRAIN FOR

A Rough, Dirty Job

By BILL DUNCAN

Marine Capt. Nick Carter teaches rumba: leathernecks to tell the good guys from the bad guys—guerrillas, the barbaric new type of enemy the Marines may face someday.

Capt. Carter is the officer in charge of the 1st Marine Division counter-guerrilla and counter-insurgency school at Camp Pendleton, home base for the 22,000-man Marine division. The classroom is a two-acre exact replica of a Vietnamese village—complete with good guys, bad guys, goats, cows, ducks, rabbits and chickens.

The village, located deep inside the reservation, was built by Capt. Carter, a former enlisted man who was wounded in Korea. The Marine officer, whose home is at 26805 Calle Real, Capistrano Beach, knew from first hand experience what went into a native village.

* * * *

THE CAPTAIN visited Vietnam and studied Viet Cong guerrilla activities while he was assigned to advisory duty with Korean Marines in 1961.

He insisted the training village be an exact replica. It is so authentic, so the story goes, that Capt. Carter became ill while constructing the village and Navy doctors diagnosed his ailment as "Asian flu."

An assemblage of eight huts—one of them a replica of a Buddhist temple—could approximate villages in other parts of Southeast Asia, or in fact, villages in Central or South America and Africa, Capt. Carter explains.

CAPT. NICK CARTER
Chief Trainer

* * * *

EMPHASIS on realism in the training has been so effective that Maj. Gen. W. T. Fairbour, commanding general of the 1st Marine Division, has ordered construction of three more villages—one for each infantry regiment.

Graduates of this first village training course are now sent back to their own units to train the troops in ferreting guerrillas and eventually will use the new villages.

Six officers and 14 enlisted men serve as instructors in the village. Some play the role of guerrillas: others act as frightened villagers forced to aid the marauders.

* * * *

THE MARINE combat trainees are given lectures on how to tell friend from foe, how to search for hidden guerrillas, secreted weapons and booby traps before they are put through the village itself. Emphasis is placed on the fact the Marine must not harm the innocent villager.

"Counter guerrilla warfare is dirty and tough," explains Gen. Fairbour. "It requires more intelligence since the individual fighting man must be able to discern the good guys from the bad guys. He must know that if he offends one of the good guys he can turn an entire village against us. And, if he errs in the other direction it will cost him his life."

The realism of the village includes spike-lined man traps (holes covered with brush and lined inside with razor sharp bamboo poles), dread panji traps (nail-filled boards in covered holes) and other booby traps. Every hut, including the temple, has hidden compartments where men, weapons and supplies are secreted.

"It is part of the training for the student to locate these traps," Capt. Carter says.

In addition to the traps, the Marine must be on guard to prevent guerrillas from escaping. Four hundred feet of tunnel under the village provide escape routes for the guerrilla forces.

* * * *

A TYPICAL exercise begins this way:

An officer, leading a platoon of men, announces over a loudspeaker that the village is to undergo a search and seizure. With much yelling in babbling tongues, the village goes into pandemonium, allowing the guerrilla forces to hide.

The Marines move cautiously into the village and begin a hut-by-hut search, punctuated at times by exploding booby traps and exchange of firepower with guerrillas springing up from underground spider traps.

Capt. Carter and other instructors score the platoon on how well they are able to "conquer" the village. To shoot a friendly villager is to fail the course.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to the village training, Marines are put in the field and forced to barter for chickens, potatoes and drinking water from other Marines posing as natives.

"We expose them to a motley collection of pseudo villagers and cause them to sort out the bad apples," Gen. Fairbour says. "We send them into unfamiliar places in the Cleveland National Forest and let them learn that every foot of ground may have a mine or panji trap beneath it."

Capt. Carter and his motley villagers needle the trainees into combat-ready Marines who learn that the spear is still a deadly weapon in this nuclear age.

Presidency Not the Only Issue

AS FAR BACK as we can remember, succeeding presidential elections have been widely described as "the most crucial in history." In fact, we recall dire predictions from some partisans that if their candidate didn't win, it might well be the last presidential election. But he didn't, the nation continued to hold presidential elections, and now we approach another which, in some quarters, is again described as the "most crucial in history."

We won't argue the point, though we suspect that however the Nov. 3 presidential balloting turns out, the nation and its free institutions will survive. And we feel that it's time for a reminder to embattled citizens of our area that there are some highly important matters of local and regional interest to be settled at the November election.

The presidential campaign, vital as it is, will be getting more than its proper share of attention if it so preoccupies our citizens that they fail to inform themselves for intelligent decisions on these issues that mean so much to their city, county and state.

MANY OF THESE QUESTIONS may have greater personal impact on the welfare of the citizen and his family than the outcome of the national balloting. It's every citizen's right—even his duty—to look out for his own interests. He won't be doing that if he goes into the voting booth fired up over the "x" he's going to mark at the top of the ballot but woefully ignorant and dependent on hunches for what he does on down the sheet.

There through guesswork he could make mistakes—against his own interests—on such matters as providing adequate educational, recreational and library facilities in his area, the delicate issue of state policy on housing transactions, the financing of drains to protect property in the region from excess storm waters, and many others.

These issues will be explained and discussed in this newspaper and other communications media, they will be covered in non-partisan official voters pamphlets and pro-and-con publications prepared by such organizations as the League of Women Voters; they will be the subjects of speeches and debates.

The citizen will have ample opportunity in the next month to bone up. But he's got to have the desire—and the good sense to resist the domination of his interest by the top national contest. That, to be sure, can be fascinating—but let's not let it be too fascinating.

Rule by Mob

WHILE SEN. HUBERT HUMPHREY this week was telling students at the University of Southern California that "yours is the generation of hope, the generation of fulfillment," mobs of students of the same generation were rioting and defying the police on the campus of the University of California.

Actually, each new generation is the world's best hope, because it represents a new start; but many of today's younger generation have rather peculiar ideas about how to achieve "fulfillment." They have an astonishing lack of respect for the law and a discouraging, even frightening, belief that might makes right.

WHAT OCCURRED THIS WEEK on the campus at Berkeley was much more serious, much uglier, than traditional collegiate high jinks.

That the student rioters won concessions from the university authorities only serves to sharpen the disturbing aspects of this situation.

The University had ruled against on-campus solicitation of funds for off-campus political projects. A young man who is not even a student of the University appeared on the campus and broke that rule. Despite several warnings, he continued to break the rule. Police finally took him into custody.

To demonstrate their displeasure at the determination of the police to uphold the law, thousands of students gathered. They wrecked the police car. Seventeen policemen who arrived to restore order were jeered, shoved, and forced to retreat.

Somehow the students had been led to believe that the effective and accepted way of winning an argument these days is to exert force in defiance of constituted authority.

The last place you'd suppose such a notion would prevail is a university, which theoretically is a center of intellectualism and order.

This shows how far society has drifted toward mob rule. When the supposed elite members of the "generation of hope" abandon orderly ways and join the wolf pack, society is in very serious trouble and when authorities yield to the wolf pack, as they did at Berkeley, an ugly drift is encouraged.

The Phantom Horse?

Barry Poses Major Challenge to Doctrines of the New Deal

WASHINGTON — Why is Sen. Goldwater hated so much and denounced so bitterly? What is the explanation for the wave of almost fanatical attacks on the Arizona Senator?

This correspondent has never been concerned with personalities and has known and liked all the men who have run on both tickets in the many campaigns of the last half-century. What is more important today, as always, is the kind of advisers either nominee, if elected, would have and what basic philosophy would be applied in running the government.

LAWRENCE

Many of the critics of Sen. Goldwater say their criticism isn't personal — they merely dislike his ideas. In campaign after campaign, however, issues have been widely discussed and personal epithets have been rare. But this time derogatory words are used almost daily by Democratic spokesmen to characterize the Republican party's nominee. Little light is being shed on fundamental questions, and the whole campaign tactics of the Democrats seem to indicate a deep-seated contempt for Mr. Goldwater as a person—his alleged "recklessness" or "dangerous purpose." This is a strange development, the effects of which will not soon disappear. It means that the battle will not be over on election day, no matter who wins.

For what we are witnessing in the Goldwater movement is not the rise of a relatively unknown man as the presidential candidate of the Republican party, but the expression for the first time of an organized opposition to widely accepted doctrines — the philosophy that arose with the New Deal in the 1930's and has been dominant ever since. The latter can be summed up as a belief in the majesty of big government as the cure-all of everything unpleasant.

What has evolved is a concept which has been taught in the schools and colleges — explicitly or implicitly—and which is accepted as gospel today by a vast maority of those who influence public opinion. It is, in brief, that government is responsible for the welfare of the individual, that self-reliance is theoretically desirable but not universally applicable, and that private property can be taken and private incomes taxed heavily in the "public interest" and the resultant billions spent just because the ultimate obective is portrayed as worthy.

As long as theory was debated, and intermittent "booms" in business were stimulated, the average man was inclined to feel that maybe it was best to "let things alone." But today such superficiality is being questioned. As taxation has become confiscatory, as the states have been reduced to the level of dependent units and as government permits private groups such as labor organizations to wield vast power — because they are politically decisive in many an election—resentment has been steadily developing. Many citizens have in dismay begun to look upon their own government as a dictatorship, benevolent in purpose but tyrannical and discriminatory at heart.

In desperation, groups of the "radical right" have arisen. Some are irresponsible and deserve condemnation. But others have come into being because of a feeling of frustration, a kind of irrational but nevertheless revolutionary rejoinder—a "grass roots" upheaval so familiar in world history. Angry people may not always act politely or sensibly, but the grievances they reflect cannot be brushed aside because the champions of their ideas are at times tactless.

What is really bothering these people? They don't regard Sen. Goldwater as a governmental genius, any more perhaps than numerous Democrats feel that way about Lyndon Johnson. Many a newspaper which has come out for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket has had a qualifying sentence or two in its endorsement which mention defects or shortcomings of the President and his running mate.

The truth is that, personalities aside, there is a fundamental collision going on between two schools of thought. Neither one is clear as yet in its exposition. But the "New Deal" school wants to be left alone to spend and spend, to borrow and borrow, and to tax and tax, while the opposition, though not offering a panacea, wants to stop what it is convinced is a really dangerous trend for America.

AS SO OFTEN happens, a battle may be won, but not a war. After November, if President Johnson is elected, the present trend will continue — government deficits and more and more interference with the opportunity of free enterprise to develop a healthy expansion. But memories are short as to what has happened in the past. Some day—maybe a couple of years or five years hence, or even more—when the climax comes and the "New Dealers" of this era discover that constant federal deficits can really devalue the dollar with consequent unemployment and economic distress, perhaps a few voices will be heard saying, "I told you so."

BOB HOUSER

A 12-Foot Greeting at USC for Pierre: 'Carpetbagger!'

I, P-T Political Editor

ONE-TIME PHARMACIST Hubert Humphrey moved figuratively over to the soda fountain Friday when a lively but minority student Goldwater group at USC's Bovard Auditorium greeted his appearance with the familiar, "We want Barry!" chant.

Said Hubert, "You say you want Barry, but I don't know whether it's strawberry or raspberry."

Well, you really had to be there, but it sounded funny at the time and it brought down the house of mainly Johnson-Humphrey inclined students.

Senator Humphrey also insisted his talk would be nonpartisan because, "Most Americans are going to vote for Lyndon Johnson."

Before his formal talk, Humphrey suggested a question period afterward because it would give Goldwater people a chance to be identified "and confess their political sins."

HE SATIRIZED GOLDWATER'S harking to the turn of the century for the 'good" days, remarking that only four of 100 young people 18 to 21 attended college then, and in a cutting snipe at Goldwater's dropout of college in his first year, added: "There WERE colleges in 1900 and there WERE boys then, even in Arizona, but not many of them attended college."

Humphrey charged that you can tell how enlightened one is today by the number of fears, doubts and suspicions he entertains in his public talk. The kind of an America we want to see, he said, is not one which "recites its pains and aches, but one which asks us to be true to ourselves, our ideals, to social justice, to the rights of others, to the total emancipation of the people from bigotry, poverty and frustration."

Humphrey atacked again on Goldwater's "soft-on-communism" charge against LBJ, telling the student group that he's never heard a thoughtful man make such a charge. "He's a little soft on Republicans," quipped Hubert, "but not communism."

IT WAS NOT all wine and roses for the other platform people at USC. Governor Brown got quite a few boos when he was introduced by President Dr. Norman Topping, then compounded the discomfiture by stumbling over the word "distinguished" two or three times, and finally copping a plea that, "I guess I got some confetti in my mouth!"

Brown introduced U.S. Senator Pierre Salinger, who also got some boos and a 12-foot "CARPETBAGGER" sign unreeled as he came to the microphone. Salinger ignored the sign and came off well when he said his only disagreement with President Johnson was over LBJ's contention that Texas had the nation's Number 1 football team.

Newsmen enjoyed a discussion of the numbers game, regarding crowd estimates, while awaiting the arrival of Humphrey's plane at Los Angeles International Friday morning. No airport reception had been planned, but about 50 students and Young Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey were there. Total crowd when Hubert arrived was probably 200.

One northern political writer said, "What'll we say? A crowd of several people?"

EARLIER IN THE morning, a newsman counted 75 people. He asked a Humphrey staffer what his estimate was. "Looks like 5,000 to me," he said.

One newsman who served on a candidate's flack staff in 1960 made a confession: "We used to ask the chief of police for a crowd estimate for transmittal to the press. If it seemed too low, we'd consult a captain, remarking, 'It seems to me a wide-awake town like this could turn out more than 3,000 people.'

"'Hell,' the captain would say, 'There's at least 5,000 here.'"

They'd go from officer to officer until they found a generous one, then quote him to the press!

Come to Halt for School Bus

EDITOR:

Many people who consider themselves to be the safest and most law abiding drivers daily commit one of the most serious traffic offenses without even realizing it. The law infraction I am referring to is the failure of bringing a vehicle to a complete stop next to school buses loading and unloading children.

I see almost every day a driver stopped for this violation. Many of the people that know that they are not supposed to overtake and pass a stopped school bus may be surprised to know that this pertains to traffic from both directions.

The other day I saw a school bus unloading children with a police car behind it waiting for violators. A woman drove slowly by the policeman and, as cautiously as she knew how, drove by the school bus looking left and right. She then proceeded down the street unaware of her violation. Needless to say, moments later she was showing her license to the policeman.

I see this scene repeated almost daily and feel there is no excuse for this dangerous ignorance of the driver on this point.

L.B. Arena Needs Better System

EDITOR:

Our family attended the Ice Follies at the Long Beach Arena, and came away with the impression that the managers of the place are out of touch with reality.

First tip-off came when we were stalled in a traffic jam five to 10 blocks east on Ocean Ave. The jam was caused by an antique system at the entrance to the Arena parking lot. If a crowd this size—maybe 10,000—could tie up downtown Long Beach for 40 minutes, what would we have done with a World's Fair? Clearly, the parking lot entrance should be automated, a la those at the International Airport, and more gates added.

Second, when we arrived at the arena, along with thousands of others, we had to jam into a steamy line and crowd along for 10 minutes. With this huge building, with all its many doors, the only way the crowd gets in is through a small handfull of turnstiles. Result was that the auditorium was only two thirds full when the performance started. A couple of thousand people had to grope their way to seats in the dark, due to the turnstile situation.

Worst of all, when intermission came the crowds on the lower floor had their choice of two small concession booths. Both were mobbed. There was no system—just jam in and hope. The booths ran out of hot dogs, cracker jack and other things. Hundreds of people were late getting back to their seats.

Whoever runs the arena should be sentenced to spend 30 days at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, where you can always get quick parking, quick entrance and quick service at concession booths. It's not such a big problem, really—all it takes is a few experts who know their business.

Government Like a Helpful Wife

EDITOR:

The press recently quoted Sen. Goldwater as saying, "The country doesn't owe anybody a damned thing." The Senator has a most charming and persuasive personality and I have great admiration for him. But I think he should sit down and think that one out.

The country does many things for all of us. I am inclined to think we take them for granted, like the man who never realized how helpful his wife was until she went on a month's vacation. Before Sen. Goldwater was born a most controversial issue was decided by the people that has ever since exerted a tremendous impact on our lives and fortunes.

Our manufacturers were appealing to the country to help them in their battle with foreign competitors. The voters were impressed by their pleas and Congress responded by passing a series of Protective Tariff laws which some people thought were fantastically high. Manufacturers made fortunes and employes received more pay which in turn was a great help to businessmen. Population flowed in from the farms to fill up our cities and today our nation is 90% urban. There was once a time when it was 90% rural.

These protective measures are still the law of the land and to repeal them now would revolutionize and probably demoralize our economy. I doubt the good Senator could ever succeed in persuading the people to give them up, I doubt if he would want to.

New Rafferty Image Emerging

I P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—A new Dr. Max Rafferty is emerging—deservedly so.

Fading is the erroneous political tag, clamped on the State Superintendent of Public Instruction by his critics, to the effect that Rafferty is an ultra-conservative.

Supt. Rafferty finally shattered the image by his own record and statements. But it took months.

Capitol Democrats laughed 20 months ago when Supt. Rafferty proclaimed he was a political moderate but an educational conservative. He stressed there was a marked difference between educational and political terms.

McCAULEY

Supt. Rafferty's political stance further was confused as a result of the sharp exchanges with Democrat Thomas Braden, Oceanside publisher who is chairman of the State Board of Education.

The new Rafferty is a real shocker to Rafferty critics who have tried to link him with right-wing extremists.

Supt. Rafferty himself tangled with extremist pressure groups in recent remarks to his staff. He lashed out at them for triggering a series of recall elections, noting recent California school-district recall elections had been led by groups at both ends of the political spectrum.

Supt. Rafferty deplored recalls for "sociological and religious reasons, stating that previously a school board member was recalled when some one had a hand in the till.

Dr. Rafferty also lashed out recently at a California Republican Assembly resolution. He branded the GRA as misguided for urging the defeat of state school and college-construction bonds.

Gov. Brown, who has feuded with Rafferty in the past, this time hailed the superintendent as "a great statesman for his attitude on bonds." At a recent Los Angeles meeting of the state board, Brown also praised Rafferty as "a good superintendent."

Some Dr. Rafferty foes have criticized the superintendent for declining to take a stand on Proposition 14 — the Rumford Fair Housing Act repealer.

THE SUPERINTENDENT still was under the political needle for refusing to take a stand, even though he said it would be improper for him to comment because it was a political rather than an educational matter.

But that was before the foes checked Dr. Rafferty's personal record on civil rights.

The NAACP is making national distribution of a Rafferty comment on school integration. Only other public figure quoted: President Johnson.

In the NAACP brochure, Dr. Rafferty declares school segregation will remain a problem "so long as any American family is prevented from acquiring housing in any neighborhood where the family wants to live."

WITHOUT RACIAL FANFARE in 1963, Dr. Rafferty appointed Negro Dr. Paul Lawrence as associate superintendent of public instruction.

Later, Dr. Rafferty deplored "those who just talk about civil rights but don't do anything." One Negro at the policy level is worth 50,000 words, he declared.

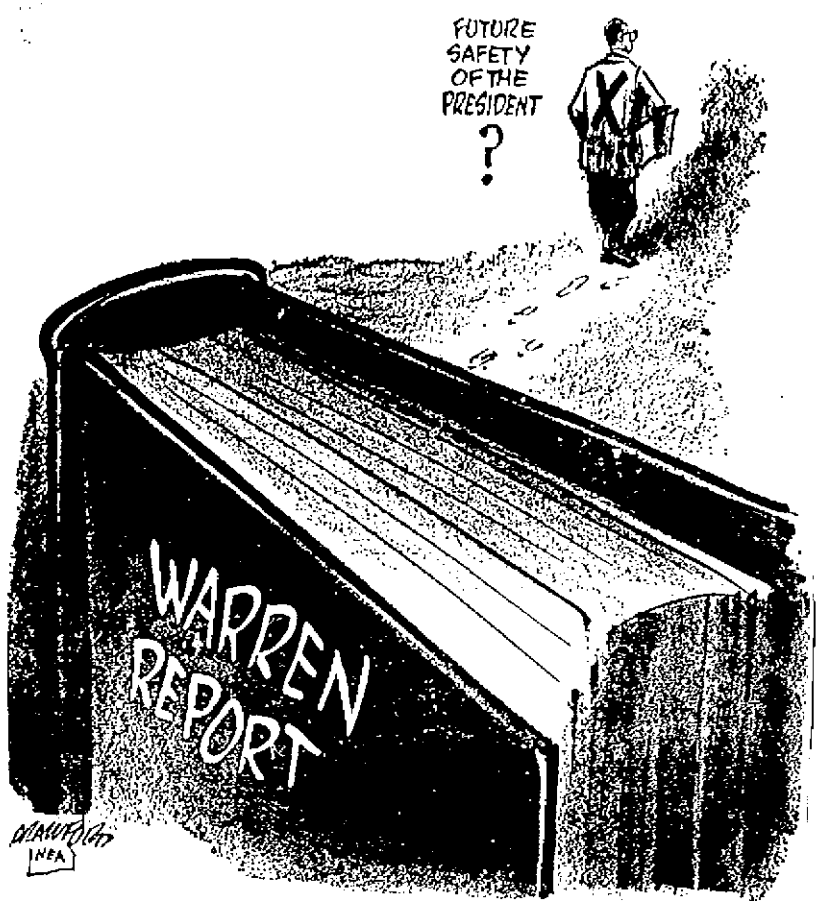

Rafferty has stuck to a clearly nonpartisan role as superintendent. Named as deputy superintendent was Dr. Everett Calvert, long-time Democrat and member of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Dr. Rafferty, a self-styled reformer in the educational arena, is bound to stir controversy. But there is one thing he is not: a political ultra-conservative.

It is time the school slate on Rafferty is set straight!

LBJ Shows Influence With Businessmen

Donner to join the Board of Communications Satellite Corporation. Johnson was not trying to influence the strike, but rather wanted a good man for this semi-government agency.

PEARSON

White House advisers told LBJ he couldn't possibly snag Donner into any type of pro-government work. But Johnson replied that he had heard Donner was the most efficient executive in American industry and he was going to try.

First, Johnson called Clark Kerr, President of the University of California, and said he needed a good man to serve as a Director of the Satellite Corporation.

Next, the President called George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO, and drafted him.

Only after these two men were in the bag did Johnson call General Motors.

"The President of the United States can't run the country all by himself," he told Donner. "He's got to have help. Some people say the President's got the ox cart in the ditch. But anyway, I need good men; and they tell me you're the best executive in the United States. We need you."

Donner said he would think it over. But taking no chances, Johnson then called General Motors' banker. A day or two later, Donner called back and accepted the job.

Note—Talking to friends later the President remarked, "we've just got to have good men running the government, and I am proud of some of the men who have been willing to join me. Here is the executive of the biggest corporation in America who is willing to give his time right in the middle of strike negotiations to help out the government."

BARRY GOLDWATER, a baseball fan himself, is wondering whether some major league ballplayers are ganging up against him.

During a recent New York Yankees-Los Angeles game, Jim Piersall of the Angels had to hit the ground to avoid being struck by a fast ball from a Yankee pitcher. Angrily, Piersall looked around at Yankee catcher Elston Howard, a Negro, who was squatting behind the plate.

"Elston," he barked, "if you call for another close one like that, I'll vote for Goldwater."

WILLIAM F. Buckley, the right-wing publisher, sent a hurry call to Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, pillar of the Republican Party, to come up to Connecticut and stem the tide of Republican Defectors away from Goldwater.

The Buckley family has long lived in northwest Connecticut around Lakeville, an area normally 3 to 1 Republican. No Democrat has had a smell of victory in that area for about one hundred years. And the Buckley family is distressed over the possibility that this year may break the precedent.

The bolt from Goldwater among Republicans has become so rapid that Priscilla Buckley, sister of the right-wing publisher and managing editor of the National Review, announced that she would give $5 to Goldwater for every independent Republican who bolts to Johnson.

Finally, the Buckleys dragged weary Ev Dirksen all the way from Washington to make a speech last Sunday. But Ev drew less than one thousand people, when 15,000 were expected.

Just before he arrived, the Democrats ran a local newspaper ad in the form of an open letter to Dirksen, warning that the wrong people had taken over the Republican Party. They cited Hubert Kregeloh of Springfield, Mass. who spoke at the opening GOP rally in the Buckley area. He is a high official of the John Birch Society, serves on the committee of endorsers of the Birch Society, on the American Opinion's speakers bureau for the Birch Society, and is a contributing editor to the Birch publication "American Opinion."

Sharon, site of the Buckley's family home, was the birthplace of "Young Americans for Freedom." Buckley is reported to have given $50,000 out of his own pocket to get the Young Republicans organized.

Yet this birthplace of conservatism is now defecting to Johnson.

SEN. Barry Goldwater was supposed to be terribly busy campaigning for President in August. However, he took time out to try to block the appointment of U.S. Attorney Carl Muecke as District Judge in Arizona. Muecke is a former labor lawyer who is not popular with the Goldwater crowd in Arizona. And Barry tried to block his appointment through his old friend, Mississippi Sen. Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The incident illustrates the close backstage working agreement between Republicans and Dixiecrats.

In a "Dear Jim" letter, dated Aug. 18, Goldwater wrote to Sen. Eastland:

"The President, I understand, has sent the name of Carl Muecke to your committee for consideration as a District Judge in Arizona. I understand that the Arizona State Bar has judged this man to be incompetent and I further know that the vast majority of Arizona lawyers, I would say approaching 100%, are violently opposed to this man being appointed."

Eastland succeeded in delaying the appointment for six weeks. Meanwhile, Arizona's senior Senator, Carl Hayden, claimed Goldwater didn't know what he was talking about or else deliberately fuzzed up the truth. To prove it, Hayden took a poll of Arizona lawyers to determine whether it was really true that "approaching 100%" of them were violently opposed to Muecke. The Arizona Bar Association conducted the poll, which brought in 484 votes for Muecke, only 302 against.

Confronted with this evidence, the Senate overrode Goldwater and voted to confirm Muecke.

Hosmer Proposes Developing 'Discreet' Nuclear Weapons

REP. CRAIG Hosmer (R., Calif.), senior House Republican on the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, envisages "discreet" atomic weapons equivalent to five or ten tons of conventional explosives. He believes these missiles can be fired from portable and accurate bazookas or other launchers. It is possible, he said, to develop these weapons without atmospheric testing.

KELLY

He also referred to his exchange of ideas in the House of Representatives with Rep. Chet Holifield (D., Calif.), former chairman, and presently vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

Hosmer made these points:

—That the Kennedy-Johnson Administration could have but did not develop these small weapons. He cited an open letter written in 1960 by former Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas Murray in which Murray advised President Kennedy and Richard Nixon that these discreet weapons were possible and should be developed.

—Discreet weapons could be safely used by the President or by a delegation of authority to responsible commanders.

Discreet weapons could be used strictly against the enemy on the battlefield. The effects could be limited to the battlefield.

With these discreet weapons, Western Europe could be promised a guaranteed deterrent against Soviet invasion.

The lack of these weapons is the issue of the campaign.

President Johnson has denounced mixed nuclear control at the same time he proposes the multi-lateral forces which is "one of the illusory deals cooked up to make Europeans think they have some substance of control while withholding it."

President de Gaulle has acquired strategic nuclear weapons and is developing tactical nuclear forces because he was told by President Kennedy in 1961 that the USSR's massive capability to exchange ICBM's with the United States made massive retaliation no longer valid as a deterrent against Soviet invasion of Western Europe.

Sen. Goldwater has been unfairly attacked for advocating delegation of authority in precisely defined situations.

Time and U.S. News and World Report have stated that there was such a delegation made by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy and that such a delegation by President Johnson exists today.

The Johnson Administration has not revealed this nor denied it.

* * * *

IN THE HOUSE discussion, Rep. Holifield said:

The reason the French have developed nuclear weapons is that we would not give them nuclear secrets because French security at that time was permeated by Communists, who occupied over 30% of the Parliamentary seats.

Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, and Johnson, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff decided what types of weapons should be made.

President Johnson is correct in stating that no nuclear weapon can be considered conventional.

Sen. Goldwater's proposal that some nuclear weapons be considered conventional and that they could be used without prior Presidential approval is the most irresponsible and dangerous proposal ever made by a Presidential candidate.

DE VAN SHUMWAY

Prop. 14 Generating Heat, but Court May Cool It Off

United Press International

SACRAMENTO — Californians will vote Nov. 3 on a housing measure that has generated as much if not more heat than the presidential contest.

In fact, implications of the fight could reach into the presidential race between Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Barry M. Goldwater.

On the ballot, it's Proposition 14—No. 14 in a list of 17. It would amend the State Constitution to give a property owner "absolute discretion" in selling and renting his home.

Backers say it will help defeat socialism; opponents condemn it as legalized bigotry.

Principal target of the measure is California's Rumford Act, authored by Negro State Assemblyman William Byron Rumford. With some exceptions, it forbids racial discrimination in sale or rental of housing.

If Proposition 14 is passed —and recent polls indicate it will—the Rumford Act will be nullified for all practical purposes. A home owner would be allowed to say no to a prospective purchaser or renter just because he's a Negro or a Mexican-American or a white man, for that matter.

Approval of the proposition would effectively forbid the state legislature from ever again passing laws banning racial discrimination in housing. This would hold true for cities and counties too.

The Rumford Act squeaked through the Legislature only with seven minutes before mandatory adjournment in 1963 after months of angry debate and a three-week Capitol "sit-in" by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

* * * *

REACTION WAS swift in coming.

The California Real Estate Association sponsored a campaign to rid the state's lawbooks of the statute, which had the whole-hearted support of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a Democrat.

L. H. "Spike" Wilson, chairman of "The Committee For Home Protection" and former president of the Real Estate Group, roundly denounced the law. He called it not a "fair housing" law but a "forced housing" act.

"We consider that the Rumford Act is socialism," he said. "The question is, shall the property owner control his property or shall the state control it for him?"

Brown is a vocal supporter of the Rumford Law, and opposes Proposition 14 in strong terms.

The governor, President Johnson's California campaign manager, charges that "the shock troops of bigotry . . . the White Citizens Council, the John Birch Society, the American Nazi Party" are backing the proposition. He calls the proposal "legalized bigotry."

* * * *

THE ISSUE is politically sensitive because Democrats are generally outspoken in opposition to the proposed amendment to the State Constitution, while many Republicans — particularly the "volunteer" GOP organizations—support repeal of the Rumford Act.

Neither Johnson nor Goldwater has taken a public position on the act, although Brown encouraged the President to speak out. Goldwater, asked about it by newsmen, answers that it's a California problem, a local issue, and he doesn't feel he should get involved.

Despite all the ill feeling generated by the initiative, the argument may be academic. Already, the State Supreme Court has expressed "grave doubts" about the constitutionality of the initiative.

So it appears possible that if the initiative passes on Nov. 3, it will be wiped from the lawbooks a short time later by the courts—making the whole battle futile.

NEW CONTRACT WITH BOWERS

City Ambulances Out

Long Beach city officials have dropped consideration of resuming emergency hospital service by the fire department, at least until next year.

Instead, City Manager John R. Mansell, with consent of the City Council, has signed a new five-year contract with Bowers Ambulance Service.

Bowers has been the city's agent for emergency cases since the fire department service was abandoned in 1959.

Under the new agreement, the city assumes a greater degree of responsibility for indigent and uncollectible bills. Previously such bills were underwritten only in cases originating on public property. The present contract broadens the city liability to include indigent calls originating on private premises.

Estimated annual cost to the city will be increased from $15,260 to $32,564.

However, at the request of the council, Mansell has agreed to file a report early next year on the whole ambulance program, including a possible return to fire department service. The budget and research division already is collecting facts for the report, he said.

Preliminary estimates indicate that the capital cost alone of restoring city ambulance service on a broad scale would approximate $250,000. Even if the council should decide on such a program, it probably could not be carried out until the new fiscal year starting July 1, 1965.

The Bowers contract includes a 30-day cancellation clause in the event of failure to perform adequately. It may be cancelled on 90-day notice without cause.

City officials also have asked Mort Golden, the county's city-county coordinator, to look into an existing policy of the Board of Supervisors which, Long Beach spokesmen say, works an inequity on local hospitals in the emergency care of indigent patients.

Under the policy, the local hospitals are not being reimbursed for emergency indigent care unless the patient was picked up outside of Long Beach, was transported in a county contract ambulance and was cared for in a hospital under county contract.

A typical instance of discrimination, according to city officials, is this:

A Bowers ambulance (which is under contract to the county as well as the city) picks up an emergency indigent patient in Lakewood and transports him to Memorial Hospital; the county pays the cost of his hospital care. Under identical circumstances in Long Beach, with the same ambulance in use, the county pays nothing and the hospital absorbs the cost.

Mansell's office has asked for county study of an agreement allowing the city to maintain its present ambulance service—or assurance that the county itself will provide comparable service here—without penalizing the local hospitals.

Young Poetess Plans to Teach

GARDEN GROVE — For all the years of her Garden Grove High School career, Katherine (Kit) Hageland has been writing poetry—so she can be a teacher of English and American literature.

Three of her poems have been published in anthologies of high school verse, and another has just won the first poetry award of American Girl magazine.

It's titled "Listen," and it reflects the solemn ritual of the funeral procession for the slain President Kennedy.

Kit's poem was in national competition this time, and she considers her win a climax to her "serious study" of prose and poetry under tutelage of Mrs. Kay Sloan, chairman of the school's English department.

Three of her works were published in "Young America Sings," an anthology of selected poems of high school students in California. They were published in the 1962 annual. Another was published in 1963 and the third one last spring.

The same three poems were published later in the national anthology, titled "Songs of Youth."

One was a memorial to Robert Frost, after death of that famed poet. Another was a study of the philosophy of youth, and the other was a tribute to the famed painter Gauguin.

Kit, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingval Hageland of 11332 Ora Drive, can be described as both pert and saucy.

She takes her accomplishments lightly; she's a National Honor Society student, is president of the Girls' League and is an ardent football fan. She was in the school's drill team last year, so she could root for the school's Argonauts on field and court.

Now a senior, Kit will go to California State College at Long Beach next September to prepare for her career as a teacher—she hopes at Garden Grove High.

Lakewood Man to Lead Clerk Group

C of C Will Nominate

The Greater Lakewood Chamber of Commerce will nominate candidates for 12 openings on its 38-man board of directors at a luncheon meeting Monday at Hody's Restaurant.

Heading a five-man nominating committee is Neil Fitzgerald, past president.

Board members also will get their first look at a 32-page, Chamber-sponsored brochure publicizing the community, Manager Don McLaughlin said.

PARENTS GET CHOICE OF PLANS

Student Insurance Protection Offered

Application forms have been distributed to parents of the 75,000 Long Beach public school students for a new "24-hour-protection" student insurance plan.

This year parents for the first time are offered a choice of two accident insurance programs. Both provide medical and dental expense benefits.

One of the plans offers "school time" protection, while the new one extends coverage to 24 hours a day on a year-around basis.

Both are offered through the Long Beach Unified School District with the cooperation of the Long Beach Insurance Association.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS explained that while the district is protected against liability in school-connected accidents, the student is not covered.

The plans provide identical medical and dental benefits to a maximum of $5,000 and death benefits to a maximum of $8,500.

The school time plan, offered since 1960, covers the student while he is attending school, being transported to and from school by bus, and participating in school-sponsored and school-supervised activities. The other plan has no time limitations.

The schooltime coverage costs $2 for grade school students and $3.50 for high school students. The unlimited plan costs a flat $12 per year.

Board Institute Parley Nov. 23

Mock-ups of the Apollo space vehicle and a DC8 airliner will be featured.

Among other exhibits are a World War II Japanese "Frank," an American Flying Fortress and a P51. All exhibitions will be at the Long Beach Airport.

Berkeley Admits 86 Nonqualifiers

BERKELEY (AP)—The University of California has used a special ruling to admit 86 students with less than minimum academic requirements to the Berkeley campus this fall.

The ruling allows acceptance of below-par freshmen who show an "artistic, academic, athletic or leadership" potential, a spokesman said.

The official said 23 of the 86 have athletic potential.

Students in this category are not to exceed 2% of the university's enrollment.

Possible Peking A-Blast Causes Concern in Asia

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

Secretary of State Dean Rusk predicted last week that Red China, Russia's arch rival for leadership of world communism, would soon explode a primitive nuclear device.

He said the United States long ago had taken this into account in its military and nuclear planning.

Rusk's statement obviously was based on firm intelligence. It also appeared intended to cushion election-conscious Americans and the world against any psychological shock. The impact could be especially grave in embattled Southeast Asia where Peking is fomenting war.

• • • •

THE secretary of state had one reassuring note. He said it would take Communist China many years to build a nuclear arsenal and a modern delivery system. The only immediate danger, he said, is deadly atmospheric radiation which the 110-nation nuclear test-ban pact sought to end.

Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater, who voted against the treaty, accused President Johnson of downgrading U.S. nuclear strength while Red China readies "a bomb that well may be heard around the world." The Democrats are charging Goldwater with being "trigger-happy" with nuclear weapons.

Red China refused to sign the treaty. It accused Soviet Premier Khrushchev of conniving with the U.S. and Britain to use the pact to curb Peking's type of militant world communism.

Russia itself put Peking on the nuclear road in 1950, but claimed it was only assisting in peaceful projects. When the two nations collided ideologically 10 years later, Moscow recalled all its technicians.

• • • •

RUSK SAID that if a detonation does occur, "we shall know about it and will make the information public." The test-ban pact gives any nation the right to withdraw if it concludes its interests have been jeopardized. Officials said the United States had been in touch with its allies. There also were reports it had talked with Russia.

Goldwater, on a whistle-stop campaign tour of the Midwest, charged that Johnson was "reducing our nuclear capabilities while talking peace, peace, peace." He asked: "How can anyone trust a man to whom everything is just a political game?"

The GOP standard-bearer also accused the President of "being soft on communism" by "seeking accommodation" with Khrushchev. He said the administration's policy in Viet Nam and elsewhere was "lie and lie, elect and elect."

• • • •

JOHNSON replied indirectly. After proclaiming 1965 international cooperation year, he told a top-level bipartisan group of officials that they may be branded idealists or crackpots if they spread the gospel of international cooperation. "They may say you're soft or hard," he said, "or don't understand what it is all about in some of these fields. . . "

Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey, also stumping the Midwest, said Goldwater had reached "down into the bottom of the barrel to dig up that old smelly argument and all I can say is that he will die in the stench. . . "

The President stumped New England with a promise of "new initiatives" to ease world tensions. In reference to Goldwater, he said the "captors" of the GOP were laboring under three illusions—"that force or threat of force can resolve all problems; that the United States can demand resolution of all the world's problems," and that "we could, if only we tried hard enough, put an end to difficulty and danger, and then retire from the world."

Johnson got tumultuous welcomes and was almost mobbed at times. This week he will speak in the South, the Midwest and the Far West. It was revealed meantime that if elected he will fly to Paris to outline a world peace program for America's allies. He also would not be averse to a meeting with Khrushchev. In a speech Thursday at Baltimore he urged the NATO alliance to help build bridges to Iron Curtain nations by means of trade, ideas, visitors and humanitarian aid.

PRINCESS SORAYA, former empress of Iran now embarking on a movie career, skims through surf during shooting of a water-skiing scene for her first film, "Three Faces of a Woman." The scene was shot off the island of Sardinia.

• • • •

"OUR politics must serve our faith rather than foster fears," he said. "No one can serve in the office of President without being aware of his obligation to all humankind."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon began a 36-state tour in behalf of Goldwater. Goldwater said that if elected he would name Nixon secretary of state. Nixon said his main job would be to "attack the very real problem of Republican defection" from Goldwater.

GOP vice presidential nominee William E. Miller branded Johnson's planned European trip as "purely a political play. . . I wish Johnson would say he would go to South Viet Nam and end the war there."

• • • •

HOUSE Democrats continued attacking Miller on conflict-of-interest charges. Rep. W. Donlon Edwards, D-Calif., introduced a resolution calling for a full investigation of why Miller voted against a felt imports bill while he was on the board of the Lockport, N.Y., Felt Co. He also questioned the propriety of Miller's association with a Buffalo, N.Y., law office.

Congress, in the wake of the Warren Commission report on the Kennedy assassination, wrestled with the problem of what to do about presidential protection. Johnson set up and met with a commission to study the matter. It may have legislative recommendation in January. But the President refused to be scared off by the commission's admonitions. He mingled with crowds and shook thousands of hands during his New England campaign sortie.

Published testimony of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover before the Warren Commission revealed that he had cautioned against letting a desire to protect presidents lead to a "gestapo" or to a police state. He also testified that the State Department had termed accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald a "thoroughly safe risk" when he returned to U.S. after defecting to Russia.

• • • •

IN OTHER news spheres the Navy found the hull of the nuclear-powered submarine Thresher which sank with 129 men aboard April 10, 1963. It published photographs of parts of the hull. The tragedy occurred 220 miles east of Cape Cod, Mass., in water 8,500 feet deep.

Communist China denounced President Johnson's order to U.S. war planes to pursue hostile planes into Red territory and destroy them if they attack U.S. naval patrols in the Bay of Tonkin off South Viet Nam.

It warned that this would mean expanding the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam.

• • • •

DEMOCRATIC congressional leaders were forced to give up on Johnson's billion dollar Appalachia region aid bill. Medical care for the elderly also died until next year, along with a 5% increase in Social Security benefits. Foreign aid was rescued after a rider attacking the Supreme Court's state legislature reapportionment ruling was dumped.

The United Auto Workers wage contract strike against General Motors continued, raising prospects it also would damage the steel, rubber and glass industries.

Bar Acts on Three Issues of Major Significance

By BOB SCHMIDT

Some 2,500 members of California's legal fraternity have ended a week-long examination of their profession, with at least three developments of major significance emerging from the 30th annual State Bar Convention in Santa Monica.

One of the developments—the precedent-shattering decision to take a stand on a keenly contested political issue—was hotly debated on the convention floor. The other two were reports from committees which did not require public discussion.

The keenly contested political issue — Proposition 14 — was the subject causing the most excitement. The conference voted, by a 304-121 ballot, to go on record in opposition to the proposed amendment to the State Constitution which would prohibit the state from legislating against racial discrimination in housing.

* * * *

THE VOTE reflected the feelings of the Conference of Delegates, not of the State Bar as a whole, but was still significant.

On Friday, the final day of the convention, the delegates were presented with a massive, 70-page report prepared by the State Bar's Committee on Group Legal Services.

The report to the Bar's Board of Governors recommended the encouraging of private groups to provide a form of legal insurance for members or employes. Unions, professional associations, and large corporations would administer their individual programs, with an approach similar in philosophy to group medical insurance.

Augustus Mack Jr., new president of the State Bar, said California is "far ahead" of any other state bar in studying the "group legal services idea."

* * * *

SEVERAL changes in the Bar's Code of Ethics would be required before the program could be implemented.

Finally, the organization may have pushed the idea of capital punishment a little further toward obsolescence when it approved a resolution adding the sentence of "life without possibility of parole" to the sentences possible for persons convicted of first-degree murder.

The Board of Governors will consider all the recommendations and proposals made at the convention, but is not bound by any action of the delegates.

* * * *

DELEGATES from the Long Beach Bar Association, which is trying to lure the 1968 convention here, were active in the Santa Monica conclave, offering seven of the 71 resolutions considered.

Henry Clock, chairman of the delegation, explained that all but one of the Long Beach proposals were highly technical in nature, the one exception being attorney Stephen Pace Jr.'s suggestion that county clerks be authorized to perform marriages.

The motion was defeated by the state delegates because they felt it would add "undue burden to the duties" of the clerks, even though Los Angeles County Clerk William Sharp, the state's busiest, urged its passage.

Thomas McCarry was elected to the executive committee of the State Bar Conference, succeeding San Pedro's Arch Ekdale, who chaired the delegate conference in Santa Monica.

Clarence Hunt, a member of the Board of Governors, chaired a panel on criminal law, and Donald Caffray, a member of the Bar's Conference of Barristers, headed a panel discussion of civil and constitutional rights.

LBJ May Visit U.N. if He Wins

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Thant said Saturday President Johnson has indicated a desire to visit the U.N. Assembly session beginning Nov. 10, if he wins election the week before.

Reporters queried Thant as he arrived for work. When one asked if he expected the President to attend the Assembly, he replied, "During our conversations in Washington, he indicated a desire to come—if he is elected."

TAUBMAN HEADS COLLEGE BOND UNIT

Prop. 2 Leaders Named

Attorney George Taubman Jr. has been named chairman of the Long Beach Area Citizens for Proposition 2, the $380 million college construction bond issue on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Co-chairman of the committee are two Board of Education members, M. A. Duncan, board chairman, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson.

Other executive committee members are Dr. Francis Hertzog, Councilman William S. Grant, businessmen Llewellyn Bixby Jr. and Darrell T. Neighbors and Board of Education members Dr. Dwight Sigworth, Jerald Jacobs and Dr. James M. Crawford.

* * * *

DON MUCHMORE, savings and loan executive of Long Beach, is co-chairman of the statewide Citizens Committee for Yes on Proposition 2. Dr. Francis J. Flynn, dean of development at Cal State, Long Beach, is assistant regional coordinator.

Flynn said today that the long-anticipated influx of college students from the post-World War II "baby boom" has hit California college registration lines earlier and heavier than expected.

Flynn pointed out that fall registration at Cal State, Long Beach, was nearly 1,000 students above expectations with the biggest increase coming in the number of new freshmen seeking admission.

"California is expecting an 80% increase in its student population between 1964 and 1970 while the general population will increase only 40%," Flynn said. "We must expand our facilities if we are going to educate all our qualified potential students."

* * * *

ABOUT 70% of the construction bonds will be used to build classrooms and laboratories for the state colleges, junior colleges and the University of California.

The remainder of the bond issue funds will go for construction of youth and adult correction facilities, narcotics control and mental hospitals, and state forestry conservation facilities.

Flynn said that CSLB will receive only about $1.3 million from the bond issue. However, he noted that if it fails there is danger that Long Beach campus funds in the regular state college budget may be cut back and the funds diverted to other colleges now scheduled to receive more from the bond issue.

Scientists Told Church of Rome Offers Its Help

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI Saturday told a group of scientists that the Roman Catholic Church is ready to "offer its light" whenever scientific research leads "to the threshold of grave questions which go beyond the scientific field."

The Pope received the scientists from various fields attending a study week sponsored by the Pontifical Academy of Science. He told them:

"The Church does not fear progress in science. She enters voluntarily in dialogue with the scientific world, applauds marvelous discoveries achieved by men of science."

THESE ARE THE WEEDS YOU WON'T HAVE TO PULL WHEN YOU USE GERMAIN'S DICHONDRA WEED CONTROL

A proven product that gets to more weeds than other brands

No more bending, no more back aches. Just spread on Germain's Dichondra Weed Control, an outstanding, new product that knocks out established Bluegrass and Bermuda Grass, Crabgrass before it sprouts, and eleven more unwelcome weeds. While it dooms weeds and grasses that encroach on your dichondra, Germain's does not burn or retard your lawn, even a newly seeded one.

GETS TO MORE WEEDS THAN OTHER BRANDS

That's because Germain's is made with uniform granules. Each granule is impregnated with all the elements in the product ...and this includes Diphenamid, the miraculous weed control chemical. These uniform granules provide a smooth, even texture that spreads evenly, gets to every part of your lawn. Not every product sold as a weed control can make this claim. In many of these, the weed control chemical is separated from other elements in the mix. The result: Large and small particles, an uneven mix in which the weed control agent reaches only part of your lawn. With Germain's you're assured of complete weed control coverage.

FEEDS DICHONDRA TOO

Not only does Germain's knock out weeds, it feeds your dichondra just the right amount of nourishing nitrogen fertilizer to keep it green and healthy. For a beautiful, weed-free lawn, ask for Germain's Dichondra Weed Control.
There is a difference!

HUGE OVAL ORBIT

U.S. Orbits IMP to Snoop on Sun's Deadly Flares

CAPE KENNEDY (AP)—An interplanetary monitoring platform (IMP-2) rocketed into a great oval orbit Saturday night to chart radiation hazards along the astronauts' route to the moon.

The 'flying physics laboratory" shot away from Cape Kennedy right on schedule at 10:45 p.m. EST atop a towering Delta rocket whose three stages functioned with precision and drilled the satellite into space at a speed of more than 23,000 miles per hour.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced 15 minutes after launching that the satellite was in orbit and gave it the official designation—Explorer 21.

The 136-pound payload was aimed at a great elongated course intended to take it 161,000 miles from earth—more than halfway to the moon—before it swings back as close as 120 miles at the low point of its orbit.

* * * *

EXACT orbital figures were not immediately available.

The flight-control center reported tracking stations were receiving good signals from the high-flying satellite.

The path would carry IMP-2 once around the globe every six days instead of the normal satellite transit time of about two hours.

IMP-2 is the second of seven similar satellites planned in direct support of the United States' Apollo project to land men on the moon in this decade.

A major goal is to determine if satellite instruments can predict when great flares will erupt on the sun's surface, spreading dangerous doses of cosmic radiation through space on swift solar winds.

The launchings will be spaced to provide continuous data throughout a substantial portion of an 11-year sun cycle. The sun presently is in a two-year quiet period when flare explosions are rare and thus easier to study and understand.

* * * *

THE NUMBER and intensity of solar flares gradually will increase until a peak is reached in 1968-69, then a period of declining activity will begin.

The peak activity years span the time when the United States hopes to send its first Apollo team of three astronauts toward the moon. The effort might have to be postponed unless scientists find a reliable method of forecasting flares.

Air Pollution Parley Set

Longe Beach College Estates Community Center will sponsor a meeting to discuss air pollution problems at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the auditorium of Hill Junior High School, 1100 Iroquois Ave.

The homeowners' meeting will be mainly concerned with air pollution from Edison Co. and Los Angeles Water and Power Co. steam plants, said Community Center President C. F. Galligan.

Galligan said oil droplets condense in the air because of steam plant activities and damage house and automobile paint and flower beds. Present will be representatives from United Edison Co. and the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District.

Highway Divider Test Set

Test of a new type of glare-cutting highway divider is being made on a 3.3 mile-strip of the San Gabriel River Freeway, between Whittier Boulevard and Peck Road, at the northern end of the freeway.

The State Highway Division has installed a new aluminum "Glare-Barrier" which reportedly eliminates the glare of oncoming headlights, while giving perfect 90-degree "sideways" vision to drivers on both sides of the barrier.

The product was developed by Soule Steel Company in cooperation with the Research and Materials Laboratory of the State Highway Division. Tooling for machinery for manfacture was done at the Long Beach plant of Soule at Carson and Alameda Street. The product is manufactured at the firm's San Francisco plant.

* * * *

THE NEW MEDIAN divider is composed of expanded aluminium shields, 8 feet by 4 feet. Two thousand of these shields are strung from median posts and cables. The shields are made so that venetian blind results when approaching from an angle.

The product was developed specifically for median divider safety after three years of work.

Installation on the San Gabriel River Freeway is the first significant test of the product. The section of the freeway in which the median barrier is installed was opened in mid-September. A short strip of the material was installed on a section of the Golden State Freeway Pasadena interchange, but was not sufficiently long in length to be judged significant.

Hire the Handicapped Week Observed

The 20th annual observance of National Employ the Handicapped Week begins today.

The theme for this year's observance will stress that being handicapped shouldn't bar a qualified worker from employment.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade issued a proclamation on Sept. 29 declaring the week of Oct. 4 as Employ the Handicapped Week in Long Beach.

Long Beach, recognized as a leader in rehabilitation resources, has several vocational agencies training mentally and physically handicapped persons for useful and gainful employment.

* * * *

TWO OUTSTANDING workshop programs for the handicapped — Community Rehabilitation Industries and Goodwill Industries — have provided hundreds of trained, disabled employes for local jobs.

The stated goal of these programs is to get these people, most of whom would lead lives of dependency, frustration and despair, on jobs that make them self-respecting, useful members of the community.

Community Rehabilitation Industries, 1409 Anaheim St., keeps about 75 disabled persons in its training programs which emphasize industrial trades, such as electronic assembly, metal trades and bench assembly. It has a staff of personnel trained to teach the rehabilitation programs.

Goodwill Industries has over 100 physically and mentally handicapped persons working for it in useful service trades and salvage.

* * * *

COMMUNITY Rehabilitation Industries' stated objective is to place the disabled into private industry, but Goodwill Industries usually retains most of the persons it trains for work in its programs.

Determining an individual's employment capacity and adequate preparation for his becoming employed are the responsibility of the rehabilitation division of the local Community Welfare Council. This special division was formed this year.

Recently Gov. Brown called on all able-bodied Californians to join in supporting programs which rehabilitate handicapped workers and place them in jobs.

He pointed out that those people who have been trained and employed have been converted from tax consumers to taxpayers.

"I urge all citizens to observe National Employ the Handicapped Week," the governor said. "The challenge is to utilize all of our resources, human and natural. We must meet that challenge."

BEATRICE LUMUS, a polio victim (and handicapped) was trained by Community Rehabilitation Industries to fill this job as an electronics assembler with the Skycrafters Co., of 1365 Gladys Ave., firm which participates in the program of hiring the handicapped.

Joan Merriam Sets Solo Distance Mark

Long Beach aviatrix Joan Merriam's recent 27,750-mile flight around the world was the longest solo distance flight in history, the National Aeronautics Association said last week.

She also became, with her flight, the first solo pilot — man or woman — to fly around the world at the equator, according to NAA executive director Mitchell Giblo.

Miss Merriam, 5055 Garford St., left Oakland March 17 in a light twin-engined plane to begin her tour.

She landed again at Oakland on May 12 after many en route troubles to complete the world route planned in 1937 by Amelia Earhart, who vanished somewhere in the Pacific on a similar venture.

NAA records, plus a search of those on file at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, revealed that Miss Merriam broke the 26,553-mile distance mark established in 1924 by eight U.S. Army fliers in four Douglas World Cruisers.

Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given.

If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

We are one of the busiest offices in Southern California, so if we cannot help you, be assured that we will not take your case.

The total charge is $5.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1505, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L.B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

Rear Adm. Palmer, Active in Fight on Subsidence, Retires From Navy

A Naval officer who was one of the city's most effective and respected leaders in the anti-subsidence fight has retired from service and returned here to live.

Rear Adm. Charles J. Palmer has plenty of reasons for returning to Long Beach.

He served two different tours of duty here. He became an admiral while stationed here. His wife grew up in Long Beach. They were married here.

And as the admiral said: "I love the city."

Adm. Palmer's last tour of duty here was as commander of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard, a post he held from June, 1958, to January, 1961 —the period when the most critical work was done in getting the city's water injection program under way. When the admiral first came here the shipyard was sinking about a foot a year. When he left, the sinking had practically stopped.

REAR ADM. C. J. PALMER
Officer Retires

The admiral retired from the service Sept. 1 after more than 36 years of duty. His most recent post was commanding officer of the Portsmouth, N. H., Naval Shipyard. It was from that shipyard that the submarine Thresher began its last voyage.

Adm. Palmer said his plans for the immediate future are uncertain. He and his wife, Kathryn, are living in an apartment at 124 St. Joseph Ave. and are searching for a house.

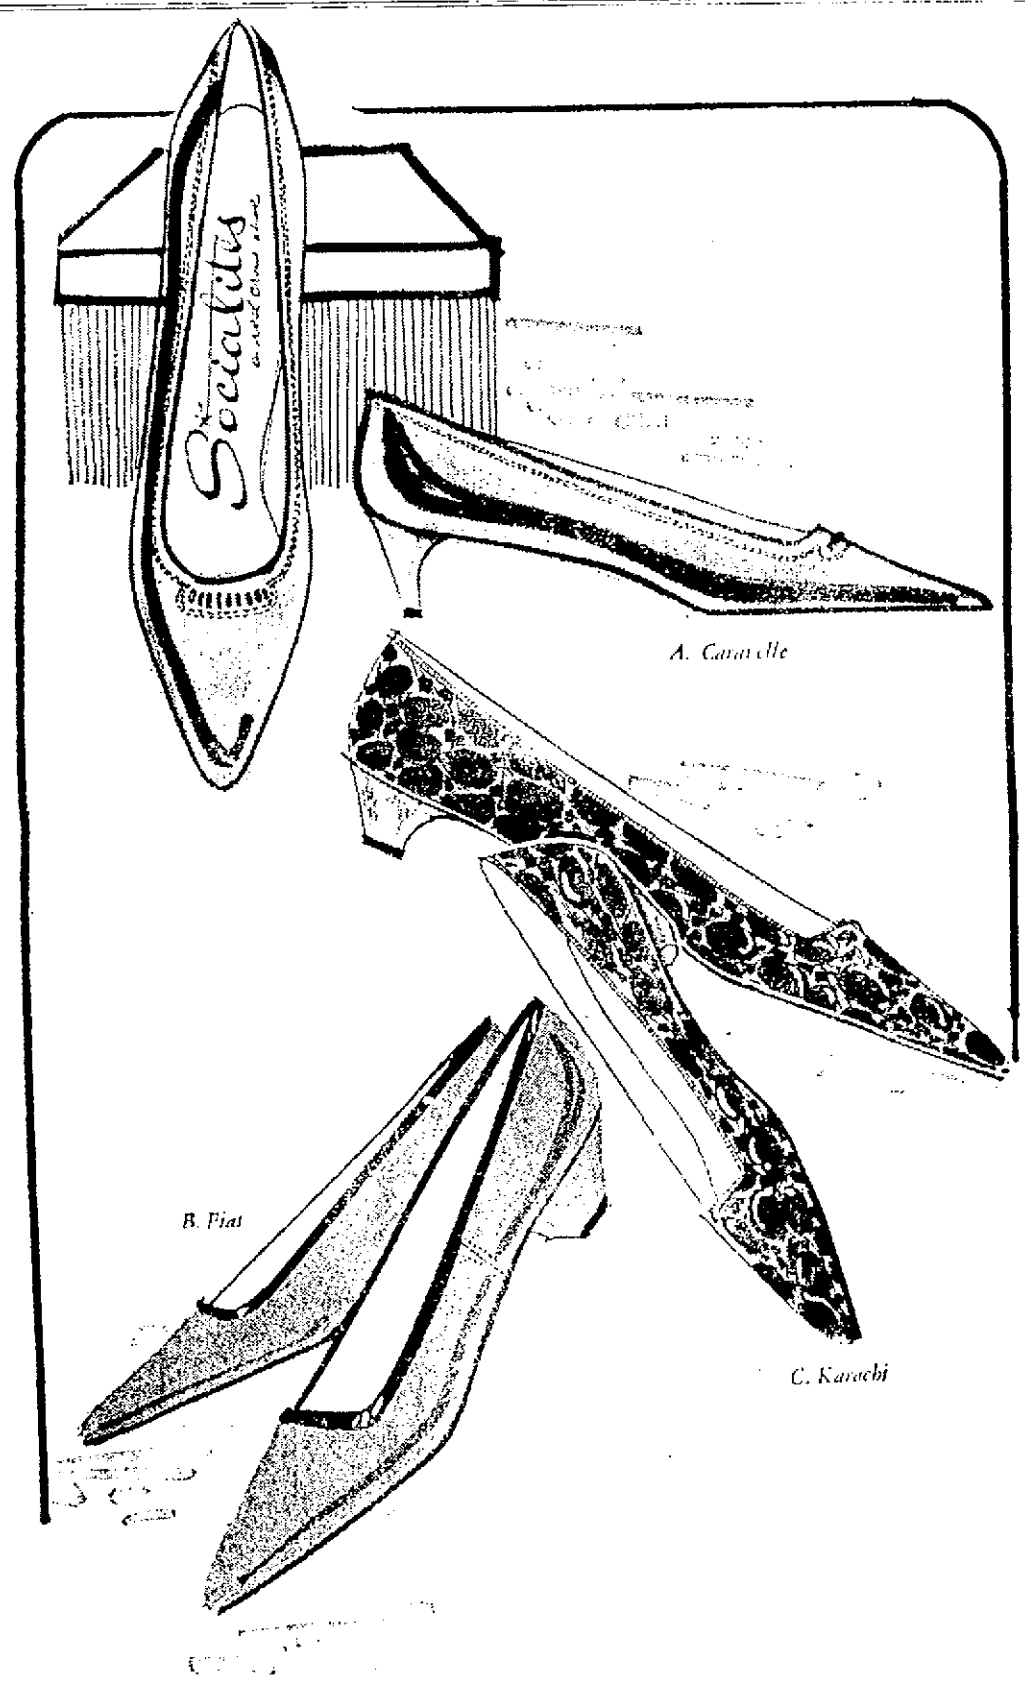

The admiral said he is considering several different fields of work in engineering, production or administration in connection with heavy metals fabrication or mechanical or electrical equipment manufacturing.

Mrs. Palmer, whose mother, Mrs. Kathryn Taylor is a long-time resident of Long Beach, said the couple had long wanted to come back and "naturally I'm glad to be back in my home town."

She recalled that she and her husband were married here in 1933 "about the time of the earthquake" when Adm. Palmer was serving aboard the USS Lexington.

The admiral, incidentally, is a native of New Hampshire. He's a Naval Academy graduate and received a master's degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Adm. Palmer has served in practically all phases of naval engineering. He had tours of duty in several other shipyards besides Long Beach and Portsmouth and during World War II served in the South Pacific. He also at one time was head of the hull design branch of the Bureau of Ships.

Adm. and Mrs. Palmer have two children — a daughter, Priscilla (Mrs. Arthur Savage) living in Maryland, and a son, Bruce, who somewhat to his father's discomfort is in the Army.

NEW SUPREME COURT TERM OPENS MONDAY

Docket, Filled With Key Issues, Sure to Produce Controversy

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, under fire for what some critics call its overly liberal views, opens a new term Monday facing a crowded docket certain to produce more controversy.

Majority votes in recent landmark decisions have raised complaints that the court is easy on criminals, soft on communism, invading states' rights to apportion their own legislatures, in error on church-state matters, and too liberal in race relations matters. The tribunal will make historic rulings on these new key issues in the next nine months:

Does the public accommodations section of the new Civil Rights Act violate the Constitution? Under a speeded-up schedule, this question will be argued Monday.

* * * *

SHOULD A schoolroom Pledge of Allegiance that uses the phrase "under God" be declared unconstitutional?

Must a man express belief in a Supreme Being to qualify for draft exemption as a conscientious objector?

To provide racial balance in public schools, is it constitutional to reassign pupils and bus them from one neighborhood to another?

May pupils be reclassified on the basis of their educational aptitudes, even though the result may be classes that are all Negro and all white?

Should states be permitted to bar marriages of Negroes and whites and make it a crime for men and women of different races to occupy the same room at night?

* * * *

DOES A STATE LAW violate the Constitution by outlawing the use of contraceptives and forbidding doctors to give advice about their use?

May asserted Communist-front organizations and Communist Party members be required to register with the attorney general?

Should the court strike down laws that bar Communists from office in labor unions, and that permit the Postmaster General to destroy Communist political propaganda mail from abroad?

In peacetime, may the Secretary of State prohibit travel of citizens to Cuba?

Did Texas authorities violate the Constitution by seizing 2,000 books and pamphlets from the home of a suspected Communist?

May Louisiana enforce its subversive activities and Communist control law and its Communist propaganda control statute?

* * * *

LAST JUNE the high court overturned convictions of sit-in racial demonstrators in three Southern states, but did so on narrow, technical grounds. The justices thus left unanswered the major question whether states may use their trespass laws in support of businessmen who do not choose to serve Negroes.

The question may be answered in the new term since the court has agreed to hear arguments in racial demonstration cases from South Carolina, Arkansas and Alabama. The new Civil Rights law will have an important bearing on these cases in that it prohibits such businessman discrimination in many instances.

About two dozen other racial cases on which the court is asked to hear arguments involve such diverse questions as: (1) picketing of stores to compel the hiring of Negro clerks; (2) Virginia requirements that divorce decrees state the race of husband and wife and that other official records separate names by race; (3) Justice Department efforts to compel desegregation of public schools near military installations; and (4) a contention that constitutional rights of a Negro who was convicted of raping a white woman were violated because of intentional inclusion of Negroes on a list from which grand jurors were drawn for the case.

* * * *

WHILE CONGRESS debated the court's rulings that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned substantially equal, on the proposition of one person one vote, new appeals on the reapportionment problem were filed during the justices' summer vacation.

The appeals involved reapportionment questions in Georgia, Pennsylvania, California and South Carolina. The justices also were asked to reconsider their last term decisions in cases affecting Alabama, Florida and Illinois.

A batch of labor cases on which the court already has agreed to hear arguments in the new term appear certain to throw new light on the rights of unions, workers and employers.

These cases include an appeal from a lower court decision that the United Mine Workers must pay damages to a small coal company, under antitrust laws, because the union engaged in industry-wide labor contract bargaining. UMW bases its appeal on a section of the Clayton Anti-trust Act that says antitrust laws do not apply to unions.

In the area of labor-management relations, the court will also rule on:

—The right of a manufacturer to shut down his plant in asserted retaliation for union activity;

—The right of a company to contract out part of its work without first bargaining with unions on the action;

—How union conventions may vote to raise membership dues;

—If meat cutter unions violated antitrust law by insisting on a working agreement limiting hours for retail sale of fresh meat.

Censorship problems, which have been before the court over many years, are back for decision in the new term.

A test case from Maryland questions constitutionality of that state's law requiring submission of motion pictures to a censorship board for approval and licensing. The case involves a film called "Revenge at Daybreak." It deals with the Irish Rebellion. A Baltimore theater manager who filed the appeal said the state conceded the film would have been approved if submitted. But he refuses to submit. He must pay a $25 fine if the Maryland law is upheld.

* * * *

ANOTHER CENSORSHIP case from New York concerns refusal of state officials to license a Danish film they previewed. The censors said two scenes were obscene and had to be eliminated before approval of the film, called "A Stranger Knocks." Still a third case questions seizure by police in Philadelphia, Pa., of several thousand publications for asserted obscenity.

Other appeals which the court has agreed to hear involve: authority of the Federal Trade Commission to ban use of a television commercial showing a faked "sandpaper test" of a shaving cream; whether a man found near an illicit still can be held responsible as a moonshiner; if the Internal Revenue Service may compel a taxpayer to produce records of "closed" tax years, where collection of any deficiency is barred by a three-year statute of limitations; whether the court should apply retroactively its 1961 decision that illegally seized evidence may not be used in state criminal trials.

This last case could lead to new trials, and possibly freedom, for hundred of persons now in state prisons.

* * * *

NEW APPEALS for Supreme Court reviews filed during the court's summer adjournment questioned:

The swindling conviction of Billie Sol Estes, whose West Texas financial empire crashed; constitutionality of a California law making close relatives responsible for part of the cost of treating patients in mental hospitals; the right of Mad Magazine to satirize lyrics of popular songs; whether Orlando Cepeda, pro baseball player, is entitled to jury trial of a $1-million damage suit he filed against Look Magazine; if Atlantic City must pay $600,000 damages to a bather who struck his head on a submerged beach pipe.

Other cases among the 1,100 already docketed for the new term deal with what seems about every facet of human behavior.

There's a complex appeal concerning alleged patent infringement by several makers of doll wigs. It deals with "a patent which relates to a doll's head with rooted hair" and "a patent which relates to a machine for rooting hair"—dolls' hair, that is.

* * * *

THERE'S THE CASE of a whisky-drinking airplane passenger who seized controls, turned off the ignition key and put it in his pocket, and was finally subdued by being hit with his bottle. The pilot made a safe "dead stick" landing. The passenger appealed his sentence of 15 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

There's an appeal protesting use of evidence against four men, taken by police in a city's public toilet by use of a trick mirror and a motion picture machine.

Then there's the case of two women who were beaten and one of them raped by an intruder in their apartment. They claimed damages from their landlord's insurer on the ground the door to the apartment house was defective, collapsed, and allowed access to the place.

The Supreme Court's judgments on what to do about many of the appeals—whether to grant or deny hearings—will be announced on Oct. 12.

BETTY GRABLE AND DAN DAILEY
At Melodyland in 'High Button Shoes'

'Keystone Ballet' Melodyland Hit

By BOB BECKMAN

Long after other scenes in "High Button Shoes" at Melodyland are forgotten, the beach-and-bathhouse number will provoke mirth.

The second act scene, "Keystone Ballet," not only shines as the best-rehearsed show number but swings the spotlight onto the theater-in-the-round's always fine costume design.

As if a five-door comic bathhouse setting with a flood of Keystone Kops isn't enough of a tickler, Melodyland adds Dan Dailey and Ben Lessy.

* * * *

THE BATHHOUSE marks a departure from the theater's usual see-through prop construction. Its solidness causes some blocked-out action, but not enough spoil the outstanding comedy.

Dan Dailey, as swindler Harrison Floy, keeps applauding Melodylanders interested until the pace picks up post-intermission.

Betty Grable as Sarah Longstreet easily makes up for singing deficiencies with vivid grace and acting talent.

Miss Grable and Glenn Turbull, playing her husband, do a creditable job on the show's top number, "Papa, Won't You Dance With Me."

A superb acting job is turned in by Shirley Simpson, head of a bird-watching society, and by Janet Wells (Long Beach girl remembered for her fine efforts in civic light opera and Long Beach City College productions), in the role of Nancy, the maid.

Martha Stewart and John Craig draw warm applause for their romantic lead styles and Miss Wells and Dallas Johann excel in a tango.

"High Button Shoes" plays another week at the Anaheim theater if you'd like to bask in some of the Dailey flashiness and Grable glamor.

Philippines Leader, LBJ Meet This Week

TOKYO (UPI)—Two presidents busy on their own campaign trails—Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines and Lyndon B. Johnson of the United States—will meet in Washington this week for personal talks.

The leader of the only nation in the world which the United States once ruled as a colony will arrive in Washington Monday as a state guest of the American government.

Macapagal, 54, originally was scheduled to visit the White House in 1962.

But, displaying pique unusual for a Filipino against America, he canceled his 1962 appointment at the last minute because the U.S. Congress voted down funds to pay the final instalment on Philippine World War II damage claims.

* * * *

CONGRESS LATER reversed itself, thus eliminating one of the few sore spots to develop in Filipino-American relations since the United States gave the islands their independence in 1946.

Macapagal is no stranger to Washington. He attended the state funeral for President John F. Kennedy last November and once served as a secretary in the Philippine embassy in Washington.

Just a few days ago, his daughter, Gloria, enrolled in Washington's Georgetown University to study international relations.

In one of Asia's most democratic nations, Macapagal won the presidency in 1961 on campaign promises of helping the common man, uprooting graft and not seeking a second term.

To no one's surprise, he reneged just last week on re-election, announcing that he will run for a second term in 1965.

Quebec Trouble Mars Queen Trip

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II is coming to Canada Monday for an eight-day visit. She is assured of a hearty welcome, but some officials will sigh in relief when she heads back to London.

In Quebec, where explosions and armory raids have expressed anger over political issues, certain elements seem unhappy about the queen's visit. Security precautions have been taken accordingly.

Elizabeth is Queen of Canada just as she is Queen of Britain. The purpose of her visit is to mark the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Canada's constitution. When it came into effect in 1867 it united the old British colonial possession of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

Dissident elements in Quebec want the constitution changed to give that province greater independence, either as a self-governing nation or as an equal partner with the nine other provinces of Canada as a group, in a two-nation complex within the one set of national boundaries.

* * * *

QUEBEC is predominantly French-speaking and has preserved cultural customs dating from the 17th and 18th centuries. A cultural and industrial renaissance in the past decade has aroused jealousies and rivalries with the predominantly English-speaking majorities in other provinces.

The queen and her husband Prince Philip, will visit Charlottetown, Quebec and Ottawa.

While some newspaper editorials in Britain and Canada have urged cancellation of the queen's visit if there is any real danger to her, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has told parliament:

"I do not agree that her majesty in coming to Canada . . . is being subjected to a very awful risk."

Opposition to the queen's visit to Quebec began when plans were announced last winter. Most vocal and threatening has been the Rassemblement Pour L' Independence Nationale, which views the queen as a symbol of foreign domination of Quebec. It advocates political independence for the province as a separate national state.

* * * *

THE ST. JEAN Baptiste Societies—once a powerful political force in the province and still strong advocates of Roman Catholic influence and preservation of Quebec's French culture—has urged French-Canadians to shun the queen's visit.

"The queen's visit," said Georges-Henri Fortin, president of the societies, "is aimed at celebrating a constitution which many social and political groups in Quebec deny or denounce and which a great number of French-Canadians reject.

"The federation hopes that on Oct. 10-11 the French-Canadians will give an unequivocal demonstration of their profound discontent with the present constitutional situation by staying home and refusing to welcome the queen or to participate in any other manifestations, no matter what kind they are."

The queen was last in eastern Canada in 1959 when she and President Dwight D. Eisenhower dedicated the St. Lawrence Seaway. She was warmly welcomed in Quebec province.

Laser May Bounce Off Satellite

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—A windmill-shaped satellite called Beacon Explorer-B soon will be launched from the West Coast, carrying special mirrors off which scientists hope to bounce laser beams.

Laser is a thin light beam one million times as intense as light on the sun's surface, and it can be flashed for great distances as a new highly-advanced means of communication.

If successful, the satellite will make it possible for scientists of 32 nations to join in a world-wide survey of the behavior patterns and conditions of the earth's ionosphere.

* * * *

THE IONOSPHERE is the region of gases, electrically charged by the sun, which permits man to bounce radio signals from continent to continent. The ionosphere begins about 35 miles above the earth.

Scientists said the laser beams, flashed from East Coast stations of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will attempt to make precise measurements of the satellite's position in space.

Explorer-B will be launched from this Pacific missile range base any time soon after Oct. 8.

* * * *

SCIENTISTS said the 116-pound satellite will transmit a continuous series of radio signals to a network of more than 80 ground stations operated by some 50 scientific groups in 32 countries.

It will be the most extensive international scientific effort yet undertaken by a United States space project.

The Beacon Explorer's signals also can be received by simple do-it-yourself ground stations costing less than $5,000 and consisting of only an antenna, two radio receivers, a timing device and a recorder.

Cards, Reds, Phils...Or All 3?

Today marks the end of the National League's regularly scheduled baseball games. Under ordinary circumstances, a standard bearer already would have been determined to represent the senior circuit in the World Series.

But St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia apparently didn't read the script, and in the last few weeks the National League pennant race has become tighter than a fat lady's girdle.

Now, going into the final day of play, the National League pennant principals are faced with more options than a pro quarterback and could encounter enough ties to last over until Christmas.

Perhaps St. Louis manager Johnny Keane put it best when he said on the eve of the final series of games:

"It's become a one-day season."

Saturday he sat back with a share of the National League lead and a job offer for next year in his back pocket and didn't look at all like the manager of a team that had just been shellacked, 15-5, by the New York Mets.

The loss knocked the Redbirds out of undisputed possession of first place in the National League, but the 51-year-old Keane was much more cheerful than the newsmen who talked to him in the clubhouse.

"You fellows lok like you're going to a funeral," Keane said.

"I'm tied for first place. There's nothing wrong with that. We just blew it, that's all."

San Francisco was eliminated by a 10-7 loss to Chicago. Philadelphia and Cincinnati were idle as the Phillies moved to within one game of the leaders. Pittsburgh beat Milwaukee 11-5 in the only other day game.

—If New York beats St. Louis and Philadelphia beats Cincinnat, there will be a three-way tie among the Cardinals, Phils and Reds.

During the Cards' game, it was anounced that Keane had been offered another year at the helm of the Redbirds, but that he had asked for a postponement on contract talks until the season is over.

"When it's all over, we'll talk, I mean when the whole thing is over . . . the World Series, if we're in it," Keane said.

Keane returned to the pennant race, saying: "We're still tied for first. What's wrong with that?"

Keane said the Cardinals had "bounced back from defeat before."

49ers' Defense Decisive, 18-15

SACRAMENTO—"A win is a win, is a win."

Long Beach State College's football team may not excel at poetry, but it rates "A" for an impressive 18-15 victory over previously unbeaten Sacramento State Saturday.

Coach Don Reed's 49ers changed from an offensive power to a hard-nosed defensive outfit and beat the Hornets at their own game—defense spelled with a capital "D".

Twice Long Beach stopped the Hornets on fourth-quarter goal-line thrusts to the dismay of 3,504 partisan fans. Biggest heroes were sophomore middle guard Bob Johnson and senior defensive end Dick Degen who came through to squash Sacramento marches on the 29 and 10-yard lines.

Long Beach, which now has won three games in a row, became the first team to score on the Hornets this season.

WILLIE Martin had another outstanding day as he gained 97 yards on 15 carries, caught four passes for 34 yards and scored one touchdown.

Martin got things started late in the second quarter when he weaved through a gaping hole over right tackle and raced 37 yards, behind the interference of Joe Young, for a touchdown.

The first many oddities followed on the PAT. Martin banged into the end zone, but officials nullified the 2-pointer and tacked a rarely called 15-yard infraction for "assisting the runner." Gordon Nail tried a placement next, but dug a divot and L.B. led 6-0 with 1:31 left in the half.

SSC squared matters with 3:29 elapsed in the third period when end Gary Kelley pulled in a pass from Bob Miller and then beat Bob Maynard and Rudy Perez in a foot race to the end zone. The TD pass-run covered 34 yards. Mike Clemons kicked the extra point and the Hornets led, 7-6.

The 49ers surged ahead 12-7 when Shelly Novack grabbed a 29-yard scoring strike from Jerry Otterson. Novack made a difficult catch in the end zone with defenders Othel Pearson and Gary Smith draped over him. Les Shy's run for the PAT was stopped short.

COACH Ray Clemons said afterward: "That ball was thrown so perfectly that if we'd had five pro backs defending, the boy still would

M'KAY NOT S'GAY T'DAY

USC coach John McKay, who usually has a quip to meet any situation, found nothing funny about Saturday's loss to Michigan State as he wrung his hands with quarterback Craig Fertig (15).

MSU, Barefoot Boy Maul Men from Troy

By JEROME HALL
I. P-T Staff Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Michigan State University put a typical Big Ten team on the field here Saturday —all muscle and maul—and it registered one of the big upsets of the young season.

Left in a heap in the middle of the spacious Spartan Stadium were the USC Trojans and their No. 2 national ranking.

The score was 17-7.

It was a shattering defeat, for two weeks hence the Trojans must come right back to this Midwestern territory to tackle Woody Hayes' hessians at Ohio State and suddenly, with the bubble of Troy's invincibility burst, the prospect is more frightening than ever.

They were not the same Trojans who a week ago submerged the Sooners at Oklahoma. The Trojan offense didn't get untracked this time.

The Spartans, before a home schedule-opening crowd of 70,102, tallied in the first period on a record-breaking field goal of 49 yards and added a touchdown in each of the final two periods. The Trojans got their touchdown in the third period, marching 80 yards in one of their two cohesive efforts of the day.

The other time the Trojans resembled a ranking team was opening series when they boomed downfield for a touchdown that was nullified by a clipping penalty. They never recovered from this morale-buster.

Troy quarterback Craig Fertig, Saturday's hero a week ago, completed but 5 of 22 with 1 interception. The air game accounted for but 90 yards. Halfback Mike Garrett, who tallied the touchdown on a one-yard run, carried 26 times for 94 yards in a performance coach John McKay praised as "a great joh." Garrett was sidelined from practice all week with a rib injury and took a ferocious pounding from the Spartans.

To say that the Trojans lost because they were flat after that collossal conquest of Oklahoma would be to do the Michigan Staters an injustice. The Trojans won the battle of statistics (it was 13-7 for Troy in first downs, 270 to 172 in total yards) but the Spartans won the go-get-'em-and-knock-'em-down battle.

Maybe Duffy Daugherty's boys lack fitness, but they don't lack muscle. They were the best defensive team in the Big 10 last year and somebody besides USC will have to prove they are not the best this year, in spite of their defeat (21-15) by North Carolina a week ago.

The Trojans started off as if to duplicate last weekend. The game was only five plays and less than two minutes old when Rod Sherman boomed through the middle of the line on a quick-opener and raced 50 yards to the end zone.

But when he was only a few steps from the goal line and far into the clear, one of his teammates made a mistake. Dave Moton, junior end from Stockton, threw a clipping block. It was not near the play; was not needed by Sherman.

The penalty wiped six points off the books and set the Trojans back to the Spartan 40, where two line plunges and an incomplete pass advanced the ball seven yards and so the Trojans were forced to punt.

The Spartans took the ball on their first series of downs and moved to a field goal. They got assist from a freak occurence on the first play when a short pass bounced off the hands of Troy defensive halfback Gary Hill into the arms of halfback Harry Ammon for a gain of 14 yards.

The Spartans moved downfield on power runs around end, 2 and 3 and 4 and 5-yard runs until they were stopped at the Trojans at the USC 32.

That called for, on fourth down, the appearance of a young sophomore from Hawaii, Dick Kenney, who was in a college game for his first play.

Barefooted, he put his toes against the ball at the 39-yard line. It sailed high and true, 49 yards across the goal post for a new Michigan State distance record. The game was eight minutes old.

Though the Trojans doubled the yardage on the Spartans through the first half, they couldn't put together a sustained drive.

The Trojans started the second half the same way. Little Billy Renison elected to run back the kickoff from deep in the end zone and got no further than the four-yard line. Fertig had to punt out and the Spartans got possession on the

LBCC Edges Fullerton in 21-14 Thriller

Vikings Score in Last Quarter to Subdue Hornets

By GARY RAUSCH

Long Beach City College stirred up a Hornets' nest and got the biggest scare of its young football season Saturday night, barely eking out a 21-14 victory over a highly-underrated Fullerton team.

The Vikings, however, showed a never-say-die spirit in coming from behind in the final period.

Long Beach had driven to the Fullerton three but Elwood Stewart was stopped for no gain on fourth and one.

Elwood Stewart, starting his first game at fullback, scored the deciding touchdown on a one-yard drive over right guard behind the wedge-blocking Bill Zingg, Jack Frost and Tom Skidmore.

The Vikings saw Fullerton go ahead, 14-13, on the first play of the fourth quarter. Long Beach took the ensuing kickoff, marched 75 yards to the Hornet three where a first down attempt on fourth and one failed.

DAME FORTUNE, however, had not turned her back on the Vikings. On second down on the five, Fullerton's Mike Acker fumbled on a sweep and Long Beach's Earl McCullouch fell on the loose ball at the 10.

McCullough went around end to the one, setting up Stewart's decider. He carried two tacklers the last six yards on the clutch play.

Long Beach opened the game's scoring midway through the second period with Pat Cashman going over from the one to climax a 51 yard drive.

A 16-yard pass play from Greg Barton to Ron Drake keyed the march, and a pass interference call on the one kept it going. Even then it took the Vikings three tries to score. Bill Reich kicked the conversion.

Fullerton took a Long Beach punt on the Viking 42 and took only six plays to get the tying tally with 25 seconds left in the half.

Quarterback Dick Hough hurled a 30-yard touchdown pass to end Rich Leon and Dick Tarillo booted the extra.

After being held to 28 yards in the first half, the Vikings' sensational halfback Marv Motley broke loose on

UCLA, Zeno Tip Stanford, 27-20, Stay Unbeaten

By DAVE LEWIS

UCLA's Bruins "Zeno-ed" in on a ranking among the nation's top 10 college football powers Saturday night by outlasting the Stanford Indians, 27-20, in a wild spectacular offensive battle before 35,970 limp fans in the Coliseum.

The Bruins' third victory in a row left them one of the only two major West Coast powers still among the unbeaten. Oregon's powerful Webfoots in the Pacific Northwest are the only other ones boasting of an unblemished record.

It was Stanford's second Pacific Athletic Conference loss. This was UCLA's first conference game.

But the shocking wave of upsets which has swept through college football for the past three weeks almost engulfed the Bruins before they were able to turn back an inspired Stanford squad that turned in its finest performance of the season after two disappointing starts.

* * * *

TWO BRUIN stirring goal line stands, three key pass interceptions, a couple of Stanford ball-handling errors, two Indian field goal attempts that went awry, and an unusual kickoff return by guard Barry Levanthal set up the final touchdown to produce UCLA's final six-point victory margin.

In addition, the Bruins needed—and received — another superb game from Larry Zeno, who completed 15 passes for 161 yards and three touchdowns; scored the other TD himself on a one-yard plunge; booted three extra points, and picked up a total of 36 yards running.

The frantic crowd-pleasing action started on the opening kickoff . . . and increased in tempo until Jim Colletto broke up one last ditch effort by Stanford to pull the game out of the fire with an interception on the Indian 47 with 1:06 remaining.

ALTHOUGH STANFORD led only once—briefly in the first period—the Indians had UCLA hanging on the ropes ready for the kill time and again only to see errors break the momentum . . . or the Bruins come up with game-saving defensive plays in critical situations. They netted an incredible 399 yards to UCLAs 270.

UCLA took the lead for good late in the third quarter on Zeno's third touchdown pass, an 11-yard pass to sophomore Ray Armstrong. Zeno's third conversion of the game made it 31-14 with 1:39 left in the period.

The Indians finally slammed their way to their third TD with only 3 minutes and 22 second left to go, making it 21-20.

Instead of playing for what probably would have been a sure tie, Stanford gambled on a two-point conversion, but it was doomed to fail when little Terry Desylvia's second wild pitchout of the night bounced off fullback John Read's shoulder and was downed on the 5.

* * * *

STANFORD tried to get the ball back on an onsides kickoff, but Leventhal picked up the ball on the Indians' 46, broke through the thin line of defenders and lumbered to the 6 before being caught from behind.

The tribe was guilty of a personal foul while running him down and the ball was moved to the 3 on the penalty. Three cracks at the line only moved it to the one. But just when it appeared as if Stanford might deny the

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . Why-they're-champions dept.: Baltimore Colt coaches were shocked this past week to note in game movies quarterback star Johnny Unitas throwing downfield BLOCKS! Explaining his un-quarterback-like behavior, John said: There are times when I think a play will gain more ground if I knock somebody down. Actually, all I do is try to get in someone's way. After the handoff I could take off in the direction that the play breaks and nail a defender.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

It's just a situation that arises during the course of a game and it seems like the natural thing to do. We don't practice such plays at all. I don't ever remember throwing a block in our drills." (I bet you don't, Mr. Unitas, and now that your coaches have got wind of your versatility, I have an idea you won't be doing much body-tossing today against the likes of Rosey Grier, Merlin Olsen, Deacon Jones, Mike Henry or Lamar Dundy. At least, I hope you don't . . . for your sake!)

. . . Add dept.-of-champions: Lou Brock, the man who has made St. Louis run. In addition to hitting over .300 since joining the Cards from the Cubs, Brock is among the National League's top five in four categories: runs, hits, triples and stolen bases. In the latter field he's second only to Dodger Maury Wills, the greatest—even if he found a roadblock this season when the umps wouldn't enforce the balk rule.

The reason for Brock's sudden claim to greatness was simple, or at least that's what Lou told us a month ago in St. Louis: "I'm now on my own running the bases, but I wasn't when I was with the Cubs. I feel easier doing everything with the Cardinals. It's a tremendous thing, knowing the boss (Johnny Keane) has enough confidence in me to let me pick my pitch and the pitchers to steal on, instead of waiting all day for signs." (And isn't Keane the same man the Cardinals were itching to fire just a few short weeks ago? If there isn't a horde of sick people and virtual idiots in St. Louis today, then there's no cows left in Texas.)

GREATEST LINE-of-the-week dept. (from Lakewood's inimitable Roger Craig, the Paramount stables owner who was asked if he would like to see Keane back as Cardinal manager). "Sure," gurgled Roger, "if I didn't I wouldn't tell you, because I'd like to be back, too." (No, fool, the ex-Dodger knows a World Series check will purchase a lot of horses.)

. . . Long Beach got a slight black eye the other night on teevee, according to the city's famed weather observer, John Teed. "According to a bunch of ladies," said John, "we really got the business when Dick Lane handled the roller derby telecast from Veterans Stadium." (Ed. note: Why are all men afraid to admit THEY watch roller derby? It's always the ladies who inform them.) Anyway, when the National Anthem was played, Lane snorted: "This is terrible. They don't even have a flag to run up here." I never realized that situation . . . in fact, I'm wondering if there's even a pole there upon which to run up the flag.

. . . Add Veterans Stadium note: A bouquet to our Doug Ives (who doesn't often spring on a limb) for stumping for completion of the place's east side stands after the turnaway 18,000 standing-room crowd at the Milk Bowl event. Even stadium manager Win Hanssen got in a few licks too. "I wish that kind of crowd would make people realize that we could get more and bigger events here if permanent stands were erected on both sides of the park." (Oh, well, join the club, fellows. I've been saying that same thing for years . . . with nothing but deaf ears turned in this direction.)

FLOWERY DESCRIPTION dept.: From Fred Miller, assistant L.B. State football coach—"Our second string halfback, Les Shy, chugged, slashed and crushed in our game against Cal Poly." (Could he be speaking of ONE man?)

. . . Saddest man in town last week was our Dave Lewis who ranked 14th in our 14-member staff football prediction race. "I've been doing this for 31 years, moaned Lewis, "and this is the FIRST time I've been last." Join this losers' club, too, Dave. I wagered on Frank Vessels' odds-on quarter horse favorite, Steam To Go, in the Pomona Futurity last week and really jinxed the poor colt. Steam To Go not only finished dead last (no pun intended), but died from an internal hemorrhage one hour after the race!

. . . At the writing, the only item of major importance that Don Reed's Long Beach State College football machine seems to lack is a journeyman place-kicker. However, to the rescue last week arrived tireless Ben Agajanian, who left his many business concerns to tutor young Gordon Nail. (If anyone can nail down a real placekicker—pun intended—ancient Aggie is the man.)

. . . Ad was the little bird who whispered that the Phils' collapse was due, in part, to pitcher Dennis Bennett, chirping the truth? I don't know, but the word is that most of the club was fed up with Dennis' antics, which resulted in not highly-publicized fines. The information came right from a National League umpire's mouth.

. . . Safe bet dept.: The wholesale shakeup of Dodger coaches Thursday was only a tiny indication of things to come. You should know what g.m. Bussie Bavasi has in mind for some of his "untouchable" players.

Maple Leafs Breeze by Blades, 10-3

6,456 L.B. Arena Fans See World's Ice Champs' Might

HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The Toronto Maple Leafs, hockey's equivalent of the New York Yankees, Boston Celtics and Green Bay Packers, got a bit of exercise in Long Beach Arena Saturday night as they frollicked to a 10-3 victory over Los Angeles' Blades before 6,456 patrons.

The National Hockey League kings, considered the best in the world, started as slowly as a bevy of Mack trucks. When they got down to business, they proved that their brand of play is considerably different from the type of which Southern California fans are accustomed.

The final result wasn't even close, as no one expected it to be.

The Blades, like they did their previous evening against the same club, got the jump on the world's champions. They tallied first in slightly over three minutes, Marc Boileau popping in a shot that sent the minor leaguers into a 1-0 lead.

Before the first stanza was completed, the champs got on the scoreboard—with only 33 seconds showing on the clock. The initial score of the big leaguers was tainted, however, as two Blades were in the penalty box when Kent Douglas fired the puck into the net. In the second period, class—or conditioning—told, the world champs holding a commanding 7-2 margin.

Within seven minutes of the second period, the Maple Leafs had a 4-1 edge and the fans began counting sheep.

★ ★ ★ ★

THE CITIZENS perked up momentarily five minutes later when the Blades made it "close" with a so-called "garbage" shot — four men were involved and the harassed Maple Leaf goalie was as swollen-eyed as an Iowa farmer in Hollywood. The rest of the Leafs were counting the audience between yawns.

At this point, the beautiful arena lights marked it 4-2. Then the roof fell in. The big boys got angry and went to work. They bombed three more goals before the minor leaguers could get their breath.

The only exciting thing after that bombardment was the ice machine which resembled a Patton tank. The Blades, sadly, retreated at that point like the Nazis during World War II . . . with Patton after him.

The Yankees never had it so good. Even with the Richmond farm club.

A BRIGHT NEW BLADE

One Blade hustling in Friday and Saturday night's games against Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs at Long Beach Arena was defenseman Jack Evans, a new tem member. At left, he scrambles with Toronto's Andy Bathgate; at right, he leans over stick of George Armstrong to clear puck from behind Blades' goal. Blades open WHL campaign Friday.

Arkansas Buries TCU

Southwest

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—The Arkansas Razorback shook off a plague of penalties and fumbles in the last quarter Saturday and the defensive platoon provided the spark with six pass interceptions for a 29-6 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Christian.

Coach Frank Broyles' young Hogs from the Ozarks, the only unbeaten team left in the conference to challenge defending national champion Texas, passed and ran their way to their third consecutive triumph.

Their quarterback tandem of Fred Marshall and Billy Gray counted the first two touchdowns on runs of one and five yards, sophomore defensive halfback Harry Jones got the third on a 24-yard runback with one of the interceptions and tailback Bobby Burnet went five yards for the fourth after another thefted pass.

Jones' interception was extremely timely since it blunted an explosive TCU pass momentum that benchwarmer Kent Nix had ignited with a seven-play, 70-yard surge to pull the score to 14-6 with 11 minutes to play.

The Arkansas defense was so tough that TCU managed but 11 yards rushing and netted but 83 on passes despite Nix' concentrated scoring surge.

Marshall, who played most of the game at quarterback, hit 12 of 19 passes for 148 yards and contributed 37 yards on the ground to rank third in rushing behind Jack Brausell's 46 yards and Burnet's 44.

Texans Rally, Win

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Big Ernie Koy scored two fourth-period touchdowns Saturday night to fuel top-ranked Texas from a halftime deficit to a 17-6 victory over previously undefeated Army.

For the entire first half, it appeared that Army, playing its first game under the lights, had found them right eyes in sufficient clearness to upset the defending national champions.

Army's Carl Strichweh guided the Cadets to an early first-period touchdown after Army recovered a Marvin Kristynik fumble on the Longhorns' first play from scrimmage.

But in the final 30 minutes, Koy and Kristynik began to click with the type of ball-control game Texas is noted for.

Jackets 'Stop' Clemson

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech battled underdog Clemson off its feet Saturday, but was so ineffective when it came to actually scoring that the Yellow Jackets had to rely on a rugged defense to turn back the Tigers, 14-7.

The Jackets moved the ball at will—both in the air and on the ground against a slow Clemson defense, but could find the end zone only twice—once on their first offensive play of the game and the second time on a 54-yard run by halfback Johnny Gresham.

Clemson, trailing 7-0 at half-time, got its offense rolling after intermission and scored with 30 seconds gone in the fourth quarter on a three-yard plunge by Hugh Mauldin.

Kentucky Shocks Auburn

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) —Rodger Bird's two touchdowns, one on a 95-yard pass interception, beat Auburn 20-0 Saturday night, giving Kentucky its second successive upset victory over a nationally ranked opponent. The Wildcats beat Mississippi last week, 27-21.

Bird's 95-yard return of Jimmy Sidle's pass in the third period came just as the brilliant Auburn quarterback — playing with a shoulder injury that may have hampered his throwing—was moving the Tigers to what could have been a tying touchdown.

Kentucky's first touchdown came on a 76-yard drive in the second period, with three passes from quarterback Rick Norton to Rick Kestner eating up 33 yards of the distance.

Bird scored that one on a one-yard slant off tackle. Kentucky's third touchdown came in the closing minutes on a 9-yard pass from Norton to Kestner.

Man to Man

DUROCHER

By JERRY WYNN

Southern California may have seen the last of him as a Dodger, but the baseball adventures of Leo Durocher are far from ended.

For a third-base coach with a seventh-place team, Durocher received more ink this season than a .400 hitter. Now the 58-year-young storm center has the sports world guessing over his plans for 1965. He won't comment on them, but reports persist that he will become manager of a National League team.

I had the pleasure of interviewing Leo on his radio show last week. Here are somes of the bases we touched:

Who would be your choice for the Cy Young Award as top pitcher of 1964, Sandy Koufax or Dean Chance?

"I'm a little prejudiced. I think Koufax is the greatest pitcher in the game. I'm certain if he hadn't become injured, he would have gotten the award. But Chance has pitched the whole season and done a magnificent job and I would vote for him."

Would you like to see the Dodgers trade for Bo Belinsky?

"I'm certain Belinsky would help some club whether or not it is the Dodgers. He has a lot of talent. He just has to be handled the right way. I know he had quite a bit of trouble with the Angels. There's no question, he will do better with another club."

If the Angels couldn't handle him, what makes you think another team could?

"I know Bill Rigney did all he could and I have a lot of respect for Rigney's ability. But some players just have to be handled in a certain way. All I had to do to Willie Mays was pet him. But with Sal Maglie, I had to use the needle. I don't know if you have to rub Belinsky, pet him or kick him, but there is a way."

What was your opinion of the purchase of the Yankees by CBS?

"It all depends on their intentions. Do they want to stop Pay-TV? Do they want to get into Pay-TV? Will the other two networks buy clubs now? I'm sure the deal is going to have some effect on baseball, but it's too early to tell."

You played in your first World Series with the Yankees in 1926 and played, managed and coached in many more. Was there one which gave you the greatest thrill?

"The World Series always is a great thrill. Last year was a great one with the Dodgers especially that opening game when Koufax struck out a record 15 to beat the Yankees. Then I can't overlook 1954 when I managed the Giants and we beat the Indians four straight. I'd say those two years were the greatest."

You played on the famed Cardinal "Gashouse Gang" which won the 1934 Series. Was that team as colorful as its reputation?

"Yes, we had a great bunch like Pepper Martin, Ducky Medwick, Dizzy and Daffy Dean. I was captain. Frankie Frish was a great manager. But baseball was different then. It was a lot rougher and the players did more things. They came to play."

Does the best team always win the World Series?

"The best team doesn't always win the pennant. In 1954 the Giants beat the Dodgers with a great stretch drive but I don't think we were the better team. So much of it has to do with getting hot at the right time and having the pitching. Take the Dodgers last year. They had the pitching and were unbeatable in four games. I don't think they were that much better than the Yankees. Pitching is 75% of the game and in a World Series, it's 90%."

There has been talk of pro football supplanting baseball as the national pastime. Do you agree?

"Pro football has made a big dent in baseball's popularity. They've done things while baseball has stood still. But baseball is starting to come around by building new stadiums and improving conditions. Me, I'm a baseball man. I like football and I love golf but baseball has been my life."

And there always will be life in baseball as long as there is Leo Durocher in the game.

Rams, Colts Battle on TV

Pivotal Game for Upstarts of NFL Today

By JERRY WYNN
L.A.-P.T. Staff Writer

BALTIMORE — Signals on: 2-11-19-56,537 Hup!

These are the magic numbers for this morning's television treat — the Rams vs. the Baltimore Colts.

The 2 is for channel 2. The 11 is for an 11 o'clock (PDT) kickoff. The 19 is for the numbers worn by rival quarterbacks Johnny Unitas and Bill Munson. The 56,537 is for the sellout crowd which on football Sundays turns Memorial Stadium into the world's largest outdoor insane asylum.

A few weeks ago Baltimore had AL pennant fever; today it has NFL championship delirium.

"We love the Colts," the signs read in crabcake town on the Chesapeake, and the populace loves them more than ever after their rip-roaring victories over the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears the last two weeks.

The Colts stunned the Packers at Green Bay, 21-20, and demolished the Bears here, 52-0, after being tumbled by the Minnesota Vikings, 34-24, in the season's opener.

At stake today is first place in the Western Division. The upstart Rams (2-0-1) enter the game with the advantage over the Colts and Packers (2-1). But despite their lofty standing, the Rams are 8-point underdogs — which figures out to one point for each year since they last won a game in Baltimore.

They came within 33 seconds of victory last year before succumbing, 20-16; they blew a 27-16 lead in the last four minutes to lose, 30-27, in 1962, and they had a 24-10 lead turned into a 27-24 defeat in 1961.

The man responsible for all this misfortune is that master of miracle finishes — Unitas. The great Johnny-U is off to another great year, and benefits from a vastly-improved Colt running attack which has Lenny Moore and Tom Matte at halfbacks and Jerry Hill and rookies Tony Lorick and Joe Don Looney at fullbacks.

Moore, Raymond Berry, Jimmy Orr and John Mackey give Unitas four standout receivers in the starting lineup.

Ram victory hopes will rest on the ability of their charging Four Horses defensive line to pressure Unitas as well as their steadily improving offense. With Terry Baker starting in place of injured Dick Bass, the "Outpost" definitely is "in" today.

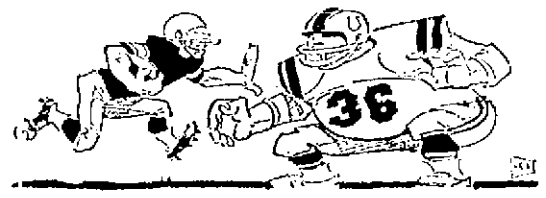

The series between the teams is deadlocked at 11-11-1. Signals on at 11 for this one: Lineups.

Air Force 14-6 Over Colo. State

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Air Force, still frustrated by a sputtering offense, broke open a tight football game with a 45-yard scoring pass in the final period Saturday and beat Colorado State University, 14-6.

The Cadets went to the final 35 seconds of the first half before scoring on an eight-yard pass by Tim Murphy to halfback Guy Hogle.

A fumbled punt gave CSU an opening on the Air Force 22 in the third period. The Rams made it good on a touchdown pass of seven yards from Eddie Belt to Jim Biddle, but their pass for a two-point conversion fizzled.

Early in the fourth quarter, Air Force end Jim Greth got behind the CSU safety man and speared a pass from Murphy for the second Cadet touchdown.

CUSTARDO OUTDUELS MYERS

Illinois Hard Pressed, but Whips Cats, 17-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Quarterback Fred Custardo bounced back from a first-half blitzing and outpassed Big Ten rival Tommy Myers in leading Illinois to a 17-6 victory over Northwestern.

Charging lines made life miserable for both quarterbacks in the first half. Custardo was tossed for 55 yards while attempting to pass. Myers was smeared for only five, but was rushed into incompletions and, in all, was the victim of four interceptions.

Custardo wound up a hero by passing to Sam Price for a second-period touchdown, then hitting Bob Trumpy on a 44-yarder in the third quarter to set up another TD by Price, that set a 10-yard end sweep.

Myers brought the crowd of 52,062 to its feet late in the third period when he combined with halfback Ron Rector on a 78-yard touchdown pass play. Myers flipped only five yards, but Rector sprinted the remaining 72, outrunning three would-be tacklers.

UCLA--

Bruins another score. Zeno fired a pass to Kurt Altenberg in the end zone with just 1:27 left. His final conversion try was wide.

Three long drives consumed all but the last four seconds of the first period, two paying off in touchdowns as the two clubs battled to a 7-7 tie.

Stanford moved 64 yards after the opening kickoff for a 7-0 lead on Read's 3-yard blast through the center at 4:14 and Braden Beck's extra point.

THE BRUINS quickly retaliated with a 68-yard march culminated at 10:43 when they dug up the rarely-used tackle-eligible play to score.

Stanford struck back with a 71-yard advance that carried to the Bruin 11 before an offsides penalty shoved the Indians back to the 16, and Kent Francisco nailed DeSylvia for a 10-yard loss on the 26 as he tried to get off a pass.

Beck, who earlier in the season booted a 52-yard field goal, then came in to try one from the 52, but it was both wide and short.

UCLA came on strong in the second quarter to move out to a 14-7 halftime lead.

First, however, Zeno missed tacking up another touchdown aerial when his eight-yard toss to end Dick Witcher in the end zone was nullified by an offside penalty. On the next play from the 13, Zeno fumbled the ball away to Stanford.

However, the Bruins were back in business a moment later when Gary Callies intercepted a deflected DeSylvia pass on the 46 and ran it back to the Stanford 32. The TD came after nine vicious stabs into the line with just 2:44 left in the half.

After a bad pitchout stopped a Stanford threat at the outset of the third quarter, a short punt and 22-yard runback gave the Indians the ball on the UCLA 24 and in two plays they tied it up. DeSylvia passing 19 yards to Mason, and Read barreling the final five yards around end at 8:27. Beck's kick was good.

Buck Back's Pass Steals Save Victory

Midwest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State's Arnie Chonko stopped three late Indiana drives with key pass interceptions Saturday to save a 17-9 Big Ten football victory for the Buckeyes.

Chonko, a 209-pound defensive halfback, made his last interception with 14 seconds left in the game and stopped the Hoosiers for the third time in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Rich Badar of Indiana had the Buckeyes on the ropes in the final period, passing for one touchdown when he hit Rudy Kuechenberg on a five-yard touchdown pass to make it 17-9. But his next two drives were thwarted by the pug-nosed Chonko.

Indiana, bidding for at best a tie, marched 63 yards in 10 plays to the Ohio State 13 late in the game. Chonko leaped in the air to grab his second interception and ran the ball back to the 16. He saved Ohio State's Big Ten opener seconds later with his interception on the Buckeye eight.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Oklahoma State's young upstarts stunned Missouri, 10-7, Saturday with an inspired defense plus Glen Baxter's 65-yard touchdown pass to little Larry Elliott and Charles Durkee's 49-yard field goal.

Oklahoma State, the last-place team in the Big Eight a year ago, now leads the conference with a 2-0 record. Phil Cutchin's club stands 2-1 for the season.

Wyoming in 17-14 Win at Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The passing of quarterback Tom Wilkinson and a 47-yard punt return by sophomore Rick Egloff sparked Wyoming to its third straight victory and a come-from-behind 17-14 upset over Kansas Saturday before 38,000.

A rugged Cowboy defense contained the Jayhawkers.

The Cowboys completely dominated play until midway through the second quarter when Kansas all-American candidate Gale Sayers broke loose for an 81-yard touchdown run to give the Jayhawkers their 7-3 halftime lead.

SNOOK'S PASSES DECISIVE

Iowa Blows 14-0 Lead, Then Whips Huskies

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Gary Snook powered Iowa to a 28-18 upset of Washington Saturday with passing that riddled the defense of the nation's 10th-ranked football team.

The range Iowa quarterback tossed two touchdown passes and scored on a plunge in a comeback that sends Iowa into Big Ten action next week with a perfect record.

Snook completed 19 of 32 passes for 215 yards. He hit on 8 of 12 in the first quarter for 110 yards and propelled Iowa to a 14-0 lead.

Washington halfback Ron Medved ignited a comeback in the second period with his running and kicking that pushed the West Coast team in from 18-14 at the half.

Medved scored on a 12-yard run, kicked an extra point and booted a 31-yard field goal in the surge. It went for naught when Iowa converted Washington errors into a pair of fourth-period touchdowns that dropped the Huskies' season record to one victory and two losses.

The Hawkeyes clinched the victory when Snook leaped over from the one to end a 26-yard drive, which started when Rick Pedraza bobbled a scrimmage on a fourth down punt try.

Wolverines Blank Jolly Roger, Navy

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan moved on the ground and through the air offensively while its defense shut out Roger Staubach for the first time in his collegiate career Saturday to scuttle the Navy, 21-0.

Sophomore halfbacks Jim Detwiler and Carl Ward sparked the Michigan running attack while quarterback Bob Timberlake handled the passing as the ninth-ranked Wolverines knocked off the fifth-ranked Middies.

The defeat was the first in three games for Navy while Michigan's record stands at 2-0. Ward scored two touchdowns and with Detwiler's help amassed a total rushing yardage of 272 and Timberlake completed seven of 11 passes for 106 yards.

Meanwhile the defense, led by linebacker Tom Cecchini, picked up three fumbles and two pass interceptions in the first half and rose to the occasion when they had to go in the final two periods to blank the Midshipmen.

After walking off the field at halftime trailing 6-0, Navy had its best chances to score halted in the third quarter by Michigan's defense. The Middies moved to the Wolverine 17 early in the period but Michigan held and forced a punt from the 31 that sailed into the end zone.

Snow Aids Irish Win

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, responding furiously to John Huarte's daring quarterbacking, smashed Purdue's Boilermakers 34 to 15, for their second straight conquest of a Big Ten football rival Saturday.

The home debut of new coach Ara Parseghian proved the "new" Irish were for real as they followed their 31-7 conquest of Wisconsin with an even more devastating mauling of Purdue.

It was the first time the Fighting Irish had beaten the Boilermakers at South Bend in 13 years.

Trailing 7-0 after Purdue scored on its first sustained drive in the first quarter, Huarte quickly led the Irish to two second quarter touchdowns and a 14-7 halftime lead.

Again Huarte's chief target was 215-pound end Jack Snow, who grabbed six passes for 82 yards, including a 20-yard scoring flip which moved Notre Dame ahead 14-7 in the second period.

Gophers Stave Off Cal, 26-20

BERKELEY (UPI) — Underdog Minnesota, sparked by fullback Mike Reid's 14 points, outlasted California 26-20 Saturday to mark the 12th straight time that a Big Ten team has downed the Bears.

Reid, Minnesota's all-purpose fullback, scored what proved to be the clinching touchdown to make the score 26-13 with 2:32 left in the game on a three-yard run. Earlier he had booted field goals from 33 and 29 yards in the first half.

The Bears, whose last win against Big Ten opposition, came in 1952, cut the margin of victory to 20-20 when Tom Blanchfield went over from the one-yard line with 17 seconds of play remaining.

There were nine seconds left when Jack Schraub of the Bears recovered a short kickoff on the Minnesota 33. But Cal quarterback Craig Morton overshot two long passes into the end zone as the clock ran out.

Two other Cal drives earlier ended on the Minnesota seven and 29-yard lines during the first half.

Although he was rushed silly during the first half by Minnesota's Brian Callahan and Aaron Brown, Morton stayed around to connect on 17 out of 29 passes for 259 yards. This raised his lifetime total to 3,042 and broke the old school mark of 2,966 set a decade ago by the Bears' Paul Larson.

The Gophers held a 12-0 halftime lead.

John Hankinson, Minnesota's quarterback who was out last season because of a broken collarbone, put the Gophers ahead 6-0 with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Kent Kramer in the first quarter.

Four minutes later, Reid booted a 33-yard field goal after Bob Bruggers recovered a bobble by Morton on the Cal 20. Reid added a second field goal from 29 yards out in the second period.

In addition to Blanchfield's two touchdowns from close inside, Jerry Bradley of the Bears made a diving catch in the end zone of an eight-yard pass from Morton for Cal's second score.

Pro Football Has 'Farm' League

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: The United Football League—a semipro circuit comprising such cities as Charleston, Wheeling, Canton, Toledo, Joliet, Grand Rapids, Montreal and Indianapolis — has become the leading testing ground for those who still harbor ambitions to play professional ball.

It also has become a "farm" for major league teams, especially for clubs stuck with players signed to no-cut contracts. They now send them to the UFL to gain experience, which they couldn't get sitting on the bench.

Several players are drawing money from NFL and AFL clubs, while most of the others are playing for the league minimum salary of $50 a game and working at fulltime jobs during the week while giving their all for another crack at the big time.

SONNY GIBBS
Farmed Out by Dallas

Heading the group being paid by a major club is Sonny Gibbs, former Texas Christian passing wizard who was signed a year ago to a three-year, no-cut contract by the Dallas Cowboys.

The Cowboys wanted Gibbs to spend this season in the UFL to gain needed experience. His first reaction was to collect his money and go home.

However, he changed his mind and is now playing for the Toledo Tornadoes.

Gibbs soon found out that it is a tough league which is gaining more status each year.

Some of the other quarterbacks in the league with high hopes of making it with NFL, AFL or Canadian League clubs include ex-Ram Ron Miller, formerly of Wisconsin; Ron DiGravio, fresh out of Purdue; Bob Brodhead (Duke;) Jake Jacobs (Arizona State) and Dave Mathieson (Washington State).

A CHICAGO SPORTS WRITER recently created a stir when he wrote that "Center Mike Pyle of the Bears was put through college by the Chicago 'syndicate'" . . .

A rumor making the rounds is that Jerry Wolman, new owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, "had to take Joe Kuharich as head coach in order to get the franchise; that he had no other choice . . .

The report undoubtedly grew out of the fact Kuharich worked in the NFL office last year . . .

Even if true, Wolman can't kick about the deal. Kuharich has been doing a tremendous job . . .

One of the most surprising trades in the NFL this season was the one that sent all-pro center Jim Ringo from Green Bay to Philadelphia for a first draft choice . . .

It is now heard that Ringo was traded after delivering a salary ultimatum calling for around $30,000, or else, and then hung up on Vince Lombardi!

One of the funnier incidents in baseball recently was recorded on the night Lum Harris took over as the new manager of the Houston Colts.

When he took the lineup card to the umpires, he met visiting manager Casey Stengel of the Mets, who had a bit of advice for him.

"Now don't yell at the umpires. Say what you think of them under your breath," he said. Everybody laughed —even the umps.

However, later that night Stengel was kicked out of the game by Shag Crawford for calling him an 'amateur" without saying it under his breath!

have had a good shot at catching it."

Novack, a junior from Santa Monica, now has snared a touchdown pass in each game and four overall.

The 49ers went ahead 18-7 when Shy capped a 66-yard drive by slashing the final 12 yards. The hard-driving halfback broke three tackles en route to his fourth TD of the season. Martin's run for the 2-pointer failed and the 49ers seemingly had a lock on the game with only 7:27 remaining.

But the Hornets didn't quit. They stormed to L.B.'s three-yard line before Degen creamed quarterback Miller as he attempted to pass for a seven-yard loss.

LONG BEACH took over on fourth down Mike Anderson's punt was smothered by Kelley and SSC recovered on L.B.'s four. Clemons finally punched over on third down from the one. Miller pitched to Joe Cavallaro for the PAT and the Hornets trailed, 18-15, with 1:09 remaining.

An on-sides kick failed and L.B. ran out the clock two plays later.

Reed said "we second-guessed ourselves at the end. We discussed on the sidelines giving them a safety, but then decided to let Anderson (Mike) kick. But his protection broke down and he didn't have a prayer getting the kick away."

Now we'll listen to the coaches mutual admiration society.

"We were lucky to get out with our lives," said Reed. "This was a tremendous game for learning. We experienced situations today that we haven't worked on all year. Maybe we won't see them again, but if we do the boys should benefit."

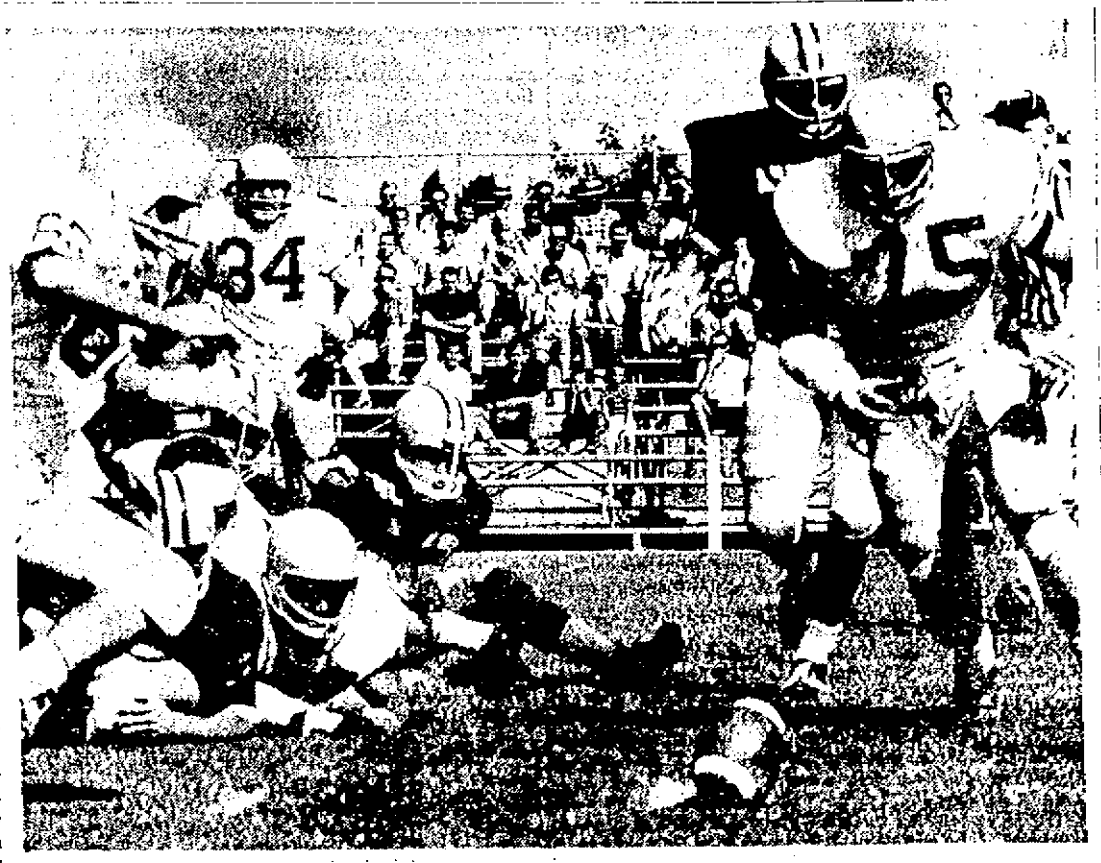

The situations Reed was referring to included: (1) a quick kick (74 yards by Cavallaro in the first quarter); (2) a fake field goal in which Barry Wallace made a TD-saving tackle on the four-yard line. The first half ended out before the Hornets could get off another play; (3) an interference penalty for assisting a ball carrier (everyone does it but officials never call it); (4) not to field a kickoff in the end zone; (5) why linemen should not handle line-drive punts.

CLEMONS had nothing but praise for his adversaries. "We played a heck of a ball club today. They ran their plays with precision; they are a fine offensive team. I don't think they are any tougher physically than Santa Clara was, but they're much better drilled."

Bob Baker, former USC great and currently athletic director at Sacramento, was quick to offer his congratulations to Reed and voice that "This is the finest game I've ever seen Sac play. You've got to be good." Baker has been on the scene eight years.

Spartans Topple Trojans

Troy 46. In nine plays, all plunges into the line except for a 15-yard pass completion.

The touchdown came on a power handoff to halfback Clinton Jones, a 19-year-old sophomore speedster from Cleveland.

Lou Bobich, the Spartans' veteran sidefooted pacekicker who keeps his shoes on, forced the extra point and it was 10-0 with half the third period gone and the Trojans' chances appearing to be fading.

But the Trojans took the ensuing kickoff and marched 80 yards in 10 plays to a touchdown. The longest gainer was a 26-yard pass from Fertig to Moton that got Troy across midfield and seemed to spark them. Garrett added a fine run to the drive, breaking two tackles at scrimmage and scooting 17 yards to the enemy 17.

The drive was sustained by a pass-interference penalty that moved the ball from the 17 to the three on a call which seemed uncalled for but was mighty welcome on the Trojan bench.

Two plunges from the three and Garrett had put Troy on the scoreboard. Rich Brownell kicked the extra point. There was one quarter plus four minutes to catch up.

THEY GOT a chance by blocking a third-down punt and taking the fourth-down punt on the Michigan State 45. But then began a series of bad breaks for the Trojans. They couldn't advance and punted.

They got another chance two minutes later when they drove to the Spartan 34 but Don Japinga intercepted a Fertig pass on the 25 and ran it back to the 50. A few seconds later Sherman fumbled a punt on the Troy 23 and end George Webster pounced on it.

That, actually, was the play that finished off the Trojans, though they later made a move to the Spartan 8 when trailing 17-7 in the closing minutes.

After Webster recovered that muffed punt the Spartans moved to a fourth and 10 situation at Troy's 22 when Juday flipped a lateral to Ammon to toss to tall end Gene Washington in the end zone.

So the Spartan Stadium jinx for West Coast teams has held. In the past 13 tries by Western collegians here, dating back to a Santa Clara victory in 1938, our record is a blank.

Mazurek Runs, Passes Pitt to Win

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Quarterback Fred Mazurek, taking dead aim on the Pitt total offense record, ran and passed for 228 yards Saturday as the Panthers overwhelmed William & Mary 34-7 for their first victory of the season.

The visiting Indians, outweighed by nearly 20 points a man played Pitt even in the first period, stopping one Panther drive on downs and killing another with an intercepted pass in the end zone.

Rockets Play at Blair Field Today

The most positive sign of fall is the return to the baseball wars of the Long Beach Rockets.

Manager Jack Graham leads his charges into battle against the Embassy Club of the Long Beach City League at 1:30 today at Blair Field.

This year's edition of the Rockets should be as strong, if not stronger, than past teams. Two of the area's finest hurlers, Casey Cox and Terry Richards, will be on the firing line Sunday.

Fishin' Around

My, My, Such Noisy Neighbors!

A new family has moved into our neighborhood and the old-time residents of the area around Daisy and Magnolia Avenues and Hill Street have never heard such arguments and loud language. The family's name is Corvus Brachyhnchos and I personally counted 16 yakking at each other the other day.

The neighborhood is divided in its thinking about the family. I'd like to shoot the whole outfit. My wife says the noise reminds her of the woods and farms of Montana, where she was reared. She likes it.

Not only are they noisy; they are flagpole, or I should say, power pole sitters. They have taken possession of the power line that goes down Christmas Tree Lane.

Oh yes, the family has a more common name—Old Black Crow, often described as the bird that doesn't have a friend in the world, that is, until Lenora heard them caw-cawing earlier this year. At that time there were only two as far as we knew.

Now that pair has reared a family and several cousins have joined the crowd until, as I said before, there were 16 at last count, and every one capable of caw-cawing the neighbors who don't like crows into Indian summer madness. There is one nice thing to be said about them: They don't make noises at night and that's more than can be said for some neighbors.

NOW A FEW GOOD WORDS for the crow: He has the highest respect of the hunters who find that after years of study of guns and ammunition and ballistics, the smart crow seems to know all that instinctively. His estimate, almost to micrometer exactitude, of the effective range of the full gamut of shotguns is proof positive.

His powers of communication also are of high order, perhaps more limited than those ascribed to the dolphin, but ample enough to establish danger, distress, fighting and chow calls between members of his clan.

His insatiable appetite leads him on almost constant search for nourishment, which he takes in a wide variety of forms encompassing practically anything edible. Perhaps that is why I don't like crows. But then I must admit that other birds live the same way.

The crow measures about 20 inches in length, weighs a pound and flies from 20 to 30 miles an hour at an elevation just out of the reach of the most powerful shotguns.

Ask any hunter who takes part in the Compton Hunting and Fishing Club's annual crow shoot how hard it is to hit one. And as in all events of such nature, the CHFC has been both praised and censored for its annual crow shoot. Some persons don't want any bird killed. There's no need to come to Christmas Tree Lane, hoping for a kill. Even BB guns and sling shots are prohibited within the city limits.

IF YOU ARE AN albarore fisherman and are still trying to catch them, try San Diego or Morro Bay, the only ports reporting any success. Even those are not having big deck totals, although San Diego's figure varies widely each day.

As for the Long Beach landings, they threw in the towel last week and there won't be any more albacore runs unless the fish come within range. Pierpoint's last trip took 20 hours of running time, to say nothing of the maneuvering while in the small schools, and there were not enough passengers to pay for the fuel, much less other expenses.

Pacific Landing is running a special to San Clemente Island, in addition to its regular Catalina Island boat, and operators hope to come home with some yellowtail. Pierpoint has a similar schedule.

June Ascolesi, the soft-voiced woman with the ready smile who runs the bait and tackle shop at the end of Belmont Pier, reports that patrons are taking limits of bonito every day on the Islander barge. She says that the barge will remain open as long as there is a demand, but that night service will be cut back to Saturdays only.

Also, the Queen of the Sea, Belmont Pier's half-day boat, will go on Saturdays and Sundays only, beginning this week. On the pier itself, good numbers of bonito and some medium-sized barracuda are affording excitement.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—This affects all California hunters, so read carefully. The California Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee is meeting at 10 a.m. Oct. 19 in Sacramento to conduct a hearing on the right of citizens to own, use, receive and purchase firearms.

Every sportsman is entitled to attend the hearing. If he wishes to testify he should contact the committee staff room, 5159 State Capitol, Sacramento. (Telephone 445-8528). Assemblyman George Deukmejian, 5366 E. Broadway, Long Beach, is a member of the committee. If you can not attend the hearing and wish to express an opinion, write to Deukmejian at his Long Beach address.

A revolutionary departure from the traditional life jackets and vests usually worn by boaters and fishermen is indicated in a new line of apparel being introduced for the 1965 season by a leading manufacturer of life-saving products.

Stearns Manufacturing Co., St. Cloud, Minn., is putting smartly styled jackets and vests on the market. Those garments have the appearance and tailoring of fine sportswear, without the tremendous bulk of some jackets previously on the market. The manufacturer says that each garment can keep its wearer afloat indefinitely.

Stearns has been producing life-saving garments for 20 years.

Willie Davis Dodger of Year in I, P-T

Brewer Shuts Out Colts, 7-0; Last Game Due Today

By GEORGE LEDERER

Willie Davis, a star in 1964 and tabbed by manager Walter Alston as a future superstar, is the Independent, Press-Telegram "Dodger of the Year."

Davis became the sixth winner of the award in a close contest with Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills. Willie was named "Dodger of the Day" 18 times in the Press-Telegram's daily feature. Drysdale was named 17 times, Willis and Koufax each 14 times.

"Willie had a great season," said Alston, "but I think he's not near his peak. One of these days he's going to be one of the outstanding players in baseball."

W. DAVIS

Going into this afternoon's season finale, Davis leads the Dodgers in hitting (.292), runs scored (89), is second in runs batted in (76), second in stolen bases (40), second in doubles (23) and third in home run (12).

The huge I, P-T trophy will be presented to Willie in pregame ceremonies at 12:40 today. Previous winners are Wally Moon (1959 and 1961), Norman Larker (1960), Wills (1962) and Koufax (1963).

Willie had to take a back seat, however, Saturday night as the Dodgers evened their final home stand record at 3-3 with a 7-0 victory over the Colts.

JIM BREWER, a 27-year-old native of Broken Arrow, Okla., pitched the shutout, his first complete game in 22 major league starts. Brewer came close to both achievements in his first start for the Cubs in 1960, but lost to Milwaukee in the ninth inning on a two-out single by Al Dark.

Brewer (4-3) held the Colts to five singles Saturday and permitted only one runner to reach second base. He struck out six and did not walk a man.

Brewer also equalled his hit production of 18 previous times up as he shared offensive honors with Derrell Griffith. Each had three hits and Brewer drove in two runs.

The Dodgers had 13 hits off loser Don Larsen (4-9), Dave Giusi and Larry Yellen.

Maury Wills stole his 53rd base and said he will try to overtake major league leader Luis Aparicio of the Orioles in today's finale. Aparicio has 57 steals.

Rookie John Purdin, who has not allowed a run in 11 innings, will face Larry Dierker (0-1) this afternoon.

Tokyo Primed for Olympics

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

First Asian Olympiad to Open Saturday

TOKYO (UPI)—The 1964 Olympic Games open Saturday with all the pomp and ceremony demanded by tradition, plus Oriental overtones befitting the first Olympiad ever held in Asia.

A total of 8,400 athletes and officials from 98 nations will take part in the competition which opens Oct. 10 and continues every day through Oct. 24. Both of those figures will set records for Olympic Games of the modern era.

Numerous world and Olympic records in various sports are expected to tumble during the carnival, with the Soviet Union favored once again to win more gold medals than the United States in the battle for the strictly unofficial but ardently desired team championship.

But more than anything else, the setting of these games in Asia is expected to set apart the XVIII Olympiad in the history of world sports. These are the games that Japan was scheduled to hold in 1940. When World War II forced their cancellation.

Japan, demonstrating its return to vigorous national health after its crushing defeat in that war, has spared no expenses in the construction of huge new arenas and gymnasiums in which to hold the competition, new roads, and Olympic village built on the site of what once was a U.S. Army installation.

And on every hand, from the Japanese-style hotels which many of the tourists will occupy to the colorful traditional costumes of many Olympiad personnel to the presence of judo for the first and perhaps last time on the official Olympic program, visitors are reminded that these are Asia's first Olympic games.

Ironically, Japan, which has scored many notable Olympic victories in the past especially in swimming, is not expected to reap a great harvest in medals despite its role as host.

But every Japanese heart will swell with pride Saturday when Emperor Hirohito mounts the rostrum in the 72,000-seat National Stadium and proclaims:

"I declare open the Olympic Games of Tokyo, celebrating the eighteenth Olympiad of the modern era."

With these and other ceremonies, including the playing of the Olympic hymn, the raising of the five-ringed Olympic flag, lighting the Olympic flame from a torch borne by air and by runners from Athens, site of the first Olympic Games, and the symbolic release of white doves, the Olympic Games will be under way.

The official opening ceremonies will occupy the entire program on Saturday. The actual competition will begin Sunday.

Billie Jean, Ralston in Net Finals

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield will cary American hopes into the finals of the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament at the L.A. Tennis Club today.

Ralston and Roy Emerson, the top-seeded American and foreign entrants, Saturday reached the finals with easy victories over Fred Stolle and Rafael Osuna.

Seeking revenge for his key loss in the Davis Cup competition of last week, Ralston took the measure of Stolle, 6-4, 6-4. Emerson, the world's top singles player, defeated Osuna, Mexico's leading player, 8-6, 6-1.

Ralston, who dropped a five - set heart - breaker to Stolle at Cleveland in the Davis Cup challenge round, needed only 38 minutes to defeat the Australian.

The University of Southern California collegian broke service on the 10th game of the first set, after having Stolle at set point three times. In the second set, Ralston broke Stolle's service in the second game and ran up a 5-3 lead only to have Stolle break his service in the ninth game. Ralston then broke service in the 10th to win.

EMERSON, unbeaten in 51 matches, needed an hour to beat Osuna. The Mexican star took a lead by breaking Emerson's service in the first game and held the advantage until the eighth game when Emerson broke service and then drew even 5-5.

Emerson held his service at love in the 13th game and broke service in the 14th when Osuna twice double-faulted. The second set was virtually no contest as Osuna took only one game on service.

Ralston and Emerson clash today in the finals of the tournament.

In the women's semi-finals, top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil defeated Kathy Blake of Pacific Palisades, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Moffitt won her way into the finals against Miss Bueno by beating Mimi Arnold, Santa Barbara, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.

U.S. Gals Take World Golf Lead

PARIS (AP) — The United States took a one-stroke lead over France Saturday in the Women's World Amateur Golf Championship and Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., tied Catherine Lacoste of France for the individual lead.

Yankee Burst Clinches American League Crown

Compiled from Wire Reports

The New York Yankees clinched a record-tying fifth successive American League pennant Saturday and San Francisco and Chicago joined the list of eliminated teams in title races for both leagues.

The Yankees exploded for five runs with two out in the eighth inning to trample Cleveland, 8-3 giving manager Yogi Berra a pennant in his first year as manager.

The Cubs knocked the Giants out of the tight National League race with a 10-7 victory. Although Chicago White Sox pitcher Joel Horlen shutout Kansas City, 7-0, the New York win finished the Chisox.

IN OTHER games Baltimore edged Detroit, 7-6, Boston blanked Washington, 7-0; Milwaukee ripped Pittsburgh, 11-5; Minesota topped the Angels, 5-3, and the New York Mets upended St. Louis, 15-5.

Bobby Richardson's line drive single, which Indian shortstop Dick Howser could not handle, drove in the go-ahead run, and the Yanks went on to score four more times before the side was retired.

A bases-loaded walk to Mickey Mantle, who drove in thre runs, and singles by Elston Howard and Jeo Pepitone brought in the New York tallies.

The Cubs fell behind the Giants early, but pecked away to a 7-3 lead in the fourth. They held on to win in spite of Willie Mays, who cracked two home runs.

It was the 50th time in his career that Mays had hit two homers in the same game. It broke a National League record held by another Giant great, Mel Ott.

Fred Gladding walked Sam Bowens with the bases full and two out in the 10th inning to give Baltimore its edge over Detroit.

TWINS TRIP ANGELS, 5-3

McBride Joins 'Winter School' to Correct Wildness Problem

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

TWIN CITIES—Ken McBride's next start will come in mid-October on a sun-scorched Arizona diamond and the Angels prepared him for the task Saturday with a sandlot performance which left Minnesota a 5-3 victory and the one-time Cherub ace with his 13th defeat.

The game was meaningless, the Angels having sealed fifth-place Friday, but the contest bore intrigue in the form of an off-the-field meeting between manager Sam Mele and president Calvin Griffith.

Oft-fired in print, Mele turned the reins over to his coaching staff as he discussed his future with Griffith. The I. P-T has learned that Mele will be rehired with sweeping changes in his board of strategy.

Only Hal Naragon from the present coaching staff will remain with bids going to Billi Martin of the Twins' scouting staff and Washington coaches Eddie Yost and Sid Hudson.

The Angels made sweeping to Billy Martin of the to Saturday's game and with regulars Jim Fregosi, Felix Torres, Buck Rodgers and Jimmy Piersall out of the starting lineup, McBride was backed by four errors which left the Angels only one game above .500 heading into the season finale which pits Danny Osinski and Mudcat Grant.

McBride thus concluded the season with a 4-13 record and a badly damaged psyche. A repeat of McBride's 13-12 1963 log would have brought the Angels' fourth place if not an even higher station.

McBride walked five and hit one in six innings Saturday as the once most magnificent curve this side of Jayne Mansfield continued to play tricks. McBride walked 75 batters in 116.1 innings this season compared to only seven more in 251 frames last year.

In an effort to solve this "wild" mystery, the 29-year old McBride, a four-year major league veteran, will report to the Angels' instructional league entry in Scottsdale, Arizona in mid-October. There, he will come under the guidance of Bob Lemon and Tom Morgan.

Gun Bow Charges to Slim Feature Win at Aqeduct

(Combined Wire Services)

NEW YORK — Gun Bow spiked Kelso's bid for a fifth "horse of the year" championship and the money-winning title Saturday when he beat the mighty gelding by the very tip of his nose in the $108,200 Woodward Stakes at Aqueduct.

With jockey Bill Blum digging into him and Milo Valenzuela urging Kelso on, the two thoroughbreds charged to the finish line. The human eye could not separate them and Gun Bow's slim margin was hard to detect on the photo finish print of the race.

Kelso picked up $21,640 which raised his lifetime earnings to $1,732,772 still short of the record $1,749,869 won by Round Table.

Gun Bow paid $4.90, $2.40 and $2.10 while Kelso returned $2.30 and $2.10, Quadrangle, ridden by Manny Ycaza, paid $2.10.

SAN MATEO — Kentucky-bred Honored Sir beat the pace setting Sunn Hemp by a length for a mild upset victory in the $15,000-added Westlake Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Alvaro Pinedo brought Honored Sir over the mile and one-sixteenth distance in 1:42 3/5 for a payoff of $18.40, $10.40 and $7. Sunn Hemp returned $11.80 and $9 and third place Doctor Spark $6.60.

MAYS LANDING, N. J.— Third Martini, after four years of campaigning, finally scored his first stakes victory when he won the $23,450 Longport Handicap at Atlantic City by three quarters of a length.

Third Martini, carrying high weight of 120 pounds, was timed in 1:23 and paid $5.40, $3.80 and $2.80 as favorite.

Megaton Wins Fair 'Cap

By ERNIE MASON

POMONA — More Megaton successfully defended his "horse of the meeting" crown by charging to an unprecedented second straight victory in the $22,550 Pomona Handicap, providing a fitting climax to the best season in Los Angeles County Fairgrounds history.

Ray York, Pomona's riding champion this year, teamed with More Megaton, 1963's top horse, to score a hard-earned 1½ length triumph over Victory Beauty in the mile and one-eighth classic which annually closes out the campaign at this half-mile oval.

More Megaton, the starting high weight at 118 pounds, sped the distance in 1:50-3/5 and rewarded his supporters with $5.40, $3 and $2.80. Victory Beauty, winner last season in the Pomona 'Cap, paid $3.80 and $3.60, while Little Juan paid $6.80.

More Megaton's victory also provided York with a most appropriate capper to his season as he clicked for his fourth quadruple of the meeting, pushing his record-breaking total to 33, 16 ahead of runner-up George Taniguchi.

ALLSTATE Nationwide Passenger Tire Guarantee

Every ALLSTATE tire is guaranteed against all failures from road hazards or defects for the life of the original tread. If tire fails, we will—at our option—repair it without cost; or, in exchange for the tire, we will replace it charging only for tread worn (charge will be pro-rata share of exchange price*).

We guarantee tread life for the number of months designated. If tread wears out within this period, return it. In exchange, we will replace it charging the current exchange price less a set dollar allowance*.

*Exchange Price is regular retail price plus Federal Excise Tax less trade-in at time of return.

Red Smith's Views of Sports—

Manager of the Mets

Baseball managers are always in demand, for the turnover is constant and the supply of men who have had on-the-job training is limited.

It is difficult to understand why this should be, because in every community where the game is played there are many individuals who know how the job should be done far better than the man who is doing it. Yet nobody ever hires them.

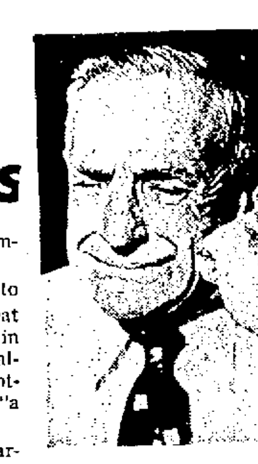

It is no good arguing that clubowners do not know who these potential maestros are, for some have by-lines in the newspapers and some dispense wisdom through microphones and others can be identified simply by walking through the bleachers and listening. It must be that the owners are too thick to recognize talent.

In this respect the proprietors of the New York Mets are no exception. In a town where scores of authorities better qualified for the job have been favoring Casey Stengel with advice for two solid seasons, the owners still couldn't come up with anybody for 1965 except Charles Dillon Stengel himself.

So the mountain went to Mohammed, and the Great Guru, arraying his bones in sharp new threads of Italian silk, graciously accepted reappointment and "a very splendid raise."

With the future thus arranged, Stengel then took off for the Midwest to stick a gnarled and meddling finger in the National League pennant race.

A trifle waspishly, he brushed off a question about the "buzzards" who have tried to earnestly to instruct him in baseball

CASEY STENGEL

fundamentals. No doubt he is aware that when he returns they will still be on hand to lend their aid.

It does not seem difficult to follow the thinking on the Mets' upper echelons. Don Grant, chairman of the board, said no "available" successor to Stengel had been considered, though "one or two" men who proved unavailable had been sounded out because of rumors that Casey might decide to leave.

When Casey wanted to know how he stood before leaving town, the decision was made swiftly.

In other words, as soon as he made it clear that he would entertain an offer, the offer was made and accepted. What other decision could there have been? With George Weiss as president and Casey on the bench this tenth-place team drew 1,732,000 customers at home.

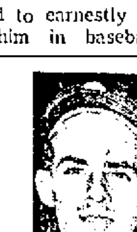

The Giants never touched that figure in New York in all the years of John McGraw and Bill Terry and Mel Ott and Leo Durocher. The Dodgers topped it in Brooklyn only once, in the pennant year of 1947. The Yankees have beaten it seven times (three times with Stengel as manager), but only once in the last 13 years.

Unless they're determined to quit, you don't break up a combination that produces these results.

Face-Off Important in Hockey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Many a hockey game is lost at the drop of a puck, according to Norman (Bud) Poile, former National Hockey Leaguer and highly successful coach.

Many fans, and even a lot of coaches, fail to realize the importance of the face-off to a hockey team, says Poile, now general manager of the San Francisco Seals of the Western Hockey League.

"They seem to think it's just a way to get the game started," he says.

But Poile, 40, who played in the NHL for eight years and saw service with five of the six teams, doesn't look at it that way.

"We don't have the statistics they do in baseball," he says, "but one of the things I always keep is the number of face-offs we win or lose and how well each man does at that job.

"Championships have been won and lost on face-offs."

Poile says there are about 30 face-offs during a hockey game, with each centerman usually getting in or about 10.

* * * *

IN GENERAL, Poile says, the team on offense is trying to send the puck back to the blue line for a shot when it is faced off, while the defense is trying to get it into the corner so no shot can be made on the net.

"But once in a while you can set up a play from the face-off—like a quick opener in football," he says.

Poile cited Phil Maloney of Vancouver and Norm Johnson of the Blades as the best in the league at winning face-offs.

"And of course there are some players who will never get a face-off in their life," he says.

"The face-off is not the whole game, of course," Poile admits, "but nine times out of 10 the team that is getting the most face-offs is going the most face-offs is going firing line today.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Averages Suffer Minor Loss in Trendless Mart

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks suffered a minor loss in the averages last week, but the overall list was trendless. Trading was dull.

Prices opened the week with a small gain in the Dow-Jones Industrial average and managed to chalk up another minor advance in the following session. Both were wiped out when the indicator tumbled 3.37 Thursday. In the final session prices continued to move uncertainly but this time the picture was complicated by normal pre-weekend hesitation and profit-taking.

* * * *

TRADERS and investors seemed to have taken to the sidelines to wait out the auto workers strike at General Motors and were even less inclined to stay in the market after the dock workers struck on the eastern seaboard.

The dock workers walkout was short lived, but the lagging talks at General Motors may, according to some observers, drag out until late next week. The strike, now eight days old, has cost GM an estimated $56 million and now that the company's non-struck plants are beginning to close down the tab may run substantially higher.

Should the strike be settled soon, little reaction is expected in the market place. However, should it run longer, a downswing could be expected not only in the auto section but in steels and related industries as well.

* * * *

THE ECONOMIC picture continues favorable with a decline in the number of people drawing unemployment compensation being one of the brighter items in last week's newsbag. A 5% drop in factory orders was largely ignored since the Commerce Department, which reports the figures, attributed the decline mainly to a temporary fluctuation in defense orders rather than a drop in the private sector.

Regardless of the long-term outlook, near-term trading seems to be largely cautious and anticipatory. This was well shown by the fact that volume for the week dropped to 23,449,745 shares from 28,484,425 shares the previous week and compared with 21,496,437 shares in the same week last year.

Dow-Jones Industrial average slipped 2.06 on the week to 872.65. Rails managed to inch up 0.07 to 281.10 and utilities advanced 1.17 to a new peak of 153.37. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.15 at 84.36.

* * * *

GAINS and losses were fairly evened matched with 662 issues advancing while 679 declined. Of the 1,514 issues traded, 182 touched new 1964 highs while 38 hit new lows.

Texas Gulf Sulphur took trading honors with a gain of 1 at 61¾ on 509,700 shares. It was followed in activity by Sunshine Mining, off 2⅜ to 32⅜ on 386,500 shares, Sunray DX Oil rose 1 to 35⅛ on 356,200 shares, Chrysler dropped 1 to 62 on 296,900 shares.

General Refractories also was active. It finished with a gain of ½ at 18½ on 237,800 shares. The company denied it was planning a merger.

General Motors and American Motors dropped ⅞ each but Ford rose a like amount. Steels were generally lower. U.S. Steel dropped 1⅜, Lukens 1 and Bethlehem ⅞.

* * * *

DU PONT advanced 2½, and Diamond Alkali picked up 2¾. Eastman Kodak held unchanged, but Monsanto dropped 2.

IBM ran into selling pressure and lost 5¾. Texas Instruments gained 3 and Litton picked up 3¾. Beckman dropped 1¼ and Honeywell shed 1⅛.

Oils met strong demand. Occidental Petroleum jumped 3, Pennoil 4¾, Skelly 3½, Sinclair 3¼ and Getty, Continental, Texaco and Royal Dutch all advanced more than 2.

Boeing rose 2⅛. Aluminum Ltd. dropped 2¼. Alcoa 2⅛ and Reynolds Metals 2⅜. Cerro gained 2¼. Upjohn advanced 2¾. Sears Roebuck dropped 2½. General Cigar gave up 3⅞.

Polaroid advanced 4⅞, but Xerox tacked on only 1⅛, despite a gain of more than 5 in the final session.

Great Northern Railway climbed 3¼ and Louisville & Nashville picked up 2⅛. Pennsylvania Railroad dropped 2.

Hilton Hotels advanced 3. Avon Products soared 9½. Dymo Industries sold off 5¾.

Rich Sugar Crop Heavily Damaged

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The knife-like winds of hurricane Hilda cut into two vast sugar cane areas Saturday and reports were an estimated 90% of Louisiana's rich sugarlands faced heavy damage.

The crop, only days from harvest, was expected to total about $115 million.

Lloyd L. Dauden of the American Sugar Cane League, who made the damage estimate, said it takes winds of only 30 to 35 miles an hour to bend cane. That doesn't kill it, he said, but it makes it extremely difficult to harvest by machine.

Reports had reached him that the massive storm had toppled cane in two big crop areas—along Bayou Lafourche toward the coast from Lockport and in St. James Parish north of New Orleans.

If the winds twist and tangle the cane, Lauden said, it would certainly increase harvesting cost—if labor were available. But it isn't, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House Saturday a bill aking 17 winners of the Congressional Medal of Honor eligible for a $100 monthly pension.

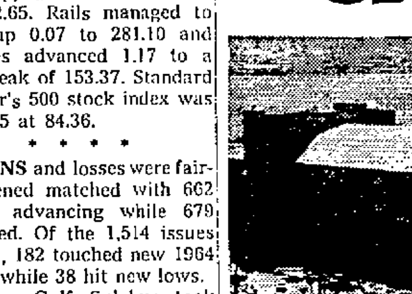

The compromise conference report adopted by both houses changed the age when all winners of the medal are qualified to start collecting the pension to 40 years from 50.

3 New Films Open Wednesday

Three new films open in area theaters Wednesday--Walt Disney's "So Dear to My Heart," Universal's "Bed Time Story and Embassy Picture's, "A House Is Not a Home."

"So Dear to My Heart," is based on Sterling North's story of rural Indiana, recounting the tale of a boy, his black lamb and the dreams, aspirations, disappointments and joys of childhood. Jerry's dream is to take his lamb to the County Fair and win the Blue Ribbon Award.

The picture combines animation and live action. Players include Burl Ives, Bobby Driscoll, Beulah Bondi, Harry Carey and Luana Patten.

• • • •

MARLON BRANDO, David Niven and Shirley Jones star in "Bedtime Story."

Brando and Niven portray con men who prey on romantically susceptible women, while Miss Jones is seen as an innocently involved winner of a soap queen contest.

• • • •

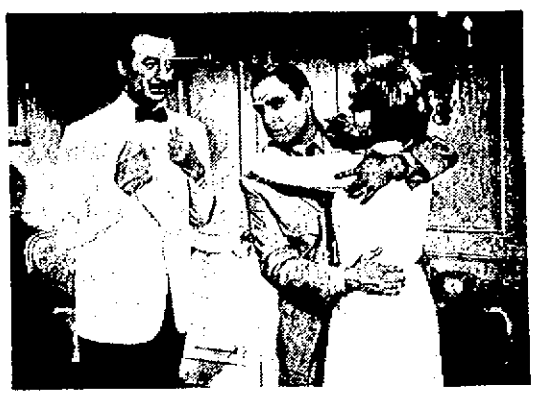

POLLY ADLER'S autobiographical "A House Is Not a Home" tells the—for adults—story of her life as a "madam."

Shelly Winters plays the lady in the world's oldest profession. Robert Taylor costars in the films which also features guest stars Broderick Crawford and Cesar Romero, and includes Ralph Teager, Kaye Ballard, Mickey Shaughnessy and Polly's Girls, one of whom is played by Leona Gage. Miss Gage won the Miss Universe title here one year and held it briefly before being disqualified because she was married at the time.

VACATION TIME will be more fun if you turn your no-longer-used household articles into cash by selling them with an Independent, Press-Telegram Want Ad. Dial HE 2-5959 right away to start things moving!

BURL IVES, Luana Patten and Bobby Driscoll play leading roles in Disney's "So Dear to My Heart."

MARLON BRANDO'S embrace of Shirley Jones, in "Bedtime Story," is momentarily interrupted by David Niven.

Oh Dad, Poor Dad --Double Trouble

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad," you still hung up between Long Beach theater—the Magnolia this time—and your natural earthly home?

Oh, you had to wait around to see how the Battle of the Corpses — Off-Broadway's vs. Magnolia's—turned out.

Well, without saying anything which would make Eleanor Shibley and Pat Brown turn a critic into a corpse, I think you can now leave in peace, or pickle, daddy-baby. Your corpse is done, done-in, and jes' plain DON.

First of all, director Clay X. Foster showed that he's through with you for cemetery keeps by taking up the more congenial company of Dracula — his next starring profile role in Morgan Hall. (Keep out of there, dad. They got corpses in there, dad, with muscles you and your skinny kind never seen!)

* * * *

SECONDLY, Pat Brown who would throttle a corpse which tried to upstage her, has put you away real swell.

Better than you deserve—in my book.

Your creator, playwright Arthur Kopit might fool the unthinking into believing he is a sharp satirist with a superior window slanted on Tennessee Williams' eloquent words. Actually, Kopit, "king-of-the-sicks" (humor, that is) thinks the world's his oyster simply because he swallowed a goldfish. At best he parodies himself and offers us a Harvard Hasty Pudding humor which can be quite funny if kept in its place. Mom's nocturnal routing of lovers she catches on the beach is genuinely funny. (Mom kicks sand into their faces.)

Director Pat Brown will make many give a hang about seeing her production because she exercises brilliant control over the sick humor and has cast her production so well.

* * * *

IRENE TEDROW is as right-as-mom — for Madame Rosepettle—in age and grand dame acting style, using her rich stock experience expertly. She's better in the six furlongs "bits" or spurts than in the mile and an eight stretch. There her light acting years with that "Child Hazard", Dennis the Menace begin to show. In the overlong "bedtime story" monologue to Commodore Roseabove about dear, dead dad Miss Tedrow was rather uneven, even a bit too cute, but stormed home with Johnny Longden flourish at the finish. She may never make it at Hollypark, but would be a wonderful mother in "The Glass Menagerie." All pro, Irene!

For Nathan Adler's Commodore Roseabove, there is only one word.

Excellent.

He plays the foppish lover with such grace and well-placed humor that some tenderness even attends the scene with Miss Tedrow.

* * * *

NORM FRIED makes a Jonathan who embarrasses us little with the form of sexual retardation — stammering — the author thrusts on him. Young Fried was in top form in the tragicomic bedroom scene where he covers the Rosalie's throttled body with his coin and stamp collection after repulsing her seductive demands. The fact that the important role of Rosalie goes to a young charmer named Randi Cohen is one of the big reasons this production is not a dull dramatic corpse or its weird sex "overballooned."

Randi with the bangs could conceivably have forced Dad to return for real to get that last fling. Her promise seems the real article.

Rick Doyle showed his professional elegance as Dad's corpse and as one of the Bellboys. Is there a better young supporting player anywhere?

Better mention Bennie Steveson as the other bellboy and the cuckoo clock as ITSELF, Rosalinda the Fish as HERSELF and Two Venus-Flytraps in the Havana hotel as THEMSELVES.

It is a good show which undoubtedly benefitted from seeing the Off-Broadway production and Pat Brown's (as Herself) professional "savvy."

Cleric Assails 'Un-Christian' U.S. for Racism

DETROIT (AP)—Citing race prejudice as one element to be overcome, a churchman said Saturday the United States has yet to become a Christian nation.

The Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster of New York, president of the United Church of Christ, deplored "pagan ideas" in a talk at the 115th Assembly of the international convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) being attended by 7,000 persons.

Dr. Herbster denounced people who "put property rights before human rights" and who "think the color of a man's skin makes the difference in how much God loves him."

Mormons Hear Appeal to Hold Fast to Belief

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Leaders of the Mormon Church called on their members Saturday to reaffirm their faith and resist the pressures of doubt and disbelief.

They sounded the theme of faith and fidelity on the second day of the 134th Semi-annual General Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

A capacity crowd of more than 8,000 jammed the Mormon Tabernacle and heard N. Eldon Tanner, second counselor in the church's First Presidency, warn that "great doubt exists throughout the world . . . regarding the real existence of God and His son, Jesus Christ."

New Type of Plaster Used on Big Store

By LEE BROWN

People who follow the advice of the now famous "knock-on-the-wall" advertisement may be hearing a different sound before too much more plaster has passed under the trowel.

Several major lath and plaster manufacturers are now producing a new kind of plaster which has been termed a remarkable advance in the construction field.

Called by some "veneer plaster" and by others "high density" or "one-coat" plaster, the new system combines advances in technique and materials.

IF IT PROVES to be as successful as manufacturers claim, the material may become one of the homeowner's best friends.

The extremely hard, high-density plaster is reputed to be up to 25% harder than most concrete used in street paving, is "childproof" because it can't be scratched or gouged, and is flexible enough to be crack-resistant.

Although its relative newness has precluded its use in new housing tracts, the "veneer plaster" system is being used in the Bullock's store now under construction in Lakewood Shopping Center.

AN ESTIMATED 540,000 square feet of walls and partitions are being lathed by A. R. Amos Lathing Co. of Long Beach in the four-story, ultra-modern structure being covered by the veneer plaster, applied only 1 16th of an inch thick.

The thin veneer of plaster is applied to large sheets of gypsum lath by trowel or spray gun. It is reputed to be completely dry within minutes, and "cured" enough for painting within 24 hours. The gypsum lath sheets, covered by catalyst-treated paper, are first attached to the studs, then all cracks and joints are covered by strips of fiberglass tape to ensure a smooth surface.

ONE OF THE SEVERAL manufacturers advertises that the thin coat will stand up to 2,500 pounds pressure per square inch without breaking or cracking, this in spite of its thinness.

Because the amount of plaster required for a wall or building is much less with the "thin coat," the new plaster is reported able to cut three to nine days off a building schedule, saving time and money for builders.

According to Clyde Whitlow, architect with Welton Becket and Associates, the company that designed the Bullock's job:

"The new plaster looks good. I think it's going to be very durable. It is very hard, and I think even the paint finish is going to look excellent."

E. M. RATLIFF, president of the Los Angeles Plaster Contractors Association and vice president of C. F. Bolster Corp., said of the Bullock's construction job:

"This is one of the first jobs using veneer plaster in Los Angeles County. It can be applied with a minimum of mess and the hand application we are using is very clean. It should save owners money by saving time and, consequently, interest charges."

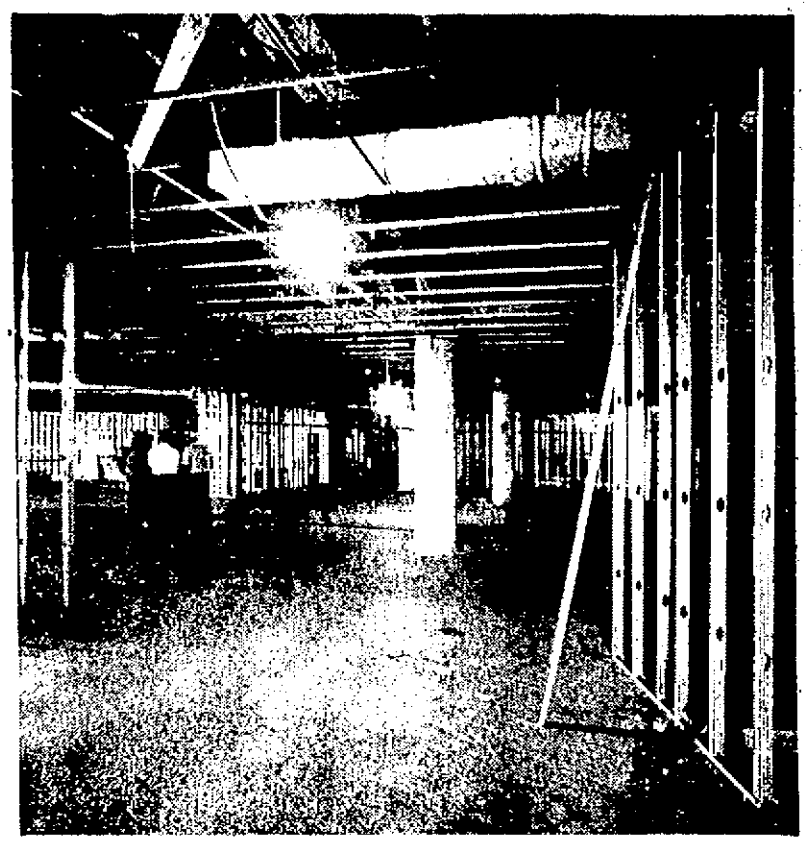

And in the opinion of lathing contractor Amos:

"It could eventually replace drywall, from all current indications. In addition to being advantageous to contractors, it will also be a boon to the public because thin coat plaster incorporates the ability of plaster to wear well with the smooth finish of drywall."

New-Type Wall Covering Used at Bullock's Store

SMOOTHING IT ON

Plasterer Ray Darrow trowels thin layer of so-called "veneer plaster" onto wall at Bullock's in Lakewood.

METAL STUDS USED

Ken Ahmmons, one of workers on Bullock's project, examines one of metal studs used in walls. Lathing strips are attached by screws.

El Segundo Firm Gets UCI Work

C. H. Leavell & Co., El Segundo, has been awarded a $1,473,000 contract for construction of eight residence cottages at the University of California, Irvine, it was announced last week by L. E. Cox, vice chancellor — business and finance.

The Leavell firm was low bidder among four general contractors who submitted bids.

Designed to accommodate 50 unmarried students each—for a total of 400 men and women students — the two-story cottages are slated for completion prior to the September 1965, opening of the new UCI campus which is under construction three miles inland from the Pacific Ocean in Orange County.

The residence cottages will be financed by a loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, and will be repaid from student rental fees.

In addition to the eight cottages, the contract also includes a small storage structure.

L.B. Man First in State Contest

By VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

Silver tongued Bernie Jones, representing the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, won first place honors in the Hometown Speech Contest in state finals held last week at San Francisco during the California Real Estate Association convention.

Jones, associated with Melvin L. Mould Realty, had been chosen Long Beach winner in competition last August, and vied at the Bay City with winners from other boards throughout the state.

HIS VICTORY won high praise at the convention and from Long Beach board spokesmen.

Jones is a Long Beach native, so found it easy to write his speech on the subject "My Home Town."

In 1952, he married Doris Mayes whom he met at St. Anthony's High School. He worked with Monsanto Chemical Co. seven years before joining the Mould realty firm for which he now is sales manager.

The new champ is a member of Long Beach Elks Lodge 888. In 1963, he served on the Public Relations and Education committees, and this year on the board of directors as an associate director.

Garden Grove Scores State Realty Honors

Garden Grove Board of Realtors placed third in state competition with its Achievement Book entry at the California Real Estate Convention in San Francisco last week.

The board also won a distinguished special award for all-around board service, according to Ann Benjamine executive secretary, who was with the Garden Grove delegation at San Francisco.

Honors in the Achievement Book competition are highly prized by realty boards. Committee chairman for preparation of the Garden Grove book was Roberta Weber.

THE WHITTIER district board was winner of the "Winged Victory" G. D. Robertson sweepstakes trophy for outstanding and best all-around service to the public, community and board members.

The award was presented at the convention by Art S. Leitch of San Diego, president of the 45,000-member association, and Reba Clayton of Richmond, chairman of the Achievement Committee.

The distinguished achievement award presented by the Title Insurance & Trust Co. to the board with the second highest overall rating went to the Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa board. This was won by Downey in 1963.

WINNER of the Los Angeles Realty Board's perpetual trophy for achievement by boards with less than 100 members was the Bellflower district board. Since this is the third consecutive year Bellflower has won, Leich said, it is being given a permanent replica of the impressive trophy.

The Downey board was judged best in education and professional advancement. This award was won by the Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa board for the last three years.

Board receiving a certificate of Achievement included: Long Beach district board; South Bay board; Southeast board; Torrance - Lomita board; Anaheim board; Compton-Lynwood board; and Norwalk-La Mirada board.

Work Progresses on 5-Story Condominium in Palos Verdes

Palos Verdes peninsula's tallest condominium apartment project is now one-third completed and is due to be ready for occupancy early in 1965.

The five-story high $3 million "Verdes West" is located at Western Avenue and Summerland Avenue in the Eastview section of the Palos Verdes hills overlooking 76-acre Peck Park, Los Angeles Harbor, and Catalina Channel.

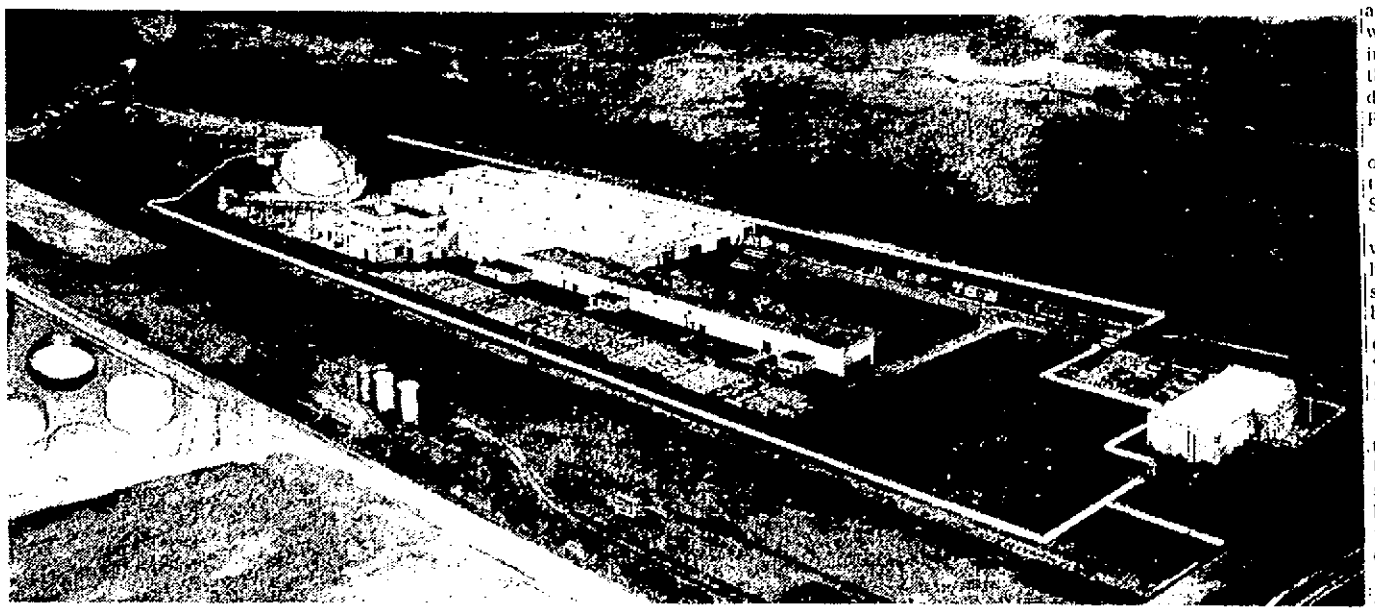

A TOTAL of 70 apartment homes ranging in size from 1,000 to 2,000 square feet will be contained in "Verdes West," centered around a courtyard with heated swimming pool and putting green.

Since groundbreaking on April 3 of this year some 40,000 cubic yards of earth have been moved from the two-acre construction site. The earth-moving included extension of Summerland Avenue as an access road and raising the level of the site so first-floor apartments will be at third-story height above Western Avenue.

FOUNDATIONS have been laid, structural steel erected, and above-ground concrete work is now under way. Within a matter of several weeks the building will be taking definite shape against the Palos Verdes hills.

"Verdes West" will be one of the most modern residential structures ever built in Southern California.

Closed - circuit television will enable "Verdes West" homeowners to see any persons wishing to enter the building.

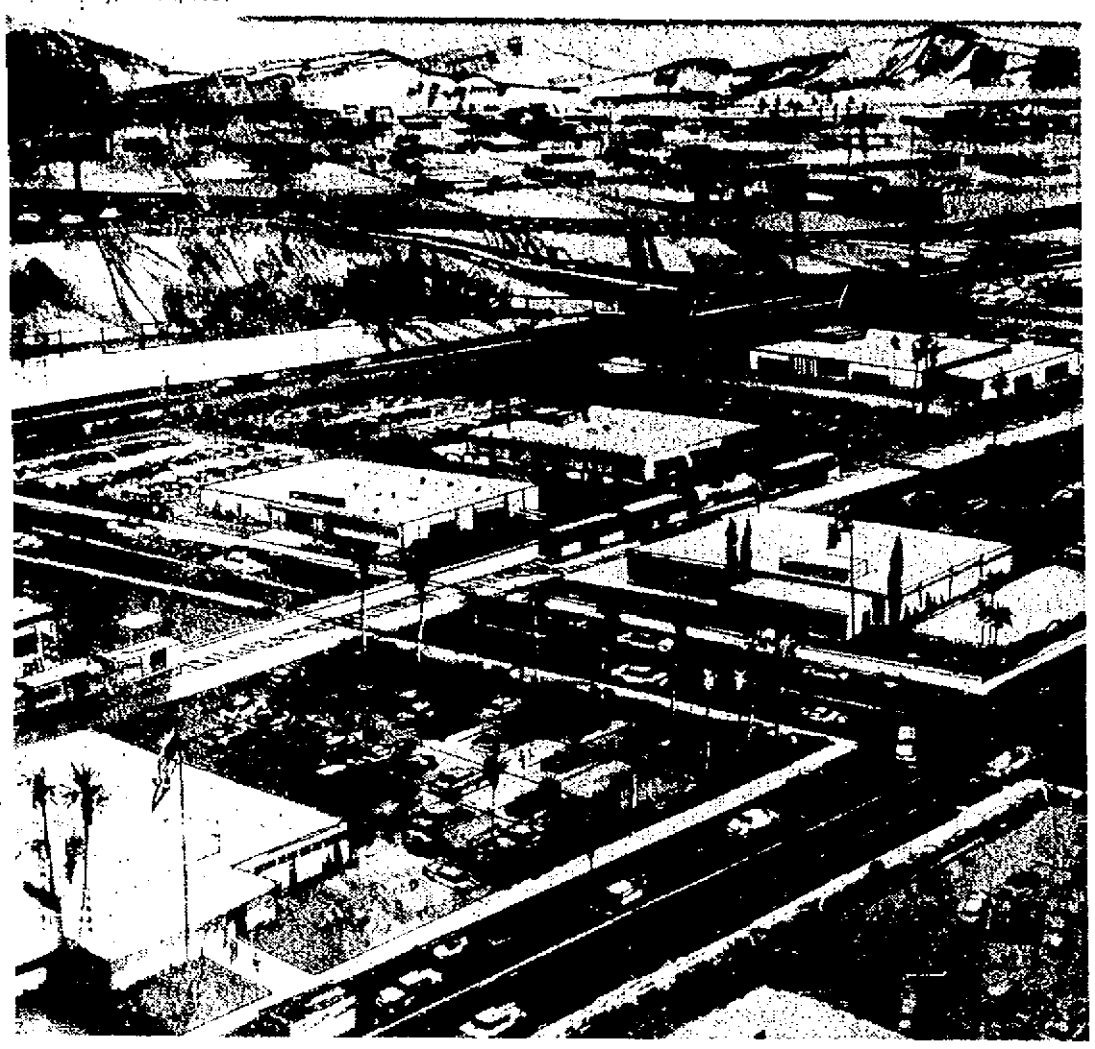

WHAT NATIONAL GYPSUM CO. plans for Long Beach in the 1850 W. 8th St. area is shown in this rendering of how the plant will look when completed next year. The warehouse (center) already is finished, encompassing 85,000 square feet. Producing gypsum wallboard, lath, plaster, joint compound and related products, the plant will utilize gypsum ore mined and shipped by water from Baja California. The ore will be conveyed from ships to a huge aluminum-skinned storage dome (left center), and from there into the manufacturing processes, part of which will be enclosed in the 800-plus-foot-long wallboard plant (right center). National Gypsum will move its Western Region office from Los Angeles into its new office building (right) to be constructed at the 8th Street (north) end of the 23-acre site. This new plant, the 72nd in National Gypsum's nationwide complex, will be the second of three to go up on the West Coast to provide better, faster service to the mushrooming construction industry. One plant is in Richmond, Calif., another will be built at Tacoma, Wash.

Small Business Seminar Opens

Small businesses constitute the great majority—96%—of U.S. enterprises, yet nearly seven out of every 10 new businesses started in the last five years have failed or withdrawn from operation.

The Division of Business Administration at California State College at Long Beach hopes to do something about this mortality rate by sponsoring a seven-week evening seminar for owners and managers of small businesses. The seminar meets Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9:30.

Dr. Robert F. Holmes, CSCLB faculty member, is coordinator of the seminar.

PREVIEW OF PLANNED DEVELOPMENT NEAR LONG BEACH

Future development of the 600-acre, $150 million Watson Industrial Center just west of Long Beach is shown in this artist's conception. Plans call for a 15-year development program with the construction of more than 100 light, medium and heavy industrial plants — "a multimillion-dollar boom to the local economy in payrolls, trade and property taxes," predicts the Watson Company. The new center is bisected by the San Diego Freeway, and is one and one-half miles between the Harbor and Long Beach Freeways and three miles from the Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors. The William J. Moran Co. of Los Angeles is in charge of planning, development and sales.

Investment Firm Shows Off New L.B. Offices

Things are getting back to normal at the new divisional offices of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., and Investors Syndicate Life Insurance and Annuity Co., 4220 Long Beach Blvd., following three days of open house festivities.

Hundreds of customers and other visitors were recent guests of the firm, according to Ernest W. Schmidt, manager of the Long Beach sales division.

He and Mrs. Schmidt were assisted by Mrs. Margaret Fowler, 6313 Seaside Walk, co-hostess. Mrs. Fowler is divisional First Lady, an honor she won by producing the largest volume of sales in the division during the 1964 May sales campaign.

* * * *

THE DIVISION'S three district sales managers and 26 representatives and their wives participated in receiving guests.

J. E. Wilde, general sales manager, western region, headquartered in Los Altos, was an honor guest.

"The need for more office space is due to constantly increasing business in this area, where there is expanding interest in the investment securities and life insurance offered by Investors," Schmidt said.

Schmidt has been with the IDS sales force since August 1956, rising through the ranks to his present position. On June 1, 1959, he was promoted to district sales manager in Long Beach, then only a district in the Los Angeles sales division. When Long Beach was created a sales division in February 1963, he was appointed divisional sales manager and has won many honors.

* * * *

HIS WIFE, Hermina, was crowned divisional May Queen in 1958, an honor he won for her by producing the highest sales record in his division during the May sales campaign for that year.

The Long Beach division has grown rapidly. This year's sales to date of mutual fund shares and life insurance were up 100% over similar sales in the comparable period of 1963. The division services approximately 5,000 customer accounts located in and around 13 cities in the Harbor area.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and their two children live at 2740 Rutgers Ave.

FOUNDED in 1894, Investors Diversified Services, Inc., now is the largest financial institution of its kind in the world. The company currently has assets under management in excess of $5.3 billion.

IDS heads the Investors Group of companies, which includes, besides a life insurance subsidiary, five mutual funds with varying objectives.

Through its national sales organization of 3,500 representatives working out of 166 divisional sales offices across the nation, IDS services an aggregate of more than 1,341,000 customer accounts.

Larger Bedrooms Home Trend Now

By MARGERY McELHENY
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Home builders are reversing a trend of many years — that of the bedroom, especially master bedrooms, are bigger than they were five years ago. The reason is that bedrooms are now a combination living room, office, sewing room or den. There also is a trend toward oversize beds.

Building authorities and interior designers say the modern family wants to use every room completely, including the bedroom. To accommodate these wishes, the bedroom size must be enlarged.

Some modern bedrooms now are as large as the home's living room — 14x18 feet is not uncommon.

THE EQUALIZING of size of the living room and the bedroom has transformed the living room into more of a parlor, and the bedroom into a multi-purpose room.

This is especially applicable to homes in the $19,000-25,000 range, according to the National Assn. of Home Builders. Buyers of these homes usually need and want family rooms, and also big master bedrooms to which the parents can escape and use as a private living area.

The bigger master bedroom almost always has an adjoining private bath. Here, too, in higher-priced homes, adults have taken steps to add comfort and convenience.

The second, third and fourth bedrooms are becoming larger and the once-common 9x10-foot bedroom most often is a fourth bedroom, or den.

Town Center Industrial Plant Begun

Signal Oil & Gas Co. has broken ground for a new $200,000 building for Eastman, Inc., the first industrial building in a master plan for a 130 acre "Town Center" in Signal Hill.

The new headquarters for the Long Beach printing, stationery and office equipment firm will be situated immediately south of the Long Beach Municipal Airport and the San Diego Freeway at 2301 E. Willow Street. There will be 30,000 square feet of floor space.

The structure, designed by Long Beach architects Jess J. Jones and Richard L. Poper, will contain a showroom, offices, printing and storage areas.

Eastman, Inc., will occupy the building under a long term lease calling for occupancy early next year. Russell S. Best, also of Long Beach, is general contractor on the project.

Major executive appointments to the staff of Harris & Frank, Inc., pioneer clothing firm founded in 1856, were announced last week by Michael Daroff, president of Botany Industries.

Michael Feinman has been appointed executive vice president and general manager of Harris & Frank. He heads up all operations of the 22 store Southern California chain.

Feinman steps up from merchanising manager and clothing buyer to his present position. He came to Harris & Frank in 1963 from Broadstreets, another store group forming part of the Retail Division of Botany Industries with which he has been identified for 15 years.

* * * *

APPOINTED vice president, Operations, is Lou Mitchell. He has been an executive of Harris & Frank for the past two years, coming from Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, where he was merchandise manager.

Isidore N. Haskell has been appointed vice president, Store Planning and Development. He was with Harris & Frank until 1947, when he left to open his own clothing business, returning to Harris & Frank in 1955.

Carl L. White, secretary and assistant treasurer, and controller continues in the same position. He formerly was with Harris & Frank, returning as controller in 1962, after serving with Walker Scott, San Diego, where he held the same position. He is chairman of the Retail Controllers Association of Southern California.

TREASURER
Edith S. Gaylord, owner of Gaylord Employment Agency and Nurses' Registry in Long Beach, is new treasurer of the California Employment Agencies Association, which held its state convention in Long Beach recently.

Records Set by Realtors

"The real estate business, along with the rest of California's booming economy, is setting new records in sales throughout the state," said Art Leitch, San Diego, president of the California Real Estate Association, at a news conference held in San Francisco last week during the association's 60th annual convention.

More than 5,000 realtors from 173 real estate boards in California attended the five-day meeting.

Leitch told of booming sales being made through the Multiple Listing Service of real estate boards.

"In the month of July, 1964, total sales through 49 Multiple Listing Services of CREA totaled $180,150,202, compared with July, 1963, sales of $167,497,983. The average sales price of houses sold through the 49 Multiple Listing Services in July, 1964, was $23,250, compared to the average sales price of $22,500 in 1963.

One Multiple Listing Service located in the San Fernando Valley sold real estate valued at $34,240,516 in July of 1964.

The California Real Estate Association was founded May 27, 1905, and has served the real estate industry through the years.

Realtors Get Certificates and 'Status'

Long Beach area realtors were among the group of 40, plus three real estate salesmen, who last week were awarded Real Estate Education Certificates and newly authorized professional designations.

Awards were given during the California Real Estate Association convention in San Francisco.

Certified Member Broker, CMB, is the new designation given the 40 realtors who, were the first to complete the educational and experience requirements for the certificate and designation.

* * * *

CERTIFIED Member Salesman, CMS, is the new designation given the three real estate salesmen who completed the educational and experience requirements for this designation.

The new CREA education program was put into effect in January of 1963 although the association had been conducting educational courses throughout the state for its members for more than 25 years.

The designations were adopted by the association to give recognition to realtors and real estate salesmen who successfully complete a specified series of educational courses in order to increase their technical knowledge, and thus be better qualified to give professional real estate service to the public.

* * * *

BURT SMITH of Bellflower, 1963 chairman of the CREA Education Committee and currently member of the association's executive committee, was awarded certificate No. 1. All certificates are numbered and in addition to the certificate each CMB and CMS holder will receive a key.

Other realtors receiving the awards included:

E. Tennyson Moore, Long Beach; Milt Miller, Westminster; Yvonne Nasch and Donald F. Lawson, Downey; Harold F. Goettsch, Norwalk; Burdette M. Maher, Redondo Beach; Clint Callaway, El Segundo, and Don C. Roberts, Whittier.

Proposition 14 is a proposed constitutional amendment which will nullify the Rumford Forced Housing Act and give back to the property owner the right to sell, lease or rent his property to whomever he chooses.

Schwenn urged that anyone who would like a speaker to appear before a group call him.

John Read Realty, 4137 Norse Way, Long Beach, opened its third office last week, at 4431 Cerritos Ave., Cypress. This is the firm's second Orange County office, the other being at 8514 Katella Ave., Anaheim.

This is evidence of the firm's rapid growth of the past two years, observed owner John Read.

He said sales volume to date in 1964 had topped $5½ million. He now has a staff of 45 sales persons, 12 of whom are real estate brokers.

* * * *

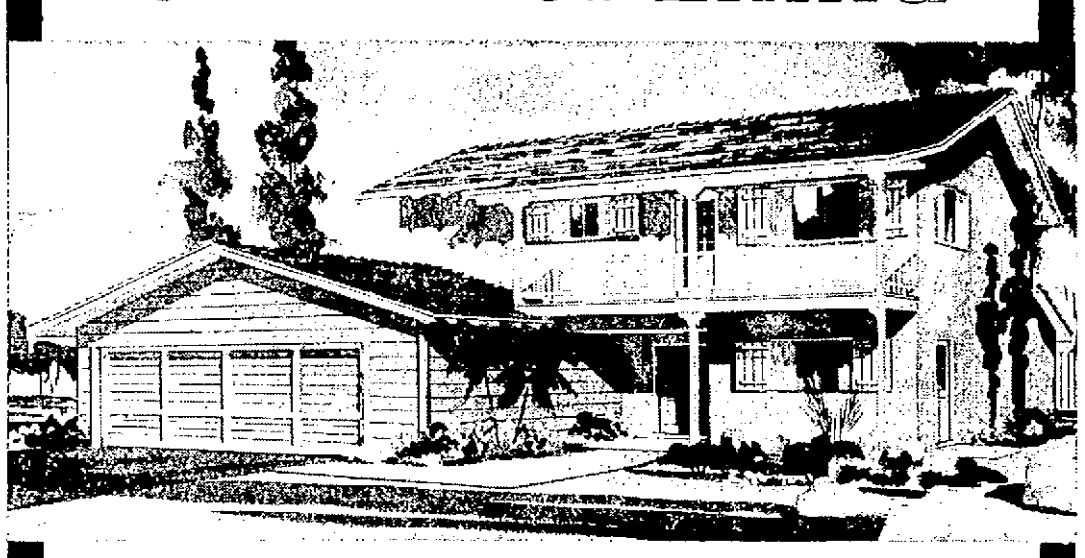

MANAGER of the new office is Alta Newman. Bert Smith manages the Anaheim branch.

Read has plans for at least one more office soon in the Long Beach area, he said.

Coast Bank Starts $500,000 Garden Grove Blvd. Building

SKETCH SHOWS HOW NEW COAST BANK WILL LOOK

Ground has been broken for construction of a half-million-dollar branch office at 8132 Garden Grove Blvd., Garden Grove, by Coast Bank.

Completion of the 5,000-square foot, two-story structure is slated in February.

Home office of Coast Bank, founded in 1953, is at 5354 E. 2nd St., Long Beach, where it first was known as the Bank of Belmont Shore.

Board chairman is Frank Wade, well known in the area.

* * * *

THE BRANCH presently located at 9836 Garden Grove Blvd. will be moved into the new structure. V. B. Youmans is vice president-manager.

Coast, it is said, will be the only independent bank in Orange County to use electronic data processing; and the only bank in the county to have television drive-in service. Customer and teller will see one another only on the TV screen. This will be an added safeguard against bank holdups.

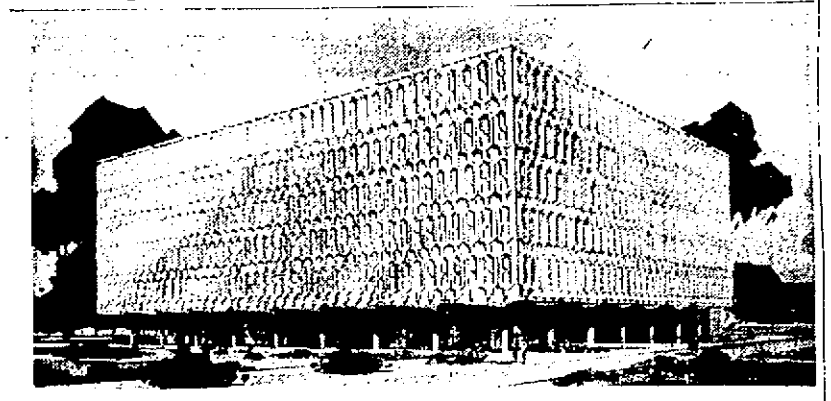

The bank is giving all teachers in the area free checking accounts and is promoting all types of loans, it was stated by E. J. White Jr., assistant vice president-business development.

Having experienced with her family the Cuban takeover by Castro, Miss Alexander has become extremely active in organizations in the United States whose purposes are to inform of the dangers of communism.

She is appearing under the sponsorship of Coast Federal Savings Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau.

Program chairman for October is H. Herschel Hart, Realtor and past president of the board.

Builders in Future May Offer Buyer Fully Furnished Home

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The home of the future may come from the builder to the buyer completely furinshed down to the blankets on the bed.

Backers of the idea see it growing in easy stages, starting with the sale of completely furnished vacation houses.

According to government officials, the idea is not only feasible, but already a reality on a small scale. One builder on Long Island, New York, is selling furnished houses with his furniture loans running for 30 years—the same as the Federal Housing Administration-insured financing on the houses.

Some government housing officials favor amending the housing law to permit FHA to cover major furniture items under its long-term mortgages as it now does most of the equipment that goes into houses such as ranges, refrigerators and clothes washers.

* * * *

ONE OF the advantages of this type of furnishing and financing is that it could be done to the benefit of the buyer.

Housing officials said large-scale builders should be able to cut both the purchasing and the transportation costs for furniture in vacation houses. But there are drawbacks.

The biggest one is selectivity. If the choice range is limited the buyer may reject the entire idea in favor of personal selectivity.

But a point-of-sale furnished house is just one of the innovations that could become commonplace in the housing industry.

AT A ROUNDTABLE discussion sponsored by the Menninger Foundation and the United States Savings and Loan League, builders met with psychologists to discuss ways to keep a family in a community, no matter how the family may expand.

Dr. Lois B. Murphy said the problem centered around young married couples who can't afford to buy now the house they will need when their family is complete. She pointed out, however, that there is a trend in home building to design houses that can be added to, or subtracted from, as the family space need changes.

Norman Strunk, vice president of the Savings and Loan League, said builders may design communities that contain both the home for the small family and the large family.

This, Strunk said, would allow the family to move to larger quarters as its numbers grow, but remain in the same community.

A kitchen desk is a convenient place for the housewife to plan her daily schedule, write letters or telephone with one eye on the simmering stew.

BIG INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX PLANNED

Artist's rendering shows scope of Santa Fe Springs complex, central refrigeration and steam plant to be built in Santa Fe Springs by Central Plants, Inc., M. A. Nishkian & Co. of Long Beach and Sydney Genser of Modern Meat Packing Co. Plant is designed to provide natural gas-energized services for broad range of food processors and other industrial applications.

L.B. Firm Participating in Santa Fe Springs Gas Energy Service Project

Central Plants, Inc., recently formed subsidiary of Pacific Lighting Corp., will provide a broad range of gas-fueled energy services to a major industrial development planned for Santa Fe Springs in 1965.

C. T. Dierker, manager of operations for the new subsidiary, announced that agreement has been reached with the developers of the project to supply low temperature refrigeration, high pressure steam, compressed air and hot gas for defrost—all from a single, central plant on the edge of the 50-acre development.

* * * * *

JOINTLY OWNED and operated by Central Plants, Inc., M. A. Nishkian Co. of Long Beach and Sydney Genser of Modern Meat Packing Co., the development is planned to attract customers primarily in the food processing industry.

The new facility is designed to provide large volumes of steam and refrigeration to meat packers, the egg and dairy industry and public cold storage warehouses. The developers will build facilities to meet customers' requirements and lease to the customer on a long-term basis.

* * * *

TO BE KNOWN as the Santa Fe Spring Complex, the gas-fired service center will be located just south of the Santa Ana Freeway in Santa Fe Springs.

Nishkian engineers will design the buildings; Central Plants, Inc., will provide such services as high pressure steam for food cooking, cleaning and processing as well as refrigeration and blast freezing of foods at temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero.

Dierker explained that Central Plant services will be delivered by pipeline to each customer in the complex. Heating and refrigeration energy will be metered in British Thermal Units and customers will be billed only for service and energy provided.

Final Leisure World Unit Now Half Sold

'YOU PRONOUNCE IT 'BU-AY-NA''

The Orange Coast College instructor in beginning Spanish tutors student-residents of Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach where there are adult education courses given in many subjects. The Ross W. Cortese pilot "people-over-52" community has nearly 11,000 residents.

Steady progress in sales for Unit 15 of Ross W. Cortese's pilot "people-over-52" community Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach is reported by Robert Moon, vice-president of New Horizons, Inc., national Leisure World sales corporation.

This final mutual unit of 502 manors is over half sold, Moon said. This month brings a new segment of the San Diego Freeway to the site, and with it, prospective buyers who are now only minutes away from Long Beach and Los Angeles.

First residents of Unit 15 already have moved into their luxury manors which are larger in size than those in the complete portion of the bustling community of nearly 11,000 persons.

• • • •

ANOTHER REASON for the successful reception by the public is the unique Seal Beach weather. Leisure World is located just the "right" distance from the ocean and the boating marinas.

All recreational facilities at Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, are completed and are in use.

One-bedroom membership ownership manors are priced from $12,595 to $12,995. Two-bedroom Unit 15 manors are priced from $14,395 to $16,495. The average monthly payment is $145, subject to modification. All loans are insured FHA at 5¼ percent interest.

Here is what Seal Beach Leisure World residents enjoy for their monthly payments, in addition to principal, interest, taxes and insurance:

• • • •

USE OF THREE large, luxury clubhouses, which contain private dining room facilities for large family parties, card rooms, class rooms for adult education courses conducted by instructors from Orange Coast and Long Beach State Colleges, a lawn bowling green, shuffleboard and roque courts; cards and billiards rooms, large dancing areas; wood-working, sewing and art rooms.

The monthly payment also includes the use, free, of the fine new golf course, the heated swimming and therapeutic pools, the intra-community transportation system, a 24-hour security guard; exterior maintenance for all manors, maintenance of streets, gardens and community buildings.

Also included in the nominal monthly payment is 80 percent of the retail value of medical costs, including in-home nurse calls, calls to the doctor's office at the community's Medical Center, complete diagnostic facilities, minor surgery at the Medical Center and services of all specialist, ambulance service and prescription drugs. No physical examination is required prior to purchase.

Leisure World's western boundary is the Long Beach city line at Los Alamitos Blvd. and Garden Grove Blvd.

Decor Outstanding in Ballerina

The artistic use of sculptured room dividers and the handsome stone and brick fireplaces are features commented on frequently by visitors to Ballerina Homes, according to builder-partner, Ted Hudson of Oka Brothers and Buchanan-Hudson Development Co.

Other outstanding decor items in these three and four-bedroom, one and two-story homes include luxurious 100% sculptured nylon carpeting in living rooms, halls, and master bedroom suites and one extra bedroom (carpeting in all bedrooms in some models) as well as appointments in the formal dining rooms and charming breakfast areas.

Decor in this 64 home community is continued in kitchens and bathrooms. Baths sparkle with chrome fixtures, ceramic tile, double pullmans, full width plate glass mirrors, and safety glass shower enclosures.

• • • •

IN THE KITCHENS, furniture finished ash paneled cabinets of highest custom built quality add a touch of decor.

Even the exterior has been considered as a place to display taste in decor, with stone and sculptured wood artistically and skillfully blended, presenting a custom crafted appearance.

The designer, L. C. Major, successfully used decor and spacious floor plan features to combine western informality with traditional grace.

Available in three floor plans and 13 distinctive exteriors, Ballerina Homes feature kitchen built-ins and luxury extras such as fencing and landscaping included in the price. Prices begin at $23,900.

"Persons interested in traditional decor in a casual beach residence are particularly invited to inspect Ballerina Homes," Hudson said. Ballerina Homes are located on Bushard St., just off Brookhurst in Huntington Beach.

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI)—Mrs. Sally B. Felton, who originally was hired by the E. E. Taylor Corp. for one week, as a temporary employe, recently celebrated her 50th anniversary with the company. She's now assistant treasurer of the shoe firm.

FOR PRESTIGE LIVING

The newest Prestige Home plan, a two-story, four-bedroom, three-bathroom, 2,300-square-foot home with formal dining area, family room with fireplace and many walk-in closets, is priced under $30,000. The development has seven model homes open daily from 10 to 8.

Four-Bedroom, Three-Bath Home Priced Under $30,000

The newest Prestige Home model, a two-story, four-bedroom, three-bathroom, 2,300-square-foot home — priced under $30,000 — is proving to be more than popular with the homebuying public, reports Dan Mytinger, marketing director for the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., builders.

"Families fall in love with it at first sight," Mytinger continued. "The formal dining area; the large family room with fireplace; the wife-saving kitchen; more cubic feet of closet space than any other comparable home in Southern California; all of its many features have appealed to the public to an amazing extent!"

"The new home is one of seven different center hall plans and 28 attractive exteriors offered by Prestige Homes," the executive pointed out, "with the seven plans encompassing one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom, two and three-bath homes priced from $22,950. Conventional, Cal-Vet and FHA financing are available."

* * * *

MYTINGER also pointed out that the community in Huntington Beach enjoys "the best location in the Southland." It is a matter of five minues, or less, to golf courses, marinas, beaches, the San Diego Freeway, the new Douglas Space Center and many shopping centers including the new Broadway Department Store complex just starting construction. A new grade school is surrounded by Prestige Homes, a new high school is within walking distance; a college is to be constructed within a mile.

Seven Prestige Home models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. From the Long Beach area drive east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica, then right to Edinger Ave., then left to Springdale St. and right to the homes.

Distinctive Somerset Homes Surrounded by Rural Charm

A SOMERSET HOME

The outdoors comes indoors in Somerset Homes through extensive use of glass and ingenious floor plans. Here an "atrium" actually projects a garden into living room and hall. Somerset Homes, in Cypress, western Orange County, are priced from $27,500 with up to 1,652 square feet of living area.

The last "island of rural charm" in the metropolitan Los Angeles-Long Beach area is the location of Somerset Homes, distinctive family residences priced from $27,500 for up to 1652 square feet of living area, stresses a spokesman.

Cypress is the rural area with a skyline formed by Long Beach, Lakewood and Los Angeles. It is only minutes from major work centers, and Somerset is handy to fast boulevards and the freeway system.

One of the Southland's major heavy construction builders is responsible for Somerset homes. The Twaits-Wittenberg Co., has applied "know how" gained in raising such structures as Los Angeles' Biltmore Hotel, the mammouth underground Pershing Square garage, and the Los Angeles County Hall of Records.

* * * *

THUS, THEIR Somerset homes have such features as huge stone fireplaces, built-in fire safety systems and remarkable attention to building detail. Spaciousness is a rule in every Somerset home.

Newest model in the Somerset series is The Chestnut with three bedrooms, two and a half baths, a spacious laundry room and attached two-car garage. There is a den and a family room.

In Somerset kitchens, built-ins are located so that housewives take only minimum steps during their cooking chores. There is gas range and oven and automatic dishwasher.

Each home has luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting.

To visit the homes with their landscaping, ornamental street lights and other conveniences, take Lakewood boulevard to Carson, turn right to Moody and right again to the models.

Golf Course Near Homes

El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach offer "one-step away" golfing at the adjacent El Dorado City Park and Golf Course.

Located on Spring St. at Claremore, the community is also convenient to all services retained outside the home, in addition to many nearby recreational facilities.

Plans call for the expansion of the existing park and residents of El Dorado Park Estates will enjoy many additional facilities. "Here, youngsters can play in a safe environment while their parents practice their golfing skills," a spokesman said.

* * * *

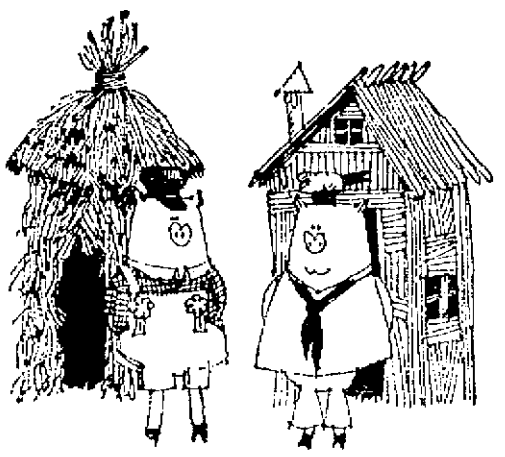

THE HOMES are for the discerning buyer and include designs with three, four and five bedrooms and are available in one-story, two-story, split-level and tri-level.

A model display is open daily. Drive east on Spring St. across the San Gabriel River to El Dorado Park Estates at Claremont, just east of the park.

Land Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cost of land on which to build a house in this country has almost tripled in the past 13 years, according to Realty Equities Corp. In 1950 the price of a developed plot for a typical FHA home was $1,035 and in 1963 it was $2,972.

telephones where and when you want them

The better homes...

Better for anyone who doesn't enjoy huffing and puffing to answer a distant phone. And a "must" for people who don't want holes drilled in—and wires strung along—walls and baseboards. Telephone planning locates the outlets and hides the wires during construction. Service can start on move-in day. Convenience now, extra value if you sell—reasons enough why you should look for this symbol in choosing a place for "living happily ever after." You can be sure you're not getting a pig-in-a-poke!

YOU'RE ON SAFE GROUND

When You Specify T. I. Title Protection

When you buy property, whether it's a home site or a high-rise apartment, you want to be sure that your investment is well protected. A stockade won't do it. But a title insurance policy from T.I. will. Should anyone make a claim against the title of your property, T.I. assures you the finest title protection available. You know you're on safe ground.

There are good reasons why most property buyers, real estate brokers, escrow officers, builders, developers and lending institutions choose T.I. over other title companies. For one thing, they know T.I. has America's largest and best-trained staff of title specialists—a team that knows California real estate from the ground up. They know that T.I. has the finest title facilities in the industry. And that T.I.'s experience dates all the way back to 1893.

They know, too, that T.I. (and only T.I.) has complete and up-to-date land records available in 40 California counties, plus fast service statewide with just one phone call.

Most important, they know T.I.'s matchless reputation for fast, dependable and impartial title service. So why don't you do as the real estate experts do? Specify T.I., the number one brand of title protection. It costs you no more—and you can be sure you're on safe ground.

EXPLAINS 'FOUR WAYS BETTER' HOMES

"Premier Homes are four ways better," says Frank H. McFarland (left) of McFarland and Mattocks, Inc., sales agents for the new homes in Huntington Beach, as he checks off the feaures with builder William Rousey. Premier Homes begins a special preview showing today to unveil its "four-ways-better" formula for homebuyers. Prices start at $23,400.

Premier Homes Holding Special Preview Today

Premier Homes in Huntington Beach is holding a special preview showing beginning today.

Announcing the preview, Frank H. McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents, said the homes had been designed and built on a "Four Ways Better" approach.

McFarland said the "Four Ways Better" applied to kitchen design and equipment, custom extras, FHA construction and an "under-market" price structure.

The Realtor pointed out that Premier Homes kitchens were called "Total Convenience" kitchens because of their completeness in terms of built-in equipment, efficiency of layout and luxury of appointments. Electric appliances are used throughout.

* * * *

KITCHENS include independently - controlled double ovens, range, disposer, dishwasher, mixing valve over the sink, a dispenser for kitchen foil and paper, and a built-in electric food center featuring high-speed blender, mixer and knife sharpener. Custom-finished cabinets and ceramic tile counters complete the kitchen package.

Among custom extras cited by McFarland as the second part of the "Four Ways Better" format at Premium Homes were tiled, atrium-type entryways, wall paneling, a complete landscaping and fencing package, roof guttering all around, and a fully-finished premium area. The premium area has plumbing roughed in for a future bath if desired.

* * * *

PREMIER HOMES are built to FHA requirements. McFarland said that these were generally recognized as the most exacting quality standards in America.

Premier Homes price structure is called "extremely realistic." Three and four-bedroom, two-bath models are priced from $$23,400. VA no down and FHA minimum down financing are available, with no 2nd Trust Deeds.

Take the San Diego Freeway to its present terminus at Bolsa Chica Road, and drive south to Warner Ave., then turn left to Premier Homes in Huntington Beach.

Large Showcase Homes Proving Big Attraction

Sales have totaled $2,400,000 since the opening a few weeks ago at Showcase Homes, third series, located at 8401 Kingsley St., in the city of Anaheim, according to William Krueger, builder and developer.

This new series are splendid examples of architectural design and symbols of quality and the ultimate in modern living and construction, according to McFarland & Mattocks, sales manager. Functional flour plans are stylishly blended with luxury features to bring the homeowners complete comfort. Pride of ownership is instant and lasting value is apparent because of advanced designing and careful planning of the growing room space for future needs.

Rarely is the homeowner offered such a feature as the growing room to accomodate his present and growing family. Plans are supplied by the builder so that each purchaser may finish his growing room to his own satisfaction, or if desired the builder will finish the growing room into one, two or three rooms complete with bath at a pre-established price. In addition to the growing rooms the new series includes models with covered patios that may also be converted into additional rooms.

* * * *

AMONG the features of the new Showcase Homes are a choice of 15 elevations that reflect Mediterranean and tropical influence, underground utilities; shake, shingle and rock roofing; front yard landscaping with sprinklers; preparation of each home for air conditioning; forced-air heat with summer ventilation fan; slate entry halls; custom light fixtures and architecturally designed fireplaces.

Choices are offered of gas or electric range, draperies, and carpeting. Other quality items found are glass lined water heaters, Waste King Hush disposers.

Showcase Homes, ideally located in Orange County are close to shopping centers, excellent schools of all ages, and churches of every denomination.

Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

HAS 'GROWING ROOM'

Shown is one of the new third series Showcase Homes which features the "growing room" now on display at 8401 Kingsley St., Anaheim, by builder and developer William Krueger.

Sets Records in Spot Loans

Bradley Mortgage Co., Los Angeles, has set a second quarter record in the placement of VA and FHA spot loans in Southern California with an increase of over 70% of the previous period's recordings, it has been announced by Albert Yarbow, president.

The report noted that the uptrend in loan production of government-insured mortgages was continuing, with an increasing number of originations coming from the Long Beach area.

PSYCHOLOGY IN INVESTMENTS

Asking 'Why' Before Buying Is Investing Scientifically

[EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of articles on the subject of investments by G. L. Davenport, consulting psychologist and president of the Scientific Property Investment, Inc.]

By G. L. DAVENPORT

Apparently our readers are a very sensitive and sophisticated audience.

We are being criticized by them for spending so much effort on the analysis of HOW people behave and not nearly enough on the reasons WHY they act as they do.

To begin with, let me point out that the HOW and the WHY of behavior, whether in the psychological, physical, sociological or any other aspect, are inextricably interconnected.

Imbedded in every HOW is the WHY, and vice versa.

The most striking primary effect of our readers' letters, however, is the impression that they fall into two distinct categories: (1) that of the "HOW" person who asks for more information on the way people behave, and, too, more technical information on how to invest and (2) that of the "WHY" person who is not content to hear how people act and how investments are made but must know also WHY they behave the way they do.

If I may be allowed a personal bias, I shall start this discussion with the latter category.

* * * *

THE READERS interested in the "WHY" of things—all of them, of course, prospective investors—show the greatest promise of being the most successful investors, because they ask WHY.

Any person who insists upon knowing causes, who demands of himself a clear understanding of the "WHYS" of things, is bound ultimately to be the more prosperous investor. "WHY" men will not indulge in the impossible attempt of mimicking someone else's million dollar investment success. They do want to know the principles, the "WHYS" behind his investment concepts, but they also know, perhaps intuitively, that mechanical learning of investment skills, procedures of formulas, that pure imitations, are not effective enough for the assessment of varying situations. They study and analyze as many "WHYS" as is humanly possible to induce from them the unique "WHY" or reason for their particular undertaking.

The "WHY" investor thinks scientifically, because induction is the way and the method of science.

* * * *

BEHIND THIS method is the desire and the necessity to predict and control future development.

To take an example from the science we feel closest to; psychologists agree that knowing HOW their clients act is only the first step in the process of understanding why they act the way they do, a process which eventually leads to modifications, cures, to predicting and controlling future behavior.

An investor must know that, typically, certain tangible assets and potentialities must be present in a property investment; he must know what they are; and he must also know why they predictably combine to increase the value of that property in the future. He will also look for the latent possibilities to accelerate the value increase.

(NOTE: Questions will be answered and complimentary reprints of this series may be obtained by writing to Scientific Property Investments, Inc., copyrighters of series, Suite 204, 18455 Burbank Blvd., Tarzana.)

Offer Trial Period in Sun City's Units

An opportunity to try "activity as a way of life" at Del Webb's Sun City is being offered over-50 people who are retired, semi-retired or planning retirement.

An unusual vacation opportunity has been announced by James K. Leishman, project sales manager for the Del E. Webb, Corp., in which retirees who try Sun City apartment life for 30 days and decide to purchase either a co-operative plan apartment or home during that time will receive full refund of the $165 apartment rental for the period.

* * * *

"APARTMENT LIVING in Sun City," said the sales executive, "allows the over-50 resident to concentrate on recreation without the worry of either yard upkeep or outside maintenance and provides a home base for those who enjoy trips that were impossible during the pre-retirement days when the press of job or family prevented taking off."

The sales manager pointed out the security of cooperative plan apartment living, with the care of yard and home provided though a board of managers made up of members elected from within each individual apartment complex.

"This trial period," said Leishman, "provides a real opportunity for those who seek an active retirement but who are undecided about how or where they wish to enjoy it."

* * * *

THE TRIAL OFFER in one of the completely furnished rental apartments includes the full use of the community facilities which have elaborately equipped shops for the enjoyment of photography, painting, woodworking, ceramics, mosaics, leathercraft, sewing, gem cutting and polishing and such outdoor recreation facilities as lawn bowling, croquet, horseshoes and shuffleboard.

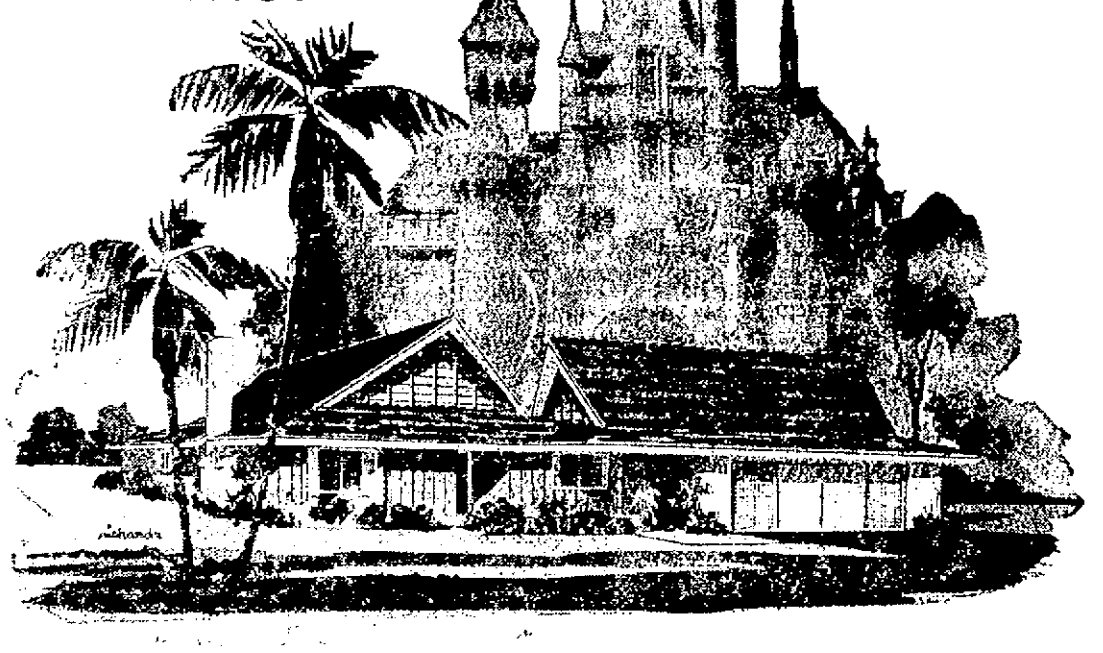

Although the trial of active retirement, as it was made famous by the Del E. Webb Corporation, takes place in apartments, Sun City purchasers have 12 model homes from which to select, if they desire.

Homes and apartments in Sun City range in price from $10,950 to $22,550. Three elevations of each floor plan are available.

More than 4,500 independent home-owning residents now inhabit Sun City, 22 miles south of Riverside on U.S. Highway 395, where slightly more than two years ago waving grain was harvested.

HISTORIC Plaza de la Independencia, dedicated to Ecador's war heroes, is a rare tourist attraction in the heart of Quito.

BEAUTY EVERYWHERE

Quito a Jewel Set in Andes

Recently Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways) inaugurated twice-weekly DC-8 jet service from Miami to Quito, Ecuador, cutting travel time between the two cities from 12½ hours to less than 5 hours. A group of American magazine and newspaper people went along: This is Travel Editor Kraft's fourth report on the South American trip.

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

QUITO, ECUADOR — They call this enchanting South American capital "the City of Eternal Spring."

That's because its 9,300-foot altitude is equalized by its location astride the equator. Result: temperatures from June to October (the ideal time to visit here) vary only from 50 to 65 degrees.

You could call Quito's a year-around climate because there are actually four seasons in each day: spring in the morning, summer at noon, fall in the late afternon, and mild winter at night. The sun rises about 6 o'clock every morning and sets at 6 each evening 365 days in the year.

* * * *

PERHAPS another claim, that of being "the Jewel of the Andes," is a more valid one. Quito, located in a lofty Andean valley, is surrounded by towering mountains with a nearby snow-capped volcano. Its rows of myriad white buildings with red-tiled roofs that follow narrow cobblestone streets up formidable hills is a sight out of the past not easy to forget.

There's a breath-taking view from 800-foot Panecillo (Little Bread Loaf Hill) near the heart of the city, where Incas worshipped their Sun God. There you may look down on the old Spanish Colonial section of La Ronda, which somehow still preserves its air of mystery, romance and intrigue; the spires of 60 churches and cathedrals; the fashionable residential suburb of Mariscal Sucre, and the quaint souvenir and handicraft shops in the center of town.

* * * *

ANOTHER unforgettable experience is an early morning or late afternoon stroll through historic Plaza de la Independencia, dedicated to heroes of Ecuador's Wars for Independence. Dominated by an impressive torch-topped monument, the Plaza is surrounded by such fine examples of Spanish Colonial architecture as the Presidential Palace, city hall, Archbishop's Palace and Renaissance Cathedral, in which lies the tomb of the nation's liberator, Marshal Antonio Jose de Sucre.

But travelers do not come to Quito just to admire its physical charms. Many flock here expressly to see its wonderful Colonial architecture and art which is declared to be the most outstanding in the Southern Hemisphere.

During Colonial times Quito was, indeed, the art center of South America and even today its magnificent churches and famous museums hold masterpieces of painting and sculpture dating back four centuries.

* * * *

THE CHURCHES, like La Compania, San Francisco, La Merced and San Augustin house priceless old paintings and works of sculpture. Their altars are carved like delicate lace. Galleries such as the Museum of Colonial Art, Franciscan Museum and Museum of Santo Domingo Monastery offer more masterpieces in art, Colonial religious paintings and sacred old objets d'art.

Quito is a pleasantly gay city by night. There are few night clubs but native music and dancing are popular in the cabarets. There is a weekly national lottery and, in the elegant new Hotel Quito, a gambling casino.

Fifty percent of the Ecuadorans are farmers. Another 100,000 make Panama hats which, oddly, have always been made here and not in Panama. There is little hunger and want, yet 27% of the population is illiterate.

* * * *

ECUADOR'S government has been run for 14 months by a four-man junta headed by Rear Adm. Ramon Castro Jijon, with its constitution suspended. However, the press and radio tell us they have absolute freedom of expression. Any other way would peril the climate of confidence which exists.

The junta promises to hold free elections—perhaps within a year—to restore Ecuador's democracy with a president.

Time alone will tell . . .

TRAVEL and RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"We will be taking a Matson cruise to Hawaii and would like to know if there is some custom about throwing your flower lei in the water."

THAT'S when you LEAVE the islands. If it drifts to shore you will return—when you save enough money.

"Any special arrangements we should make aboard the ship?"

IF THERE are two dinner sittings, the livelier cocktail people are on the second. And make an appointment with the hair dresser IMMEDIATELY for the day of the Captain's dinner. The last minute ladies will be doing their own.)

"While we are in Honolulu; where would we shop for South Pacific presents?"

AT WAIKIKI, a compound of shops called International Settlement. Everything from Tahiti shell hats, band (the best) to imitation of the Leeteg paintings on black velvet (not so good).

Take one of the tours that go to the Polynesian Cultural Center at Laie, on the windward side of the island. This has villages and crafts of all these islands. The souvenir shop probably has the most authentic things. And the Center's well worth seeing, with a 25-course South Pacific dinner and show. About $2.50.

"Would you recommend Tahiti for an adventurous single girl?"

THINGS may have changed on Tahiti since they moved in a thousand French Foreign Legionaires. The local vahine competition is pretty stiff—there are a lot of pretty girls. It seems all right for popaa (white) boys to go out with local vahines. But not for popaa vahines to go out with local boys. However, with Foreign Legion in town . . .

" . . . or would you think more of Samoa?"

AMERICAN SAMOA didn't impress me much. Western Samoa is what the South Seas should look like. Samoans are architects of the Pacific and have wonderful villages.

Apia is a pretty little town. With absolutely nothing to do but wear a lava-lava wraparound, a hibiscus betind the ear and drink Scottish beer. There isn't the Boy-Meets-Girl action of Tahiti. A very strict island. Many churches. And entirely converted by the Mormons or the London Missionary Society.

"Is there a custom in the Pacific about wearing flowers behind the left or right ear?"

SO THEY SAY in Tahiti. And so they do. Behind the right ear, "one is taken." Behind the left, "one is searching." (By 10 and night, EVERYBODY has the flower on the port side ear. Or so it seemed to me.)

"We are thinking of flying and then taking the boat to Australia but wonder if we should go to the Fiji Islands."

SUVA is a pleasant South Pacific town with a dressy sort of stiffness you find in British Crown Colonies. Starched whites and 4 o'clock tea. Nice breezy verandas and beer. (Many Australians.) Couple of very nice beach resorts. But bring along your own company.

"On shipboard, do we dress each night for dinner? Or how often?"

EVERY NIGHT is coat-and-tie, and about two-thirds of the men will be in dinner jackets. But if you are going to fly part of the time weight is a problem. So I do this with a dark suit. Or dark trousers, linen jacket and bow tie.

"Is it hard to get to the island of Bora Bora from Tahiti?"

ABOUT ONE HOUR flight time to Bora Bora, the prettiest of all islands in the South Pacific. But be sure you have your air ticket from the U. S. written with Bora Bora included. This costs no more than the ticket to Tahiti. But if Bora Bora is not written in when you buy the ticket, you must buy a separate ticket in Tahiti $40 more.

"Are there presents you should take to the Pacific Islands?"

FISH HOOKS don't score like they did in the days of Captain Cook. A pocketful of Mickey Mouse balloons will make you a hero with kids. For the maids, go down to the Chinese stores and get brightest print you can find.

P&O Steps Up Service

More than 4,000 additional berths will be available next year on P & O-Orient Lines passenger ships sailing to and from Europe via the Panama Canal.

Part of the lines' round-world service, the Panama segment runs from the West Coast of North America to Europe via the Panama Canal, the Caribbean and the Atlantic.

The dramatic increase in Panama service was announced by George M. Turner, vice president-marketing, P & O-Orient, who said it was the result of a demand for Panama voyages "that far exceeded our supply both last year and this year."

Ports en route from Los Angeles include Acapulco, Balboa and Cristobal. From there the liners take one of two routes through the Caribbean — either by way of Nassau, Port Everglades (Florida), Nassau and Bermuda or by way of Cartegna (Colombia) and Trinidad. They then sail to Le Havre and London with some calls at Lisbon.

The line's 1965 program shows an increase in both eastbound and westbound voyages through Panama. The big British steamship company will have five voyages through the Canal to Europe next year, an increase of two voyages over 1964. Westbound from Europe through Panama, P & O-Orient plans five voyages in 1965 as compared with three this year.

Float and Eat

Stuttgart has a new floating restaurant. The "Lucullus," a former excursion steamer, seats 510 in its principal dining room on Main Deck. There is also a tavern decorated with nautical motifs, and the Upper Deck cafe seating 110; the covered decks can accommodate an additional 200 "passengers."

He's Hawaii's Big Kisser

"Nice work if you can get it," as the song goes, aptly describes the occupation of Peter Frithian, president of "Lei Greeters of Hawaii." Frithian, a six-foot blond bachelor, kisses some 7,000 ladies a year at Hawaii International Airport, according to Pan American Airways.

The traditional kiss and flower lei greeting can be arranged through travel agents, hotels and friends of arriving guests. While Frithian handles the ladies himself, he has a staff of Hawaiian beauties who greet male visitors in similar fashion.

Like to Gad Weekends?

If you like weekend gadding, several Southland events to be held during the next week should interest you.

The zany Pioneer Pass Golf Challenge and World's Only 19th Hole starts Friday with nine holes of golf on the desert floor at Yucca Valley, then a 19th hole stretching 28 miles up historic Pioneer Pass to mile-high Big Bear Lake resort for nine more holes on Moonridge course. Golfers motor between shots up the pass. A bathing beauty is chosen "Miss Pioneer Pass."

Wednesday through Saturday: Stage Coach Days at Banning, with a barbecue Friday and the big parade on Sunday.

Wednesday through next Sunday: County Fair time at Ventura.

Friday through Sunday: For the 19th year, Delano celebrates the rich harvest of Kern County with a kids' costume parade, Grand Parade, outdoor Hootenanny, livestock show, RCA rodeo and coin show and sale.

Saturday and Sunday: Expert surfers compete at San Clemente in the fourth annual Surf Capades. There will be swimming races for adults and children in addition to men's, women's junior and tandem (two on a surfboard) wave riding contests.

Tourists Swarm to Acapulco

Acapulco, the plush "Riviera" on Mexico's Pacific Coast, is having the biggest tourist influx in its history.

And with the present occupancy rate of Acapulco's hotels and motels at the highest on record, Aeronaves de Mexico has increased its Mexico City-to-Acapulco flights from five to seven daily to meet the demand for seats.

Also, beginning Dec. 15, Los Angeles-Acapulco cruises start aboard the trans-Atlantic luxury liner SS Theodor Herzl.

(The number of persons who requested tourist cards to visit Mexico for the first six months of 1964 was 45% higher than a year ago, according to the Mexican National Tourist Council.)

IF YOU PLAN to drive to San Diego on a Monday or Tuesday to visit Sea World, don't. The $4.5 million sea life park is now closed on those days through the fall and winter, but will continue to operate Wednesdays through Sundays, 10 a.m. to dusk.

However, the park will remain available to large groups that wish to meet in the park on Mondays, Tuesdays, or any evening.

TYPICAL of services shared by United Way and Red Cross is concern for small patients at Children's Hospital and Orthopaedic Hospital in Los Angeles who are as dependent on life saving Red Cross blood for transfusions as they are on United Way funds.

Old Friends Get Together on Finances

For years there has been constant communication and cooperation between United Way agencies and Red Cross in services.

STARTING WEDNESDAY volunteers will open a door-to-door solicitation that will, for the first time, combine fund raising for United Way and Red Cross in one campaign to be called United Crusade.

The joint appeal will eliminate the expense of separate campaigns and long hours of work for the volunteers.

As a special salute to United Crusade's residential division, radio station KGER will present a half hour kick-off program at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Among the services United Way and Red Cross give together are:

Hundreds of pints of blood secured, processed and delivered by Red Cross have gone to Children's Hospital and Orthopaedic Hospital where United Way funds are used to care for patients from all of Los Angeles County who are unable to pay for specialized treatment.

Red Cross first aid, water safety and home care courses are taught in United Way supported agencies such as Girl and Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and Salvation Army youth groups.

STANDARD Red Cross life saving courses are included in the programs offered at YMCA, YWCA, and Scout pools and at United Way mountain camps.

Both Red Cross and United Way will continue to give the many services which they have so notably given in the past.

There's only one thing new, combined fund raising . . . United Crusade.

TWO-TIME MEDALLION WINNER

She's the Fireball Behind It All

By JEAN SANDERS

She's had no training in group leadership.
Yet, her flock's devotion is touching.
She never trained to be a writer.
Yet, her report of her group's activities have twice merited national attention.

Perhaps Ruth Walsh's secret is her heart that enfolds children. Or brown eyes that can listen gravely or sparkle with fun. Or contagious enthusiasm.

WHATEVER THE SECRET, the dedicated leader of Camp Fire Girls has again won a Silver Medallion, highest award that national council bestows on a leader.

Ruth and only 13 other leaders in the United States won the coveted medallion this year. She proudly wears them on a charm bracelet.

Mrs. William Walsh

Genuinely modest, she credits her flock of eager girls, splendid cooperation of Birney School and within the Camp Fire organization, and, in fact, the whole city of Long Beach.

"I get the recognition," she explains, "but I couldn't do it alone."

SHE EMPHASIZES other qualifications leading to her award. In order:

A patient and understanding husband.

An appreciation of children.

Good health.

Limiting her consuming interest to the Camp Fire program.

Genial Bill Walsh never complains when handicraft inspirations take precedence over dusting, or when the family garage bulges at its seams with cases of canned peanuts for the Camp Fire Girls annual sale.

In fact, it is he who quietly works behind the scenes, loading cases of peanuts into cars and wagons at sale time, helping with barbecues, and when the two younger Walsh girls were toddlers he took them sight seeing on his day off so that Ruth could have undisturbed meetings in their home at 3224 Golden Ave.

RUTH'S INTEREST in the movement began when their eldest daughter, Mara, became a Blue Bird in first grade. With few changes of faces, Ruth has watched her group from those early years become junior high school misses.

She rose above disadvantages that would frighten off less enthusiastic mothers. First, the two active pre-schoolers. The Walsh home was small for a meeting of up to 20 girls. They had no car (still don't—remember that stuffed garage!) She was older than most of the other leaders.

But wishing to become part of what her children were doing prompted her to take on the program, and she's never stopped because she might miss out on some of the fun and the joy of watching the girls develop wholesome interests and self reliance.

She reflects, "Sometimes I feel guilty that I am the one, instead of their mothers, who sees their first wonder at discovering some skill."

COMMON SENSE psychology with a generous pinch of imagination gets amazing results from her group.

She does not ask, "Do you want to stuff envelopes for the United Crusade?" Instead: "The United Crusade needs us. Would you like to help?"

Doing the usual in an unusual way makes a hit with the girls. Some, who couldn't imagine getting anywhere unless driven in the family car, objected to hiking to Rancho Los Cerritos until Ruth came up with the idea of walking part way to the rancho down the then-incompleted freeway.

"You can brag that once you hiked down the middle of the freeway" she suggested. It worked fine.

WALKING some distance from Birney School to a Camp Fire meeting in a home became fun when Ruth called it a litter bug hike, with the girls scooping up papers and leaves along the streets as their part in the Keep America Beautiful campaign.

"Give Service," the Camp Fire slogan, is broken down further by each group in its symbolgram or slogan. "Busy Hands and Thoughtful Hearts" is the way Ruth's group expresses itself.

Here are some of the ways they live up to it: buying and presenting American flags to new groups: baby sitting during PTA meetings, leading flag salute at PTA meets, working a school carnival candy booth, making Christmas gifts for geriatrics ward at Long Beach General Hospital, helping teachers of lower grades after school hours prepare bulletin boards and decorating classrooms, contributing money they earn to a fund to start other Camp Fire groups throughout the country, not to mention myriad helpful tasks for Blue Birds and activities in the Camp Fire program.

NOT SIMPLY do-gooders, the girls like to have fun themselves. It took three years of saving papers for drives and part of their peanut sale proceeds to spend a day at Disneyland, but when they achieved their goal, they had enough money to pay the chaperone's way too.

Less expensive projects mainly occupy the girls. This was the third summer that Ruth spent four days a week at Camp Suanga in North Long Beach as assistant to the camp director and craft coordinator.

A most successful project for pennies at the day camp was making beach bags by cutting plastic bleach bottles in half and decorating them with Indian signs. The top became a sand scoop or funnel for beach fun.

A coordinating craft was making dimensional plaques of shells and other sea life inserted in clay on a foil plate.

From corn husks, the girls make small dolls, painting the expression and dressing them from scraps of material.

THE WALSH garage contains a fascinating array of materials for craft projects contributed by the girls, their families and interested friends.

An avid reader, Ruth gleans handcraft ideas from books and magazines and often as not improvises ideas of her own for simple projects.

As her girls grow and learn, so does the leader, Ruth feels. She will extend the learning process for some time, because following in their sister's Camp Fire footsteps are Nora, 9, a Camp Fire Girl, and Erin, 7, a Blue Bird.

So Ruth's enthusiasm will hardly diminish. This year, in addition to twice-monthly Camp Fire meetings in her home, she will welcome the little Blue Birds each Monday afternoon.

There's space on that bracelet. A third Silver Medallion coming up, maybe?

DEEPENING INTERESTS of her girls makes all time devoted to Camp Fire program worth while for Ruth Walsh. In ceremonial dress, Mary Boden, 12, displays strip of completed bead work, while Mara Walsh, 12, in Camp Fire service uniform, concentrates on small loom holding her beading design.

Assistance League Fashion Show

Best of Paris, Italy Come to Long Beach

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Have you seen any $2,500 Paris originals lately? Or one of those elegant pants costumes turned out by Italian couturier Antonelli?

You'll have an opportunity Wednesday when the Assistance League stages its first-of-a-kind style show and luncheon at the Edgewater Marina Inn.

And there'll be line-for-line copies of the best from Paris and Italian fall collections reproduced with unbelievable authenticity by May Co. fashion scouts.

Commentator for the unique showing will be Mrs. Emma Karford, forecast buyer for the store chain, who —from her perch on narrow white chairs in crowded showrooms of Europe'c most elegant salons—personally selected the originals for May Co. reproduction.

So graphic are her descriptions of clothes, couturiers and the crystal-chandeliered salons that she takes her audience with her through the hallowed walls of Europe's ivory towers of haute couture.

THE PARIS and Italian copies—along with some of the originals from which they were reproduced—will be paraded by 12 of Southern California's most glamorous professional mannequins.

The copies, just put on store racks last week, are available to Southern Californians even before the world's best-dressed can pick up originals in the European salons where they originated.

THE ASSISTANCE LEAGUE'S benefit showing is open to the public. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. William Woodard or are available in the Forecast Room at the May Co.'s Lakewood store.

To be held in the Empire Room at the Edgewater, the social hour will be at 11:30 a.m., the luncheon at 12:30.

Proceeds from the fashion show-luncheon will go for Assistance League philanthrophies.

CREATIVE BROTHER, SISTER

Plastic Art Reaps Profits

By MARGARET McKEAN

A San Pedro brother and sister inadvertently opened a "think factory." Their raw materials, ideas, imagination, creativity, were always with them. Boon to what they were born with was liquid plastic.

Delores Dahlquist Garrent and Clifford Dahlquist fashion exquisite home accessories using the new media and their own creativity.

Liquid plastic is not brand-new — the colorless Karo-syrup thick discovery has been around for awhile. It needed a "new wrinkle" for its transformation into the lamps, table-tops, trivets, vases, and objects d'true art which the duo devises locally.

IT BEGAN when Delores asked her brother to do a demonstration of his industrial arts know-how for Crestwood Schools art festival. He chose to work with liquid plastic.. His sister helped and from this experience came well-loved echoes of "the days when we were children, with freedom to explore and the right to mess up the house with crafts, collections and hobbies."

They found time to work together again turning out things of loveliness for their homes, their friends. Soon they found themselves teaching classes, assembling ingredients, dashing to keep up with the popularity of their "baby." From his name and hers they incorporated as Dalgren Plastics and the two Long Beach State College graduates are on their way to national production of what was once a kitchen-table hobby.

• • • •

THERE ARE really more than two people involved in the story — their mother, noted educator Lillian Dahlquist Meyers, encourages creativity; Delores' husband, Jim, who teaches at Marshall Junior High, Long Beach, encourages the family enterprise; Clifford's wife, Joyce, encourages the pair by relieving them of the clerical work.

"We were bewildered over the hobby's popularity until we realized that it suits every age group, from Cub Scout to grandpop; it takes such a little investment; it gives people pride in an accomplishment; and if you tire of it you don't have hundreds of dollars of equipment to list in the classifieds," Mrs. Garren mused.

She listed the ingredients for a most lovely lampshade —an inexpensive tube, the plastic, crushed glass made from her recipe, pigment, a catalyst and plastic paste.

With gift giving time approaching, Delores and Clifford plan workshops in October and November to teach in three lessons the basics of their trade.

• • • •

STILL THE instructive loves of hteir lives are their positions with school systems — she is a substitute teacher for Los Angeles City Schools; he teaches full time at North High School, Torrance, and adult craft classes at night.

Their plea, for people who couldn't care less about plastics, is "give children some guidance in exploring, encourage a toddler's interest in mudpies, a youngster's awakening to art and music. Must all the stress be on academics? Praise the child who proudly says "Look what I made with my hands!" ".

NIMBLE FINGERS, vivid imagination and liquid plastic add up to objects of art for Dolores Garren, whose hobby has become a business.

Lights! Music! Follies Under Way!

Junior League Stars in Sparkling Show

Members of the Junior League and their husbands turned out Tuesday night for an evening of fun and hilarious entertainment at the Pacific Coast Club. The occasion was a "Talent Party," precursor of the League's forthcoming gala Follies production.

A cocktail buffet supper was followed by a witty original skit which starred a number of the organization's more talented members and husbands. Purpose of the party was to introduce the Follies' director, Peter Thomas of Jerome H. Cargill Productions in New York, as well as to generate enthusiasm among members for participation in the Follies.

EVERYONE WAS URGED to sign up for roles and parts were assigned for anything from spear carriers to solo dance numbers or the chorus line.

Party-goers were greeted by "Mabel and Myrtle," official Follies symbols in the persons of Mmes. Franklin Waters and Thomas Jordan. They also served as mistresses of ceremonies for the entertaining skit written by Sandra Beebe, league member.

Featured were a rousing men's chorus composed of Robert Leebrick, Everett Harlan Miller Jr., Mottell D. Peek, Donald Wells, William Snowden and Bernard A. Bailey; a vocal duet by Mmes. Everett H. Miller Jr. (league president) and William W. Jenney Jr.

There were dance routines by William A. Graham and Mrs. Robert E. Ivey and also by Mmes. John F. Tylicki, William C. Snowden and Walter Landis Jr.; a vocal solo by Mrs. James E. Carroll; and a women's chorus comprised of Mmes. Marsie Ellestad, William D. Carroll Jr., Mottell D. Peek, Francis Hertzog Jr. and Stephen T. Conley.

Musical accompaniment was provided by Mrs. Harry D. Baker III, piano; Richard Collins, trumpet; and William H. Winston Jr., on his "leasebreaker."

THREE WEEKS OF day and evening rehearsals began the next day for the nearly 150 League active and sustaining members and their husbands who will appear in the Follies on Oct. 23 and 24 at Lakewood High School Auditorium.

Tickets may be purchased from league members. Proceeds will go toward support of the Long Beach Junior League's numerous community projects and philanthropies.

"PUT SHOW ON ROAD, LUV!" carols one of the Junior League Follies' fairest, "Mabel" (Mrs. Franklin Waters) on right, to "Myrtle" (Mrs. Thomas Jordan) in roles as official greeters as they enthusiastically "escort" leaguers and their husbands to buffet line at recent Talent Party at Pacific Coast Club for forthcoming event Oct. 23 and 24 at Lakewood High Aud.

Emblem Welcomes Initiates

New members will be initiated when Long Beach Emblem Club 106 meets Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St. The meeting time has been moved to the second Wednesday because of conflicting lodge activities.

Charter members and past presidents will be honored also, with charter officers filling stations.

Supreme Emblem Convention is slated for Oct. 19 to 24 in Chicago, and will be attended by Mrs. Lester Barnett, president, and Mrs. Bert Norman, past president and supreme chairman of the drill teams. Mrs. Sam Beck, past president, was elected recently to the office of state chaplain at a quarterly meeting in Las Vegas.

SECOND EVENT on the local club calendar is a pot-luck social on Friday at Post 496 American Legion Hall, 5938 Parkcrest Ave., Lakewood. Chairman for the dinner are Mmes. Robert Hall, W. Q. Ball, Al Webster and Mary Wallin. Dancing and games are planned.

Alumna on Committee of Function

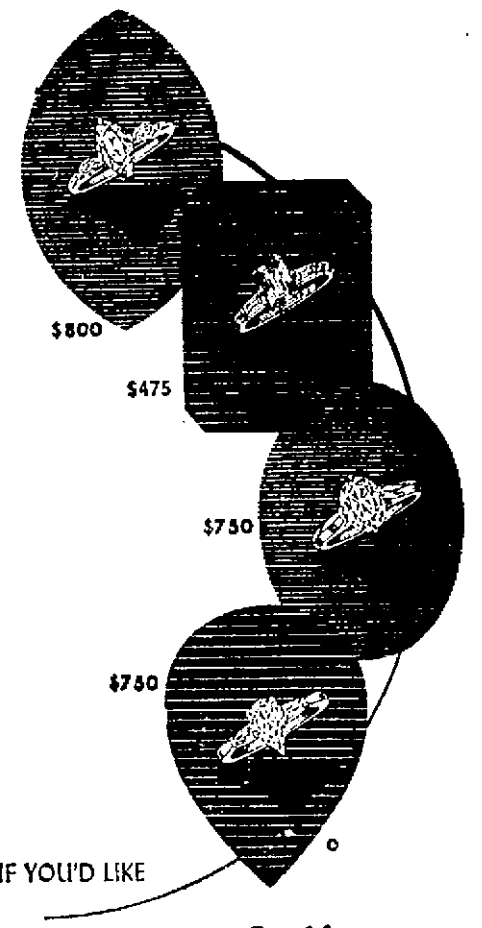

Involved in plans for the 10th annual Immaculate Heart College Alumnae Association fashion show and luncheon next Saturday is Mrs. Richard Hoefer of Los Alamitos, patron committee chairman.

The event will take place in the Embassy Room of the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, when a presentation of a fall collection of French and Italian couturier designs will be shown.

PROCEEDS will benefit the college's scholarship-endowment fund.

Tickets for residents of this area may be obtained from Mrs. Hoefer, 3491 Yellowtail Drive, Los Alamitos.

Math Play Sure to Win

An expert does not always follow strict mathematics in his play of dummy. Sometimes he will have a reason to go against probabilities, but never when the mathematical play is a sure winner.

A diamond opening and a club return would have beaten South's six-spade contract, but West made his normal opening lead of the king of hearts.

South wasted no time in study because the hand looked like a cinch. He took his ace of hearts and immediately laid down the ace of trumps. East showed out and South saw there was a slight problem.

He ruffed a heart, led a spade back to his jack, ruffed his last heart with dummy's last trump and led a club to his queen. West ruffed and there went the slam.

* * * *

SOUTH had been mightly unlucky. It took a 3-0 trump break and a 7-0 club break to defeat him, but the point is there was no need for him to take any chance whatsoever with his contract.

The trump lead at trick two was a luxury he could not afford. All he had to do to make the hand against any combination of cards was to have ruffed a heart with the king of spades at trick two. A spade lead would put him back in his hand and he would ruff his last heart with dummy's ten.

There would still be a trump in dummy. Now he would be able to draw trumps and eventually concede one diamond trick.

Johnson Girls Plug for Dad

EDITOR'S NOTE—Lynda and Luci are out nearly every week-end, eating Texas barbecue from coast to coast, raising campaign money and rooting for LBJ. In the history of campaign politicking there's never been anything quite like this sister team. The crowds love it and the act is booked solid through election day.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — It reads like a road-show itinerary — Milwaukee, Louisville, Minneapolis, Beverly Hills, Indianapolis.

The Johnson girls are on the circuit, the campaign circuit that is, eating their way across country through mountains of Texas spareribs, corn on the cob and hot fried pies.

Lynda and Luci are out on the hustings nearly every weekend, campaigning like mad (and raising big money) to keep dad in his Washington home, at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

They'll be at it right up to election day, and there's never been anything like it. The girls, Lynda, 20, and Luci, 17, are turning out to be their father's best campaigners.

Barnstorming by the President's children is virtually unprecedented. Margaret Truman joined her father in 1948 on a whistle-stop tour, but the Johnson girls go out on their own, hitting the stops singly under the banner of the Young Citizens for Johnson as the feature attraction of week-end barbecues. Their booking is solid and they're a hit.

* * * *

ON A TYPICAL summer weekend, Lynda was charming the guests at a little ole Texas barbecue for 1,900 people on a Long Island estate, Luci was having a ball at the Wisconsin State Fair and their mother was shooting the rapids in the breath-taking Snake River country of the Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming.

Miss Charlotte Ford, 22, daughter of Henry Ford II, was hostess as Lynda opened her barbecue swing (Luci had already been on three of them), and actor Paul Newman was host. All afternoon the guests (at $15 each or $25 a couple) streamed onto the grounds of Fordune, the oceanfront estate near Southampton, L. I. Among the crowd were Mr. and Mrs. John Steinbeck and Huntington Hartford. Long before they arrived, portly Walter Jetton of Fort Worth, Tex., the President's favorite caterer, had set up with his motorized "chuck wagon" of three refrigerator trucks and a crew of 15. They cooked up 400 pounds of pork ribs, 700 pounds of barbecued briskets and 200 large frying chickens, not to mention corn, baked beans, potato salad, baking-soda biscuits and those "hot fried pies" (apple turnovers from the reefer trucks, dropped into bubbling fat and cooked). Everyone had a marvelous time, and the gross was $22,000. When it was over, Jetton packed up his Texas gear and headed for the next roundup. The show was rolling full swing.

* * * *

THE JOHNSON girls — Luci, gay and ready to dance the watusi, Lynda somewhat more serious but still quick to quip—are getting a national following on their rally circuit.

There's even bold talk of sending them into Goldwater territory for a gala windup of the barbecue trail in Phoenix, Ariz., hometown of their father's presidential opponent.

In between barbecues, the girls may hop aboard Mrs. Johnson's Oct. 6 to 9 whistle stop train to tour Southern states.

The President's daughters "typify the enthusiasm, energy and interest in critical national and international problems that exist in the hearts and minds of young America today," says 36-year-old Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the YCJ, launched in June to work for Johnson's re-election.

Some 20,000 young Democrats and Young Citizens for Johnson, including Lynda and Luci, whooped it up at the Democratic Convention in Atlantic City.

* * * *

COMBINING Lynda and Luci and the Texas trademark barbecue seemed a natural gimmick to the organizers of YCJ. And the White House okayed this brand of politicking.

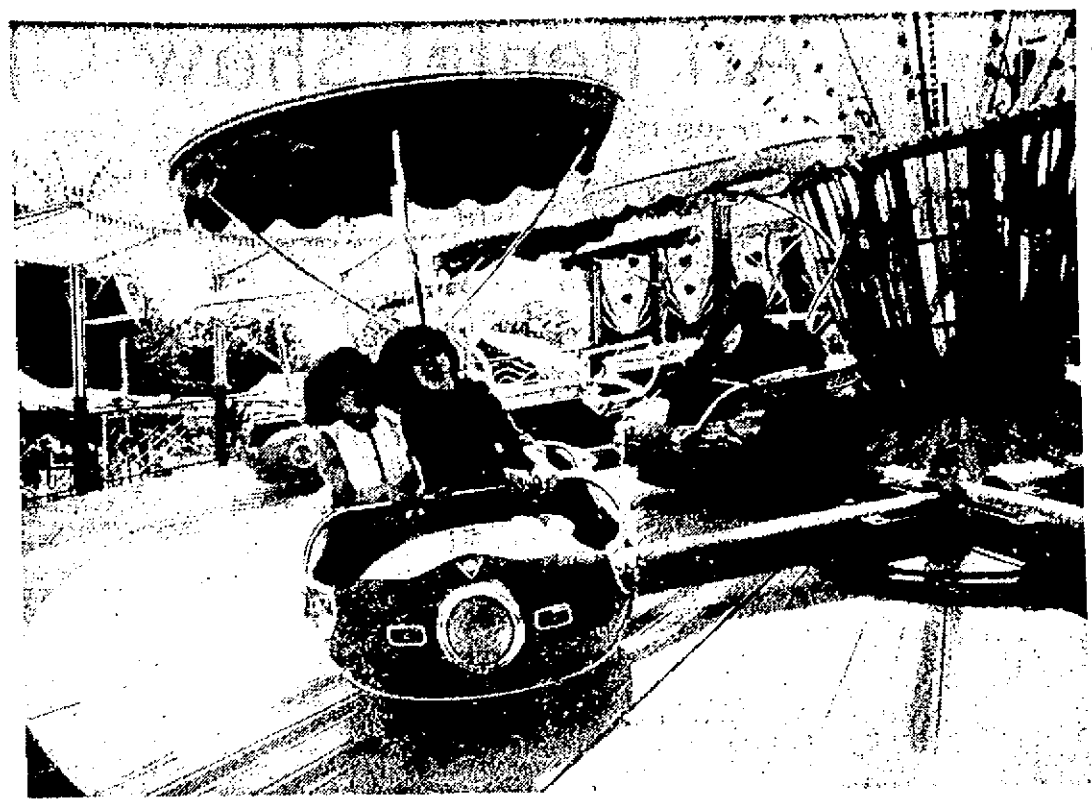

Raised on their daddy's LBJ ranch, amid the live oak trees and the white faced Hereford cattle, Luci and Lynda love barbecues and have gallantly eaten their way through ribs, chicken, chili, hot dogs and corn on the cob in their father's interest from California to New York.

They usually manage to find some time to sprint away from campaign chores to try out breath-taking rides at nearby state fairs or visit historic sites along the route.

Socially and politically prominent figures have lent their elegant homes for the outdoor events — including the Ford Estate, Mayor Robert Wagner's Gracie Mansion in New York, and a sportswear maker's estate amid the Hollywood set in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Among the YCJ promoters is James FitzPatrick, 31-year-old native of Bluffton, Ind., who took a four-month leave from his Washington law firm to become the young citizens' executive secretary.

FitzPatrick, who often travels with one of the Johnson girls, says the Young Citizens for Johnson seeks to recruit members from 18 to 40, to overcome what he calls a "surprising apathy" among young voters. In the 21 to 29 age group, he says, only 38% go to the polls.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL DETOUR Weekend barbecue election campaign circuit is a strenuous one for the daughters of President Lyndon B. Johnson, but they break the routine with side trips. Here Luci Baines Johnson, 17 (right), swerves off the circuit at Wisconsin State Fair. With her is Beth Jenkins.

Lynda, making her rounds, laments that she's only 20 and can't vote for daddy.

Down in Kentucky, where people can vote when they're only 18, she declared, "I envy you. I hope you vote the way I would if I could."

And, she urges, "get your hands and your heart to work" for LBJ.

The local campaigners find they can keep on using their signs for any of the Johnsons who come to town. "Welcome LBJ" said one along the route, with the added note, "Lynda, that is."

Everything from singing "Happy Birthday" to "Hello, Lyndon" seems to fit the occasion and folk singers have contributed their talents, too.

* * * *

AT ONE barbecue, Paul Newman commented "it's kind of silly for me, with my 40th birthday next January, to be a young Democrat."

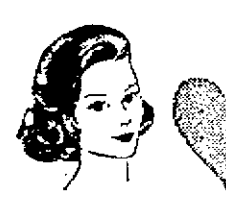

And Lynda quipped, "it's not the age, it's the mileage . . . as long as you're all young in heart."

El Dorado Club Schedules Luau

Sense of Mystery in Barooshian's Graphics

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

A significant and interesting showing of graphics by Martin Barooshian continues at Atelier 7, 3316 E. Seventh St., through Oct. 17. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. the following morning, except Sunday, when the gallery opens at 1 p.m.

Barooshian, who feels that "the surrealist school has had its greatest effect on my pictorial imagery," works in a vein quite different from the directions taken by any printmaker in this area. An Armenian-American, his work has the flavor of Byzantine and Early Christian mosaics. He explores Biblical themes with Armenian symbolism.

THE ARTIST was accorded high honors from the Boston School of Fine Arts where he received his Master of Fine Arts degree. He has been the recipient of traveling fellowships and studied with Stanley William Hayter, Atelier 17, in Paris. His travels have taken him through the Near East as well as Europe.

Barooshian works in all graphic media except silk screen and with great skill. He is specific rather than suggestive; his color is strong—deep reds, intense yellow, sooty black. His forms are sinuous and calligraphic. He realizes on paper a world of demons and angels, medieval kings of Armenia, Greek myths, passages from Faust, visions of God's throne, and of the Last Trumpet. The works have a primitive quality achieved by consummate sophistication.

ON THE OTHER hand, there are subjects like "Sunflower With Dogs" in which the flower is conventionalized, the dogs are jackal-like. "Frightened Bird" works in stippled orange and reds, a complex, contained composition.

This is a major show which requires careful appraisal. Barooshian appeals to the sense of mystery in the subconscious, to the child-like fear of the dimly-known. These works were done in the early '50s, but their style is virtually timeless.

'Used to Sing, Not Scream'

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

Major and Minor Notes

On Feb. 9, 1963, I wrote a review which begins like this: "It was like Old Home Week at the Philharmonic Auditorium Friday night when a vast audience greeted the celebrated Italian tenor, Tito Schipa, in the 13th and final concert of a farewell tour of the United States. Schipa's voice was full of lustre and brilliance, but he never bellowed. Now in his 73rd year, he still sings with refined artistry and discretion. Ever the artist, he kept well within his vocal powers and did not give unwisely."

In the September issue of Musical America there is an article on Schipa by John Ardoin, parts of which might be of interest to my readers.

"We used to sing, not scream," Tito Schipa said.

* * * *

THE VETERAN tenor, who has recently moved to New York from Beverly Hills, continued his comments on today's singers:

"Del Monaco has a good voice but is not careful how he uses it. But who is today? Look at Callas. She is not very wise. She wants to sing all the roles and no one can do this. I always sang only what I could sing without forcing my voice. You take Di Stefano—this was a wonderful voice! But now his top is very bad because he was a lyric tenor and sang Aida! Schipa would have been finished 20 years ago if he had done this.

"THEN, TOO, singers should stay put; not travel all over the place where changes in climate and weather can hurt their voices. I studied for six years in the studio before my teacher would let me open my mouth in public. Today everybody is in a rush. They take one or two lessons and want to sing at the Met, and in five or six years they have nothing to sing with! Singers today cannot command the facility and breath needed for bel canto singing because they do not take the time to learn it.

"I have seen many, many changes in opera. Prior to Puccini, emphasis was purely on singing and we made beautiful sounds and tried always to be conscious of line and phrases. Then the verismo (realistic) school changed all this. People wanted drama instead of just beautiful singing, so not only was opera changed, but the entire style of singing.

* * * *

"I THINK another thing that changed acting on the operatic stage so much was the movies. After people saw beautiful women on the screen, they would no longer accept a Tetrazzini on the stage.

"I want to find young singers to whom I can give a complete technical background from the beginning on. After my studio is established, I want my wife and son to join me here to make America our home."

Traveler Will Speak to MTA

The Long Beach Branch of Music Teachers Association of California will meet for a business session Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Veterans Memorial Park Clubhouse, 101 E. 28th St.

At 11 o'clock Mrs. Joyce Jacoubowsky will address the group on "The United Nations Nobody Knows."

Mrs. Jacoubowsky recently returned from Germany. She was one of 10 women representatives of cultural, scientific and social life in the United States appointed by the President to be guests of the Federal Republic of Germany for two weeks.

After her official duties, she spent more than three weeks visiting United Nations agencies in Western Europe.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

There Are Many Choices

DEAR ABBY: I was born six months and two days after my parents were married. When I first figured this out I was 16. I mentioned it to my mother and she became flustered and close to tears, so I never mentioned it again. Mother is from a good family and she and my father have been completely faithful to each other. They are tops as parents to me and my three brothers. I want to tell her that I don't care if she did have to get married. I love her just the same. Abby, you could help a lot of people who had to get married if you would tell them how to handle it when their children bring it up. Should they take refuge in silence? Should they lie about the date of their marriage? Or shoud they insist that the first baby was premature? What's the best answer?—UNENLIGHTENED.

ABBY

DEAR UNENLIGHTENED: The truth, while sometimes embarrassing, is always the best answer. But no couple HAS to get married. The man can deny paternity. He can also run off and leave the girl to face the problem alone. The girl can foolishly submit to an illegal operation and do away with the baby. Or she can have the child and either give it up for adoption or keep it and defy society. The couple who marries when a baby is on the way—and makes a success of that marriage (and there are many) deserves the respect of all.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: For goodness sakes, don't print my name or say where this is from—just give me an answer before I go out of my mind. Is if possible for a woman who is 56 years of age to have a baby? I would ask my doctor but I am afraid he would laugh at me.—FOOLISH.

DEAR FOOLISH: Yes, it is possible. But see your doctor. I promise you he will not even crack a smile.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Can I sue a woman who is trying desperately to break up my home? A year ago she called me and told me in detail about the affair she had with my husband. I talked to him about it and he said it was all over and done with. Then she accused him of fathering her child. She took him to court and won, so now he has to give her support money for the baby. She told someone that the baby wasn't even his, she just wanted him to get stuck for support money so his wife (me) and his family would have less. She swore that she was going to make me suffer in every way possible for not giving him a divorce so he could marry her. My husband tells me that he is through with her and I believe him. Have I grounds to sue?—HURT BADLY.

DEAR HURT: If this woman actually "stuck" your husband for child support money for a child he did not father, you should see a lawyer. She sounds like the lowest kind of human being. Be careful. He who gets into a wrestling match with a skunk rarely comes out smelling like a rose.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Cooking Ducky But K.P. No Fun

(NOTE: While Mildred Flanary is attending the Food Editors' Conference in New York, there will be two guest columnists writing the Chef of the Week.)

By Bernard J. Ridder Jr.
I. P-T Business Manager

Good food is a delight!

Such an obvious fact leads most men to the supposition — it's fun to cook, or, more correctly, — fun for men to cook. Support is lent by the fact, and the women can't deny it, that the best cooks in the world are men, the highly trained French and Swiss culinary experts.

The clinchers are the vast quantity of cook books out today, each with a host of full color photographs, depicting gourmet spreads, resplendent as the crown jewels; and the do-it-yourself craze of the last decade. "Why can't I do spreads like that myself?" is the resulting brain wave.

All this is myth! Now for the truth . . . at least as I see it.

Sure it's fun to cook and the results are sometimes fairly good. But, what have we forgotten that puts the test to it's fun to cook"? In the first place there is K. P. to be done, always more than anticipated. Women just seem to have the knack of cleaning up as they go along, or so it seems. There may be a misstatement there somewhere.

* * * *

SECONDLY, like anything else, to cook well takes practice. Most men expect to simply step into the kitchen and assume the talents of an Escoffier. It doesn't work. Here's the myth: a touch of this, a pinch of that, a stir here, and a smell there, and it's ready for a king. Here's the truth: measure carefully here, get out another pot to be cleaned there. What's the use, it won't be right anyway.

It's not that I don't enjoy cooking or that I really don't do such a bad job, it's that I cannot see overdoing the whole thing. Quit while you're ahead. Say, hit the hot stove once a month, possibly twice in a moment of madness. The last statement should have sufficiently antagonized every woman who has been foolish enough to read this far. The male reader is probably thinking I just can't boil a hot dog, and am a discredit to my birthday gift chef's set (including the big white hat).

But there is a way out, I hope, to please each and everyone.

The women should be in the kitchen doing the cooking (and incidently the cleaning); the men love them much more because of it. And every so often the man should play hard working chef with a couple of steaks and corn on the cob out in the back yard on the charcoal grill. Well, at least the better half will be pleased.

EDITOR'S NOTE: We're not sure who "did up" the pots 'n pans he used in executing this recipe. But, anyway, here it is:

CANARD AU GRAND MARNIER

1 4- to 5-pound duck
1½ teaspoons Bon Appetit
1 teaspoon Orange Peel
⅛ teaspoon rubbed sage
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon onion powder
¼ teaspoon black pepper
3 tablespoons Grand Marnier

Thoroughly clean and dry duck. Remove giblets, neck and wing tips to first joint; reserve for sauce. Combine all seasonings, except Grand Marnier, and rub inside cavity and outside of duck. Tie legs together and fasten wings to body of bird. Place on rack in pan, breast side up, and roast in 450 degrees F. oven 30 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees F. and turn duck on its side. Roast 30 minutes; turn duck on other side and roast 30 minutes. Turn duck breast side up. During the last 30 minutes of cooking time, baste with Grand Marnier. Total cooking time is 2 hours or about 30 minutes per pound. Garnish with spiced figs or orange sections. Serves 4.

SAUCE:

Wing tips, neck and giblets
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped instant onions
1 tablespoon vegetable flakes
3 teaspoons chicken seasoned stock base
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1 bay leaf
3 cups water
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon orange peel
½ teaspoon Bon Appetit
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup port wine
3 tablespoons Grand Marnier

While duck is roasting, brown wing tips, neck and giblets in 2 tablespoons of the butter. Add onions and vegetable flakes; cook until lightly browned. Add seasoned stock base, parsley flakes, bay leaf and water; simmer 1 hour. Strain and reduce to 2 cups of stock by boiling over high heat. Combine sugar and vinegar and cook until sugar carmelizes to dark brown. Add stock, orange peel and Bon Appetit. Combine cornstarch and ¼ cup of the wine; stir into sauce and cook, stirring, until slightly thickened. Set aside. Pour off fat from roasting pan, leaving the browned particles and rich juices from duck. Add the ½ cup wine to roasting pan and cook until about 3 tablespoons liquid remains, scraping bottom of pan to remove browned particles. Add to sauce. Stir in Grand Marnier and the remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Serve hot over slices of duck.

Teen Years--a Time of Trial and Trauma

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My boy friend absolutely refuses to cut his hair! It is about two or three inches below the ear. He fixes it like a girl would and even uses hair spray. His theory is that if his favorite singers wear their hair long, he can, too! He also thinks men with short hair get bald quicker.

I don't expect a crew-cut but I suggested he get an inch or two cut off. He hit the roof! Next thing you know, he came to the house with a white streak. That was too much!

What can I do? I wouldn't break up over a thing like this because I love him, but when we kiss, I get a mouthful of hair spray—his, that is! —SHADES OF THE BEATLES

DEAR SHADES:

I guess some gals will put up with almost anything just to stake out claim on some guy. Personally, I'd call your claim not worth the staking-out—and I'd waste no more time with such a dimwit.

How's that for being frank? —M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am a teen-age girl and my parents treat me like a baby.

When I'm in my room with the door closed, they burst right in without knocking. When I get a phone call, they want to know who it was and what they said. After every date, they want to know everything that happened.

How can I stop them from treating me this way?

—DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED:

Your parents are just interested in what you do. They may be overdoing it a bit but bear with them; they love you—what some teenagers wouldn't give to have such parents! If they didn't show some concern about your activities, you would soon feel they didn't care what you did or where you went.

Unless you have something to hide, I should think it would be nice to have such concern shown so openly. It makes for a nice relationship if you let it.

I do think they should knock before entering your room. Everyone is entitled to and should have a little privacy. You might say, "Mom, how come you don't knock before coming into my room? I don't go into your room without knocking" (providing you don't). I'm sure some little hint or suggestion would get your point across without hurting anyone's feelings. —M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My sisters and I are always quarreling. We were "grounded" for a week for fighting at the supper table.

My older sister is 16 and my twin is 12—we don't get along at all!

Please tell me how we can stop this constant arguing?

—R.K.D.

DEAR R.K.D.:

I'm not sure how to stop three people from quarreling but I do know how to stop two—one of you keep quiet! It takes at least two to quarrel and if one of you keeps mum—no quarreling!

If you girls insist on being at each other's throats, why not confine your battles to places where Mamma and Papa can't hear you? I should think being "grounded" for a week would make all of you think twice before making a scene.

Maybe you're slow learners??? —M.M.

THE SWING TO FALL

FALL FASHION ISSUE
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 4TH, 1964
MARY ELLIS CARLTON
FASHION EDITOR

THE LOOKS WE LIKE

A Motion Picture Fall Fashion:

White Swishes at Night

A flurry of fringe gives frenetic motion to fall. Here daringly demure, the little crepe dress departs from discotheque darkness to make dazzling entry in white. Designed to swing, swish and swirl chicly to best of the Frug, the Swim, the Pony. At Buffums', Broadway at Pine Avenue.

By Mary Ellis Carlton
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Shades of Jimmy Walker, Jean Harlow, the Lemon Drop Kid, speakeasy girls and race track touts of the 20s and 30s—these are the looks coming into sharp focus for American clothes horses this fall.

Clothes have a swingy yesteryear way to them—like costumes right out of a Lombard movie. But they have all the modern touches to make them as this-minute as cinemascope.

Yep, it almost seems those "gamorous" long-legged gals of speakeasy days, puffing on lengthy cigarette holders, have flounced back on the scene.

Staging a fashion rerun of the glamorous siren days, designers have thrown the spotlight on tiers of black net with cock feather borders and audaciously short black French tunics for milady's evening finery.

Some are hip swivelers in long torsoed costumes with tunic skirts fluttering over straight short ones . . . and there are black bias gowns, the kind in which celluloid queens Harlow and Lombard did so well—with decolletage as low in front as in back.

ALSO THIS FALL fashionable femmes will keep warm in Jimmy Walker-style cutaway jackets with racy high-peaked lapels. They look especially elegant when done in shimmering silk gabardine and sparkling diamond buttons —much more elegant, in fact, than anything the New York mayor's tailor ever made.

Flashy broad checks favored by the track tipsters (the horses, too) are racing back into fashion significance, sometimes in trim suits that skim or voluminous wraps that give swish to a surly day.

Blouson costumes—easily recalled by any woman past 45—have all the verve of the Roaring 20s, but are flattened down, 1964-fashion, and are sometimes belted or girdled with sparkle for the contemporary fashion plate.

IT'S THE PERFECT season to play the role of fashion individualist, to achieve today's avante garde put-together look with individual discretion.

The basic 1964 ingredients: short swinging skirts with pleats, panels and flares; skinny dresses with low fullness . . . new side-button coats and suits reminiscent of the 30s . . . tumultuous tweeds in bold brush strokes of color . . . stripes in smashing, crashing colors . . . sculptured surfaces that crinkle and bubble . . . also new flat-surfaced twills and coverts that look as-of-now.

The accessory touches: swinging pendant jewelry swinging shoulder bags, new short-vamped shoes with broader, rounder toes, low-cut boots and exciting new colors in textured and patterned leg fashions.

HAIR IS getting into the swing, too, with a more natural, feminine look. Gone are the days of beehives, haystacks and other teased bouffant dos. Hair this season is supposed to move; curls should be allowed to ruffle in a breeze.

It's all part of the new fashion motion.

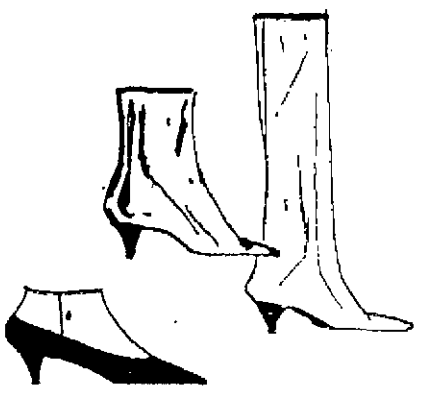

Hems are shorter, skirts are wider and the over-all fit is eased. The A-line, the "trumpet skirt" (flaring out at about mid-thigh) and swinging gores give freedom to dresses and skirts.

Waistlines have a freedom of their own: they're moving up to empire heights, down as far as the hips, or are subtly removing themselves in favor of a gently fitted curve at the natural waist.

Shoes set the pace too for the new free look: the very pointed toes have been modified, and lower heels, even for dressy wear, allow the American woman to move through her busy life with freedom and verve.

Italy Comes to U.S.

Line-for-line copy of Balestra's souffle mohair suit—here in a melange of greens and tawny tones. Go-with, go-able skirt is paired with wool jersey blouse; coat's deep slit sides allow snappy strides. From "Best of Italy" collection at May Co., Lakewood Center.

A Watch 'n Chain Reaction

This fall, Dame Fashion has time on her hands—also around her neck, in her pocket and chained to her belt.

If designers of watches have their way, no girl will have an excuse for being late or making her date wait.

For watches have been styled to go with every silhouette—skinny, raffine or ye ye ye.

* * * *

THE BOLDER, larger versions for women are much in evidence in many different shapes and sizes.

And following the skinny look, there are watches with straight lined silhouettes. They come jewel-decorated or plain, covered or uncovered.

RACY LOOKS SET THE PACE

It's Swingy Season--Spots Snap, Checks Crackle 'n Plaids Pop

It's Spotted Style

For warm and slinky walking—it's a walking coat of spotted jungle cat. Finger-tip topper of natural Argentine pelts is bordered in dark brown mink—features stand-up collar and deep, deep hem. At Harris Furs, 4260 Atlantic Ave.

Checks—on the Double!

Double-breasted suit with detachable scarf collar checks handsomely into fall. Jacket with jewel buttons has slightly longer line, tops easy slim skirt. By Larry Aldrich in pink and gray. Loopy beret, one of fall's most popular millinery silhouettes, is by Michael Terri. At Parisienne, 539 E. Ocean Blvd.

Checked for Chic

Checkers anyone? They're fun for a threesome. Here, slim straight skirt and overblouse of white checkerboard design move into cooler days with matching jacket, checker-trimmed. In black, green, brown and blue. At Mode o' Day, 517 Pine Ave.

Go 'Gamorous'--Get Mileage Out of Hose

With fashion going so 'gamorous', it's time to think of how to get the most mileage out of hosiery.

These new racy, lacy stockings (too pretty to throw away after only an evening's wear) do need care.

WITH A LITTLE footwork, we've come up with a few simple rules that will help you make those flimsy beauties last longer.

- First sit when you fasten your front and side garters, but stand to fasten the back ones. This gives more knee action and adds up to less strain on the threads.
- Be sure your hose fit closely around your legs. If too loose, they will catch on any object and snag.
- Wear shoes with snugly fitted heels or the rough lining will rub your stocking heel and break it.
- Make certain that you choose the correct foot length. If it's too short, your toe will go through. If it's too long, the toes will fold over and cause damage above the toe reinforcement.
- Hot ashes are a real hazard. So watch out, even if you've stopped smoking—others still do.
- If you drive one of the new compact cars, learn how to get into it properly or you may have to add the price of new stockings to your gas bill. Sit down on the seat with your legs outside the car and then turn your body slowly into the driver's seat.

Get Set to Glow

The Year of the Dancing Hairdo

Both fashion and feet are on the move this fall. Whether dancing hairstyles and discotheque dresses came before or after the "Watusi" and the "Frug" is hard to tell—but there's no doubt that one complements the other.

Shoes are lower, sleeker and look like they're mean to "Hully Gully" across the floor.

Dresses for dancing are sleeveless, full at the hem, and accented with ruffles to breeze along with the "Surf."

* * * *

HAIRSTYLES are based on movement, with a sweep of curl moving forward on the face, the return of low cut bangs, and wispy cork-screws adding a dash over the ear.

Coiffures have more twists and turns this year than ever before, and are set to stay in place, no matter how bouncy the music.

Dancing coiffures do away with the unlayered straight look, because nothing moves with less grace than limp hair. Whether you call the new styles curly, or simply soft, they need a careful cut, usually with the front just a touch longer than the back.

* * * *

NEXT COMES a permanent to coax curls in the right direction. But no dry look, please. Hair is supposed to dance with lights, even if it's not in the midst of a "Watusi." For a combination of body and luster, a soft permanent is suggested.

The trick to the dancing set is use the front-sides to make the coiffure look completely different, depending on whether the hair is worn up or down.

But whether high or low, hair is lifted for the light, airy look this season, it isn't teased. The new dances, the new fashions, and the new hairstyles have sweep, dash and individuality. Above all, they emphasize curvy femininity from head (with new face-front curls) to hemlines (with scallops and swirly ruffles).

Hairdo With Change of Pace

New hairstyles have sweep, dash and individuality . . . they dance, swirl, change their pace. Here, two dancing hairstyles . . . both based on the same cut and a soft permanent, one worn casually down, the other swept upward. Softness and curl in ends of hair match femininity of new fall fashions. From Crowning Glory, 251 E. Fifth St.

Hair Sets Own Course--- So Do as the Hairdo

If a new do doesn't look right on you, maybe it's because your hair's all wrong for the part, the curl, the swirl—or whatever.

Hair type has a lot to do with hair styling.

Stylists advise different treatment for thick, fine, straight or curly locks.

Thick hair that is course in texture needs a hairdo with simple lines. Avoid thinning, which can make this type of hair hard to manage. Instead use cream rinses and extra-hold hair spray. Start with a professional shaping and cut (tapered for best results, trimmed regularly).

* * * *

FINE HAIR needs special sculpturing. Start with a one-length cut (blunt) and keep limp hair on the short side to hold its set. Bolster it with a soft body permanent for shapekeeping. Use extra-hold setting lotions and hair sprays.

Straight hair is no problem (if it isn't unruly or fly-away-fine). It can be striking with little more attention than a really good haircut, regular shampoos and brushing.

Curly hair looks best in short, head-hugging styles. Start with a good cut (avoid too much thinning) and have the hair trimmed regularly. Use extra-hold setting lotion and end papers to keep it smooth. For a slicker look, "uncurl" it on jumbo rollers.

Cotton Hats Tops for Young Set

If you're anywhere between 15 and 19, cotton is slated to go to your head this fall.

When you see the smart corduroy rollers, cotton-suede deerstalkers and pixie hats with their peaked silhouettes, you won't need any urging to get into the hat act.

* * * *

THESE STYLES are young and gay, designed in wide-wale patterned corduroy, cotton suede, poplin and often in combinations of two of these fabrics.

When you try on the new fall clothes—the body-free suit jackets that indicate your slim figure without defining it, the straight-line rain-and-shine coats, the swaggering capes — you'll see how much smarter they will look when you add the finishing touch: a perky hat.

* * * *

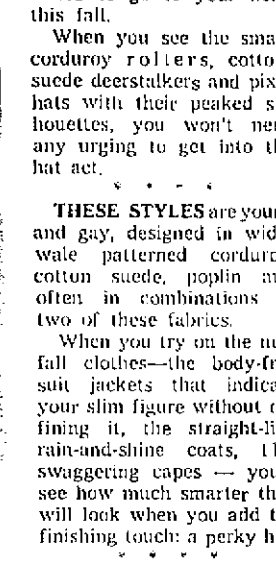

THE ROLLER is the shape that best complements this year's suits and the high-crowned visors will top off dresses and coats. Sherlock's deerstalker, naturally, adds a dash of bravado to capes.

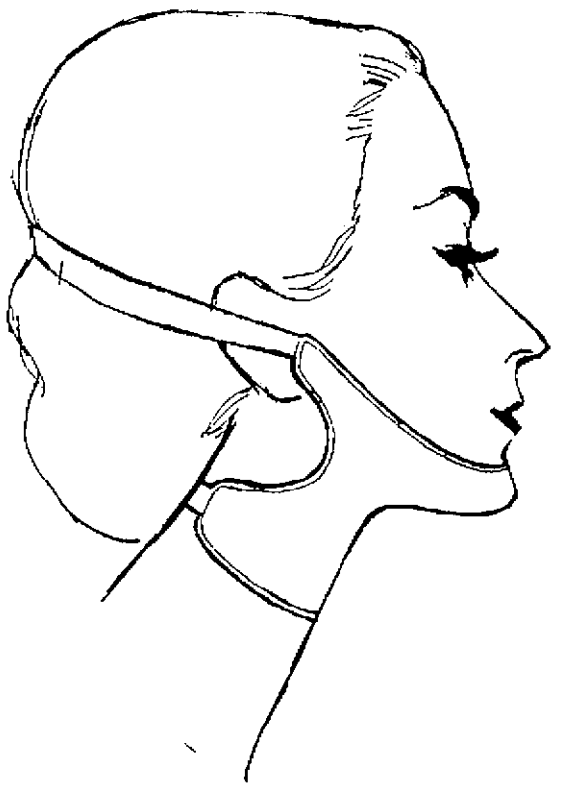

Now that elaborate hairdos are out for all except last year's die-hards, hats can be a welcome addition to a young gal's wardrobe.

Fashion Gets A Boot

Start high or low or in the middle—you've still got it made if it's a boot. Three styles here, all in the heighth of fashion—of soft black glove leather, slender mid-heels. At Mandel's, 301 Pine Ave., also Lakewood and Del Amo Centers.

Handbags -- Like Gals -- Are All Shapes 'n Sizes

Style-hunting fashion designers have (hand) bagged a menagerie of styles — all shapes and sizes—for fall.

There will be satchels, boxbags, totes, envelopes, musette bags and beaded box bags.

They'll come in needlepoint, petit point, sequins, rug fabric and grained, smooth, sueded, antiqued, brushed and embossed leathers.

Their true colors will show up in such hues as berry red, jungle green, brown velvet, iris plum and ice blue as well as jet, alabaster and icy crystal.

* * * *

LONG ON POPULARITY will be the short shoulder-strapped bag: for day, a casual carry-all that leaves busy hands free; for evening, a dainty bejeweled creation that swings free on the dance floor.

The free-swinging shoulder-strapped evening bag keeps pace with the new discotheque styles.

It features a "mobile" look, an air of movement captured in fringe and beading or sparkling teardrop spills.

Meant to wear with the most formal of dancing dresses, it borrows its shape from a daytime bag, ends up with an entirely different concept.

* * * *

YOU'LL SEE the small headed square suspended from a beaded strap and the bracelet bag—twin pouches of shining satin mounted over a textured golden bracelet handle.

And you'll see beads, beads, beads.

After-five fashion definitely features the renaissance of the beaded box: oblong, little oval and round boxes that could double as jewel cases on the most fastidious of dressing tables.

* * * *

CLASSIC BUT elegant for day-time wear are vary-sized clutches, some opening on facile frames, others handsomely framed in Florentine textured gilt — some topped with slim little handles, some with chains.

In leather, bags for day wear will have intricate feminine detailing: scallops, drapes and overlays with burnished golden closings or other golden trim.

All in all, fall's prettiest purses will be rich but trimly styled—elegant and soft.

ON WITH THE BOOTS

Get a Kick Out of Fall

Boots are still on the march, taking even bigger strides in fashion than last year.

There are high boots, low boots, knee boots, skinny boots, trouser boots, shopping boots, ski boots, rain boots, evening boots and boots for just curling up in a quiet corner.

There are fur-trimmed boots, swashy little buckled boots, dainty high-heeled boots, way-out gladiator boots, boots reptilian, boots cerulean—boots, boots, boots!

Not since Madame de Pompadour trimmed her little courtly boots with silken roses and lace, has fashion got such a boot out of boots.

* * * *

IT STARTED a few years back with the Robinhood sports boot. Boots have been climbing ever since. First they stole past the ankle with the Western boot, then reached the calf with the high-heeled boot. Now they've soared to the knee and above in skinny shaping.

But, boots of about mid calf standing have, perhaps, the broadest fashion potential. With heels of any height, in brushed or saddle leathers, canvas or heavy knitted wool, they can go for a sallie to the supermarket or a walk in the deepest country. City types are apt to be of petal-soft suede, reptile or patent.

The latest look in bootery is the slim silhouette. Secret of this skinny shaping: stretch fabrics, side lacings, elastic gorings and back zippers.

One of the slimmest side-laced and climbing above the knee, is strictly for the long-legged and very young.

* * * *

FOR A REALLY way-out way-up look, there's the stretch pants boot, a soaring, clinging spat with matching shoe.

The low boot, is no slouch at making high fashion marks, however. Here bootery beauty lies in decorative little touches: buckles, fur (real or fake), elegant finishes.

One little-heeled whimsy is toed in black patent and shaped of quilted canvas with metal rain slicker closings. Textured hose top the fashion picture here.

* * * *

THE HEIGHT of your boots is a personal matter. Choose on the basis of what's becoming to your leg—your figure.

However, smooth leather mid-calfs in bone, beige and tan colors are considered the thing to wear with hipbone jacket suits.

Ankle high boots go well with tight pants, slacks and casual skirts.

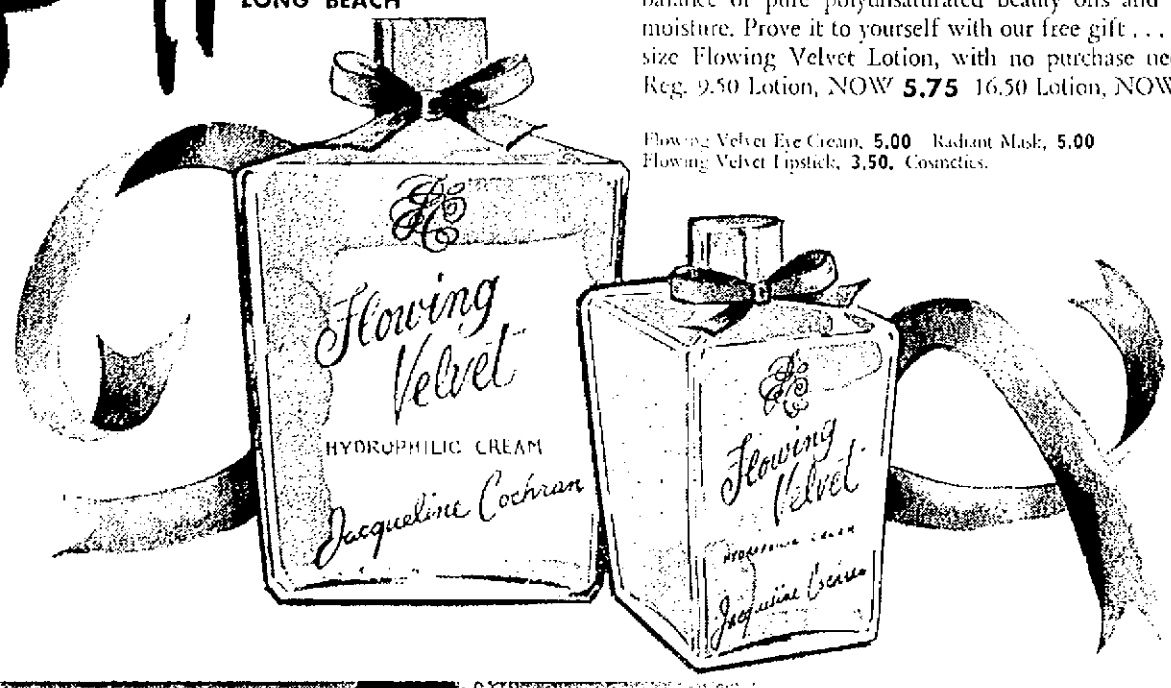

Hostesses will get a boot out of low, gold kid ones. Wonderful with skimmer dresses or party pants, they are not to be scorned in the ballroom either.

MOTION IS BUY-WORD

Skirts Swing Wide, Slim

The swing to fall is the swing to suits—and this season suits are the swingingest!

Motion is the buy-word . . . in pleated skirts, particularly.

There are cluster pleats, box-pleats, pleats all around, pleats combined with panels—pleats to please any fashionable women.

SLIM SKIRTS accompany many a new suit, too—easy enough for comfort, slender enough for flattery (especially for the reed-slim young elegant).

Suits often are asymmetrical: buttons are placed diagonally (excellent, especially, on the very tall figure).

Pockets have emphasis, but to a lesser degree.

The cutaway jacket is big news.

IN FACT, jackets of all shapes and lengths make fashion news this season.

There are unconfined jackets . . . decorous, conservative jackets, some pared at the waist with a satin bow nestled at the center neck closing . . . side-buttoned jackets, often belted lightly at the hipline . . . peplum jackets with rounded collars that serve as perfect foils for the antique look of golden bar-pins with star-set brilliants.

CAPE SUITS shape up in bulky tweeds and handsome town suits are lean with wrist-long jackets.

Evening suits, the newest way to dress after dark, are of ribbed wool or soft wool crepe.

Mid-day to midnight, suits are a wardrobe "must" for going high fashion this fall.

The Flip-Top Jacket

The saucy skirt, flippant with pleats . . . looking slender and stem-like in repose, then flaring but unexpectedly, all motion, with every stride. About it, the new flip-top jacket, just waist-length and buttoned thrice. By Paul Parnes; at Schick's, 701 Pine Ave.

Smashingly Fall, 1964

Natural ranch mink is up-to-the-minute addition to luxurious town suit of finest mohair woven in France. The color: lovely muted gold. Matching silk bow flies from neckline of jacket. From Chrysteen's, 4518 Atlantic Ave., in Bixby Knolls.

Turtle-Necks Turning Heads

The tall, turtle-neck sweaters are setting a new pace in fall's fashion race. Wear it deep ribbed and high-rising above jackets in pale, heathery colors; in fabrics that are soft and deep. Cap off the look with a jaunty beret or visor cap. Underline the look with cabled or textured hose.

Sweaters Going Skinny, Too---

Even some sweaters are skinnying down to come up to style. A far cry from the Sleepy Joe, the newest evening sweater, the 'poor' little sweater, pares down to almost nothing.

Look for the little thin-strapped camisole—the brief knit number that bares the midriff. They are hot little style numbers that need wraps to keep warm.

Black Dresses Whirl at Night

The nights soon will be awhirl with little twirling black dance dresses. Saucily sexy, the lines are free and easy, the fabric elegant, the length leggy.

Some come in all-over shirring, some in sequin-embroidered black lace, some in scrolls or ribbon. Right for night, too, are cut-out slippers and lacy black hose. It's daringly and darlingly discotheque.

1964's New Racy, Lacy Look to Legs

There's a new racy, lacy look to legs.

Short living skirts that swish, swing, ripple and whirl above the knees have given fashion leggiest of leggy looks.

And the legs—stretched-out lithly and sheathed blithly in everything from jeweled lace to herringone—are worth the watching.

Textured stockings, madcap and marvelously flattering will be seen everywhere, in every color, in every type of fabric—with boots, bootees, pumps, lacy sandles and little walking heels.

THE SECRET is to pick hose that DON'T match but DO harmonize OR shock—firmly textured ones for day; sheer, lacy ones for night.

In sheers there's a lot of exciting color, with lights and darks as important as the perennial neutrals.

Paled and frosty lights gay poster colors (reds and oranges) coordinate with all of fall and winter's now-firmly established pastels, the white coats and dresses, the paled suits in shades of pink.

Look for stockings in shades of browns, greens, purple and deep blue to wear tweeds in all those colors.

FOR TOWN and country, there are heavier textured stockings in a myraid of patterns. Wear color - clashing red ribbed, over-the-knee stockings with a purple tweed or a bright pink stocking with a bold black and white check suit.

And don't think knee socks are relegated only to the campus. They're smartly skipping into town. One of Seventh Avenue's most talented designers showed a trio of suits in blue, green and pink with matching knee stockings.

OTHER DAYTIME styles stop at the knee and are narrow-ribbed and cuffed, copied from the English school-boy look.

They give real snap to vested suits, so popular for casual wear. Colors run the gamut: silvery gray to cranberry.

Knee highs are a perfect complement to leather and suede, too. With a leather pleated skirt or a tortoise shell 'A' line shirt, wear a pair of heavily textured camel's hair ones.

FOR AFTER FIVE—here comes the discotheque dress!—go wild in lacy hosiery, stockings, tights and sassy over-the-knees.

Pick your colors: sharp blacks, cool whites or upbeat pinks, mochas and beiges. Evening sheers, patterned in acorns, medallions or fleur de lis, are perfect mates for beautiful brocades and matelasses in French blue, shimmery gold or delicate leafy green.

With all this color, don't forget that gams also are going glamorous in cool sophisticated white. Wear a white open-weave with a leg-revealing white crepe evening dress, for example.

WATCH FOR THE GRAND OPENING

24 NEW STORES SOON!

IT'S TIME TO SHAPE UP

Watch that Waist - The Belt Is Back!

Pretty in the City

The soft feminine look takes on city aires in gray wool tweed in diagonal weave. Jacket, trimmed neat and narrow, tops slim, trim skirt. At Desmonds, Broadway at Locust.

Fashion is being belted out in a big way this fall, especially in coat collections.

Coats for town and country are featuring belts of every imaginable kind. There are martingale belts, tie belts, buckled belts and belts that go around the back and stop at either side of a double-breasted closing.

They are found on all types of coats, from carefree sport models to elegant fur-trimmed styles.

* * * *

ONE HANDSOME go-anywhere hooded clutch style, tailored of vinyl suede, has a rich pile lining that makes an attractive contrasting collar when the hood isn't being used. And the coat is belted with a tie of matching fabric.

The trench coat is with us again this season and feminine spies will enjoy all its "foreign intrigue"—epaulets, sleeve tabs, brass buttons and, of course, the brass buckled belt. Many have zip-in pile linings.

* * * *

EVEN DRESSY coats with long-hair fur collars, such as fox and lynx, are provided with tie belts to be worn or not, depending on your mood.

And the very popular new shortie coats are frequently belted half-way around the back.

After an absence of a few years from the fashion scene, the belt is back to lend flair as well as practicality to fall coat styles — no matter whether for day or evening wear.

Suit With Fringe on Top

Little suit, big verve—it's hep, neat, bold and ready to go, go, go. Fringe-trimmed jacket closes flippantly off-center. In gray and white of feather-light looped wool, it's jaunty as a jockey's cap—equally right for casual or cosmopolitan jaunting. At Mullen & Bluett, Lakewood Center.

FUREVER AND EVER

From Rugs to Riches

It all began, it's said, way back in 800 B.C., when Assyria's Queen Samaramis put a fur rug around her shoulders.

The ladies of the court thought it looked terribly elegant—quite exclusive, in fact.

Women all over the world have been thinking the same thing about furs ever since.

And when it comes to the one most women dream of—it's usually a mink. Now more than a whispering campaign guarantees its long reign as king of the fashion jungle.

THIS FALL, women in pursuit of the finest will be alerted to a new mink status symbol.

The Emba Mink Breeders Association, world's largest producers of mutation mink, has put the spy glass to its sleek pelts and determined a new "Rare" quality line.

Emba's "Royal" line conforms to high standards of fur density, lustre, depth, uniformity of color, durability and length of guard hairs.

The new "Rare" line must do all this and more: have a high gloss, beautiful colors, etc. Each Emba fur will be marked "Rare" or "Royal."

Kerchief Is Tops

Among the newest headcoverings for fall and winter are little shaped kerchiefs of wool, fake fur and even the luxurious real thing—mink. The fabric ones are sometimes string or ball fringed.

Beauty is yours for the Asking!

The long and short of it is: You will adore the hair style we create to flatter you!

All That 'To-Leatherness'-- It's the Total Look for Fall

Suits, skirts, jackets and pants go to-leather for fall.

The togetherness of leather and whatever—leather and knit, leather and fur, leather and fabric—is one of the biggest fashion stories of the season.

Smarties are taking advantage of new finishes and better dry-cleaning methods to make the look of leather, the look of chic.

* * * *

UNDERLINING "to-leatherness" is the shift into the jumper.

Soloing, it goes out for cocktails, dinner or the theater. Coupled with a sweater or a thin woolen blouse, it's in for endless daytime use.

But topping this year's new leathery crop is the suede coat, often collared in fur, for example, rich tones of ranch, autumn haze, tourmaline or lutitia mink.

For those who admire turncoats, there's a black leather three-quarter affair, lined in big, bold tweed with its own leather-lined skirt —both reversible.

* * * *

LEATHER also goes to blazers, to suits, to capes, to skirts; perfect foil for the country look of boots, textured stockings and tweed accessories.

Spicing-up its stylishness are coat and jacket closings of wood and horn and big, borrowed-from-the-boys buckles. New pocket treatments include double ones—cunningly placed at fingertip level and trimmed in raccoon or beaver or lynx or mink.

* * * *

IN TERMS of silhouette, leather's going lithe and easy. Coat lines are either plumb straight or gently flowing. Sometimes the natural waist is accentuated with a pull-through belt or raglan sleeves.

Color is subtle but clear: cranberry red, chestnut, chocolate brown, darkened ink blue, beige, chamois, cactus green.

Matching pile linings, many of which are removable (cleverly concealed zippers do the trick), make three-quarter jackets three seasonal.

Most important, yesterday's stiff look is gone for good. The finest, smooth-grained, hand-cut and hand-matched leathers are being worked just like fabrics—shaping up into butter-soft, zesty, high styles.

* * * *

AND FAR from being the exclusive property of the outdoor crowd, leather is getting dressed-up with real feminine finesse.

There are two-piece leather cocktail dresses (curvacious tunics shaped over slim skirts with perhaps a knit collar curling the neck).

And evening dresses of the smoothest of leathers are going all a glitter with jewels.

One show-stopper is a narrow knit evening dress, topped with floor-length leather evening coat carved under the bust for a look of Empire opulence.

Sassy Little Softies

The Lean Look of Knits

Italian Bravura

Here the knit leans to slim Italian styling. Vertical striped, three-piece ensemble has sleeveless three-quarter jacket, and matching skirt; striped overblouse, is collared and shirt sleeved. In bone with brown and turquoise or black with grey and red stripes. By Sebastian; at Harris Aire, 4260 Atlantic Ave.

In Slim 3 Dimension

A knit newcomer — lean and luxurious in 3-D tweed. Vee-neck jacket is trimmed with imported Heeksuede. Matching slim skirt has elastispan waistband. Another dimension: the cap-sleeve shell in luscious 3-D colors: rose purple, brown/camel. At Town & Country, 4129 Long Beach Blvd.

A Purl of an Idea To Stretch Wardrobe

Tend to your knitting if you're making socks or mufflers, but if fashion is your passion, let the experts knit you the freshest wardrobe this side of Italy.

Included in the nifty knit line-up: pants and dresses, skirts and suits — in the smoothest of stretch nylon and the fluffiest of mohair and orlon blends.

For country or city, smooth, ribbed nylon stretch pants really s-t-r-e-t-c-h your wardrobe. Topped with a vivid blazer, they go to town for smart shopping. Worn with boots and one of the new suede, furtrimmed jackets, they take on casual, countrified airs.

* * * *

SOME OF THE prettiest new dresses are two-part costumes of lustrous stretch nylon knit. Styled with easy overblouses that fall straight to the hip, they need only the simplest of detailing to be sparked into extra alert smartness: a little bow; a touch of leather; some seaming or piping.

Knit suits, in two and three parts, are running the gamut this fall from sleek matte finishes to waffled knits to puffy mohair mixes.

* * * *

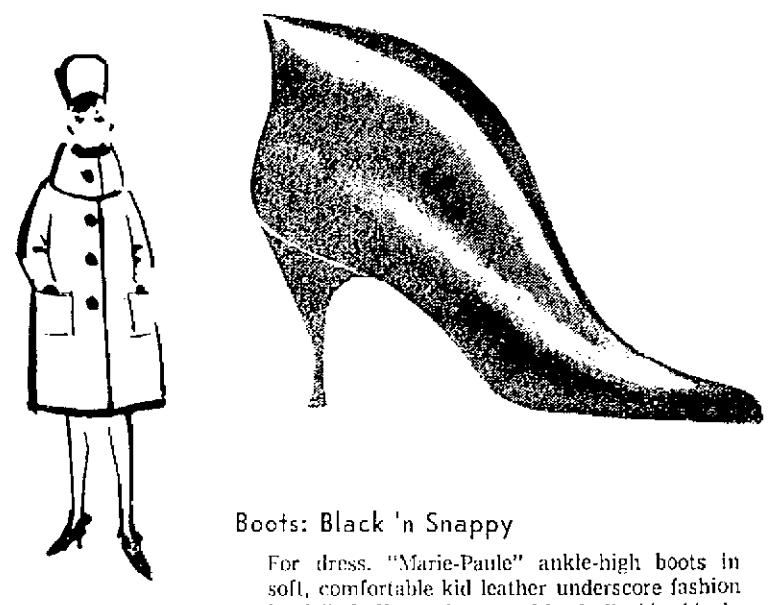

IN TERMS of '64, knits have taken on new motion. Pleats give skirts a frisky on-the-go.

Box pleats, knife pleats, inverted pleats and kick pleats each contribute to the razzle-dazzle look of fall.

Watch for knit jump suits next. The suits, in sleek stretch nylon double-knit, will cling to the body from turtle-neckline to ankle bone. You'll also be seeing knit turtle-neck tube dresses of stretch nylon.

Shetland Back With New Pace

Among the newsier flat wools is shetland, newly revived in both herringbone and twill weaves. It takes on a lovely fragile quality in pale tones and looks just as great in navy—to be brass-buttoned, of course.

Boots: Black 'n Snappy

For dress. "Marie-Paule" ankle-high boots in soft, comfortable kid leather underscore fashion for fall. Cuffs can be turned back. Besides black, available in olive green or antique tan. At Innes Shoes, 5030 Pepperwood Ave., Lakewood Center.

Style Narrows to a 'Skimp'

Fashion's newest love is the skinny coat.

Designers pare fall and winter coverings right down to the slenderness of coat dresses. Collars mostly are small, sleeves are narrowed and the closings often are off center with side pleats to give walking room.

One designer calls his coat silhouette the "modulated" cut (definitely contoured to the body at front or back, or both) . . . another has produced the "dinky, slinky skimp coat" made in many ways to give a slender look.

THERE ARE many double-duty coats, with the fabrics treated so they can repel rain or snow. Some are of flat-surfaced woolens, so treated, and look very fall-1964 paired with soft jersey dresses and jersey stockings to match.

Many of the coats come with quilted linings.

Belts are very much on the coat scene, looped at the waist, some half belts of the same fabric. Showing everywhere: the narrow string of leather, like a thong, tied low on the hipbone.

FABRICS for fall look newest when ribbed or carved. Surfaces are either heavily textured, such as the new rope tweeds (look hand-crocheted), or the very opposite, flat.

Twills, whipcords, coverts and herringbones star, too. Tweeds are good, but the texture is smoother and colors merge exquisitely.

Fashion also endorses checks, cashing in on black and white or oatmeal and white.

Pockets on the March

Pocketed in the military manner, slim belted, vented in back. A Brittany twill, styled narrow—a look that's striding high in fashions this fall. Topping its snappy continental manner: a saucy alligator hat by Adolfo with pert push-back brim. At Buffums', Broadway at Pine.

Gone Foxy—
Movie Fashion

Reminiscent of Harlow and Lombard, the coat that wraps you in luxury.
Detachable fox collar is perfect accent for fur-like virgin wool.
V-necked, bracelet sleeved.
Comes in pink, blue, green, beige and white: collar dyed to match.
At Zukor's Downtown, 235 Pine Ave.

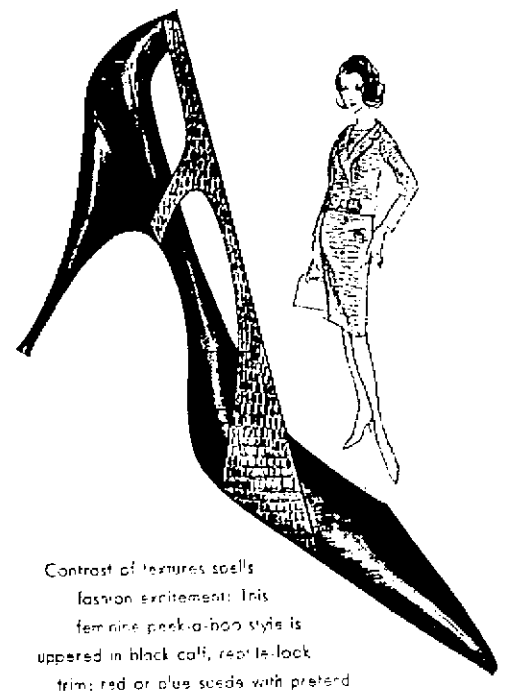

The Crackle of Checks

'The' looks add up to good looks in one exciting ensemble. Black and white double-breasted reefer tops slim skirt, redoubling the check. Completing costume: a sleeveless shell jersey; black, stitched-in-white cloche; lacy racy hose and shiny high-heeled boots. At Sears Fashion Shop, 450 Long Beach Blvd.

BURT'S

Luxury pump boasts two textures

Contrast of textures spells fashion excitement! This feminine peek-a-boo style is uppered in black calf, reptile-look trim; red or blue suede with pretend patent. A standout value.

Yes, It's Heaven-Scent

When laundering lingerie, use some of your favorite scent in the rinse water, and spray it on the ironing board before pressing blouses or lingerie.

Spray the insides of boudoir drawers to give their contents a delicate fragrance. Lightly spray the inside of your purse, as well as your handkerchief and glove boxes.

GARMENT bags may be sprayed so that clothing will be scented without any chance of discoloration. Containers where blankets are stored can be sprayed, too.

When entertaining, scent can give a festive air to your whole house. Sprayed lamp bulbs, when turned on, diffuse fragrance throughout the room, so will a few drops of cologne in the humidifier or on the grill of your air conditioner.

A Touch of Mink

Swinging full, wide and handsome, the mink-collared coat . . . three-buttoned against breezes. Comes in rich black, blue and apple blossom. Wedding band collar of glistening long-haired ranch mink. At Foreman & Clark, 144 Pine Ave., and Lakewood Center.

Coats, Suits Pre-Furred

Fur wraps up fall fashion with more luxury than seen in many a season.

There are fur-trimmed styles for all occasions—furred street dresses and furred raincoats, furred boots and furred chapeaux.

Fur-lined coats and suits, too, are a major fashion influence that's gaining distinction through new semi-fitted shaping and the use of long-haired furs as linings.

Forecast: White Flurries of Fur

Stepping elegantly into the spotlight is white fur for both late day and evening wear.

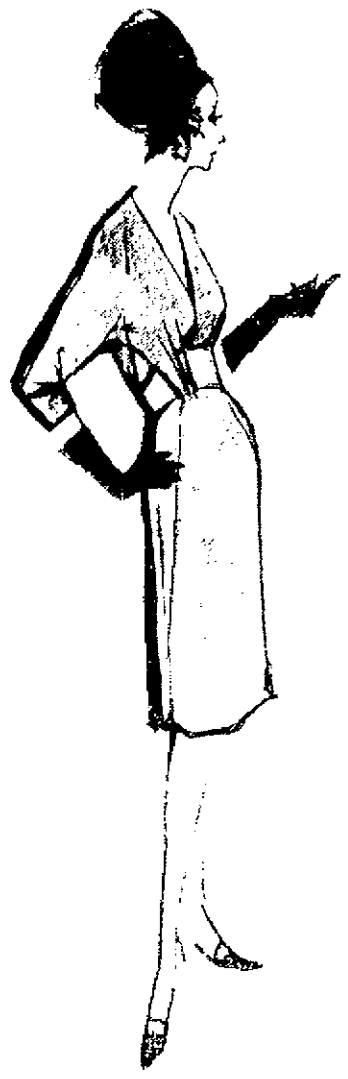

White mink and ermine will be seen in softly draped capelets and small stoles.

STYLED in fluid wrap-around lines are natural white broadtail lamb jackets with push-up sleeves and a cowl collar that can be worn as a hood for cooler occasions.

White fox, in one or more tiers, in capelets and stole styles, is a perennial favorite.

Fashion: the Great American Movement

Everywhere there is motion in fashion—skirts that swirl, pleats that dance, scarves that fly, jewelry that dangles and dazzles.

Entering a favorite bistro in a soft flourish of pleats seems in keeping with the gay mood.

For daytime, the new "tummy" banded skirt highlights a cluster of fine pleats to give a moving action.

* * * *

FLUID SKIRTS cut on the bias have the feminine look of beauty. Eased skirts—low godets and gores bring to mind the flamboyant 30's.

Chanel startles the fashion world by introducing the tiered skirt with one of her tailored suits, retaining the mood of the gentlewoman.

We see the tiered skirt for fall in wool, crepe and dressy fabrics, including lace.

* * * *

NECKLINES are consistently important. For day time they are gently set-away and often bowed, framing the face.

Turtlenecks in classic and newly widened versions complement the open-faced suit jackets, for casual wear.

For evening, necklines are often decollate, yet with decorum. Some rise high for late-day with a back utterly bare.

* * * *

THE "SNOOTY" little blacks, an elite group of dinner dresses, move from dining to dancing at your favorite discotheque.

For the fluid dress, soft wool crepes, shadow-checks, pebbly and ribbed surfaces are good.

The news in dresses begins at the neckline, wanders to the waist, swings gracefully at hem, and heralds a delightfully feminine season.

Smooth Curves Ahead

Afternoon-into-evening elegance in light wool crepe. Subtle soft colors (acorn with beige inset waist) and soft styling (bracelet-length sleeves, draped bodice) add up to lady like sophistication. At Vinsons, 4500 Atlantic Ave. in Bixby Knolls.

Color Me Bright

If you have a blue dress that was new last fall, you can give it a current fashion twist with addition of a decorative green scarf. Blue with green is a favorite and a striking color combination for fall.

Checks Are Going Racy

Chelsea-collared overblouse with snappy dickey (it snaps in or out) is Sue Brett's newest look in racy oversized hound's-tooth checks. Flat-surfaced, versatile wool fabric is perfect foil for slim skirt. In black and white or brown and white. At Greta's Ladies Ready-to-Wear, 5012 E. Second St.

No Type-Casting on Style Scene

There's no type-casting in fashion this season, at least as far as fabrics are concerned.

Any woman can have her own personal preference — choose between flat surfaced, plain fabrics and the boldly dimensional . . . between supple, gently manipulated woolens and crisp worsteds with strict tailoring.

IN 60s—GOING LIKE 30s

Re-Runs of Movie Siren Ways

Shades of Harlow, Lombard and other movie-queens of the Thirties! The fluid, figure-enhancing look is slinking back into the fashion spotlight this fall.

The supple, feminine look is executed in bias-cut crepes, flowing chiffons, velvets, cloques, sculptured laces and delicately patterned brocades —rich, elegant, designed to be seen, and be seen in.

Now make your dramatic entrance and stop the show . . . you owe it to your audience to invest in this very-New Look of the 30's!

* * * *

OTHER LATE-DAY notes:

- Restaurant suits enter the fall scene with skinny, shaped body lines.
- The long dress with its own jacket, a wardrobe in itself, creates a stir in smart circles.
- The decollete crepe with its bias-cut skirt—what an elegant way to go formal!

* * * *

- THE NIGHT-TIME look of a column — classic and Grecian in inspiration—softly draped to accentuate feminine curves in a strapless gown.

Yes, soft, pretty lines take the lead for fall, and never more dramatically than in fashions for evening.

Hats on for 'My Fair Lady'

Chapeaux Steal the Show

Back in the days when 'Enry 'Iggins made a silk purse out of such raw materials as Liza Doolittle, ladies dressed like ladies and nary a bare feminine head saw the light of day.

This year, when short, sleek hairstyles make it possible for a gal to wear a hat again, the millinery industry has taken as its inspiration that glorious era of "My Fair Lady."

Gone are the bits of whimsy perched precariously at the back of the head. Today hats are unmistakably, poyously and elegantly HATS.

* * * *

BRIMS COME in a wide variety of shapes. There are small tailored fedoras and swagger hats, large winged and sloping cloche brims, huge bretons and rollers and floppy double-faced stitched brims.

Berets aren't even kissin' cousins to the beret we once knew. They are much fuller and more mobile.

Some cover the hair completely, others can be worn on the back of the head or tilted to the side for a profile effect.

* * * *

THERE ARE helmet caps, curved to fit the head and worn perfectly flat on the hair.

Other caps are trimmed with a flat bow or feather pompom and some tie with chin ties.

Turbans this season have back interest — snoods, domes, large bows, jewels and feathers.

It Swings, Swishes and Shimmers

Jewelry Goes Into Action for Fall

There's a new swing and swish to the shimmer of jewelry.

It moves.

Earrings dangle.

Chains drape and loop—sometimes dropping to the hemline and pendants plunge low.

The fashion feeling for fall is movement and jewelry is doing just that.

* * * *

EVEN PINS, bracelets, rings and watches seem to be on the go—dazzling and daring, they look mobile even when they're not.

The necklace story is captured in the phrase, "the long and short of it." Short choker lengths always will be worn, but today the rage is for 30 to 60-inch chains and beads that can be draped, twisted and wrapped at will.

Pearls are definitely popular—strands of jumbo ones. Complementing the soft ruffles, gently shaped suits and drop waistlines that mark many of the 1964 collections, they come in long, long ropes — some even touching the hemline.

* * * *

PENDANTS, very much in the spotlight, range from bejeweled lockets, cameos, creme perfume caches and other such cavalieres to big watches on grandfather's chain and enormous caged jewel drops.

The chains, top fashion news by themselves, run the gamut from bold multi-strands to delicate rhinestone links.

The ornaments often double as pins with easy versatility. Here, heirloom colorings and antiqued finishes are finding favor among fashion-wise women.

The bejeweled look heightens the glamour of night-life with the popularity of jewel-laden cashmere sweaters, beaded gowns, jackets and sweeping evening coats.

* * * *

THERE'S AURORA borealis glitter everywhere.

Shimmering stones and beads which simulate the gem colors of emeralds, sapphires and rubies—as well as aquamarine, topaz and amethyst—are favored with rust and olive-green tones creating interest with their novelty.

And of course, there's gold—lots of gold!

Pins will be perking up many a costume with glowing impudence—brightening a hat, a lapel cuff or waistline.

Earrings not only accessorize necklaces, pins, bracelets and rings for the ensemble look but star in their own right.

They're big, bold and dangling with living motion that characterizes all fall collections.

* * * *

AS TO THE shape of jewlery for fall—there's a galaxy of free forms plus loads of Baroque. Look for opulence and dimension everywhere.

Perhaps the "sleeper" for the fashion year will be the two-finger ring.

Popular centuries ago, but not seen in modern times, these double-in-one rings are usually designed for third and little finger wear.

Comfortable and not at all confining in movement, they bloom from finger to finger.

In summation, the new jeweled look is total; name an accessory and you'll find it bejeweled—whether it's a hat or pair of shoes, stockings or veiling.

The Fine Art of Tweedery!

What has happened to tweeds? Plenty!

They are boldly dimensional, wonderfully varied. They have enormous character, yet look sleek and bulkless.

Remarkably versatile, this season they're adaptable to formal or casual styling, as right for winter suits as for coats and evening attire.

Mandel's FINE FOOTWEAR

Look for Built-in Walking, Sitting Room in New Skirts

If you're a hip wrinkle smoother, a hemline tugger or a shirt hitcher, you can expect to break those nervous habits this fall.

Not just short skirts are to blame for this fidgeting.

It happens when they're short AND tight, when they ride up and crease unbecomingly while you sit, slide dangerously above your knees when you cross your legs and thwart graceful stair ascension unless you lift them a little.

Now—Dame Fashion has changed all that! This season there'll be plenty of built-in walking and sitting comfort for suits, dresses and what-have-you.

• • • •

ONE SUCH shift to comfort is the apron front wrap skirt with a deep center pleat for real kicks.

But your silhouette is taken into consideration, too, and the possibility of a row of pleats broadening your beam is solved with happily smoother stitched pleats most of the way down the skirt, from which they burst loose for knee action.

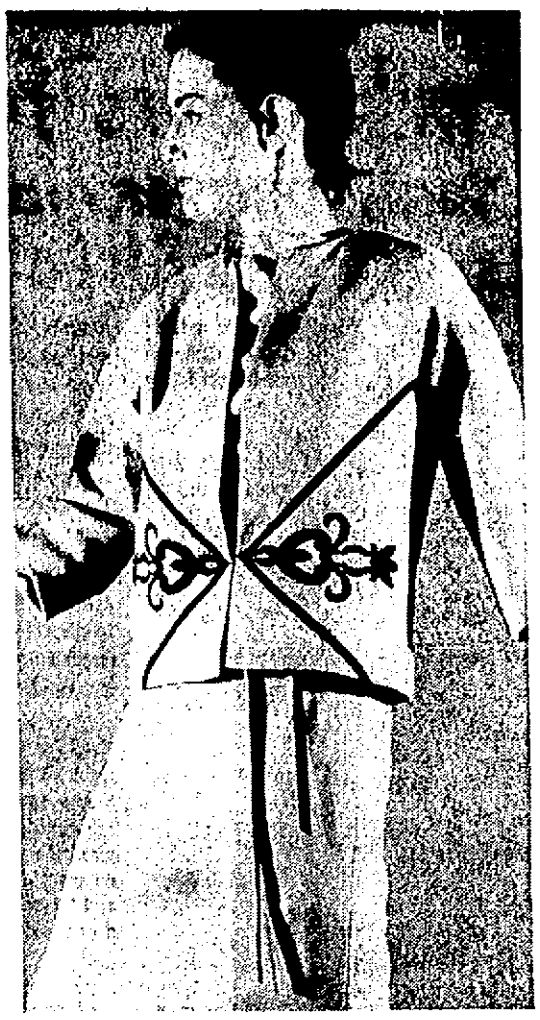

Most fall clothes concentrate on hiding or disguising excess avoirdupois. Among these are slim princess bodices, pencil slim coat dresses and, for evening, long drinks of black wool with draw string necklines and some flounce at the ankles for stride room.

• • • •

MANY COAT designers give a skinny look and walking room—rain or shine, day or night—with their cover stories.

Latest contribution to your fashion vocabulary is the skim coat, a double-breasted raglan sleeved creation stitched high under the arm to let the silhouette brag about a dieted-down figure.

The proper chapeau to wear with these is shaped like those worn by the Northwest Mounties, that valiant group that always gets its man. Can't beat that for a combination!

Scrolled in Suede

Suede takes to knit, goes anywhere. Double knit, all wool costume features decorative suede-ing in diagonals and flower styling. By Fashionette, 3500 E. Fourth St.

Eyesome Threesome

Double-breasted cardigan dips low with vested interest. Underneath, long-sleeved, long necktied blouse in stripes; slim solid skirt; a threesome with no little fall snap. It's Cannably Creation of Zeskrome knit. Comes in red, black and olive with matching striped blouse. At Wonder Shops, 221 Pine Ave.; 5033 Hazelbrook, Lakewood; 6517 Bellflower, Blvd., Bellflower.

Weed Wardrobe

It's getting close to the time when fashion-wise women should go through their fall wardrobes and weed out anything that can't be worn this year, no matter how fond of the items they have become.

Curls, Swirls 'n Bangs Get Set for Fall

Curly locks are news in new dos.

While the rest of the fashion world is creating a stir with plunging necklines, hair stylists have taken the plunge for curlier, shorter hair—hair that plunges, too. In this case, discreetly down the nape of the neck.

Teased 'n tormented locks are out—so are Beatle-like thick fringed bangs. Bangs now take a mere wisp of a shape.

• • • •

MOST IMPORTANT, hairstyles are based on movement, with a sweep of curl moving forward on the face and a cork-screw adding a dash over the ear.

Today's curly locks, however, bear no resemblance to those of by-gone days. You might better call the new look the "soft look."

Worn high or low, the new teased dos, have sweep and dash and individuality.

Above all, they emphasize curvy femininity.

• • • •

BEST OF ALL, they are flattering for all. The swirling layers of soft waves in the newest styles look well on women of any age. Flowing dos (often including a flirt curl at the nape) are easy to look at, easy to wear.

Though there are more twists and turns this year than ever before, styles are set to stay in place, no matter how bouncy the discotheque.

• • • •

DANCING coiffures developed by some stylists do away with the unlayered straight look because, the stylists say, nothing moves with less grace than limp hair.

Whether you call the new styles curly or simply soft, they need a careful cut, usually with the front just a touch longer than the back.

For Dos— Don't Tease

Fall feminity goes breezy—without a touch of a tease. Guiches comb forward over cheeks and temple—meet feathered bangs. Top hair is soft, curly and slightly heightened. By Stabers for Beauty, Eighth and Locust.

Fashion Has Language All Its Own

There'll always be phrase-makers in the wonderful world of fashion!

Some of the new terms to define new fall creations include "the escord coat," a new way of describing long evening cloaks to go with evening dresses . . . "caleche," a way of distinguishing dresses with matching hoods . . .

And then there's "M.O.B." That's the garment industry's term for dresses appropriate for the mother of the bride!

On the Scene: Gray Flannel

Don't underestimate the importance of gray flannel, both plain and striped.

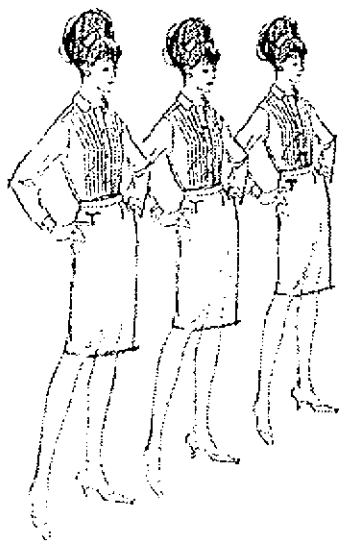

It's everywhere — in the most important town suits and dresses and in versatile separates that go 'round the clock.

And there's an ever-growing interest in pin-striped flannel, the fabric manufacturers report. The innovation of stock-dyed gray suiting flannel with built-in comfort stretch is another trend worth watching, they point out.

Belt Tricks

Belts don't waste space when it comes to nipping the waist in style. They're skinny, slender and stunning. Try these belt tricks: a little red cobra, a double rope of brilliants, a band of embroidered black satin.

It's the Furriest of Furbelows for Fall

. . . mink, seal, beaver, jungle cat all furs go fashionating

Stroll in Style

A shimmering star of minkdom—morning light mink stroller is enough to make any woman want to go strolling. In Emba mink, luxury cuddles close via large notched collar of circular skins. By Lockwood Furs, 711 Pine Ave.

Do you have a hankering for a little Maragay Cat coat, or one of Guanaco or Kangaroo or perhaps an Indian Lamb or Unplucked Nutria?

Just ask your furrier.

This is the year of alphabetic furs. There are 26 letters to choose from: Buffalo, Australian Opposum, Jaguar, Tiger, Raccoon and Fitch—to name a few more.

And styling, it's as imaginative as the furs themselves. In coats, you'll find the curve — action at the top, shoulders shaped to arch . . . the tent—figure-molding in the upper, then flared downward and outward . . . the wrapped—adjustable to your moods or midrift . . . the asymmetrical—newest way to close a coat, off-center and feminine . . . and the slim—chic in every sense of the word.

* * * *

FURS ALSO are going to every length to please: from absolute floor-length to street length to ⅞s, ¾s, fingertip, hip and waist length.

Your size is no longer a challenge. Your furrier has your number and in the right proportion.

And when it comes to jackets, furs are destined to take their place as elegant wardrobe s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-r-s . . . there are cutaways, high risers, long liners, curved and tapered and skinny ones—each with a personality its own.

* * * *

ALL YOUR FURS must fit you, your personality, and of course your pocketbook.

Many women buy their first fur as they emerge into womanhood—in working years before marriage when their financial strings aren't as tight as they may later become.

This fur has to satisfy many requirements—it has to be utilitarian (since it is a major wardrobe item), it also has to have a feeling of elegance and luxury.

Although she may not be able to afford the really expensive furs, the working girl doesn't want—and rightly—to "settle" for substitutes. This fur, therefore, should usually be a full-length coat of such fashionable (when well-cut and designed)—but not extremely expensive skins as nutria, beaver, and so on.

It should be glamorous enough for the theater, but not too fussy to be wrong for an after-five date—and its warmth and durability should certainly be considered before paying the amount that it will cost.

Wrapt in Mink

The luxury every woman wants—to be wrapped in mink. Here it's a style steal in natural Emba tourmaline mink stole. By El Dorado, fashioned from 18 fully let-out male, top quality skins; luxurious wide turn-back collar. At Furs by David, 203 E. Third St.

Double Furbishing

Never has a fur stroller looked so smart. Two-toned for twice the fashion, it's of silken, supple modern Persian lamb, collared and bordered in mink. At Frank A. Hill & Son, 3316 E. Broadway.

ONLY HER FURDRESSER KNOWS

Make Mine Mink--Pink, Please!

Ever think of owning a green mink, a purple persian, a pink fox?

This is the season. Name any color, any fur and you'll undoubtedly find it—and have the time of your life wearing it.

And why not?

With everyone else going around in those browns and grays and blacks, you'll be a sensation. Mink, for instance, isn't cheap and if you wear a green one, it'll be obvious to everyone that you have ALL the other colors at home.

In the opinion of one master furrier, Jack Estreich, president of American Beauty Furs, women are a bit timid about clading themselves in fad furry fashion. They don't get as much fun out of fur as they should.

When they think mink — they think single mink, one to wear with everything.

* * * *

SAYS ESTREICH: "There's no mink that goes with everything. A fur wardrobe should be well balanced, it should include color."

This year will be the most colorful of all in American furmanship. Best news is which furs dyed their hair. The rabbits, the moleskins, the moutons, the beavers are among those changing their natural colors.

What's the advantage of a colored fur?

Well, think of reaching for a red broadtail coat on a gray winter's morning. More exciting than reaching for a dull gray, don't you agree?

Whether It's Pants or Party . . . the Trend's to Femininity

Pantemonium Reigns . . .

This may well be remembered as the year women started wearing the pants in the family—in earnest.

But, men need have no fear. The pants the girls are putting on are definitely not masculine — they're ultra feminine and impeccably colored.

In fact, the newest look in trousers for milady is the smartly suited look—slacks narrow or bell-bottomed, topped with jackets long and elegantly fitted.

They're designed for at-home, to go to town, out to dine or to the theater—and they're being seen everywhere: Paris, Rome, all over the U.S.A.

• • • •

OUT OF 15 top Parisian designers, 12 included pants in their fall fashion line-ups.

Gabrielle Chanel re-introduced 1930-style slacks: in wool jersey, loose and wide at the bottom like sailors' trousers. It was the first time the Grand Dame of fashion had put pants on her models since she began designing back in 1914.

Courreges, another designing Frenchman, who teamed jackets with slacks, says "it's a reconversion of the classic suit — probably will be the current fashion in the year 2000."

• • • •

FROM THE WAY things look, he could be off a few 100 years, American designers seem to be panting it up, too, in '64.

Hostess pants, theater pants, knee pants and ski pants—there's pure "pantemonium" in the fashion world.

Some go classic, are topped with tunics and belted with sable . . . others leaning toward the casual are suited for shopping or travel.

Discotheque Swings . . .

American fashion has borrowed another word from the French. It's "discotheque," rhymes with check, which is what you'll probably be writing once you've seen the new discotheque dresses.

Actually the word started out with the meaning of a place where records are kept —a record library.

Then it gradually became associated with nightclubs that play records instead of live music.

• • • •

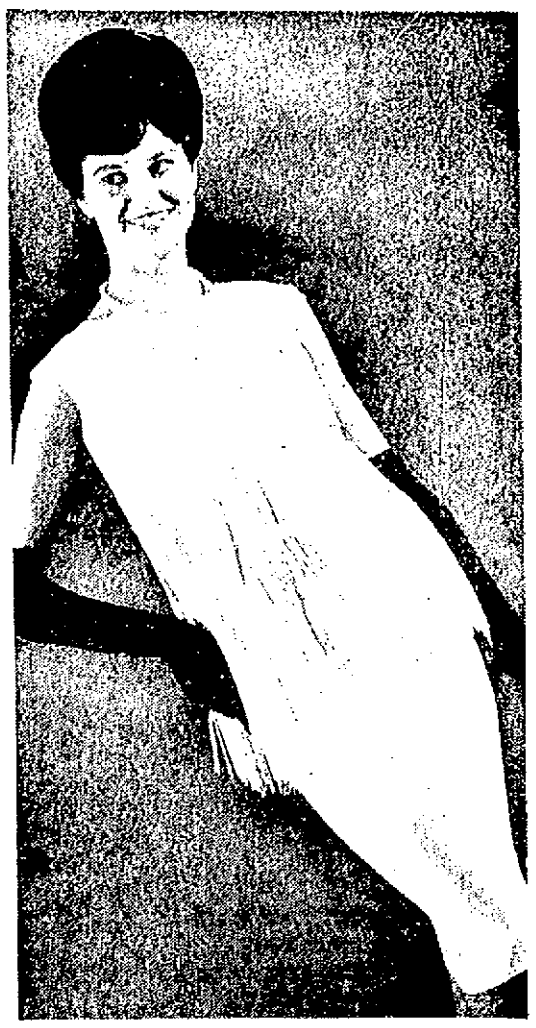

WEALTHY young Parisians took to the idea of dancing to canned music as opposed to live orchestras and started frequenting places catering exclusively to the discotheque theme.

BECAUSE of the frenetic gymnastics involved in discotheque dancing, the sleeveless shift with swinging skirt has evolved as "the" design. It's short, fluid and comes in black or prints. Wool is a popular fabric as well as silk.

Footwear appears in elegant little heeled sandals with plenty of open cutting for design and venting.

Other non-lacy patterns for evening include: a beautiful delicate point d'esprit, diamonds, snowflakes, acorns and medallion patterns.

There are ribbed stockings in non-sporty colors such as vivid French blue or brilliant emerald green.

A Twisty Twosome

For twisting or discotheque dancing, a double date of a dress. Short overblouse goes long with fringe over slim sheath. By Jay Herbert in black or winter white crepe. At GiGi's, 5251 E. Second St., Belmont Shore.

Hey, Tiger---or Are You?

Frankly fake furs are making more than just wild-life conservationists happy.

They're being greeted with open arms by countesses and career girls alike. With such a variety of styles and prices so reasonable, no one can afford to be without one.

Big on the copy-cat list are "Chita" (a cheetah-like fabric), "Brazotta," (imitates fur of the Brazilian river otter) and a leopard-like cloth called "Somali" that proves a leopard needn't change his spots to go inexpensively elegant.

Garbo Influence Flikkers Again

The Garbo influence is staging another re-run in the unpredictable world of fashion.

Flickering once again across the style scene are hoods with costumes, coats, suits. And there are many slouch hats with big brims that disguise a damsel so much that even her hubby wouldn't know her in a crowd.

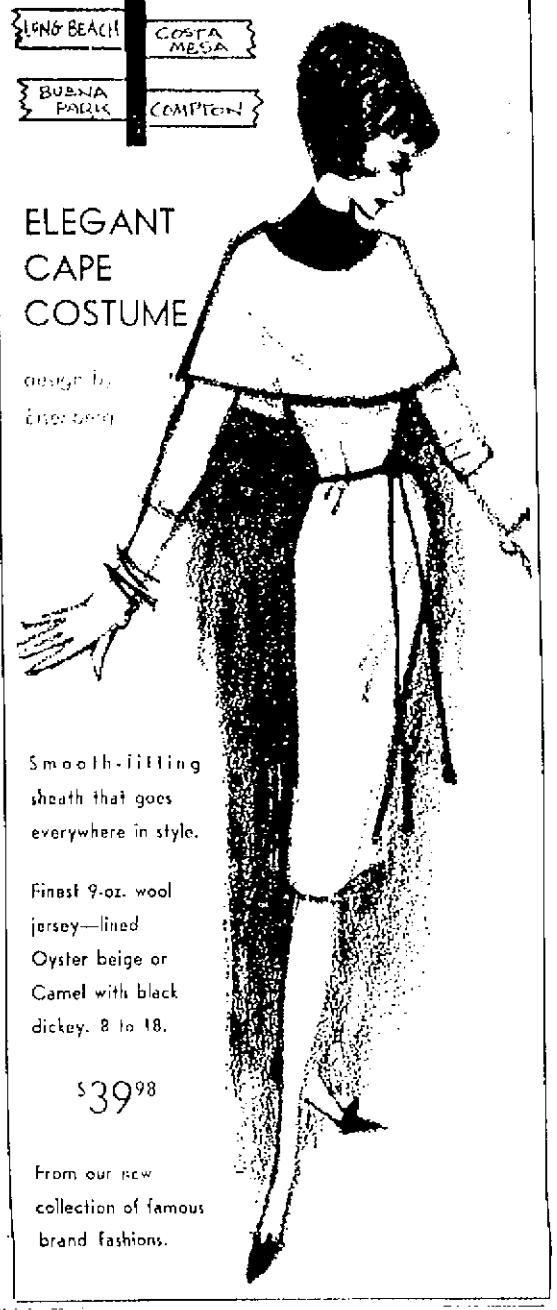

More Fashion Mileage

When commuting, globe-trotting or just flitting from luncheon to dinner, a variety of scarves and jewelry can make one basic dress go a long way . . . anywhere, anytime. Separates, also, give added fashion mileage to on-the-go wardrobes.

Now---Bangs Give Bows the Brush

France has decreed that bows are bowing out and that it's the girly with a fringe of bangs on top who's in.

Last spring, Coco Chanel's coiffure with a bow in back became the rage of Paris. Every shop girl, white collar worker and lady street vendor had to have one.

TO RENE GOUJEAN, Paris hair stylist (he started the whole thing in the first place), popular and passe have the same meaning.

SO — he's banned bows and brought in false bangs!

Attached to a wide head band, the bang attachments are well on their way to creating a bang-up style note for evening wear.

Half Topless!

In a season when topless swimsuits and plunging necklines make news in fashions, watch also for another bare trend---the completely strapless formal is back in full strength.

Designers show them often with accompanying stoles of matching fabric. For opulence, the stoles often are bordered in mink or sable.

Fall's Color Scheme: Splash With Dash!

Chestnut is lively—deep, dark chocolate and "delicious . . . red is very fall-1964 when it is carnation, a new blue-red.

* * * *

WHITES and off-whites maintain their eminence.

Fashion also sings the blues, in slate tones and teal.

Gray comes in strong, too, in tones with an Oxford accent.

And for that avante garde touch: go-togethers have been carefully ensembled, often in two companionate fabrics and color for THE mark of elegance!

IT'S THE LEGGY LOOK

Shoes Lightfoot It Into Fall

It's all buckles and bows and strapping good looks for fall's leggy shoes.

Straps buckle at the throat of an opened shoe, band the instep of an almost-boot, are found in narrow trios across deeply V'd vamps.

The T strap (it has never looked better) is seen in every design from broad buccaneer to open-backed afternoon striplings.

AS TO buckles 'n bows, they're moving in big and bold, plain and fancy, rounded and squared.

Some of the newest buckled beauties look like they just stepped off the Mayflower. Others have more of a Florentine flair.

And everywhere there's a big step toward ultra femininity with light-in-weight footnotes.

Sides scoop into curvy shapings called canoe shells (shallowed only toward the front) or plunge into deep decolletages that bare beginnings of the toes.

THE HIGH FRONT is a new favorite—liked for its contrast with skimmy sides and lowered, rangy backs. Sometimes the throat is choked, narrowed and quite high.

The sling back is back in step with fashion. Other favorite openings include prim ghillies, widely laced to reveal the instep . . . dainty cut-outs with surprise laces at the sides of the heel . . . and evening slippers with skimpy T-strings.

TOES SHAPES include a crop of crescents. What's up front has been widened and somewhat shortened for more natural outline. Look for further shortening and softening of the toe, coupled with an elongation of the rest of the shoe.

As to heels, therein lies the big story (except they're more often small, there's no single style shape. Heels are curved, stacked or skinny. They may be spools, gauchos, cowboys, pyramids or pared-down kegs. They may be broad based. They may even be the rediscovered wedge.

Off-beat but very harmonic pairings: a cowboy heel on a brocade cocktail shell, a narrow high heel on a pilgrim-buckled suede ghillie.

Rather high heels, (bewitching to legs and ankles) are considered the prettiest way to step out after dark. These may be styled in hourglass or narrow set-back or straightened cone fashion.

ALSO FOR EVENING: night light feminine styling in opulent fabrics. There are satins, velvets, brocades, silks and glittery metallics. Weaves have deeper dimension, colors are newly dynamic and decorations range from folded flowers to enormous vertical buckles . . . from narrow ankle straps blazing with brilliants to fine pleatings of re-embroidered lace.

When it comes to walkers—these shoes are stepping high in shapely, medium-heeled fashion. No longer sensible, dull or heavy, they're skipping along with more snap and verve and outright good looks than ever before.

THIS SEASON, inspiration comes from the classics, the pinked and perforated oxfords, the little girl softies, the fringed tongues, the tailored ties.

High-buttoned shoes are on the rise, but the tied types (once the only proper shoe for walking) are still good fashion footing.

As to color, it can be pale or passionate, coolingly elegant or immensely exciting.

Greens are on the go, climbing from the deep jungle shadings through the clear malachites and jades to the hot, savage tones.

Trends to watch: New textures, in grainy, brushed and unbashed furry, finishes . . . suedes supremely silky . . . the newly discovered matte patents, and an interest in printed patents.

Fall's Newest Booty

Get a chic kick out of fashion by keeping in step with zingy ankle-high buckled booties by Van Elli—snappy gay patent topped shoes by Miss Jo. Both in newest fall shades. At Joseph Salon Shoes, 209 Pine.

The 'Little' Things That Mean a Lot

Little things mean a lot this fall to achieve fashion's total look.

There are, for instance, those shoe strings of leather that look so new on coats and suits.

Inexpensive (as well as expensive) furs form scarves or stoles which reverse to the wool fabric side. Feathers are turned into capes and dresses, as well as into hats.

* * * *

JEWEL-STUDDED "bandit" scarves are tops for covering coifs in the evening . . . and half-bikini scarves (those little triangles) look this-minute with casual clothes and swingy skirts.

Remember, it's the individual touches that make the difference of being a fashionable individualist or a not-so-fashionable nondescript.

Chemise Slips Back in Style

The chemise slip, last seen peeking out from under a flapper's flapping skirt, has slipped back into style. New models come to top of your stockings — have shaped bodice. You'll see them in reptile prints, flowers — everything.

Arm of Fashion

On the cuff styling is the thing in the new big bangle bracelets. As wide as a cuff, these fashionable wristlets are being fashioned of everything from wood to feathers and worn everywhere from backyard barbeque to gala balls.

Something New (You!) In Home Decoration

Great occasion at-home dresses make the hostess a fashion plate when entertaining via dinner or cocktail party.

Designers, recognizing the fashion fact that not all damsels like pants suits for at-home events, have put together tremendously flowing gowns—especially appealing to the hostess whose enthusiasm for slacks has slackened.

Fall's home-base costumes are the most oppulent in many a season.

* * * *

SOME ARE of velvet, accented by satin. Others are made of lace and include bow treatments for accent at neckline, backline, waist or bosom.

The favorite silhouette: a full, long skirt topped by a bosom-accenting bodice with slim to wide sleeves, ranging from below-the-elbow to bracelet length.

* * * *

BEAUTIFUL brocades figure in many at-home costumes. Example: a long brocade skirt, ankle length, topped by a bodice with scooped neckline, featuring long sleeves and lots of sparkle.

The sparkle may come from long bugle beads stitched to the bodice. Or it may come from a blaze of jewelry dangling fore or aft over a plain jersey top.

Gal on Toes---Has Shoes for Wherever She Goes

Used to be a gal was on her toes if she owned just two pair of shoes: everyday's and dress-ups.

Not so in '64.

The modern woman keeps on the move with changing feet. She needs a shoe wardrobe that matches her dress wardrobe—her tempo of living — her activities. She needs everything from casuals and slippers to boots and brocades.

And she needs to know how to get the most mileage out of every pair and how to select the right styles.

* * * *

FIRST OF ALL, it's important to own shoes that not only fit the occasion but fit the feet.

It makes sense, too, to have enough to keep you in good health.

It's said that a woman should vary her heel heights, three times each day if possible. If this is not practical for you, work out some regular basis for rotation.

* * * *

REST YOUR SHOES. Give them three days off between wearings, if possible. Don't wear damp shoes — remember it takes two days, at least, for a pair to dry.

In general, American women require more shoes than women of other lands, because they are more active and find it necessary to fit more shoes to more special occasions and activities.

Dame Fashion Banks on Black

It promises to be a prosperous fashion year, with many styles in the black.

Perennially a favorite, black this season makes news in the puffed textures, those with a quilted dimension.

And for interesting departures there are extravagant beadings in tapestry effects. Brocaded ribbons and satins also are very much on the fashion scene.

New Short Story for Evening

The short formal, overshadowed the past two seasons by long gowns, emerges again for fall and winter evenings.

It's dressier than the conventional cocktail dress, comes in fabrics just as luxurious as those which go to the floor and is cut equally low at the top.

Its added advantage: greater maneuverability getting in and out of car or cab.

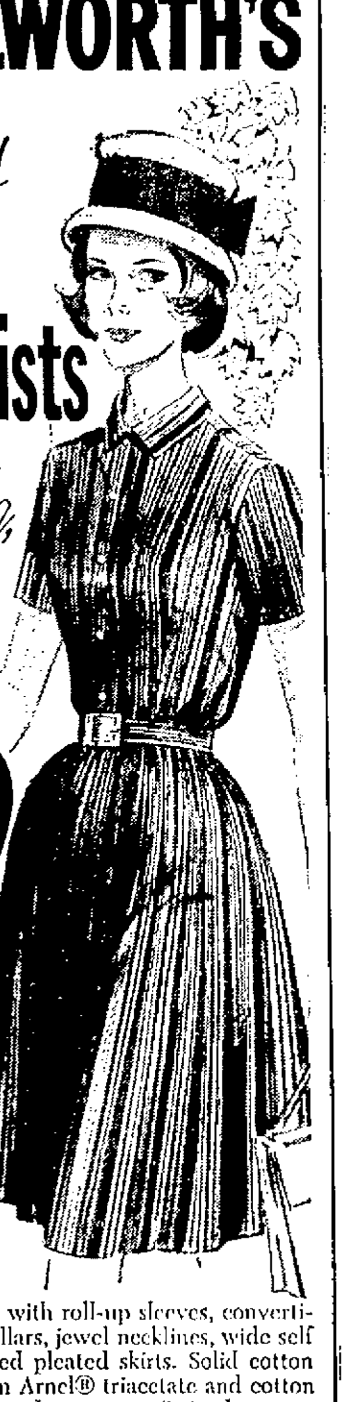

* * * *

THERE'S a return to the strapless top for evening to compete with daringly plunged necklines which have to have strings across the shoulders, anyway, to hold them on.

Among the sexiest of the short dance dresses is the silhouette that starts with a form-fitting base in black silk or crepe and is covered with several layers of net or lace. Some call it the cage dress.

'Janet Leigh Week'

She'll Dance on Monday With Andy Williams Then on Friday Try Her Hand at Drama

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Janet Leigh makes her dramatic television debut this week and also appears in a variety special.

In the past, Miss Leigh has confined her acting talents to movies, appearing on television only in a couple of variety shows. She will dance again at 9 p.m. Monday during "The Andy Williams Show" on channel 4.

Miss Leigh does her first television dramatic part in a segment of Bob Hope's anthology series at 8:30 p.m. Friday, channel 4. She plays a role opposite Bobby Darin, who makes one of his rare dramatic appearances on television.

* * * *

JANET describes her part as "a very interesting role," that of a housewife who meets another man and "because they met, tragedy happens."

"The executive producer, Dick Berg, has been talking to me for about a year and a half about doing something on the show," Janet said. "He's come up with a lot of good scripts, fine scripts for other people but they just didn't appeal to me. This time he came up with one that hits the jackpot, a Stirling Silliphant script. And there is a good combination of people."

Part of the reason for Miss Leigh's reluctance to try television acting was rooted in her fears about not having enough time to do the job properly. In movies she would work for days on a scene that television directors must film in a few hours.

* * * *

"A DRAMATIC television show is like doing a movie, only you do it in less time," she said. "So I was leery, wondering how you can do as good a job.

"But I found on this show that we take as much time on the scenes as we need to. And we don't have much time between scenes.

"If I'm going to get up

Some Lovable TV Types Who Love Publicity

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — With the television season open full blast, video executives are dispatching some of their biggest celebrities to the hinderland to form lasting friendships with the public. Fortunately, we were able to collar some of these celebrities for exclusive statements before they left. Remember, you read them here first.

Gary Crewcut, the handsome young leading man: "A scoop for you, baby. I'm forming my own production company. I'm 23 already, and if Frank Sinatra had my assurance he could be another me. Maybe you saw my last series, 'The Ensign.' It was great, but they didn't know what to do with me. The girls worship me, and I like some of them. The press releases describe me as rugged, which is about right."

Harry Middleground, the famous producer: "Well, look, it's true that this season I have a situation comedy, but I'm bidding for the rights to James Joyce's 'Ulysses,' Thomas Mann's 'The Magic Mountain' and Marcel Proust's 'Remembrance of Things Past,' as well as for all of D. H. Lawrence's works which look adaptable to television. Maybe you've seen my movies along these lines. I want to be identified with great things. Desperately."

• • • •

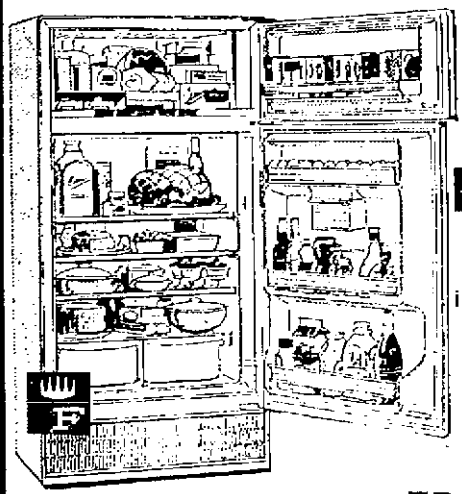

MAY MARKER, the legendary leading lady: "No matter how much one has achieved, one must be willing to gamble in experimental shows if one wants to mature in one's profession. That is why next season I will have a special entitled 'May Marker presents Labor Day with Bob Hope and a cast of thousands from the Hollywood Bowl.'"

Joe Golightly, the witty and successful writer: "I wish all scripts could be as easy as this first one for the series. Joy Bullocks, a great, truly great, comedienne is my favorite actress, and I had her in mind as I wrote. She reminds me of Carole Lombard and Shirley MacLaine, but she has something different. I don't know what it is, but it's star quality, and I can't figure out why she doesn't work more often. We didn't hire her either, but she's a fun girl."

LUCILLE BALL, in the role of Lucy Carmichael, takes skiing instructions from her bank manager, Mr. Mooney (Gale Gordon) on "The Lucy Show" Monday at 9 p. m. on channel 2.

The laughs are on Lucille Ball and Bob Hope when they star in the comedy "The Facts of Life" on "Sunday Night Movie" Sunday at 9 p. m. on channel 7.

HER NEW 'GAB' CAREER IS 'FUN'

Lucy Loves Her Recorder

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The inventor of television—little need to identify her as Lucille Ball—has discovered a broadcasting ancestor named radio and, naturally, taken it into camp by the simple expedient of batting those big blue eyes.

The reason that Miss Ball did not invent radio should be obvious. She doesn't go back that far.

In any event, the dynamic redhead is working both sides of the broadcasting street this season, and she is happy about it.

"CBS didn't have to twist my arm when it was suggested that I might want to take over the radio spot Garry Moore vacated along with his television program," she said. "I love radio.

• • • •

"I DID SOME radio work before television, but it was situation comedy stuff. I've never done this sort of thing before."

"This sort of thing" is a five-a-week, Monday-through-Friday morning "talk program."

"I find people wherever I can, and we gab," Miss Ball said. "We talk about everything and everybody. It's fun, not work."

For the purpose of taping the radio programs, the star takes a portable recording machine with her wherever she goes. It was with her here; it is on the set when she does her television rehearsals and filmings in Hollywood.

• • • •

"YOU NEVER know when you'll run into someone interesting," she explained. "Some of the interviews are planned, others are right off the cuff."

As for her TV series, "The Lucy Show," Miss Ball said: "I'll make 28 episodes altogether, and after we wind up in February or March, I'd like to make another movie. I've got the script. What I need is to get Fred MacMurray available at the right time."

Instead of the 8:30-9 p.m. Monday spot the video show had last season, Lucy is back at her former 9-9:30 period, and this pleases her.

"I've got 'To Tell the Truth,' 'I've Got a Secret' and 'The Andy Griffith Show' as lead-ins," she said, "and that isn't bad. Maybe I won't get as many of the younger kids as I would at 8:30, but I don't think that matters too much."

• • • •

MISS BALL is more at ease than she was a year ago when the responsibilities of Desilu Studios rested squarely on her shoulders. Oscar Katz, a former CBS program executive, has taken over the major chores.

"All I have to do now is to attend directors' meetings, policy sessions and approve or disapprove potential programs," she said. "So far as the studio is concerned, I can, sort of, relax. Oh, but we're busy! We may not have much on the air this season, but we have more than a dozen programs at one stage of development or another for the 1965-66 season—or beyond that even. You really have to work well ahead in this business these days."

The inevitable question—will she be back for a fourth season with "The Lucy Show"?

And the inevitable answer—"I don't know. Two or three times, I didn't think I'd be back this season. I lost my long-time writers; the network suggested a one-hour weekly show, with which I'm not about to kill myself; I wanted to do a series of specials which the network didn't want. So, here I am, back at the old stand. Who can tell about next season? All I know is that I'm not tired of working. I love it."

SHE PLANS A 'BROADSIDE' ATTACK ON EUROPE

Kathy Nolan Sets Her Sights Afar

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kathy Nolan, an effervescent, green-eyed redhead who has risen to the top of her bracket in television, is looking for new worlds to conquer.

"I've never been to Europe," Miss Nolan said. "Now, I think I'm about ready to go—but not quite.

"I'd like to read up on the history first, so I'll know where I am when I get there. Then I'd like to work somewhere over there for a while, really get to know the place.

"I don't want just to pan past the scene. I want to dolly right in and find out what it's like close up."

* * * *

THIS FALL, Miss Nolan achieved the stardom she has been seeking for—well, never mind how many years. It's enough to say that she made her dramatic debut at the age of 13 months, and she is now over 21.

She is best known as a television actress, and it is in that medium she is starring as Lt. Anne Morgan in "Broadside," an ABC situation comedy series originating in Hollywood's Universal City studios.

Miss Nolan was a mainstay of "The Real McCoys" for five years, and she has worked in a number of other television shows both in Hollywood and in New York.

* * * *

SHE ALSO has had considerable stage experience, including an award-winning Broadway performance as Wendy in the Mary Martin version of "Peter Pan." She still likes to perform for a live audience when the opportunity offers.

Just before starting work on "Broadside," she toured the Middle West in a production of the play, "Sunday in New York."

"Broadside" is the story of a small WAVE detachment assigned to operate the motor pool at a Navy base on a small island during World War II, or a reasonable approximation thereof.

KATHY NOLAN

The series is being produced without the slightest assistance from the U.S. Navy.

* * * *

"THERE'S a big WAVE in Washington who doesn't like the title, although she doesn't know much about the show," Miss Nolan said. "I don't know whether she saw the first episode."

"I went to a luncheon recently where there were three admirals. They told me 'McHale's Navy' is a terrible show—and then they proceeded to tell me everything McHale has ever done. They may hate the show just as much as they say they do, but they certainly do watch it!"

JOAN STALEY and Lois Roberts meet the problem of too much Navy chow face to face with a crash diet program that includes sweat suits borrowed from frogmen on "Broadside" Sunday at 8:30 p. m. on channel 7.

Filmdom Nervously Watches A Potential Giant: Pay-TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Here in Hollywood, a great many movie actors and other film workers keep waiting for signs of a clear, positive breakthrough of pay-TV and its implicit, immense promise of added employment.

That is why the obstacle course faced by the fledgling Los Angeles-San Francisco pay-TV operation, Subscription Television Inc. (STV), with its national implications, is of increasing interest each day. It is a course that sometimes seems as ominous as a mile-wide logjam.

Well known by now is the fierce fight being waged by supporting of the so-called "free-TV" movement against pay-TV. They have, in fact, succeeded in getting on the November ballot the question of whether pay-TV should be banned in the state. If the vote count goes against pay-TV, then STV's very existence will be threatened.

* * * *

THUS STV has had to spend a small fortune, right at its start, fighting back. Against the opposition of movie theater exhibitors, with their weight at the major studios, the pay-TV firm has also had to scramble to get new motion pictures — and even these are not quite first-run, but rather about nine months old, at least. And new movies are a prime backbone of pay-TV.

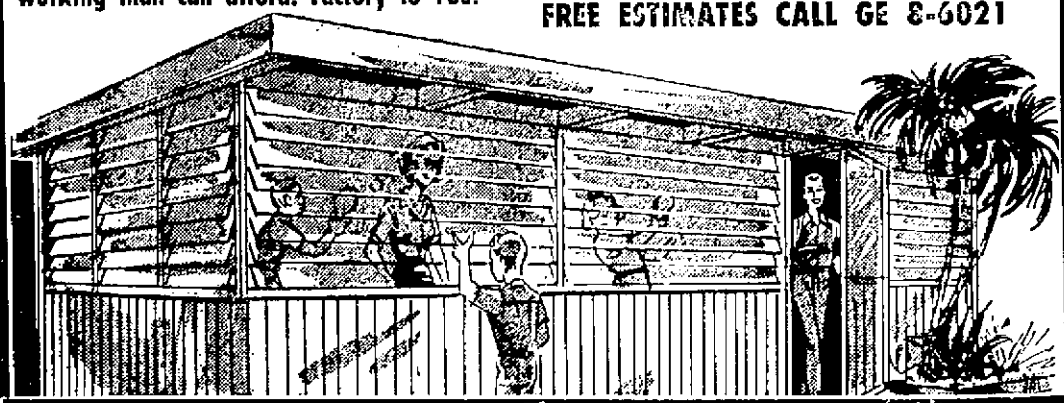

FURTHERMORE, the networks are doing their best to sign up for long-term contracts the major sports events which are probably as essential as new movies to pay-TV. In addition, CBS not long ago bought the New York Yankees, which some observers consider strong protection for network television against a possible pay-TV invasion of the nation's biggest city.

* * * *

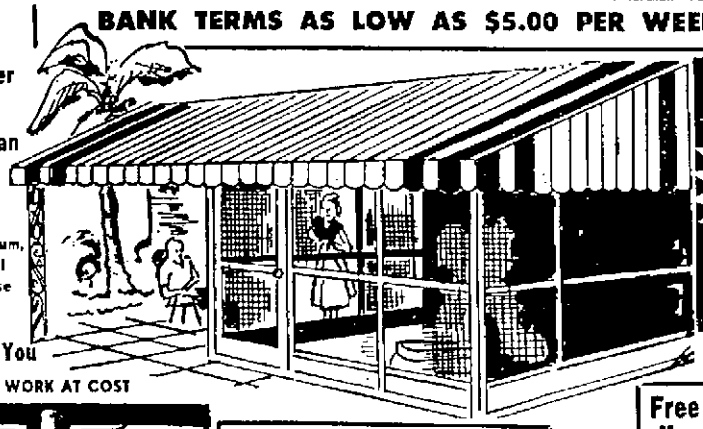

EARLY tabulating at STV have illustrated the obvious: That movies and sports get most of the big audiences. It is no surprise that the so-called cultural attractions have not done as well numerically. But in any case, it is no secret that STV officials have been taking a sharp look very recently at the entire production setup, and at viewer habits. In the "culture" area, more competition will be faced by STV from the new Los Angeles educational television channel, which has a huge backing of shows from other educational stations around the country.

The Screen Actors Guild has signed a contract with STV. But once again the movie studios—which might have controlled television in the first place if they had not been blind to its potential—may blow the chance to be dominant in a major new entertainment field which could be theirs because of their prime product.

You don't need glasses...

You need a new WINEGARD COLORTRON ANTENNA

You need a more powerful TV antenna to clear up that picture. One that takes more of the signal from the airwaves...and amplifies it before it reaches your set. When your set receives a strong, clean signal from the antenna, your picture becomes sharp, clear, bright... more enjoyable.

Model for model, Winegard's new electronic Colortrons are the world's most powerful antennas. Distant stations come in clearer and sharper. Snow and interference are reduced or eliminated.

For color or black & white, you can't own a finer antenna for best reception. Priced from $64.90. Antenna without electronic amplifier $24.95 up.

FOR DENNIS WEAVER—A NEW STRIDE

Chester Limps No Longer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It was the first day of shooting on the "Kentucky Jones" television series — a pressure-packed moment.

Director Buzz Kulik called, "All right, this is a take."

The cameras whirred.

Dennis Weaver, star of the show, was walking onto the scene when unaccountably his right knee locked. Stiffly, he limped into the familiar figure of Chester Goode, the dim-witted deputy marshal of "Gunsmoke!"

* * * *

NINE YEARS in the role had so conditioned Weaver to the beloved character of Chester that his reflexes took over. His slip was enough to amuse cast and crew. It also marked the end of Chester in Weaver's subconscious. From now on he's Kenneth Yarborough Jones.

"I'm doing everything possible to make a clear distinction between Kentucky Jones and Chester Goode," he said.

"Obviously, because I can't change my face, the characters will look alike. But I'm watching my carriage, speech, rhythm and mannerisms to make them different as I can.

"I've also changed my hair style, clothes and environment. Kentucky Jones lives in a contemporary setting and drives a sports car."

* * * *

IN ADDITION to shaking the dust of the Old West, Weaver is faced with the responsibility of carrying the weight of a leading character. In his years with "Gunsmoke!" Jim Arness shouldered the leading role, leaving Weaver with the goodies that fall to character parts.

Living with the ghost of Chester has made Weaver uneasy. There is a possibility viewers may resent his new NBC-TV character for putting an end to whining, inept but lovable Chester.

"People are pretty fair," he said, "I don't think they'll reject Kentucky before he has a chance to prove himself.

* * * *

Weaver, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, appears younger and brighter in his new role; certainly his I.Q. will be higher.

Weaver, who owns four racing thoroughbreds, used to take a few days off from time to time and spend them at the track. A supporting player has that sort of freedom.

"NOW THERE'S no letup," he said. "Almost every free moment is spent studying lines and working on scripts.

"The responsibility of playing the lead has given me a new view of the various elements and departments that go into a series—the direction, camera work, publicity, all of it.

"I want to see it come out with a good rating and as a quality product. The two can be combined, and we're determined to see that it's done."

Good old Chester Goode wouldn't have known what in heck he was talking about.

When Kentucky (Dennis Weaver) acts depressed his adopted son decides to arrange for a mail-order bride, played by June Kim, in "Kentucky Jones" Saturday at 8:30 p. m. on channel 4.

BUT THIS TIME, NEWHART ISN'T GOING IT ALONE

The Button-Down Mind Snaps Back

BOB NEWHART

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those television viewers who felt a loss when Bob Newhart's program went off the air a while back can smile again. The comedian with the "Button-Down Mind" trademark is back in business on a regular basis.

And it's under conditions that probably are better for his career. He no longer has to "carry" a whole show by himself.

Newhart is not a bold, boisterous comic who can survive season after season out of sheer momentum and impact. He is a deft operator, who uses finesse and attacks the visible target with a rapier instead of a bludgeon.

• • • •

NEWHART, Carol Burnett and Caterina Valente are the stars of the new one-hour variety series "The Entertainers" that airs Friday nights at 8:30. They are supported by some outstanding featured performers and singing and dancing choruses in a show that the network hopes will be a little different than the usual program of this type.

"My weekly contribution," Newhart said, "will be a six-minute-or-so monologue and participation in various sketches with the others. Actually, it won't quite be weekly. The three of us are scheduled to appear on an average of three out of every four shows."

The comedian was interviewed between rehearsals for, of all things, the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs.

• • • •

"WE GET those out of the way now, taping them, so we'll all have a little free holiday time," Newhart explained. The first shows were taped live before an audience just a couple of hours before air time.

"That is the plan that will be followed from now on," Newhart said. "We couldn't do the show really live because Carol, you know, is starring on Broadway in the musical 'Fade Out — Fade In,' and the times are in direct conflict."

Newhart hasn't suffered any from being off the air as a regular performer for the past two seasons. His own half-hour show on NBC was in the 1961-62 season. He still makes the humorous recordings that first brought him fame, and he has been in constant demand for television guest star appearances.

• • • •

"I GOT INTO this program because I have confidence in producer Bob Banner, with whom I've had the pleasure of working a number of times as a guest star on the old Garry Moore program, which he produced," the comedian said. "I think this is a refreshing departure in the variety field, and I don't have to carry the whole load."

As usual, Newhart is functioning as his own writer, with assistance in this case from experienced comedy writer Phil Green.

"Of course, there are half a dozen other writers for the program as a whole," Newhart said. "We have an entire floor as an office in the Park Sheraton Hotel. I've found I can't write at home. I go to the office and write — you know, it's Jackie Gleason's old production center—and then fall right into the rehearsal hall on the floor below and try out the material. Very convenient."

Less '20th Century'

There will be six fewer "Twentieth Century" programs this season because of CBS-TV's innovation of Sunday doubleheaders of National Football League games.

'Reporter': a Blend of Fact and Fancy

NEW YORK (UPI)—In real-life, a reporter has a ringside seat at history but he is rarely involved personally in the stories he covers. But on television, the journalist is usually a handsome fellow with the power to make or break Presidents, solve murders, settle international crisis and—at the same time—win the girl.

HARRY GUARDINO

Some months ago, CBS chief James Aubrey wondered whether it was possible to reconcile truth and fiction so that a reporter would emerge who would be recognizable to the men who ply the craft and at the same time retain the dramatic magnetism with which Hollywood and TV films have invested the Fourth Estate.

His executives were dubious. But Aubrey had an idea. He called in one of the most expert and successful authors of the day, Jerome Weidman, and asked him to try to embody his conception in a script. The name of the new one-hour series that flowed from Weidman's gifted pen in "The Reporter."

• • • •

WEIDMAN, a best-seller from the first of his 15 novels—"I Can Get It for You Wholesale"—and writer of the Pulitzer Prize-winning musical "Fiorello," said he was just as uncertain as the CBS executives when he first considered Aubrey's suggestion.

"But then Aubrey mentioned that he was thinking of someone like the late John Garfield, and that brought it right into focus for me. What we wanted was an intestinal character, not an intellectual one, and the role of the reporter, Danny Taylor, began to build up immediately in my mind.

"He would have worked his way up to the staff from copy boy—a man with a low boiling point for injustice and a highly developed sense of news. We cast Harry Guardino for the role. Danny would have a city editor who would be his conscience, his mentor and at times his tormenter. Gary Merrill plays him and his name is Lou Sheldon."

"We're just waiting for some critics to complain about the lack of physical authenticity," he said at lunch the other day. "We filmed the pilot—with guest stars Walter Pidgeon and Anne Francis—right in the old office of the now defunct New York Mirror. Then we had the city room of the tablold reproduced exactly in the studio. You can't get much more authentic than that."

• • • •

"I KNOW how newspapermen feel about reporters who are physically and emotionally involved in all their stories on television," he said. "So Danny is not always directly in the story. Sometimes he is on the rim of the story watching it happen and the audience is with him as he assembles the information he will need for his paper. But in most cases, Danny is a vital part of what happens on the screen. Something gets him angry and being a good newspaperman, he digs into the story."

SPECIAL

DEATH VALLEY DAYS—13th season premiere. Ronald Reagan takes over as host for TV's only dramatic series owned and distributed by its sponsor, as show goes 100% color at 7 p.m., ch. 4. Opener stars Tom Skerritt and Don Haggerty as a trooper and his pet one-eyed mule save a cavalry fort from the Indians.

CBS REPORTS—6th season premiere. Martin Agronsky is reporter for the remarkable story of an obscure Florida convict who changed the structure of the American legal system when his hand-written petition to the Supreme Court paved the way to a 1963 ruling that a man has an absolute right to counsel in a felony case. Based on Anthony Lewis' best-seller, 7:30 p.m. ch. 2 hour interviews principals in the triumph of Clarence Earl Gideon, including the director of the Florida prison system who tells what happened to the 1,000 prisoners released as a direct result of the decision. Justice Arthur J. Goldberg comments on the case's ramifications.

SHINDIG—The Beatles introduce their newest song as one of four they offer at 8:30 p.m., ch. 7. Series producer Jack Good returned to his native England to tape the all-British show, which includes Sounds, Inc., Tommy Quickly, Karl Denver, The Carefrees, Sandie Shaw and American-born P. J. Proby.

PROJECT 120—John Forsythe, Senta Berger, Jane Wyatt, Franchot Tone, Leslie Nielsen, Pamela Franklin and George Kennedy star in a 2-hour dramatization of Michael Blankfort's novel of intrigue, "The Widow Makers," first of two NBC dramas to be distributed abroad as movies after their teleshowing. Ch. 4, 9 p.m. color special tells of 3 orphaned children who unwittingly become the targets of an international revolutionary syndicate.

Aldo Rey Returns to the Fold

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Aldo Ray, a star a few years ago until he bumped into career trouble, is back in Hollywood making a movie for the first time since 1958.

For much of the past six years, Aldo has been in Europe where he worked in pictures. He returned to Hollywood some time ago, but his film roles have been few. Occasionally he worked on television.

He described his career as one which "telescoped down" to the point where it was almost nonexistent.

• • • •

"FORTUNATELY, when I made those five pictures in Italy, my money was invested," he said. "So I had no financial problems."

Aldo, a onetime constable in a Northern California town, watched the jobs go by. He watched them go by him to other actors.

ALDO RAY

"So I started thinking," he said. "I used to be hotter than heck."

What happened, and what to do about it? He thought.

"I started to break it down," he explained. "And I broke it down this way. When I was at Columbia Studio I had 60 people at the studio working for me and my career. And when I left the studio I had nobody."

• • • •

ALDO DECIDED to build an organization which would revitalize his career.

"I want to grab the bull by the horns," he said. "I'm doing that by getting myself into condition. I had let myself get fat. When I got back from Italy I weighed 286 pounds."

The coarse-voiced Aldo has trimmed himself down to 207 pounds, a frame he wears much better than his fat-man image.

"I went on a diet, cut out drinking and put myself under a doctor's care for 70 days."

• • • •

ALDO'S self-discipline has paid off. The word gets around Hollywood fast when an actor is trying to overcome his problems and rejoin the fold of working performers.

Apparently producers have been hearing about Aldo's self-improvement program. He was recently hired to appear in the "Sylvia" movie.

"I've also got a Bob Hope show and a Bonanza coming out," he said.

As an indication of his new regimen, Aldo left the luncheon table to return to the "Sylvia" set at Paramount Studio fifteen minutes before the noon break was over.

The old Aldo would have hung around for a few more courses of spaghetti.

early and go to work. I want to work. You know how everybody says, 'Wait until you do a television show, you work from eight o'clock in the morning until eight at night with no time off.' I like it that way. My interest is kept up."

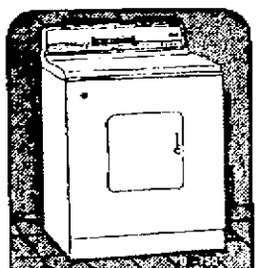

Miss Leigh said that her reluctance to appear on television has made her presence now "very desirable" for producers seeking faces that haven't had too much exposure on the medium.

"By not making myself too available I've become very desirable somehow, only because television can never have enough people," she said. "It's a marvelous monster, it devours people. They're always in need of people who've not been exposed very often."

There's a possibility that Janet might do a regular series. She's discussing the idea with a major film producer. Miss Leigh said she also has commitments to do six pictures.

Video Awakens to the Sound of Music

NEW YORK (UPI) — The lights went up in the television preview room and the producer said, somewhat apologetically:

"It will be much better, of course, with the music."

What he meant was that the love scene, which seemed so lethargic in the preliminary version, would be lifted into the tender episode envisaged in the script when the background music was added.

Considering that Hollywood discovered the importance of music with the birth of sound more than 35 years ago and that composers have played an honored and integral role in film-making ever since, it seems odd that television should only recently have reached the same realization.

• • • •

BUT THE current season is really the first in which TV producers have sought out the best modern composers with the aim of getting the strongest possible help from music for their programs — and possibly a hit parade song or instrumental as well. The best-selling "Peter Gunn Theme," to name only one, was a powerful advertisement for the series every time it was played by disc jockeys — a fact not lost on other producers.

One of the men most responsible for this new awareness of the ability of the right music to enhance the value of a program is Judge Robert Burton, president of Broadcast Music, Inc., who has been campaigning for years to attract the finest writing talent to the medium.

• • • •

BURTON, as head of one of the two great American agencies devoted to collecting royalties for composers and lyricists, has used the power of his position to make it financially attractive for men such as Dave Brubeck, Pete Candoli, Nelson Riddle and Pete Rugolo to move into television from the recording field.

"Not so many years ago," he said, "a producer would simply rent a tape of mood music recorded anonymously in Europe and use it for background. The cowboys always seemed to be riding into town to the same clip-clop. The argument seemed to be that the public would not know the difference. But they were wrong. Americans are sensitive to music. We listen to and buy more of it than any nation on earth.

"I remember talking to the late Dick Powell some 10 years ago about what could be done to give background music more individuality. We at BMI then decided that one way to do it was to persuade our top writing talent that the medium was worthwhile artistically — and financially."

• • • •

BURTON, a chunky crewcut legal wizard credited with helping make Nashville the country music capital of the United States, said that almost all of the 39 new prime time series of the 1964-65 season have notable scores, many of them written by composers affiliated with his group.

Among the writers who hope to have you whistling their tunes this season are:

Paul Anka, who has written a new theme for the NBC-TV Johnny Carson "Tonight" show.

Jack Heller and Howard Greenfield, who have composed a theme song for the new ABC-TV "Bewitched" series.

Greenfield and Helen Miller, who have written a new theme for the "Hazel" series and Barry Mann and Cynthia Weill, who have turned out a theme song for the "Farmer's Daughter" series.

Dave Brubeck, who has written the theme for the new Craig Stevens CBS-TV series, "Mr. Broadway."

In the theme and background music department, Lionel Newman has taken on three new shows—"Peyton Place," "Valentine's Day" and "Daniel Boone." Riddle is writing two new shows — "The Rogues" and "Profiles in Courage," the NBC-TV adaptation of President Kennedy's book.

SPECIAL

CHRYSLER THEATER — Third musical star this week to make a dramatic TV debut (following Bobby Rydell on "Combat" and Robert Goulet of "Kraft") is Janet Leigh, who follows up her Monday guestint with Andy Williams by co-starring with singer-turned-actor Bobby Darin in Stirling Silliphant's probing story of a killing and its consequences at 8:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Janet plays a suburban sexpot who strays from hearth and home once too often, to become a victim of a strangler who could go unpunished because of a legal technicality. Lloyd Bochner, Eduard Franz and Ivan Dixon are featured.

OLYMPICS OPENING — Traditional opening ceremonies of the 1964 games in Tokyo, beamed across the Pacific by the new Syncom III satellite, are seen at 1 a.m., ch. 4. You'll see the entrance of Emperor Hirohito, parade of athletes, address by Avery Brundage asking the Emperor to proclaim open the games, raising of the Olympic flag, arrival of Olympic flame and athletes taking the Olympic oath. Satellite coverage is seen here by 3-hour delay from the east, which is ridiculous! Let New Yorkers stay up; we could see it earlier.

Monster With a Martyr's Smile

THE TWO FACES OF FRED GWYNNE

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Fred Gwynne, the horse-faced cop in the defunct "Car 54, Where Are You?" series, now plays a horse-faced monster in a new show called "The Munsters."

Even under layers of make-up, Gwynne's pleasant regular features shine through the Frankenstein's monster facade.

But his smile hides a martyr's disposition.

In the old series Gwynne donned a policeman's uniform and he was ready to go. Now he must spend two hours in the makeup chair every morning while scars, bulging brow and wig are applied. In the evening it requires an hour to take it off.

• • • •

AS IF THAT weren't bad enough, the 6-foot, 6-inch Gwynne is the cynosure of the Universal lot whenever he leaves the set. Children tag after him, adults make unfunny jokes and everybody stares.

The result is a noticeable and furtive darting of the eyes on Gwynne's part. He's jumpy.

Seated in the Universal commissary for a quick lunch, Gwynne was accosted by a joker who asked: "You working today, Fred?"

A weak grin flashed under the gruesome makeup: "Yeah, I'm working," he answered. "This isn't my real face."

• • • •

ANOTHER visitor stopped to ask, "It must be hot in there."

"Yeah, it's hot in here," Gwynne answered mechanically.

Gwynne is an unusual actor. He is splendidly educated (Groton and Harvard), a former advertising copywriter, an accomplished painter and the author of two books. But acting is where the big money lies, and Fred is picking it up with both hands.

Wryly he says, "Someday I hope to become a leading man in romantic movies. That'll be about five years from now when long, horse-faced men come into vogue. The Joe E. Ross type (his co-star in "Car 54") will come into fashion about five years after that."

• • • •

LIKE MANY a New Yorker, Gwynne is chary about moving permanently to Hollywood. He's renting a home atop Mulholland Drive, but leaves the engine running in his car in the event the CBS-TV comedy bombs.

"I hope to gravitate back to New York when this show is over," Gwynne said. "I'd like to do a musical or a play on Broadway. I just feel more at home on the East Coast."

Another visitor stopped by the table to scrutinize Gwynne's makeup. Apparently satisfied that the green, yellow, red and blue greasepaint did not represent Gwynne's true colors, he departed without a word.

• • • •

GWYNNE sighed. "I get all kinds of reactions," he said. "One day an actress looked in while I was being made up, and just for the heck of it I chased her down the hall for laughs. But she went into hysterics and it took hours to calm her down."

A woman diner at a nearby table took one look at the actor and turned her head; her face was a mask of revulsion.

"See what I mean?" Gwynne concluded, his eyes darting furtively.

IF YOU ARE LOSING YOUR HAIR...

CONSIDER THIS REMARKABLE RECORD

TUROFF OFFICES IN 10 CALIFORNIA CITIES HAVE GIVEN OVER 1¼ MILLION SUCCESSFUL TREATMENTS. CLIENT SATISFACTION IS CAUSING US TO GROW—AND GROW. JOIN US!

IT HAPPENS every day now. A young man realizes that he's losing more hair than he should. A middle-aged woman discovers that the softness of her hair is caused by its thinning away. Young women who have "tried everything" decide that what they need is professional attention. And middle-aged men see the first signs of the baldness they dread and wonder what is to be done.

HOWADAYS QUITE A LOT CAN BE DONE

Much more than most people think. Nowadays success comes to many people who, not long ago would have been told that their cases were hopeless.

JUST AS TEETH are destroyed by our "soft" civilized diet, it is conceivable that our hair suffers from our "soft" civilized way of living. Physical inaction, lack of fresh air, inadequate hair and hygiene habits, and nervous stress of modern living may all reflect unfavorably on man's hair growth. From their years of experience in successfully treating hair and scalp disorders, the specialists in the Turoff System have proven that modern man can avoid baldness by counteracting the effects of "soft" civilized living with a "hard" vigorous system of scalp hygiene. THE UNUSUAL SUCCESS of the Turoff System in administering over 1¼ million treatments supports this theory strongly. The inescapable truth is . . . premature thinning of the hair, or actual baldness, is inevitable for many men and women . . . UNLESS CORRECT SCALP HYGIENE IS BEGUN EARLY.

PREPARATION

Much must be done, before the actual Turoff treatment, to condition the scalp properly. First your scalp is thoroughly examined. Every individual is thoroughly examined in complete privacy and an individual course of treatments is determined. No two cases are ever identical, neither are the treatments.

COMPLETE PRIVACY

COMPLETE PRIVACY—No one but you and the Turoff consultant know of your visit. For those finding difficulty in attending Turoff's, a specially prepared Home Treatment Kit can be prepared for your particular requirements (after office consultation).

S. I. Turoff, Director, Turoff Hair and Scalp Experts, now demonstrates remarkable new methods. No appointment needed, for free examination and 30-minute trial treatment.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM S. I. TUROFF

Our new methods are exciting! There is a number of people who wait, till hopeless baldness develops. If you have a hair-loss problem, you should act NOW! I'll make it EASY! Take this pleasant, remarkable 30-minute treatment on a TRIAL basis. PAY NOTHING unless you decide to continue. Don't miss this!

Sincerely,
S. I. TUROFF

NEW WAY TO THICKER, HEALTHIER HAIR

Only Turoff offers exclusive laboratory created formulas and scientific electro-therapy perfected by Turoff technicians to produce these amazing results. You owe it to yourself and your hair future to provide the best—the unique Turoff treatment!

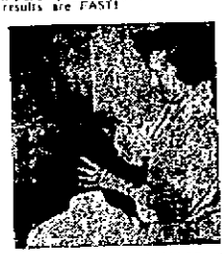

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss.

2. EXCLUSIVE ELECTRO THERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research, results are FAST!

3. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATION. Turoff formulas, laboratory produced, another step on the road to a strong healthy hairline.

4. PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE. A skilled and trained assistant rejuvenates, tones and loosens scalp tissues can grow.

"I'll START LATER"

We have seen more people get hopelessly bald with this attitude than for any other reason. Baldness does not wait! you must have hair for us to help you.

GROWTH CYCLE

Every 4.5 years, every hair is replaced by a new hair. If the hair is weak and colorless, at this point, it may denote approaching baldness—although the hair root is still alive. Turoff's exclusive treatment can promote the growth of hair at this crucial point.

TUROFF HAS A NEW SCIENTIFIC METHOD

Turoff treats the problem of premature baldness scientifically with their own exclusive chemical, physical and electro therapy. Turoff clinics alone provide this remarkably successful therapy. Exact formulas and therapy are known only to Turoff. No imitations can equal its power. So astounding have been the results that Turoff has grown from one clinic to ten clinics and become California's leading hair specialists. Prove this scientific thoroughness for yourself.

FREE EXAMINATION

Step into Turoff Hair Treatment Clinic for an absolutely FREE consultation and examination—without obligation! Let him tell you frankly, whether your hair or scalp problem is under Turoff's scope of treatment—and if not—he will refer you to the proper medical or other treatment you require. Your FREE examination and consultation is conducted in private.

OUR COVER

Green-gowned to reduce glare, today's surgical team indulges not only in conventional operating-room talk (i. e., "Kocher," "mosquito," "sponge," "Kelly") but also uses new terms such as "Start the pump" (for heart-lung machines), "Cryoprobe" (the cold knife of brain surgery) or simply, "Tape" (in lieu of "suture"). Staff photographer Roger Coar "scrubbed in" at St. Mary's Long Beach Hospital for this view of a modern-day operating room. ONCE EVERY YEAR IT HAPPENS . . .

The Madness That Is the World Series

By Hoyt McAfee

WITH another World Series coming up this week, those of us who love baseball should remember that, in the beginning, it was modeled after two English pastimes — cricket and rounders. In early colonial days those who tried to play this "wild and dangerous" new sport — it was called "basteball" back then—usually got the bum's rush.

In 1786, as an illustration, two rag-tag teams started a game on an open field outside Princeton, N. J. Barely had the umpire signaled "batter up" than the boom was lowered on them. Out came a procession of irate village officials to announce that "basteball" had been banned and that those caught playing it thereafter would be subject to arrest!

But all attempts to suppress it proved futile, much like trying to extinguish a spreading forest fire with a broom. "Bootleg" teams practiced and played in hide-away places, with sentries posted at strategic points to sound the alarm — just in case snoopy officials should venture that way.

THIS HIDE-AND-SEEK version of "basteball" flourished till 1820. By then frowns of disapproval had softened considerably or disappeared altogether, so that games could be played openly. This applied in particular to such cities as New York, Philadelphia, Boston. These contests were — it should be added—informal, spur-of-the-moment affairs, strictly of the sandlot variety.

On June 19, 1846, hundreds of eager and curious fans in Hoboken, N. J., witnessed the first professional baseball game on record. A slow-poke invitation was sent to James Knox Polk, the first "dark horse" candidate ever to win the presidential election, to attend it. He received the free pass at the White House too late to use it.

It would appear, however, that Polk missed little, or no, excitement. As proof of that, a club named the New York Nine took on and trounced their opponents, The Knickerbockers. After 4 innings of play, the score stood 23 to 1 in favor of the New York Nine! At that point someone with authority mercifully called off the runaway game.

From that dipsy-doodle, shake-rattle-and-roll start, baseball slowly and painfully evolved into the pastime we know today. When World Series' time arrives each year, a "feverish" condition grips the devotees of this sport throughout the nation.

AS A ONE-TIME baseball reporter, it strikes me that World Series' competition almost invariably produces a hero, a goat, one supercharged dramatic moment, and—of course—two, three, or more surprises.

An example was the tension and the feeling of electric excitement that built up on Oct. 8, 1956, in the game between the New York Yankees and the old Brooklyn Dodgers. Inning after inning rolled by with big Don Larsen moving closer with each pitch to a perfect no-hit game.

He had the whole nation hanging on each toss of the ball. By the ninth inning, when the "perfecto" was almost in the bag, even the most rabid Dodger fan had forgotten to root for his favorite team. When Don Larsen finally scaled the Mt. Everest of the baseball world with his flawless gem, the most dedicated of Yankee haters, secretly if not openly, cheered for him.

Only last year, in that opening World Series' game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Bronx Bombers, Yankee pinch-hitter Harry Bright suddenly became a villain to spectators and TV watchers alike. That was the tense moment when Sandy Koufax needed only one more strikeout to set a new Worlds Series' record of 15. It proved the single most dramatic incident of the series as Sandy carefully worked on the batter — finally uncorking a swift one to make Bright his 15th whiff victim.

Sandy Koufax became the strikeout king of the World Series when he whiffed 15 in 1963.

Don Larson got this kind of embrace from Yogi Berra when he pitched perfect game.

THERE WAS ALSO a nerve-tingling instance in the seventh game between the San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees in 1962. Massive-shouldered William McCovey swung away with all his power and the crack of the bat fleetingly ignited the hopes of Giant rooters. Then—whoosh—the cannonball shot was hauled down by second-sacker Bobby Richardson. It was perhaps the most resounding finale to a World Series in recent baseball history.

But, for my money, the most thrilling moment in any fall classic came when the New York Yankees of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and other mighty sluggers tangled with the St. Louis Cards. Grover Cleveland Alexander —who established a National League record with 16 shutouts in one season — mowed down the Yanks' famed "murderers' row" with admirable skill.

At the most crucial moment of the series, the big Cardinal right-hander was suddenly summoned from the bullpen to try to snuff out a late-inning Yank rally. He had had very little rest when he entered the game. With Yankee runners on the base paths and dangerous "Push-Em-Up" Tony Lazerri at bat, Alexander faced the toughest challenge

Castle for a Party

Romantic and holding secret treasures, this paper castle is right for a children's party.

By Lorena Fleissig

ROMANTIC and mysterious, according to fiction enjoyed by children, a castle is supposed to hold many secrets.

The castle centerpiece (see illustration) is no exception. It is designed to hide gifts within its walls for all those gathered for the fun.

Simple to make, the materials are probably right at hand, at home. Save a clean firm detergent box from the discards and scrape out the grains of material from the inside. If this is difficult, paste some panels of paper over the area—construction paper or even the classified portion of the newspaper.

Cut out one of the narrow side panels of the box. This will be the open top of the castle. If the lid of the box is open, tape it shut. Now cover the box with wallpaper of a simple block type of pattern resembling rows of stone. Or use gift wrap, contact paper or even cloth.

IN USING PAPER like that illustrated, pencil around the four panels of the box on the back of the wallpaper. Cut out the separate panels and dampen slightly with a sponge or wet paper towel before applying the white liquid paste. Smooth carefully with a cloth. When the paper is thoroughly dry, cut away areas from the top of the castle as pictured.

For the side keeps of the castle, save two paper tubes from rolls of towels. Cover with similar paper and glue them to each end of the castle proper. The cone roofs at the tops of the tubes are made of circles, one fourth cut away, pie shape. The edges are brought together and glued with white liquid glue, held with clothes pins or bobby pins while drying. Glue them to the tops of tubes. The pennants that wave from the tops are cut from plain index cards, or use the plain back of a four-fold gift card and glued to colored round toothpicks. You might color the picks with cake color or felt marking pens.

Finally, the details that make a castle authentic. Two small (raisin) boxes are pasted to either side of the big doorway which is black paper mounted by golden doors. For substitution, use purple construction paper with sand or yellow paper for doors. Small strips of dark paper indicate windows, etc. If you wish to buy gold paper, it is available at paper supply stores. Otherwise, check with the discards for cosmetic or shampoo boxes that have the gold side panels.

THE FINISHED castle is glued upon the lid of a long plain box. A wide strip of gray paper is covered with darker irregular spots to resemble cobblestones, or they can be drawn on the path.

Now to plan the sort of presents that will be hidden within the castle. For boys there are small toys, yoyos, marbles and similar trinkets to be found in 10-cent stores. These may be hidden in small bags or boxes tied with ribbon and with streamers left long enough to reach the place card or else long enough to lift the package out.

One of Largest Like This in U.S.

Southland residents Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Collo recently had this 28x50-foot aluminum covering built over their swimming pool. It is one of the largest of its type ever designed and constructed in the nation. It not only shields pool users from the elements for all-year use, the Collos say, but it cuts down cost of chemicals, cleaning and heating necessary for maintenance.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give genealogy on CASEY, CASSY.—J.C., F.E., E.S., Long Beach.

J.C., F.E., E.S.: CASEY and CASSEY had their old Irish inception as O'Cathasaigh. This Gaelic clan title deciphers as "sons of the watchful one," used as a complimentary term for an exceptional lineage of guardians of public safety. Phonetic re-spelling of the old Gaelic name resulted in O'Cahessy and O'Casey in the late Middle Ages. The Caseys were anciently recorded in Limerick, Cork, Mayo, Fermanagh and Meath. Their armorial shield is silver, decorated with a red chevron between three red eagle heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on BRANDENBURG.—L.R., Long Beach.

L.R.: BRANDENBURG was taken by the ancestor from his home city of Brandenburg in Prussia. This place-origin name, formulated from "Branden-burg" means "city of Swords" or "city of Firebrands." The Brandenburg family shield has a wide gold border. The center within the border is divided into four sections. The upper left and lower right sections are silver, emblazoned with a black eagle with spread wings; the remaining sections are decorated with a gold crown on a blue backing.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have the genealogy on VAN VALKENBURG.—C.V., Seal Beach.

C.V.: VAN VALKENBURG, a Dutch name, commemorates the famed ancestral fortress owned by this lineage. Van Valkenburg translates as "from Falcon Castle." The family shield was granted at Haarlem near Amsterdam. The background is gold, emblazoned with a large red castle surrounded by three small red castle towers, each with a symbolic black falcon above it.

DEAR MISS RULE: Is AGUILAR Mexican, Spanish or Filipino? — J.L., Long Beach.

J.L.: AGUILAR originated in Spain, although descendants live in every country that Spain colonized, including Mexico and the Phillipines. Aguilar refers to an ancestor with the strength and endurance of an eagle. The family shield from Catalonia, Spain is silver, emblazoned with a red eagle with half-spread wings.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze NORMAN—S.N., D.S., G.S., Long Beach.

S.N., D.S., G.S.: NORMAN is from the archaic French term "Norman" designating a "northman" or "man from Norway." The Viking Northmen of Norway invaded and conquered northwest France in the 9th century. In 1066 their descendants conquered England. Several of these invaders were surnamed Norman by their English subjects. One Norman became Lord Mayor of London in 1250. The family shield is silver, decorated with three gold leopard heads on a black stripe across the top. John Norman, an American forefather, was born in Massachusetts in 1637.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish data on POND. — J.P., Mrs. W.P., Long Beach.

J.P., W.P.: POND, despite its obvious origin from a dweller by a pond, actually began in England as "Pound" referring to an enclosed pasture for keeping livestock. Bartholomew de la Ponde was a Buckingham tax payer in 1272. The Pond shield is silver, crossed by a red stripe. Above the stripe are two black bear heads; below it a red cross. The will of Robert Pond, a founding New England settler, was filed at Dorchester, Mass. in 1637.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DE BENEDITTI.—J.D., Long Beach.

J.D.: DE BENEDITTI indicates "son of Benedict" in old Italian. The ancestor was baptized in honor of St. Benedict whose name meant "blessed one." The De Benedetti shield is gold, emblazoned with a red rampant lion.

MEET YOKKAICHI CITY:

Long Beach's Oriental Sister

Like Long Beach, sister city Yokkaichi loves a parade. Bamboo and streamers decorate August "Star Festival" and marchers move along in Mummer type costumes. Yokkaichi and Long Beach have much alike in history.

By LOU JOBST

LONG BEACH has a Japanese "sister," an Oriental beauty tied to a storied past, but all eyes for a bright tomorrow.

The city's Far East kin is 650-year-old Yokkaichi City, a booming, bustling international port and industrial center located at the north end of fabled Ise Bay on the southern shore of Honshu.

Yokkaichi (pronounced Yoh Kigh Chee), home of 250,000 persons, Japan's sixth largest harbor and its most important petrochemical center, became the California community's "sister city" after an exchange of good-will missions in 1962 and 1963.

Unike U. S. government-sponsored overseas-domestic municipal affiliations (Long Beach's official "people-to-people" program "sister" is Valparaiso, Chile), the Yokkaichi relationship was the result of mutual admiration and was the handiwork of their respective hometown leaders.

ALTHOUGH half a world apart, the East-West cities share some striking similarities and common interests. Both are situated in storied and historic regions of the world, both are fast-growing cities with modern and expanding ports, both are major world petroleum centers, both have subsidence problems.

Both face the Pacific Ocean and are shipping points for rich agricultural regions. Both are situated on a plain which is flanked by mountains.

And both live in the shadow of much larger, older and more powerful neighbors.

Yokkaichi, the most important market place in 2,225,-square-mile* Mie Prefecture, is a suburb of giant Nagoya. Nagoya is the sister city of Los Angeles, Long Beach's oversized neighbor. *Los Angeles County encompasses 4,060 square miles.

And like Long Beach, Yokkaichi is the gateway to one of the country's most scenic regions and several of the world's most spectacular tourist attractions.

IN MIE PREFECTURE, which is sandwiched between Nagoya and Osaka areas, is Ise Grand Shrine, the traditional center of Japanese Shintoism.

Millions come each year to view and worship at the Geku and Naiku shrines which were first erected in the fourth century and rebuilt every 20 years. Famed for its simple architectural beauty, the great shrine center is situated in a compound covered with centuries-old cedar trees and through which flows the holy Isuzu River.

It was near Yokkaichi that the late nonagenarian pearl king Kokichi Mikimoto originated his ingenious pearl culture in the late 19th century. This bay area, scene today of some 800,000 "Tanpo" pearl rafts, produces more than 70% of the world's cultured pearls.

The gathering of these pearls by white linen-garbed Ama, women divers, is viewed by thousands of visitors each month.

THE RIVERS near the city are also famed as the locale of concormorant fishing, a technique in which birds (pelicans) are used to catch fish.

Also nearby are the renowned Yunyama Hot Springs, and the Suzuka Circuit Auto Track where the Japanese Grand Prix road race is held.

Yokkaichi City, which is said to have been founded in the 14th century by the feudal chieftain Tadahide Tawara, is the home of the Ropeway, a celebrated Orient version of American trams. (It was not incorporated until 1897, 10 years after L. B.)

With 602 miles of shoreline, Mie and Yokkaichi share with Southern California and Long Beach the reputation of being one of the earth's great combination commercial and sport fisheries. The catches at both spots range from shellfish to anchovies and sardines to game fish.

THE JAPANESE region is also famed for its seaweed and kelp harvests.

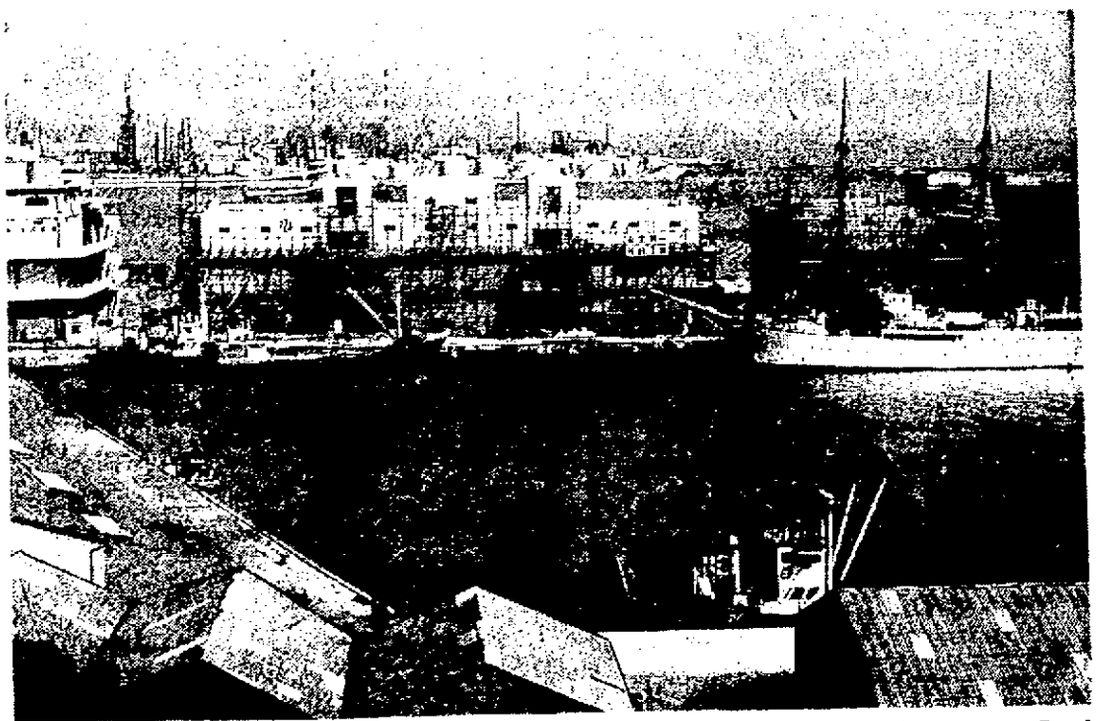

Across the modern docks of Yokkaichi Harbor pour great quantities of native farm goods, including tea, sweet potatoes, rice (Mie produces 7.1 million bushels a year, largely for sake production) and wheat.

Yokkaichi Harbor, much of which has been built on artificial land, can draw some other close parallels with its Yankee relation.

Both ports handled about the same business last year, little more than 12 million tons. Both are locations of great petroleum storage areas and each has supertanker terminals.

While the port of Yokkaichi was first opened in 1873, it was not designated an open port until 1899. Long Beach

Yokkaichi also is a busy port that has expanded—and still is expanding—on filled-in land, as is Long Beach Harbor. Other points of similarity include importance as fishing ports, the handling and storing of petroleum.

So You May Live Longer

Medicine on the March

By Ben Zinser

Device that employs nuclear medicine is examined by Sister M. Stephen and a student technician, Mary Sullivan, in laboratory.

AN "EXPLOSION" of medical advances has occurred in the past 25 years, reports the American Medical Association's Commission on the Cost of Medical Care.

The Commission just recently outlined the advances as part of a four-volume report that required 3½ years to compile.

Questionnaires were sent to 20 physicians in each of the 22 specialties and in general practice to determine the most significant items of medical and surgical progress. Item most mentioned: antibiotics.

Here's a quick rundown on the advances:

General Practice: Antibiotics, especially the penicillins and the tetracyclines. Acceptance of widespread immunization programs for polio, measles, influenza and tetanus.

Anesthesiology: Muscle relaxant drugs. Recognition of the value and standard use of the postoperative recovery room.

Dermatology: The anti-inflammatory cortisone drugs and ACTH. Antibiotics, especially penicillins, tetracyclines, erythromycin and streptomycin.

Chest Diseases: Antibiotics, particularly penicillins. Antituberculosis drugs, notably isoniazid, para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS) and streptomycin.

Gastroenterology, Proctology: Antibiotics such as chloramphenicol. Drugs for intestinal tract sterilization. X-ray studies of the gall bladder and bile ducts.

Internal Medicine: Antibiotics. Exploration of the heart with a catheter for diagnostic purposes.

Neurological Surgery: Development of X-ray procedures for study of the brain area. Development of new brain-surgery procedures involving use of ultrasound, chemical coagulation and the "cold knife."

Nuclear Medicine: Radioisotopes for diagnostic purposes. Development of Geiger-counter-like scanning equipment for use in diagnosis.

Obstetrics and Gynecology: The Papanicolaou test (Pap smear) as a means of finding cancer of the neck of the womb. Penicillins.

Ophthalmology: Discovery of the role of excessive oxygen as a cause of retrolental fibroplasia (a condition that blinds) in premature infants. Use of antibiotics and sulfa drugs in the treatment of eye infections.

Orthopedic Surgery: Antibiotics. Anti-TB drugs.

Otolaryngology: Antibiotics. New surgery (stapes operations) to restore hearing.

Pathology: Development of blood banks with subsequent improvements in collection, processing, storage and administration of blood and its derivatives. Pap smear for the detection of cervical cancer.

Pediatrics: Penicillin and antibiotics that combat a wide range of micro-organisms. Development of exchange blood transfusions to save babies afflicted with a blood disorder.

Physical Medicine, Rehabilitation: Electrodiagnostic techniques such as electromyography (study of muscle activity). Improvements in prosthetic devices.

Plastic Surgery: Improved treatment of burns. Development of dermatomes, surgical instruments which cut thin sheets of skin for use as grafts.

Preventive Medicine: Development for more general use of vaccines for influenza, polio, smallpox, tetanus, whooping cough, diptheria and yellow fever. Increased emphasis on health of employes.

Psychiatry, Neurology: Developments of brain-wave diagnostic techniques. Changing attitudes toward mental disease as demonstrated by teaching of emotional problems in medical schools, use of the halfway house, open-door policies of large mental hospitals and psychiatric units in general hospitals.

Latest medical products to join disposable instrument ranks include the items pictured above.

Antibiotics have been the greatest advance in medicine in past quarter century, survey shows. Symbolic array is pictured above.

Radiology: X-ray studies of the heart and arteries. New dyes (radiopaque media) of low toxicity. Development of rapid-film sequencing equipment for diagnostic studies. Improvements in fluoroscopy.

Surgery: Improved pre and postoperative care, including blood banks, controlled or assisted respiration, early ambulation, anti-clotting drugs, plasma. Also: antibiotics.

Thoracic Surgery: Antibiotics. Use of heart-lung machines.

Urology: Improvements in diagnostic studies. Discovery of the relationship of cancer of the prostate and certain other tumors to hormone balance. Use of hormonal therapy as control measure.

The Commission took special note of five medical areas which it termed especially "significant":

Polio: Vaccines may lead to virtual elimination of this disease. From 1955 through 1961 an estimated $6.7 billion in lifetime income loss and medical-care costs have been avoided through use of antipolio vaccine.

Diagnostic Cell Studies: Thanks to these studies, an increasing number of cases of uterine cancer are being detected at an early stage, and years are added to women's lives.

Heart Surgery: Surgical correction of congenital heart defects is saving lives which otherwise would be lost or crippled in youth.

Tuberculosis: Thanks to introduction of anti-TB drugs and development of X-ray screening programs, the TB death rate has dropped from 55.1 per 100,000 population in 1935 to 5.9 per 100,000 in 1962.

Disposable Products: Trend toward use of these has been responsible for a considerable saving in hospital costs.

The Magnificent Years Of the Old Hotel Virginia

By Maymie R. Krythe

Virginia Hotel—scene of many exciting, significant and lavish events.

IF YOU'RE a Long Beach old-timer, you remember Hotel Virginia, demolished in February 1933, not long before the earthquake of March 10, 1933. It stood on the south side of Ocean Boulevard, just east of Magnolia Avenue. Today, two tall palms stand, sad reminders that they were in front of the entrance where so many distinguished guests entered the hospitable portals.

Completed in 1908 and closed in 1932, the Virginia was advertised as "the most magnificent and luxurious hotel in the world." During its splendid career, the hostelry entertained celebrities from all over the United States as well as many internationally known personages. It was the headquarters of high-ranking naval officers, and the brilliant Navy balls there were long the talk of the town.

Today, two Long Beach men, Edward Hannah and Calvin (Curly) Morris, have vivid memories of events at the hotel, where they both worked in their youth.

Hannah was on hand when the cornerstone of the Bixby Hotel—later changed to Hotel Virginia—was laid, on July 20, 1906.

In November 1906, young Hannah missed his usual birthday cake at his mother's boarding house, just across the street from the construction. That morning the central part gave way; and several workmen were caught in the debris. Reporters crowded into Mrs. Hannah's establishment because she had the closest telephone, to send their stories to their papers.

At Central School that day, the principal, Stanley Howland, advised the pupils of the accident and asked them not to go there at their lunch hour. However, Ed Hannah had to go home to eat and recalls the scene of disaster.

In spite of the catastrophe, the work of building continued and the hotel with its magnificent furnishings was completed at a total outlay of $1,240,000.

Hannah says several things distinguished this institution as "upper class." In addition to the fine furniture, curtains, and other fittings, the silver and linen were of the best. The official crest was embossed on the stationery; menus were distinctive; cuisine outstanding; and telegrams and letters were always handed to guests on silver trays.

The opening dinner with 700 guests took place on March 21, 1908. The place was a mass of flowers; lights blazed from top to bottom; beautifully dressed women, many with escorts in uniform, were present; and the battleship North Dakota was anchored offshore from the hotel.

Morris was one of the bellboys who often replaced the telephone operators at night.

As a bellboy, Morris, who worked there from 1909 to 1916, received his meals, uniforms, a locker and $15 per month, with extra money from tips. Hannah, as elevator operator, received $25 per month, but at busy seasons, made more than his wages from his tips.

Hannah remembers the business training he got there, and how impressed he was by Col. Drake, a Kentuckian and long a president of the hotel company. Always immaculately dressed, he wore a white carnation in his lapel and carried a gold-headed cane.

Since golf was becoming a popular game, some hotel residents organized the Virginia Country Club. At first they played at what is now Recreation Park, and Morris often drove the players to and from there.

SOUTHLAND HOME

Spectacular Is a Word for It

By Stella George

SPECTACULAR is a one-word description of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Kahlo, 1101 Via Goleta, Palos Verdes, the home is built against the hillside above Lunada Bay. Glass walls and outside decks on both levels provide an expansive view of the countryside and ocean in the distance.

The home was designed by Young and Remington, AIA. The color coordination was executed by Louis De Haven Shaw, AID, but Mrs. Kahlo did her own decorating.

Palos Verdes stone found on the site was used for the front wall and firepaces and a hillside wall for a swimming pool.

Nesting high on a Palos Verdes bluff, the home of the Jack Kahlo family is spectacular in location, as views at right and above reveal.

—Staff Photos by ROGER COAR

An additional idea of the aerie qualities of the Kahlo home can be gathered from the view at the left, looking to the sea in the distance.

View is everywhere in this delightful residence. Above, a glimpse of living room, done in blues and lavenders to match the Pacific beyond.

Mrs. Kahlo felt that a home which commanded such a panoramic view of the sea should be decorated to blend with the living picture beyond the glass walls. Thus, the blue and lavender of the Pacific are highlighted colors in every room. Carpeting throughout (with the exception of the rumpus room on the lower level) is white.

THE ENTRANCE HALL leads to the kitchen at the left, the dining room, and the living room at the far end. Rooms on the street level, in addition to those mentioned, include the master bedroom with a private balcony, bath with a sunken tub, daughter Debbie's room and bath, and the garage which adjoins the home. On the lower level, rooms include a rumpus room, all-purpose room which doubles as a guest bedroom, and daughter Pam's bedroom and bath. Steps lead from the rumpus room to the third level where the spacious swimming pool has a sweeping view through wrought iron balustrades.

The sofa in the living room backs against a glass wall, and is done in shades of blues and lavenders. Occasional chairs are in similar hues, one, near the fireplace, upholstered in orchid velvet. Paintings on the wall including one above the spinet piano which looks like a peninsula scene, have blue tones predominating.

Furniture is Italian Provincial. The dining room set is low, continental height with chairs upholstered in powder blue velvet. A small matching sofa is against one wall, buffet on the other.

A STONE FIREPLACE serves both rooms. On the dining room side a small barbecue unit is used almost every day. Golden cherub accessories and crystal chandeliers impart their own elegance.

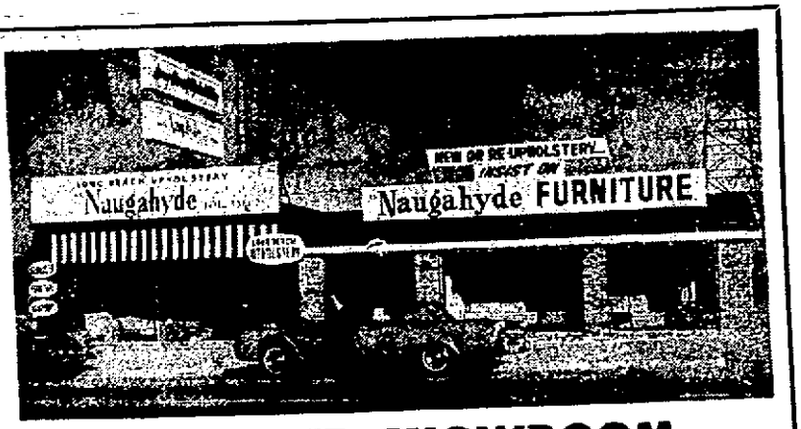

In the large master bedroom the bed is covered with a pink spread, quilted. A sunken tub of marble has a private garden.

The downstairs rumpus room is an unexpected and attractive contrast to the sophistication of the other rooms. The decor is Early American, warm, homey, and inviting. This is where the family lives and plays.

The home might be described as a year-round vacation spot. Every feature is keyed to luxurious living conditions. With the aid of binoculars, the family may view a football game on the field which adjoins the high school in the valley below. The Kahlos may swim nearly all year. They can dine formally in the dining room or informally on the glass top table in the dinette which adjoins an immaculate kitchen. Or they may eat hamburgers cooked on a circular rock barbecue near the pool. Even the Siamese cats that recline luxuriously on the front doorstep seem to reflect the serenity and happiness which prevails in this home.

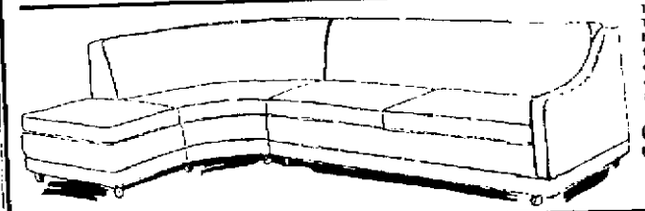

Richly comfortable, this bedroom also has view as a keynote, looking out across a balcony. Appointments are typical of luxurious interior.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. When is the best season for eating oysters? H.P.

A. The Department of Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries says that oysters are best in May and June in spite of the myth that oysters should be eaten only in months containing the letter "R." Oysters are fatter and taste better in spring because at that time they have begun to store glycogen, an animal starch, in preparation for the summer spawning season. Oysters become thinner and less tasty in summer and early fall; they start to fatten again in October and November. Oyster harvesting, however, is begun in early fall because of the seasonal demand, perhaps resulting from the R-month myth. Prices are also highest then. The R-month myth may result from experience with European oysters. During the R-months, the presence of small gritty shells makes the European oyster undesirable eating.

Q. When was the United States Capitol burned? R.E.

A. During the War of 1812, Rear Admiral Sir George Cockburn pushed through American forces at Bladensburg, Maryland and invaded Washington, D. C. on August 24, 1814. After setting fire to most of the public buildings, Cockburn and his troops entered the Capitol and ignited all flammable materials. The Capitol was saved from total devastation by a rainstorm that swept the city that night. A violent windstorm the next day caused several disasters and the British soldiers fled.

Q. How are cooking fats hydrogenated? W.D.

A. Liquid vegetable oils such as cottonseed oil are turned into a solid vegetable fat by a process called hydrogeneration. The essential difference between the liquid and the solid forms is a shortage of hydrogen atoms in the oil molecules. By treating the oil with hydrogen gas under certain conditions of temperature and pressure, and in the presence of a catalyst, hydrogen is added to the oil molecules and the oil is thereby solidified and made more convenient to use.

Q. Is the earth's axis ever at right angles to the sun? K.N.

A. This occurs on about March 21 and September 22, the vernal and autumnal equinoxes. At these two times, the sun appears directly above the equator.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Discipline Harder

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Are today's school children more difficult to discipline than those of former times?

ANSWER: Apparently they are. The research division of the National Education Association recently conducted a teacher-opinion poll on the subject.

The poll revealed that "a substantial proportion of experienced teachers feel that their problems of maintaining discipline have increased since they began teaching."

Sixty-two per cent of the teachers with 20 or more years of experience found their job getting more difficult.

QUESTION: Are facts the most important things a student gets from school?

ANSWER: They are the least important.

More facts fade from the memory if not frequently reviewed or used. More lasting are the general techniques and principles a student learns.

For example, a student is assigned to do research on India. The teacher explains how to gather notes, where to look for information, how to outline the material gathered. The important lesson in this project is not India but how to do research—a lesson which the student will find invaluable later in school and afterwards in his career.

QUESTION: Do children remember their unpleasant school experiences the longest?

ANSWER: Oddly, no. There is a mechanism in the brains of most human beings which mercifully submerges the more unpleasant memories (not all of them, of course) and makes the pleasant ones memorable.

The wise educator uses this principle in the classroom by associating learning with pleasant experiences.

"My Fair Lady"

From Cockney flower girl to British lady: Such is the transformation of Audry Hepburn for the lead role in "My Fair Lady," tremendous stage hit, soon to have West Coast film premiere.

"My Fair Lady," the most lavish and costly production ever filmed by Warner Brothers, will have its West Coast premiere Oct. 28 at the Egyptian Theater, 6712 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood.

From its creation by George Bernard Shaw in the play "Pygmalion" in 1912, through its international success as a comedy with music by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, "My Fair Lady" has set records.

Warner Brothers paid $5½ million for the screen rights.

Audrey Hepburn was chosen for the role of Eliza Doolittle, and Rex Harrison plays Henry Higgins. Supporting the stars are Stanley Holloway, Wilfrid Hyde-White, Gladys Cooper, Jeremy Brett, Isobel Elsom and Mona Washbourne.

"My Fair Lady" is being produced by Jack L. Warner, company president; directed by George Cukor, whose Hollywood career embraces hit pictures from Garbo's "Camille" to Judy Garland's "A Star is Born."

CECIL BEATON, designer and photographer, is production designer. Berlin-born Andre Previn is musical director, and Hermes Pan, late of the "Cleopatra" choreography, is dance director.

"My Fair Lady" conjoins the two most appealing and durable themes in story-telling — Cinderella and Svengali. It is the story of a crisply irascible professor of phonetics who takes a guttersnipe of a flower girl from the London streets and in a wager sets himself to train her so that she will pass muster as a duchess. Shaw conceived his work as one "in which Professor Higgins shall be a West End gentleman and Eliza an East End dona in an apron, three oranges and red ostrich feathers—a rapscallionly flower girl."

Eliza herself points out one of the amusing morals of the story when she says "The difference between a lady and a flower girl is not how she behaves but how she is treated."

"PYGMALION" was pretty well established when it opened in Berlin and Vienna in 1913. Its enduring possibilities were realized April 11, 1914, when it bowed at His Majesty's Theater, London, with Mrs. Patrick Campbell as Eliza and Sir Herbert Tree as Professor Higgins.

Set to the graceful music of Frederick Loewe and the infectious lyrics of Alan Lerner, it became "My Fair Lady" for its New York opening in March, 1956, Six and one-half years and 2,717 performances later, it closed its record New York engagement in September 1962.

The London engagement of "My Fair Lady" ran to 2,000 performances and it has played in most cities of the United States and many countries of the world. There probably is not an hour of the day in which "My Fair Lady" is not being performed somewhere. The stage production has grossed close to $60 million; the record album has sold in excess of 6 million copies.

On Warners' gigantic Stage 7 was constructed the portico of St. Paul's Church, the Covent Garden flower and vegetable markets. Twenty-five hundred gallons of water per minute were pumped to the stage to drench Miss Hepburn, Harrison and other performers in the opening sequences of the film. Here, too, Harison performs the first musical number, "Why Can't the English?" and Miss Hepburn performs her first musical number, "Wouldn't It Be Loverly?", winding up amidst the cabbage and lettuce leaves on the back of a garbage truck.

FOR THE ASCOT races, Beaton designed a stylized setting of huge striped tents, the scene animated by hundreds of fashionably gowned women and trimly tailored men. Other primary sets include the Embassy ballroom the opera house, Mrs. Higgins' home and the Wimpole Street exteriors.

A battery of 93 seamstresses, drapes and milliners achieved a total of 1,086 costumes at an estimated cost of half a million dollars.

Harrison had a good background for the motion picture. He performed "My Fair Lady" 1,006 times in New York and London.

Food

Wine Cookery, the Easy Way

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

COOKING with wine has become a matter of kitchen arithmetic, these busy days. Subtract the mystery, add some convenience foods, multiply their flavors with wine, and divide into the best servings ever set before family and friends. That's the word the California wine industry gave food editors attending the first day of the Newspaper Food Editors Conference in New York.

Wine industry displays illustrated just how easy this shortcut wine cookery can be. Set up in the form of a culinary equation was the recipe for a chicken liver curry that could become the main dish of either a simple or elaborate dinner. It requires just three ingredients: a package of frozen chicken livers, plus a package of curry-seasoned rice plus a measure of California white dinner wine. Editors tasted the results and found them excellent.

Country Club Beef Stew is readily made and will serve six diners with a festive mood.

OTHER QUICK recipes illustrated included a cherry cobbler made with canned cherry pie filling topped with packaged, refrigerated cinnamon rolls. California port is the ingredient that lends distinction to this easy dessert; its flavor is especially good with the fruit and the spicy topping.

For a luncheon main dish, a can of corned beef hash was topped with a slice of pineapple then covered with a cheese sauce made from an envelope of dry mix to which sauterne or another California white dinner wine is added as part of the usual liquid. Another luncheon or supper dish illustrated was made from packages of mixed frozen vegetables, the kind frozen in an onion cream sauce. To this is added a can of shrimp or other sea food, a can of chow mein noodles and the essential flavor ingredient—a white dinner wine.

MORE THAN 50 other easy recipes, combining convenience foods with wine, are included in a new little booklet, "Wine Cookery, the Easy Way," available for the asking. To get a copy write the title of the booklet and your name and address on a postcard and send to: Wine Institute, Home Advisory Service, 717 Market St., San Francisco, Calif. 94103. Almost immediately you can be producing wine-flavored foods with very little effort.

If you pour glasses of the same dry red wine as the dinner beverage, you'll understand why this mixture of prepared foods is called Country Club Beef Stew. There'll be a festive air to both the food and the service, and plenty of leisure to enjoy it.

Country Club Beef Stew

2 (1½-lb.) cans beef stew
1 (8¼-oz.) can mixed vegetables, drained
½ tsp. dried dill or chili powder
½ cup California burgundy or other red dinner wine
Savory Potato Crust

Combine beef stew, vegetables, dill or chili powder and wine. Turn into individual casseroles. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 20 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Spoon or press through pastry tube the potato crust topping around outer edge of each casserole. Place under broiler a few minutes to heat and brown. Makes 6 servings.

Savory Potato Crust: Combine in a preheated bowl 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup cold milk, 1 tablespoon butter and ½ teaspoon salt. Add 1½ cups dehydrated mashed potato flakes and ⅓ cup California white dinner wine. Stir to blend; let stand a few minutes to thicken. Add ½ cup grated cheddar cheese.

Recipe of the Week

FILLING FOR a hot bun snack at home or a sandwich for school is the $5 prizewinning recipe this week, submitted by Mrs. M. E. Fleming, 1739 Appleton St., Apt. 5, Long Beach 90802. The recipe:

DeLuxe Bun Filling

1 lb. bulk bologna
½ lb. sharp cheddar cheese
2 tblsp. prepared mustard
1 tblsp. mayonnaise
¼ cup sweet pickle relish

Grind together cheese and bologna. Stir in other ingredients. Spread generously on hotdog buns. Wrap in foil and heat a half hour before serving, in a 300° oven. This is also a good filling for school sandwich lunches.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 5, Calif. 90812.

Frank Lo Vecchio is a man of 5 facets—and is not Frank Lo Vecchio at all—he's Frankie Laine, a top favorite singer.

MAN OF MANY FACETS

Frankie Laine Is Five Men

By Ev Hosking

FRANK LO VECCHIO is five men surrounded by a body—

And the body, from its Downey automobile agency headquarters, maintains a tight control over its five individualists.

Just keeping track of one life is enough for most people, but for five-sided Frank Lo Vecchio maintaining a number of separate, individualistic entities seems to be child's play.

One of the five is among the most popular singers in the world.

Still another owns four music companies.

Another writes songs.

The fourth owns two of the largest coin selling businesses in the west and maintains a private coin collection worth $235,000.

THE FIFTH, and last, owns a new car agency that distributes Ramblers throughout the Long Beach area.

And to further complicate the picture, Frank Lo Vecchio really isn't Frank Lo Vecchio.

He's really Frankie Laine, the tall, rangy singer who has sold millions of records, and whose hits include such all-time best sellers as "Mule Train," "High Noon," "I Believe," and a lot of others.

Frankie isn't at all hesitant in giving his views on why he has stretched himself out in so many different directions. The answer, he says, is simple.

"When you lay out a concert or a night club action," Frankie says, "one of the first things you learn is to 'mix 'em up.' You counterpoint, doing a fast-paced tune, then a ballad to give the audience variety. In business they call it diversification. Well, I believe when you have a one-man business, which is what singing is, it's important to diversify so that if anything ever happens, your family's taken care of."

IN THE CASE of Frankie's Rambler agency in Downey, he just happened to be in the right place at the right time. Luck, some people call it.

Laine was sitting in his attorney's office last year, when the lawyer received a call from another client who owned the car agency but wanted to sell it and retire. Frankie, always interested in cars, jumped at the chance and bought the agency. Since then whenever he is not on the road singing, he spends a half a day or more every day on the showroom floor.

The coin business started in a completely different way. Some years back Laine was in Denver for a concert and after morning rehearsal had the afternoon to himself.

"Nan (his wife) reminded me that Denver is one of the places where they mint U.S. coins," he said. "We checked and found that, at that time, you couldn't tour the mint, but we were interested anyway, so we got the name of the leading coin dealer in the city, went to his shop and we've been hooked since."

AT FIRST, Frankie and his wife started collecting coins as a hobby, but later, when the opportunity arose to buy a going coin business in Reno, where he was singing at the time, he took it. A similar development took place in Sacramento and while neither of the companies bear Laine's name he is now developing plans for a nation-wide chain of Frankie Laine coin shops.

Frankie was born in Chicago of Sicilian parents and did his first singing as a choir boy. He had an assortment of jobs as a high school student—office boy, bookkeeper, marathon dancer, shipping clerk, car salesman, machinist, song writer and waiter. He worked at a Chicago dance hall for a year singing—but he was a flop and returned to his odd jobs.

Depressed and almost broke, he came to Hollywood looking for a job. Instead he was robbed of his entire fortune—$40.

There, he wandered into a Vine Street bar where he knew he could sing for his dinner.

He did just that.

"I STILL REMEMBER the tune I sang," he says. "It was 'Rocking Chair.' When I finished, one man in the audience kept calling for more. It turned out my big booster was Hoagy Carmichael. Hoagy, of course, wrote 'Rocking Chair,' but more important to me was that he got the owner of the club to put me to work."

Laine's luck changed.

A few nights after he'd gone to work at the night club he introduced a new number, "That's My Desire." In the audience that night was a record company executive.

Frankie got a $50 advance for recording the tune. His first royalty check more than made up for the small advance, it was for $36,000. Since then Laine has sold close to 100,000,000 records, ranking him with such all time champs as Bing Crosby, Gene Austin, and Frank Sinatra. He has also appeared in six movies as well as recording the themes for many other films and TV programs, most notably "Rawhide."

Laine takes particular delight in combining his various interests. He writes songs for the music publishing companies he owns; meets his fans at his auto agency and turns his night club appearances to advantage for his coin business. Thus, whenever he plays Reno, Lake Tahoe or Las Vegas, he insists on being paid partially in silver dollars. It takes a lot of silver dollars, but it's worth it to Laine.

"Last time I played Vegas," Frankie says, "Nan and I spent about five hours a day going through the silver dollars. We found 1,800 that were worth more than a dollar, six that were worth $20 each and four that were worth $40 each. Too bad they don't use silver dollars in other parts of the country."

Laine, an avid coin collector, and his wife, Nan, search for dollars that have extra value.

Sister City

came into being only 12 years later, in 1911.

BOTH HARBORS have massive landfill and dredging operations presently under way.

Yokkaichi can now berth 35 oceangoing ships; Long Beach can accommodate 45.

By 1974 Yokkaichi plans to triple its cargo handling capacity and by the same decade Long Beach will have expanded to about 70 berths.

Both Long Beach and Yokkaichi are backed up by booming industrial regions.

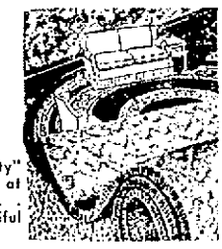

The Japanese city is without a peer in Japan as a petrochemical producing center.

THE REGION is covered with oil storage dumps and refineries and one plant alone, Showa Yokkaichi Petroleum Co., now disposes of 40,000 barrels of crude oil per day.

The Prefecture, which has nearly 9,000 industrial plants, is also a major producer of rubber products (a new plant producing 45,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually was opened in 1960 at Yokkaichi).

Among the city-district's traditionally famous products is banko pottery and dishware which is produced in about 140 potteries along the Akura River, and fish nets, of which Yokkaichi makes and sells 5.6 million pounds a year.

'Old Hickory' and the 'Hitching Post'

By Hoyt McAfee

Andrew Jackson's White House term was the most informal and hospitable of any President.

RECENT southland visitors to Washington are thoroughly convinced that President Johnson has given the White House "a friendly, informal atmosphere." It astonished them when LBJ came out of his office and invited groups of sightseers from various states and foreign lands to tour the White House grounds with him.

They watched with interest and amusement when, on other occasions, the President gave reporters and newsreel cameramen a "brisk workout" across the White House "parade route." Some who've seen LBJ make himself so agreeably available to the press and public go so far as to remark: "Never before, we feel, has the White House been so open and informal."

Naturally, such a conclusion invites comparison with what has gone before.

Despite the "down-home-in-Texas" hospitality President Johnson dispenses at the White House nowadays, he still has a long, long way to go to match one other U.S. President in informality. An abundance of historical evidence makes it clear that OHJ (Old Hickory Jackson) was the all-time champ in converting the White House into a combination "Hitching Post" and "Good Neighbor Haven."

SOME OF THE true incidents which occurred during Andrew Jackson's White House years seem almost incredible to the researcher — even today. For instance, when he started for Washington to assume his duties as President, he urged his friends, neighbors, and former battlefield comrades: "Drop in on me at the White House—all of you—often!"

Authentic accounts stress one point — that thousands of them, wild frontiersmen, ex-soldiers, farmers, and everyday working people—took Andy at his word. On inauguration night — to cite just one example—hordes of visitors (friends of the new President and strangers alike) poured into the White House like an invading army.

They pressed in close to shake Andy's hand, to whoop, shout, and sing. At one stage the convivial old frontier warrior (Jackson) became caught up in the swirl and crush of this huge, unruly throng. For a moment he was in actual danger of being jostled to the floor and trampled!

Several of his close friends thereupon linked arms and pushed their way to Andy Jackson's side. Determinedly they rescued him from his boisterous well-wishers. It was a night to remember, in that bootblacks, soldiers, farmers, cattlemen, and swarms of everyday citizens literally took over the White House and made its rafters ring with merriment.

NEXT MORNING the place was near shambles — with the furniture, drapery, paintings, and rugs much the worse from rip and tear!

But—hang on—that was only the beginning of Andy Jackson's "informal touch!" Historians are all agreed that no President in American history has so fully and richly deserved the title—"Man of the People"—as Old Hickory.

He spread the word that "my friends and fellow citizens are welcome to call on me at the White House." They did, too, in an unending daily stream. No guards turned them back at the White House gate. There were no Secret Service agents at that time to protect Andy Jackson's life.

Simply, the caller — he might be a total stranger with a pistol hidden in his pocket — gave his name to a clerk or porter inside the White House. That assistant then ushered the visitor into President Jackson's office. That was it—essence of simplicity, informality, and down-to-earth democracy.

TAKE THE CASE of the "Jovial little old lady from Virginia" who sold apples on a Washington street corner. One day some sneak thief stole her baskets of apples while she was having a bite to eat in a nearby cafe. Distressed over her loss (which deprived her of coach fare back to her home), she responded to a sudden inspiration.

It was to "drop in on Andy Jackson" over at the White House and tell him her troubles! Unhesitatingly the apple peddler was escorted by a White House aid into the President's study. There, Andy not only commiserated with her—he dug into his pockets and handed her the fare to her northern Virginia home!

Another unexpected visitor to the White House was a happy-go-lucky printer's devil from Nashville, Tenn. While bumming his way north to look for a better job, he thought it would prove "interesting" to stop in for a chat with Jackson. In their brief confab the printer complimented Andy on how he'd conducted himself as President and remarked: "You have given me a treat—seeing me like this on my birthday."

NOTICING THAT the printer was wearing shabby clothes, Old Hickory gave him $25 with this proviso: "Buy yourself a new suit. Repay me when you're earning again on your next job!"

Jackson's acts of generosity in dealing with "little people"—and deserving ones among them—revealed his warmth and greatness as a man. But he could be plenty rough on those who bore him ill will or tried to harm him in some fashion.

A Navy lieutenant named Robert Randolph learned that the hard way. Jackson had ordered him dismissed as "one unworthy of the naval service." Seething with fury over that, Randolph approached Jackson during a dedication ceremony at Fredericksburg, Va.

Jackson was seated on a bench at the moment. With a swift movement, Randolph stepped forward and clouted Andy with a smash to the head! Enraged over the assault, Jackson sprang to his feet, his fists clenched. Randolph, evidently well aware of President Jackson's reputation as a fighter —pistol, knives or fists— took to his heels in fright!

Jackson admonished close friends standing beside him: "Don't bother chasing the miserable coward!"

ANOTHER MAN named Richard Lawrence—a native of England who had moved to Washington in his youth —felt more than resentment toward Jackson. Mentally deranged, he suffered all manner of delusions: with President Jackson as the villian of all of them.

Having purchased two single-shot, brass pistols (which he concealed in his overcoat pockets), he presented himself at the White House in the hope of seeing the President. Fortunately, Jackson was tied up that day in conferences with foreign diplomats.

Lawrence returned on a later occasion, but to his irritation he discovered that he had forgotten to bring his pistols with him. Lawrence saw, upon being ushered into Jackson's office, that the President was chatting with Congressman Joel Barlow Sutherland. Andy broke off the conversation and, turning to the visitor, inquired: "May I do something for you?"

LAWRENCE blurted out that he needed $1,000 desperately—"a check on the Bank of the United States, please"—for a quick trip to England! Smiling, Andy Jackson replied that he was so hard pressed for cash that he couldn't spare $10, let alone $1,000.

On Jan. 30, 1835, Lawrence waited in the rotunda under the Capitol dome for President Jackson to emerge from a memorial service in honor of Congressman Davis. When Andy and the members of his cabinet drew near, the deranged man sud-

BOOK REVIEWS

When a Negro Becomes President

By Vera Williams
Seaboard Magazine Book Editor

WHAT WOULD happen if a Negro congressman, by a sudden accident and the law of succession, should become president of the United States?

On this premise, Irving Wallace has constructed his new big novel, "THE MAN" (Simon and Schuster, $4.95.)

At the beginning of the novel, the vice president is dead, and when the president and speaker of the house are killed, the Presidential Succession Act of 1947 is invoked and the fourth in line of succession, the president pro tempore of the Senate becomes the chief executive. While the eight American presidents who died or were assassinated in office were succeeded by their running mates, men of their own race and color, approved of by the electorate, Douglas S. Dilman, temporary chairman of the Senate who becomes president, is a Negro, a veteran party man who has been used as a liberal pro-motional front man.

Characters, almost as important in the book, are white extremists, black extremists, a terrified plain girl who is a stenographer, a celebrated and troubled Midwestern attorney, a beautiful young Southern socialite, an ambitious secretary of state, an embittered Secret Service agent.

Wallace, who heretofore has written best-sellers concerned with the inner workings of the Nobel prizes and the inside stories of sociologists who undertake sex surveys, in this book goes behind the scenes of political activity nad social life in the White House, dramatizing what it is like to sit in that big chair in the Oval Office, sleep in that big bed in the Lincoln bedroom, negotiate over dinner in the State dining room, meet with a cabinet, deliver a crucial speech to a hostile university audience, bargain with the premier of Russia in a Versailles garden, discuss outer space with an astronaut in Cape Kennedy. This controversial novel is sure to hit the best seller lists .

AS WITH specialists in professional fields, the sportsman has his specialized books—his "bibles"—of his chosen activity; and so it is with fishermen. In this field, however, the choice is narrow when it comes to applying the "technical" touch. "HOW TO FISH THE PACIFIC COAST" by Ray Cannon (Lane Book Co. $5.95), brought out in a second and revised edition, is a true salt water fishing manual written by a man who not only has fished but has made a study of fishing. Cannon has ranged up and down the coast and into the Gulf of California and also who has established a wide acquaintance among fishermen, learning and heeding their best ideas. His work does a bit of preaching on conservation (a widely debated subject) but essentially he confines himself to tackle, bait, and how to fish in general and in specifics from surf to rocks to pier to barge to deepsea. Included is a fine section on fish identification with illustrative plates. It's probably a trite expression, but here's a book that belongs in every salt water angler's library, veteran or beginner.

"DEEP IS THE BLUE" by Max Ehrlich (Doubleday, $4.95) is the story of a man, Matt Donovan, captain of the blue crew of the nuclear submarine, USS Cody. He is a giant who drives himself and others to the breaking point, with a magnetic personality that attracts but also repels the wives of the men who serve under him. The men whisper that the Cody is a "hot ship," accident prone and their fears are substantiated when the Cody sets out for a 60-day patrol beneath the icy waters off Siberia.

VARRIER ELWIN knew Gonds and Baigas as well as you know (or ought to know) your next door neighbors. This English scholar and administrator of the highest type spent a good deal of his life among the hill peoples of central India. He chose to regard himself as a "philanthropist" (his own word) and taught the wild tribesmen much, gave them such things as leper homes, and received in return a trust which wild men rarely give outsiders.

"THE TRIBAL WORLD OF VERRIER ELWIN" (Oxford $7.50) is Elwin's story of his life among the Indian hill people. A bishop's son, he abandoned the security of a clerical don's life at Oxford in 1927 and went to India with a missionary group. Elwin came to know Ghandi and has much to tell of him. In a few years Elwin was in the interior of India, living with hill tribes who were to become his friends for the rest of his life.

He tells of his establishment of "settlements for welfare and research along humanitarian lines." He communicates the black tragedy of life among the half-starved natives as few have done it; as adviser for tribal affairs for 10 years in the North East Frontier Agency he did much to relieve that tragedy. He was a man of unlimited capacity to love his fellow man.

"IN THE revolutionary transformation of Puerto Rico from a destitute agrarian society to a thriving industrial complex, we learned that the essential force that powered our effort was hope . . . Hope is the spiritual fuel that moves people who live in misery."

So speaks the man behind the "new" Puerto Rico: Luis Munoz Marin, founder and first elected governor of the Free Associated State of Puerto Rico, the first and only commonwealth of the United States of America.

The story of Munoz Marin, poet, practical idealist, is told by Thomas Aitken Jr. in "POET IN THE FORTRESS" (New American, $6.50). The book follows Munoz Marin through battle, exile, defeat and triumph, and it tells how Operation Bootstrap, development program conceived by the governor changed the economy of Puerto Rico.

CHRISTINE ANTHONY is the author of a new novel, "THE CAPTIVE CARDINAL" (Doubleday, $4.50). Action takes place in Budapest in 1976. Born in Hungary, Miss Anthony is the author of "I Am Fifteen and I Do Not Want to Die" and other books.

ONE OF the giants of the pioneer West was the Jesuit Father Pierre-Jean DeSmet. In the mid-19th century his influence with the Indians was so great that he dominated the Western wilderness. The Indians accepted him as their blood-brother and even during the bloodiest Indian wars he moved among the Indians uninjured. "BLACK ROBE: The Life of Piere-Jean DeSmet, Missionary, Explorer and Pioneer" (Doubleday, $4.95.)

Days of the Old Hotel Virginia

Hannah recalls early aviator Cal Rodgers' completion of a transcontinental flight with a landing on the beach near the Virginia. Glenn Martin is said to have made the first landing in Long Beach, bringing his parents from San Diego for dinner and setting down on the hotel lawn. Frank Champion, an early barnstormer, is said to have built a small plane in the hotel basement, getting the help of the bellboys.

The Herkimer Brothers, who operated the Balboa Studios and made motion pictures with a number of old-time stars, lived at the Virginia and one of them made the first transcontinental telephone call. The initial West Coast wireless message—from Catalina Island—was received at the hotel.

Long-staying guests who are remembered by Hannah and Morris include Mrs. Mary Abbott, a woman in her 80s who dressed and dined "in the grand manner each evening. She was a patron of the weekly dances, leading the grand march.

Another was Mrs. Fanny Preston, a hotel guest for 16 years, dining at the same table and, for 10 years, having the same waitress.

A wealthy Mexican guest once lost a wallet containing $250,000 in Mexican currency. Morris found and returned it.

An event that some political observers say helped change the course of U.S. history occurred at the Virginia Hotel on a Sunday in August 1916. Gov. Hiram Johnson of California, running for the U.S. Senate on the Republican ticket, and Charles Evans Hughes, GOP candidate for president, both checked into the Virginia on this day—neither purportedly aware of the other's presence. Hughes checked out a short time later and, to his surprise and only after he had arrived in Los Angeles, learned of Johnson's presence at the hostelry.

Johnson and his followers remained in their quarters until after Hughes had left and considered that Hughes had snubbed them when they learned of his leaving. This is said to have turned their support to the Democrat presidential candidate, Woodrow Wilson, who won California's electoral vote by a slim 3,000 ballots. Johnson as senatorial candidate, out-polled Hughes in his presidential bid by about 300,000 votes.

Easily constructed from scrap lumber, this stylish bookstand is a definite study aid.

By Bill Meyerricks

SCHOOL DAYS—and the homework for children of the house are here again. Sketchbook this week presents a very simple-to-build, but highly efficient homework aid in the form of a desk bookstand. It can be built by Dad from scrap pieces of lumber in an hour or two. Then it serves wonderfully as a stylish, comfortable stand where the student can secure the book currently being studied.

The plan shows in full size pattern how to make the modern and attractive angles of the stand's bases, how to set the front shelf and top bar together with a metal tab so that the top bar moves up and away. This makes it convenient to hold the book securely. Then with a quick flip backward of the top bar, turn the page and replace the bar again. The plan, as usual, provides full details on construction and assembly as well as complete parts and materials lists.

THE BOOKSTAND sits firmly on the deck because of its wide, but graceful base. Overall it takes up but little room, approximately 18 inches wide by 8 inches high and a 9-inch base. It can be placed to the left or right of the student according to lighting and reading habits and become a valuable prop for the many hours ahead of studying, research and note taking.

This plan, incidentally, strikes us as one that would make a fine woodworking project for a school shop as well as Dad's woodworking in the basement. It takes so little material and time to make it, it can be a very interesting project from a design standpoint and the end result is one that goes hand-in-hand with school. Anything that aids in getting better marks is worth a bit of effort.

TO OBTAIN the Desk Bookstand Sketchbook Plan S-179 send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Furniture for a Doll

By Steve Ellingson

IT WOULD be entirely possible to trace the history of fashion almost as far back as Adam by examining the dolls that have come along in each century since that time.

Modern children are no different from those who lived in Colonial times, or any other period for that matter. They all wanted and got dolls dressed as their parents were.

Today, the fashion conscious teen-ager demands a very sophisticated doll, one that not only resembles the perfect adult human model, but the clothes have to be meticulous miniatures in every respect as well. So too, with the other accessories such as doll furniture and doll houses.

THE POPULARITY of the teen-age fashion model doll is a phenomenon of this decade, so much so that it has almost become a national cult among young and old alike.

To add to the further enjoyment of this cult we want to offer correctly scaled and executed pieces of doll furniture (see illustration). All of the pieces are in correct proportion for all 11½-inch fashion model dolls. The set consists of patio, living room and bedroom furniture. Also included is a tote-about wardrobe and the backdrop which adds further realism to the entire furniture collection.

The pattern parts for each furniture piece are full size. Just trace them on wood, saw out the parts and put them together.

TO OBTAIN the full size pattern No. 361 for building the doll furniture shown, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Earning Their Biscuits

By Eleanor Avery Price

Baronessa Constanza . . . Meritorious Retriever.

AT ONE TIME nearly all dogs were actively employed in some sort of work. Today, in these United States, not a great many dogs do more than bid for points at dog shows, prove their desire to please at obedience trials, or loll around the home as lovable companions.

For example, one does not see the Afghan hound, long tresses flying, galloping after deer or guarding the flocks and herds in the fields even though he was designed for these duties in his native home of Afghanistan and really enjoys activity. (A few are used in the U. S. for hound racing for the fun of it.) The Keeshond is not seen riding barges and serving as "radar" in the fogs of U. S. waterways, but he was great protection originally in Holland. And who has heard of a huge St. Bernard in America having his tranquil life interrupted to carry a cask of rum through a blizzard, or a dachshund leaving home base to go dig up a badger?

In fact, only a handful of dogs have a real trade of any kind. German shepherds, Doberman pinschers and a few retrievers are still useful as guide dogs for the blind. The great all-American shepherd, with no AKC registrations, some collies and a few Australian shepherds serve daily on farms. And some snow dogs such as Siberian huskies, Alaskan malemutes and Samoyeds are laboriously pulling sleds over icy terrain in northern sections. I believe the breeding program of the Canadian Mounties is favoring the Siberian husky.

PROBABLY the biggest group of dogs really earning their dog biscuits is the sporting group made up of the great pointers, retrievers, setters, spaniels and the little beagle from the hound group.

The first field trial in this country was held in October 1874 at Memphis, Tenn. Today more than 500 field trials are held each year, and there are several hundred recorded field trial champions. The earlier field trial dogs were trained solely on foot, but more recently many dogs have been trained with handlers on horseback. Cover-dog trials in grouse country, of course, are carried out on foot.

Although sports devotees regard field trials as a great pastime, with each dog required to be staunch, steady, intelligent, speedy and rugged, but "classy," the trials are also instrumental in helping improve the breeding and bloodlines of bird dogs toward greater value as companions in the fields.

The Monster That Eats Old Autos

By Jerome Hall

Maw of monster that chews up beaten and worn autos. The junk cars move up conveyor to true "end of the road" where machine deals coup de grace.

ON A DUSTY street not far away, behind high walls and steel-helmeted guards, a monster swallows automobiles at the rate of one a minute. All day long and sometimes into the night the monster gobbles cars, but still the traffic problem gets worse.

Though tight security is in force to hide the monster from prying eyes and the guards are there to keep anyone from taking pictures of it, nothing sinister is going on.

It is merely a business operation that converts worn-out automobiles into reusable scrap metal. But the methods in this operation at the Luria Bros. scrap yards in Vernon, the industrial city between Long Beach and Los Angeles, are unique.

Scrap metal is big business. All day long through the week trucks piled high with junked autos roll down the freeways toward Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor. Terminal Island is a major exporting depot. Freighters head across the Pacific, laden with the crushed shells that once were the two-door and four-door prides of Southland families. But they'll be back—in the form of toys or transistor radios marked "Made in Japan."

EACH YEAR in the Southland one-half million automobiles are thrown away. How do you throw away something as large as an auto? In many parts of the nation it's often done by rolling the old rattle-trap to the side of the street and leaving it, a practice that has become a problem in metropolitan centers of the East and Midwest.

It is less a problem in Southern California because there still is a market—though a weakened one—for junk cars. Most wrecking yards will pay $10 to $25 for them, which isn't much, but better than a fistful of overparking tickets they collect when abandoned.

The junk dealers strip the cars of resalable parts and ship them to Terminal Island for overseas shipment or to Los Angeles yards for sale to domestic steel furnaces. One million net tons of scrap metal will be exported through Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor this year, it's estimated.

It is less a problem in Southern California because there still is a market—though a weakened one—for junk cars. Most wrecking yards will pay $10 to $25 for them, which isn't much, but better than a fistful of overparking tickets they collect when abandoned.

The Luria Co. in Vernon is attempting to revive the domestic market with its super-secret new machine, which is as tall as a six-story buiding and as long as a football field—rather hard to hide in spite of its guards.

THE GIANT machine, called a "fragmentizer," turns the scrapped cars into shredded metal that, the firm claims, is high-quality reusable steel. As the cars move up the long conveyor belt at the rate of 60 per hour and fall into the monster's mouth, giant high-speed hammers pummel them. As the hammers smash the autos into smaller and smaller pieces, the non-steel particles are separated. Glass, cloth, rubber and even paint chips are separated for discard and chunks of metal pour out of the machine into railroad cars ready for shipment.

Junk men think this might be the answer to the slump in the scrap metal business. Who knows, if enough of these giant auto gobblers are built, maybe it will be the answer to the traffic problem, too.

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authorative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation.

Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hida-Sweep automatic pool cleaner it is never removed from the pool—and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

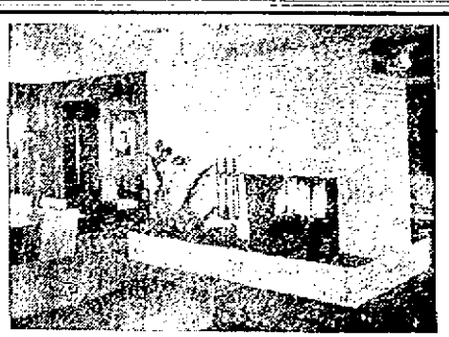

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low.

Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

For your free copy of this valuable kit, drop in or call Anthony Pools South Gate office at 6871 Firestone Blvd., phone SP 3-2210, TO 1-0381, or our Torrance office, 25412 S. Crenshaw Blvd., phone 832-5391 or our Anaheim office at 2050 So. Harbor, phone JE 4-3100.

Smashed to bits, old automobiles are spewed from giant machine as scrap for steel mills.

More Beauty Per Foot

ACTUAL dimensions of your yard may not permit large trees or bushes. Then try espaliers. Even this evergreen magnolia, certainly one of the largest of trees, can be contained very easily. Most other plants and trees are suitable for this treatment, but check with your local nurseryman first. He should be able to tell you which type would be best for you and even let you begin on started espaliers now at his nursery.

Ranunculus Is a Garden Favorite

By Joe Littlefield

For ease of culture and flower production, ranunculus is one of the top bulb plants.

RANUNCULUS is easy to grow and yields heavy crops of flowers, good for cutting as well as beauty in the garden. Nurserymen have the bulbs to be set out now. Plants already sprouted are also available.

Feeding with a mild solution of liquid fish fertilizer several times while plants are growing is beneficial.

October is a busy planting month, what with setting out annuals, bulbs, sowing sweet pea seeds, and redoing lawns.

SWEET PEAS grow best if gardeners are stingy in frequency of watering them. Water them often, keep soil wet, and nearly half of them will rot off. Water them deeply, don't water them again till soil dries, and they'll grow. Frequency of watering depends upon texture of soil and amount of organic matter in the soil that retains the moisture.

Plant snapdragons, stocks, pansies, violas, delphiniums, calendulas, in sunny garden areas. Brighten those dark shady sections by planting outdoor cyclamen from small pots or plant bands, obconica and malacoides primroses and cinerarias, but protect cinerarias from frost, and don't let aphids get a toehold on underside of cineraria foliage.

Plant bulbs in masses, and sow low spreading winter annuals over the planted bulb bed area. One showy combination is Dutch iris with pansies. Baby blue eyes in daffodil bed is another. Purpose of the low blooming plant covers is to add contrast of colors for added interest, but primarily to keep the garden area attractive as the foliage of the bulbs gradually dies down.

FEEDING LAWNS with a good turf fertilizer containing insecticide to keep them plush looking and to control lawn moth worms in grass lawn, and cutworms in dichondra lawn is an excellent idea, but the insecticide control mixed with the fertilizer doesn't last forever. Gardeners still must spray between lawn feedings to control such pests.

Don't plant iceland poppies in too much shade and keep them wet, or keep them moist in sunny flower bed areas either. Plants rot off if kept continually moist.

If you cut chrysanthemum flower branches close to the base of plant as you cut the blossoms, you are less likely to get good vigorous new growth for next year. Occasionally, a very fine flowered but weak variety may even die off! Leave several sets of mature leaves on remainder of branches.

GARDEN CLUBS

"Natural Foliage in Decorations" will be the topic of Howard Benson, importer and exporter of cured foliage, coral and tropical decor, at a meeting of Belmont Heights Garden Club at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Muriel Cyaas will preside and the tea committee will be Mmes. Faye Custer, Milly Allen, Ruth Blossom Anna Bramham, Nellie Brownell and Margaret Denison. Visitors welcome.

Los Altos Garden Club members will entertain guests at a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. John's Presbyterian Church, 2345 Ximeno Ave. Hostesses will be Mmes. R. L. Prince, V. N. Rasmussen, Leon Sewell and W. Westfall.

Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society members will host their 5th annual open house program at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park Clubhouse, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue. The theme will be "Orchids International" and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Isley of Beverly Hills, orchid growers and world travelers, will speak. Many individual and table orchid displays will be set up. The public is invited, free of charge.

"Geraniums and Pelargoniums" will be the subject of Bob Bartholomew of Santa Ana speaking at a meeting of Garden Grove Branch, California National Fuchsia Society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Sun Garden School, Trask and Newland Streets, Garden Grove. A new feature of meetings will be a "Blossom Table" with bowls provided for displays of cut flowers. E. A. Ereckson of Santa Ana has replaced Pat Scouten of Anaheim who resigned as vice president. Meetings are open to the public.

Sylvia Leatherman of El Monte will discuss ferns and begonia culture at a meeting of Long Beach Fuchsia Society at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Machinist Hall, 728 Elm Ave. There will be a plant table and refreshments.

Garden Tips

Garden tips for the week. . . . Shop now for spring blooming bulbs, especially ranunculus and anemone, while the supply is good. You can set them out at your leisure, but buy while all varieties are available.

Disbud camellias which have set too many buds. It's best to do it now before the shrubs channel any more energy into excessive buds.

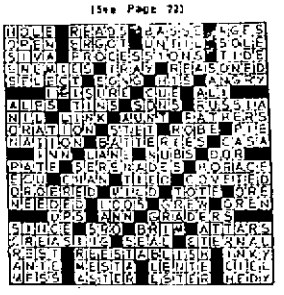

Plant blooming chrysanthemums to make up for lack of fall flower color in your garden.

Fall is an ideal time to plant native evergreens since the early winter rains will help get them established.

The persimmon tree provides fruit for some of fall's most decorative table centerpieces. At the same time, the tree itself provides a bonus of big brilliant autumn foliage that turns to bronze and red. Gardeners who have not discovered this fine garden tree should get acquainted at their local C.A.N. nursery. The persimmon fits neatly into small gardens and has few demands other than sufficient and good, rich soil.

of his brilliant pitching career.

A hit in that situation would have spelled disaster for the Cards.

WE WHO WATCHED him pitch to Lazerri that historic afternoon literally held our breaths. But as seen through binoculars, Alexander appeared to be far and away the calmest person in the ball park. Slowly, deliberately, he served "Push-Em-Up Tony" one sharp-breaking curve after another — and struck him out!

To list some other noteworthy "firsts:"

Babe Ruth, the celebrated Sultan of Swat, established the highest batting average of any World Series' hitter. In 1928, he combed opposition pitching for a glittering .625 average! His hits included three home-run-smashes (the same number he drove out of the park in the 1926 series). Several years before that (1916), Ruth—then a southpaw for the Boston Red Sox—won a 16-inning pitchers' duel in the autumn classic.

Only one big league hurler has remained undefeated in World Series' competition—Lefty Gomez of the New York Yankees. His record: 6 victories and no defeats. To Christy Mathewson of the old New York Giants belongs the all-time shutout record. He doled out goose eggs three times in the 1905 series and again in 1913 - a total of four.

NO OTHER American League team has enjoyed as much success in the baseball classic as the Yankees. They've triumphed 20 times and suffered seven defeats. In the National circuit, the St. Louis Cards have played in the World Series most often with a record of 6 triumphs and 3 setbacks.

Jackson

denly lunged forward, yanked one pistol from his coat pocket, and pulled the trigger.

It misfired! In terrified haste, he transferred the second pistol to his right hand and pressed the trigger —with President Jackson's chest only inches away from the gun barrel. It also misfired!

Cabinet members and Congressmen leaped forward and seized Lawrence. Others had to grab an infuriated Jackson and pin his arms to his side. He bellowed at them: "Let me alone! I'll deal with this cowardly scum in my own way!" But Jackson's friends continued to restrain him till his assailant was whisked away to jail.

In the trial which followed soon thereafter, Lawrence was adjudged insane by the jury. Committed to a mental hospital (now St. Elizabeth's in Washington) for life, he died there many years later.

Modern U.S. Presidents are protected—while they're in the White House—by 40 Secret Service agents and 36 policemen of the White House detail. By contrast, Andrew Jackson required none!

Even after the assassination attempt on him, he kept the White House door wide open to spontaneous unofficial callers! That explains why respected historians have called Jackson "the most courageous two-fisted President in U.S. history."

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them—burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive perianal (rectal and genital) area.

What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and repeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new, foamy aerosol medication called ANULL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANULL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser—soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itch-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANULL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANULL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANULL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANULL is an effective deodorant foam because of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Completely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANULL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANULL in your pharmacy.

IT IS NOT necessarily true that gourmets are immaculate, fastidious eaters who wouldn't dare drop a crumb on the snowy tablecloth spread before them.

Gourmets are human. They have been known to spill a drop or two of chablis or perhaps a squish of consomme on their tuxedos or gold lame gowns. Gourmets are so human, in fact, that the worldly Cafe Lafayette — one of Long Beach's most epicurean dining establishments — supplies bibs for guests indulging in a new house specialty.

This delightful concoction, introduced by Lafayette Hotel manager John McKennon and executive chef Alphonse J. G. Thomas, is known as ecrevisses. That's French for crayfish. The dish includes two dozen tender, sweet, baby crayfish cooked in a rich, creamy Bordelaise sauce. The crayfish, which are like bite sized lobsters, are imported from New Orleans. Since they are cooked in the shell, which must be removed by the gourmet, they are a bit messy to eat, which is why the Cafe Lafayette equips its ecrevisses' diners with spacious bibs. The diners don't mind the inconvenience of the shells; the morsels within are so delectable that the gourmets find the reward well worth the minor labor involved.

The beautifully designed Cafe Lafayette serves its ecrevisses a la carte (for $5.50). They are enjoyed as an appetizer, often shared by two guests, or as a dinner entree. The Cafe (closed Sundays) serves glamorous dinners from 6 to 11 p.m. and luncheons from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The restaurant features complete continental dinners from $3.95, including such fine entrees as poached brook trout, tournedos Rossini and veal escallopini cordon bleu, in addition to steaks, including chateaubriand. The continental entrees are varied daily.

A. The Lindberghs have a house in Switzerland but have not abandoned Darien, Conn. Other celebrities with homes in Switzerland include A. J. Cronin, Deborah Kerr, Charles Chaplin, David Niven, Aga Khan, Peter Ustinov, Noel Coward, Audrey Hepburn, George Sanders, Yul Brynner, Georges Simenon, Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, William Holden, Stewart Granger, Norman Krasna. Many of these people have been attracted to Switzerland because of the lower tax rates.

Q. Who will play the part patterned after Marilyn Monroe in the movie version of Arthur Miller's play, After the Fall?— H.C., New York, N.Y.

A. Sophia Loren.

Q. Doesn't Chiang Kai-shek send his ace pilots to this country for secret U-2 training?—Ron Davis, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Yes, they are sent to the 4080th Strategic Wing at the Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson for training, are then returned to Taiwan for intelligence flights over Red China.

Q. Is it true that Sam Giancana, head of the Chicago crime syndicate, owns the Illinois state legislature, lock, stock and barrel?—D.L., Oak Park, Ill.

A. He doesn't own it, but traditionally the Illinois state legislature has been recognized as one of the most corrupt in the nation.

Q. How can Bobby Kennedy run for senator from New York state when he's lived in Massachusetts and Virginia?—Bill Cunningham, Boston, Mass.

A. The U.S. Constitution permits a man to run for the U.S. Senate from any state providing he resides in the state at the time he is seeking the office. It says: "No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of 30 years, and been 9 years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen."

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BEATLES AND GIRLS. Last month when the Beatles toured this country, taking home with them another million dollars, America's teenage females, largely in the 13 to 17 age bracket, behaved wildly. They hid in air ducts, freight elevators, men's rooms, bribed bellboys and ticket-sellers, did almost anything to get a glimpse of their favorite longhairs. Their lack of restraint, caution and courtesy was shocking. Most shocking of all, however, was the failure of their parents to guide them, believing the children's antics to be clean, wholesome, innocent, youthful fun without realizing how far such teenage worship of entertainers can go.

In Las Vegas, Nev., one mother learned the hard way. When the Beatles were playing there a few weeks ago, an unidentified member of their entourage came to this mother's hotel suite. He invited her 14-year-old daughter and the daughter's friend, also 14, to a Beatle party. Without asking for details, the mother gave her consent, and the two 14-year-olds took off for the Beatles' suite.

At 1 A.M. the mother phoned the suite and asked where the two girls were. She was told not to worry, her youngsters were enjoying themselves. An hour later she phoned again, ordered the girls to return to their rooms. She was assured they would. They didn't. At 7:30 A.M., after the two 14-year-olds had spent the night in the Beatles' quarters, the mother finally phoned the police. She asked for help in getting the two underage children out of the Beatles' rooms.

Sgt. Robert Runkle of the Clark County Sheriff's Office drove to the Sahara Hotel, banged on the Beatles' door, told the parties inside that if they didn't open the door he would get the manager's passkey or break the door down. Ten minutes later the door was opened. Runkle barged in. He found one of the girls, fully clothed, in bed with a Beatle representative. The other youngster, also fully clothed, sat with her feet on Beatle John Lennon's bed. Lennon was fast asleep or feigning so. Said Runkle to the girls: "What are you girls trying to do, get these guys arrested?" He then escorted the pair to their rooms, handed them over to the mother in question. She declined to press any charges against the Beatles, telling Sgt. Runkle she would discipline the girls herself. A few hours later she and the two 14-year-olds checked out of the hotel and returned to Los Angeles.

BECAUSE OF THE VOLUME OF MAIL, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

QUIET HELP. British economists are quietly helping Khrushchev. The Soviet government, without informing its people, has hired a British firm of economists, Urwick, Orr and Co., to explore means of improving the Soviet economy, primarily from the managerial standpoint. Thus far Urwick has made two trips to Moscow, has strongly recommended to Russian officials that they decrease the influence of party commissars and establish a training school for potential executives.

CROWNING ACHIEVEMENT. Outstanding dramatic performance of our time, according to many drama critics, is Sir Laurence Olivier's portrayal of Othello. Staged in London and later at the Chichester Festival in England, Olivier's Othello has been sold out for every performance. There is now an excellent chance that the crowning achievement of this great actor's theatrical career will be preserved on film. Electronovision, the same outfit which filmed Richard Burton's Hamlet on stage in New York, plans to do the same with Olivier's Othello. The film will then be booked in motion picture theaters throughout the world, and Olivier will end his days at long last a millionaire.

RECORDINGS. Nazi war tunes are played all over West Germany these days, and no legal proceeding can stop them. This past month the Dusseldorf record company, Hocheder and Co., has been selling albums of Nazi and Wehrmacht songs at $5 per album. Thinly disguised as documentary sound tracks put together from original wartime waxings, the records are sold without any critical commentary, have become increasingly popular.

TV COMPLAINTS. Complaints concerning the number of commercial intermissions on the telecasting of old movies have become so numerous that many TV stations throughout this country are now proudly advertising that they will show an entire movie with only 4, 6 or 8 interruptions for commercials.

INSTANT GLAMOUR. Quickest way for any female to become glamorous is to wear sunglasses. The cult of the sunglass is old hat to Hollywood, but now it's spreading throughout the rest of the country as a fashion item, not an eye protector. William B. Randall of Renauld, which distributes the most expensive line of sunglasses ($12.95 to $22.50), reports that sunglasses not only mask fatigue, hangovers, boredom and facial blemishes, "but they evoke an air of glamour and mystery for the woman who wears them. In America," Randall contends, "more females wear sunglasses than males--the ratio is 6 to 4, and the major factor in the growth of the sunglass business--in 4 years the market has jumped from 70 million to 140 million--is the fact that the sunglass season no longer ranges from May to October but now encompasses the entire year. Women like to look glamorous the whole year round."

Judy Garland's Sister

Virginia Garland Thompson is contented Texas housewife.

The Happy One in the Family

by LLOYD SHEARER

DALLAS, TEX.

Unless their lawyers settle it out of court, the Judy Garland child custody case will soon come to trial.

Certainly it will develop into one of the most nasty, messy, recriminatory trials of our day.

Lawsuits involving the custody of children are characteristically notorious for bringing out the worst in plaintiff and defendant. The husband tries to prove his wife an unfit mother, and the wife offers refuting evidence depicting her husband as a louse of the first water whose slightest touch would contaminate their children beyond redemption.

In the forthcoming case of Luft vs. Luft we have two Hollywood protagonists, both capable of washing in public the most soiled of their private linen, both capable of the most savage in-fighting, both capable of making charges which in the widely publicized end are very likely to damage both of them.

Judy Garland's estranged husband, Sid Luft, 46, is her former personal manager and a man not unknown at the gaming tables of Las Vegas and the race tracks of the nation. In her petition to restrain Luft from visiting their two children, Lorna, 11, and Joe, 8, Judy has charged: "He takes their allowance from them and does not return it."

Luft, in turn, accuses Judy of being "mentally unbalanced and emotionally disturbed," points out: "On at least 3 occasions during 1963 and no less than 20 occasions in previous years, she [Miss Garland] has taken overdoses of barbiturates.

"On six occasions," he continues, "she has attempted suicide by slashing herself on her wrists, elbows or throat."

The above is a typical sample of what will be dredged up from the sewer of scandal.

At this writing, Judy, down to 90 pounds —at one time she hit 150—is located somewhere in London with Mark Herron, 28, an apprentice actor who wears tight trousers and in all probability will never be offered the role of Tarzan in any film.

Luft's lawyers have made a complete study of Herron's background, his friendship with Judy, exactly who is paying for what, and the resultant information could very well make headlines.

Because she doesn't want to see Judy's children used as pawns to satisfy the personal bitterness of two scrapping adults, Virginia Garland Thompson, 47—Judy's only surviving sister—prays devoutly each day that the case of Luft vs. Luft will be settled peaceably behind closed doors.

"Judy has had more than her share of troubles in this life," her sister asserts, "and while we've broken away from each other, I still wish her something I've known for years and she hasn't since childhood—peace of mind."

Virginia Thompson, happily married to John Thompson, a special delivery clerk in the U.S. Post Office, lives in Pleasant Grove, Tex., a restful little suburb of Dallas. On a budget of $500 a month she and her husband live in a modern two-bedroom house (with swimming pool) on one green acre of land, far removed from the Hollywood jungle in which Judy Garland lost her way and seemingly a million miles from Las Vegas, where a third Garland sister, Sue, recently took her life via the sleeping pill route.

A few weeks ago, sitting beside her on a sofa in her living room, I asked Virginia Thompson: "How come out of the three Garland sisters, you're the only one who's found happiness? Is it because you got out of Hollywood and show business?"

This attractive, blond Texas housewife ruminated for several moments. "I don't really know," she answered. "I think a woman's happiness depends largely upon her choice of a husband. Judy and Sue were always poor judges of men. I was, too, at the beginning, but luckily I improved.

"I don't know that people in show business are more or less happy than those who are not. I do know that show business throws you into contact with exciting, frequently talented and handsome men who don't make particularly good husbands. Actors, musicians, producers, directors—they are almost too creative to be stable."

She then went on to explain how men had influenced the lives of the three Garland sisters.

"We were all born," she began, "in a very small Midwestern town, Grand Rapids, Minn.—not Michigan, but Minnesota. Sue, the oldest, was born in 1915. I was born in 1917, and Judy in 1922.

"My dad was a vaudevillian. His name was Frank Gumm. My mother, Ethel, was playing piano in the pit of a theater in Marquette, Mich., when she met Dad. They formed a vaudeville act called Jack and Virginia Lee— Sweet Southern Singers.

"When they got married, and mother got pregnant with Sue, my dad, who was a very wonderful and enterprising man, decided that they had better stop traveling. His one big financial asset in life was a large diamond ring. That's all he really had to his name.

"One evening when he and mother hit Grand Rapids, Minn., he gave his diamond ring as a down payment on a small movie theater. This was back in the days of silent movies, and Mama used to play the piano in the pit while Daddy projected the films.

"When we three girls were born, we used to sit in the front row, and that's how we really learned to read, because of the titles. Mama wanted the three of us to sit in the front row so that she could keep an eye on us while she was playing the piano.

"On Saturdays Sue and I would go on stage as an extra added attraction and sing duets. Then when Judy was 3, Dad let her sing 'Jingle Bells.' She was such a ham she wouldn't get off. Dad had to come from the wings and carry her off.

"We lived a terribly normal existence—none of the born-in-a-trunk bit. We lived in a real nice two-story house in Grand Rapids, right on the corner across the street from the grade school. We were one happy family. Dad taught us to be grateful for what we had.

When Virginia was 8 her parents found the winters in Minnesota too rigorous and just for a change took a trip to southern California. "All of us went," Virginia recalls, "and we were so taken by the climate that Dad drove back to Grand Rapids, sold the theater and moved us to Los Angeles—with no prospects of any kind.

"When we got to Los Angeles, we lived first in a house in Glendale. Then somebody told my father about a little theater for sale in Lancaster, a city north of Los Angeles in the Mojave Desert. The man who owned the theater ran it himself. He sold the tickets, collected the tickets, then ran back and started the film. Dad bought the theater, and we lived in Lancaster for seven years. Mama played the piano and taught us girls how to sing. She let us sing in the theater on weekends and then on one other day. She would drive us 60 miles to Los Angeles where we appeared on a kiddie program over Station KFWB

"The guy who emceed the program was later fired for saying into the microphone when he thought he was off the air, 'Well, that should hold the little so-and-sos!'

"Judy, Sue and I earned our first money, $10 a week, singing at Loew's State during Christmas. They would only let us sing in the chorus. They didn't think we were good enough for anything else.

"Gradually we got better and started working around Los Angeles and Long Beach, which we all loved because we got to go to the beach and take the rides on the amusement pier. In 1934, just as a lark, Mother took us to Chicago, where we worked the World's Fair. We worked at a place called Old Mexico and were billed as the Gumm Sisters.

STINT AT OLD MEXICO

"We worked, not because we needed the money, but because we wanted to. I remember Dad didn't want us to go to Chicago. He was against it, but when Mother said okay, he gave her $500 worth of traveler's checks, but she was determined not to use them. Anyway, Old Mexico folded, and we got a job at the Oriental Theater in Chicago. The M.C. was George Jessel. Somehow he thought we were a comedy act. 'I can't introduce you as the Gumm Sisters,' he told us. 'It sounds too ridiculous.' Mama asked him what we should change it to. Jessel said he didn't know but would think of something before the second show. We were standing in the wings waiting to go on, when he motioned and introduced us as the Garland Sisters. Sue was then 19. I was 17, and Judy was 12 and perfectly normal.

"Until then the only man in our lives was our father. We loved and respected him. He was a kind man, a responsible man, an enterprising man. He showed us love and affection, and whatever happened to us afterward—no one can blame him. He died of a heart attack when he was 49."

One summer when the Garland Sisters were playing Lake Tahoe, Sue fell in love with a musician named Lee Cahn. Her parents tried to dissuade her from marriage, but at 20 Sue felt entitled to make her own decision. The marriage lasted six years. It was childless. Two years later Sue Garland married another musician, a trumpet player in the Artie Shaw Band, Jack Cathcart, now musical director at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas.

This past May, after she had obtained a divorce so that her bandleader husband might marry a younger girl, Sue Garland, 49, was found dead in her Las Vegas home. She had previously attempted suicide by taking near-fatal doses of Nembutal. This time the dose was fatal.

Judy Garland, 42, and her young traveling companion, actor Mark Herron, 28, stroll hand in hand in Hong Kong.

Of this tragedy, all Virginia Thompson will say is: 'It was a sordid domestic mess. Living in Las Vegas, that's not a particularly tranquil atmosphere—the gambling, the girls, the temptations. When Jack and Sue obtained a divorce—that was the end for her. She went the sleeping pill routine. Somehow the Garland females can't stand the loss of love.

"After Daddy died and Judy turned against her, Mama also tried suicide. Judy has tried it over and over again. I'm the only one who hasn't. I think it's because I'm happily married.

"What loused Judy up, I'm convinced, is psychiatry. She was the most happy, normal, lively, laughing girl you ever met until she began going to a psychiatrist. This was when she was a teenager at MGM after they'd signed her at $125 a week to begin with. Of course when she began going to the head-shrinker she was earning big money. The first time she went into analysis, she stayed for 3 years, at $20 an hour, 5 days a week.

"How she started the psychiatrist bit is absolutely fantastic. As I remember, she was very much in love at the time with a writer-director. One day the three of us were sitting in a restaurant and Judy concocted a story about going up in a parachute ride with Mickey Rooney at an amusement park and getting stuck. The story was pure fiction—Judy liked to concoct these stories—she was always imaginative and creative—but the writer-director told her she was a pathological liar and he recommended she go to a psychiatrist.

"Judy was so much in love with him, his every word was a command. Well, after the psychiatrist got through with Judy, he convinced her that her family was no good for her. Mother used to handle Judy's finances. She bought her some wonderful annuity insurance—it was expensive—but Judy could have retired at age 30 independently wealthy. When she got through with the psychiatrist, she canned Mama and got a business manager who cashed in the policies, and after that it was one financial mess after another for her.

"Mama never took a dime from Judy. After Judy got divorced from David Rose and then married Vincent Minnelli, we all broke apart. Mama came to live in Dallas and managed a theater for a time, but then Judy tried to cut her throat and Mama raced back to Hollywood to help. She never did come back to Dallas. Sad—she could've had a nice life here. Instead, she stayed out there, and Ida Koverman, she was L. B. Mayer's secretary, got her a job working in an aircraft factory. One day when Mama was broke, Ida said to her, 'Now, listen, this is just ridiculous. You've spent a fortune on Judy. She owes you something.' By then Judy was married to Sid Luft. She and Sid were down at the Philharmonic. So Mama went down to see Judy backstage. But Judy wouldn't see her. She sent Sid out to talk to her, but the conversation ended in nothing. Mama just left and she never took a penny from Judy.

BLAMES THE MEN IN HER LIFE

"Later, Mama tried suicide and several years later, she died. But I don't blame Judy, I blame the men in her life, men she's been unable to cope with, ambitious men, complex men, driving men. Judy is no beauty. She was never any beauty. I guess in a theatrical world of great beauty, she felt inferior. She has always demanded love for reassurance, and I guess she's had to buy it.

"If only she had married a doctor, a lawyer, someone not in show business, someone who was not dependent on her for money, someone with integrity and achievement who could love her for herself and not her fame, she might have been all right. But now I'm afraid she's lost.

"I was a singer with bands. I worked with Kay Thompson and her group. I worked at MGM. I played all the large cities. But I was not infected by the so-called big time. I was able to move to Dallas, to adjust, to lower the tempo of my life, to sit and think and develop a sensible set of values. I know what's important and what is not.

"I pray to God that it's not too late for Judy, that somehow, somewhere, some day she can settle down with a plain, decent, self-respecting man. Money cannot buy her love, friendship, health or happiness. She still has her voice, and she still has her children. I pray she keeps them, because once they're gone—I'm just afraid to say what I think. Oh, I'm so afraid."

The three Garland sisters, Sue, Virginia and Judy, smile prettily for the camera in much younger—and happier—days.

poor reading

Learning to distinguish between simple sound-spelling patterns helps these 1st graders to improve their reading skills.

A NATIONAL PROBLEM

A NEW PARADE OFFER TO HELP YOU DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT

by CARL BERNARD SMITH
Author of Linguistics: A Modern Concept for Reading

Disabled readers have become a national educational and social problem. Congressional committees on education and delinquency have found that poor reading is the recurring factor in delinquency, school failures, dropouts, unemployment.

Every day harrassed businessmen try to retrain workers who cannot read.

Teachers search for quicker and better methods to teach word recognition, analysis and meaning.

Parents worry about their children's chances for success in school. And about 50 per cent have cause to worry. According to a University of Illinois study, 48 per cent of American high school students are seriously handicapped by poor reading.

Drs. Mary Austin and Coleman Morrison of the Harvard-Carnegie Reading Study conclude in their book, The First R, that "present-day reading programs are mediocre at best and not currently designed to produce a future society of mature readers."

More children are hurt by poor reading than any crippling disease you can name. In the early grades, it causes almost 100 per cent of school failures.

STARTLING STATISTICS

Recent studies show the following:

- As many as 16 million Americans are functional illiterates. They cannot read above the 4th-grade level.
- 8 million adults over the age of 25 cannot read the equivalent of a daily newspaper.
- 27 per cent of army draftees fail the mental examination because they are disabled readers.
- 15 per cent of our high school graduates are seriously handicapped readers.
- 25 per cent of the students in the elementary grades cannot read.

These functional illiterates could populate a state the size of New York.

The National Education Association urges parents to take an active part in helping their children learn to read. PTA groups are focusing their attention on reading. Professional groups like the Reading Reform Foundation, stress the need for improving reading instruction in schools and encourage adults to learn the new techniques of better reading. Some adults have turned to reading clinics, where specialized personnel and equipment help solve their problems.

Despite these efforts, it will take years to revise textbooks and get new reading programs into effective operation.

Yet, there is a solution to this problem for individuals at all levels—and PARADE's new guide, How to Read and Succeed, (see next page) spells it out. Parents who want their children to get reading fundamentals, teachers who what makes an eager eater?

Many things. Plenty of fresh air to tune up an appetite. The smiling atmosphere that surrounds your baby's mealtimes. The colors and flavors of the foods you offer. (Gerber Baby Foods are famous for exceptional eye-and-flavor-appeal.) Variety to stimulate appetite interest; develop good eating habits. (Gerber offers over 50 delicious strained foods for continued meal-appeal.)

Easy does it

Forcing never made a baby a bigger or better eater... a happy association with mealtimes often has. Your baby is bound to relish his food more if left to eat, not made to eat. No one food is a "must." Certainly your cherub needs essential nutrients such as protein, certain fats and a variety of vitamins and minerals but he can get these nutrients from many different foods. If baby takes a temporary dislike to a food—a vegetable, say, there are several Gerber alternates with similar food values to substitute.

Accepted with pleasure

That's how babies usually react to the savory goodness of Gerber Strained Meats. True-meat flavors and a wonderfully smooth, moist texture account for their happy acceptance by wee ones.

Made from special cuts selected by Armour, they're specially processed to "lock in" natural flavors and assure that extra-nice texture. There are 10 very nice ways to give your baby the protein he needs for growth and strength.

Pertinent P.S.

It should be reassuring to know that Gerber Meats are the doubly-reliable products of two great names—Gerber, famous for fine baby foods, and Armour, famous for fine meats. ARMOUR

Feeding footnote

One at a time is a good introductory "rule of thumb" for new foods. Let baby try each new food a few times before tackling another. Too many new tastes at one time may confuse him; cut down appreciation of any single food.

Variety review

Not less than two daily servings of vegetables, at least one of them green or yellow, is a good dietary pattern for babies. Gerber offers 10 vegetables, designed with your baby's eating pleasure in mind. Like all Gerber Baby Foods, they're "custom-cooked" according to their own requirements to preserve naturally good colors and flavors... the utmost in precious food values.

They're all Gerber-great: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods —infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

Read for meaning, not word by word

need language patterns to guide their pupils, businessmen who have to retrain workers, individuals who want to become better readers — all, with the guide, have help within their grasp.

The PARADE guide summarizes new research in language and reading which has given the ordinary person a simple means of solving most of his reading problems. Many people, even teachers, think that learning to read is so difficult that a large number of poor readers is to be expected. Actually, the reverse is true. Linguists have demonstrated that English is regular and logical and that there is no reason why every normal person cannot read well.

Some think they have to read fast to be good readers. But the real problem is meaning. Most of us simply have not been taught how to read for understanding. Most of the dropouts, failures and functional illiterates could have learned to read if only someone had shown them how to sound out words, how to get sentence meaning and how to understand what they read.

Whatever your age or ability, plan now to read better. Read— to know; and know how to read well. You can read well if you know your own needs, build the right skills and apply them regularly.

As the first step in your reading improvement program, you must know where you stand as a reader. Here is a check list. Answer the following questions and evaluate yourself:

1 When you read, do you concentrate on words ☐ or on thoughts ☐ ?
2 Where will better reading help you most? school ☐ business ☐ social ☐
3 Do you read for information ☐ or for pleasure ☐ ?
4 When you think of improving your reading, do you have specific skills in mind, like speed, word recognition, vocabulary, concentration, comprehension? yes ☐ no ☐
5 Are you willing to spend 15 minutes a day for a 2- or 3-week period to improve your reading? yes ☐ no ☐

WHAT YOUR ANSWERS MEAN

Answer number 1 tells you what kind of reader you are. Number 2 indicates your motivation for better reading. Number 3 tells you how you have used reading in the past. Number 4 identifies some of the skills you need. Number 5 is your key to success. If you answered Yes to 4 and 5, you're on your way to better reading.

To read well you need many skills: some to grasp words, some to understand phrases and sentences, some to capture the meaning of an entire selection. And like all skills, reading requires understanding, effort and constant practice.

In building skills for yourself or someone else, use the logic that is already built into the language. Contrary to what many people think, English has regular language patterns. There is a planned relationship between the sound and the spelling of words. Linguists call this the alphabetic principle. About 90 per cent of the words in the language follow this principle.

Adults whose professions require rapid, competent reading skills can profit from attending clinics which teach new reading techniques, using such aids as the machine above.

The majority of words follow two sound-spelling patterns. The word mad represents the simplest and most useful pattern — consonant-vowel-consonant. There is a distinguishable sound for the letter "m," one for the letter "a" and one for the letter "d." The second pattern— consonant-vowel-consonant-vowel — is identified by a word like made.

I	II
c-v-c	c-v-c-v
mad	made
pet	Pete
bit	bite
hop	hope
cut	cute

The words in the first pattern have the short sound of the vowel, like the "a" in mad. The words in the second pattern have the long sound of the vowel, as in made. In other words, there is logic and system in English, and reading can be learned easily through the regular sound-spelling patterns.

Some reading psychologists say that a 2-year-old can be taught to read if he can distinguish speech sounds well. That's how easy the sound-spelling patterns make it. The following five sound rules will enable you to identify most of the words:

1 When there is only one vowel in a word or syllable, that vowel usually has a short sound—for example, at, hut.

2 When a word or syllable has two vowels, one a final, silent "e," the first vowel usually has a long sound—for example, made, babe.

3 When there is a double vowel in a word or syllable, the first vowel usually has a long sound, and the second vowel is silent—for example, maid, beat.
4 When a vowel is followed by an "r," it has a modified sound that is neither long nor short —for example, car, hurt.
5 Certain double vowels (diphthongs) have linked sounds that make use of both vowels—for example, "au" in the word cause, "ou" in house, "oi" in oil.

TRY THIS EXPERIMENT

Besides the sound patterns, there are others that help you in understanding what you read. Once you know the patterns, you can read for meaning.

Make this little experiment. Take the sentence below and first read it word by word, making a complete stop after each word. Then read it straight through, trying to get the over-all picture of the sentence.

Twenty thousand leagues under the sea lies a chest on the bottom of which is a treasure map.

Reading the sentence word by word makes it rather difficult to grasp the meaning, doesn't it? But when you aim for its total meaning, it becomes clear that the important thing is a treasure map (on a chest at the bottom of the sea).

What is true of a single sentence is also true of an entire selection. If reading word by word makes a single sentence obscure, the meaning of an article or a book could also be lost if you did not relate each sentence and each paragraph to the entire work.

By learning one structure pattern and by increasing your eyespan, you could read that sample sentence with a quick glance.

This summary tells you quickly how you can improve your reading ability— or that of another person. Start now to improve your reading habits. Keep in mind the following steps:

1 Learn the regular patterns of the language.
2 Practice the patterns regularly.
3 Have a purpose when you read.
4 Read to recognize and understand.
5 Remember: He who reads, succeeds.

Above all, practice, practice.

The PARADE guide tells you in detail the steps to follow in your reading improvement program. It provides additional techniques and exercises, plus tests to evaluate your progress. It tells you tricks to use and methods to employ to define the meaning and understand the purpose of reading materials. And it shows you ways you can help your children, or drill yourself in better reading.

Remember, now is the time to set out to improve your reading. It is important to the future of yourself, your children and the nation. ■

Here's how you and your children can read better

CHEESE 'N WAFFLE WINNERS

Baking sheet Yield: 24 Preheated 400° oven
Preheated broiler

6 (½ package) frozen waffles
Butter
Sliced, cooked corned beef
Cherry tomatoes
6 slices Muenster cheese, 3 x 3-inches

Place waffles on baking sheet; heat in oven 7-9 minutes. Butter, cover each waffle with slice of corned beef. Top with four tomato slices. Broil 1-2 minutes or until cheese is melted. Cut into quarters and serve immediately.

Muenster Appetizers: Butter toasted bread rounds; place on baking sheet. Cover each round with slice of Muenster cheese, 1¾ x 1¾-inches; top with a small onion ring. Place a slice of cherry tomato in center of ring. Place under broiler for 1 minute or until cheese starts to melt. Serve immediately.

CHEDDAR TOASTIES

Baking sheet Yield: 24 Preheated broiler

1¼ lb. loaf unsliced, day-old bread
Butter, softened
3 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
4 cherry tomatoes, halved
8 cooked shrimp
Pimiento-stuffed olives, sliced

Place 16 x 12-inch foil piece on baking sheet. Trim crusts from bread; cut loaf into 4 lengthwise slices. Toast one side of bread under broiler; turn. (If a thinner bread is desired, flatten lightly on the untoasted side.) Toast second side and butter. Place side by side on foil; sprinkle cheese over all. When broiled, cheese will melt slices into one large piece. This will be divided into 24 small appetizers by cutting 8 strips on the long side, making cuts where bread slices touch and also in the center of each slice of bread, and cutting into thirds on the narrow side. Tomatoes, shrimp and olives should be arranged so each will be in the center of an appetizer. Broil until cheese is melted. Cut; carefully slide foil with appetizers to serving tray. Note: Can be made ahead, refrigerated and broiled for serving.

HOW WILL CANADA GREET THE QUEEN?

QUEBEC'S SEPARATISTS THREATEN "INCIDENTS"

by NEAL ASHBY

MONTREAL, QUEBEC.

The threat of angry incidents hangs over Queen Elizabeth's official visit to Canada this week.

Radical forces advocating independence for this big, French-speaking province of Quebec may make her stay less than the joyous return of a monarch of the British Commonwealth after a five-year absence.

Individuals, French-language newspapers and independence-seeking political parties in Quebec have denounced the visit. And they've threatened to make it unpleasant for Her Majesty.

Quebec's 4½ million French Canadians feel themselves dominated by the English Canadians of the rest of this vast country of 19 million. To them, Queen Elizabeth is the symbol of what they regard as their "oppressors."

Separatist leader Marcel Chaput has declared: "Some of my people are ready to let her know—and brutally—that she's not welcome in French Canada."

The Army of Liberation of Quebec, a terrorist independence group, has warned her to stay away.

And the largest, most significant independence force, the RIN party (Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale), has admittedly made secret plans to be carried out while Elizabeth is here.

"We have made known our opposition to the visit," asserts intense, handsome André d'Allemagne, executive committee member and guiding force of the RIN —Nationalist Independence Rally in English. "We have made plans, yes. Of course, I cannot reveal them. But the RIN will make itself felt. Do I plan to be in Quebec City when the Queen is there? I cannot say."

What form separatist incidents or violence might take is unknown at this writing. Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by Prince Philip, is scheduled to be in Quebec City on Oct. 10 during her Canadian stay. Her visit commemorates the beginnings, 100 years ago, of the organization of Canada's government.

Little noticed in the U.S., a French Revolution has been brewing in Canada. Quebec's French Canadians feel their language often shuts them out of jobs and that their Gallic culture might die.

The discontent in Quebec is making itself felt in the capital in the adjacent province of Ontario, where cabinet ministers and legislators uneasily eye their volatile French Canadian neighbors.

THE CONSEQUENCES

The drastic intent of the most extreme elements of the movement—creation of an independent nation of Quebec—would split Canada in two, making Quebec a barrier between the eastern and western provinces.

Acts of rebellion and antigovernment activity have occurred repeatedly over the last two years.

There have been bombings of mailboxes—one of which caused a serious injury and another a fatality—and thefts of guns from armories in Quebec. Almost daily in this city of 1,200,000, a sign in English is daubed with red paint, a British Union Jack torn down or "Freedom for Quebec" chalked on a wall. This summer, police battled mobs of youths demanding separation.

But not all the revolutionary stirrings take destructive form. Political planning and organizing also advance the cause of "Québec Libre."

The number of those involved appears to be relatively small, but the feeling is fervent. One of the most dedicated of the radical leaders is university-educated André d'Allemagne, 34, who is working night and day to free his fellow French Canadians.

D'Allemagne says his means are peaceful. He believes that separatists may someday hold the majority of seats in Quebec's Legislative Assembly (they do not as yet hold any), or that the major political parties themselves may decide to advocate separation.

André d'Allemagne, RIN party leader, and his wife, Lysiane, carry placards urging independence for Quebec.

But if necessary he is prepared to take up arms and fight to free his beloved Quebec.

French Canadians make up 80 per cent of the population of this bounteously endowed province, which stretches northwestward from the Maine border for 1,000 miles. Not all of them want to slash the ties to Canada's confederation of 10 provinces as does d'Allemagne. But virtually all are determined that French Canadians shall have a fair share of better jobs, a greater degree of local autonomy and preservation of their language and culture.

Though it does not call for secession, the Liberal Party of Quebec is hammering at the national government for increased powers. The Ottawa regime has made conciliatory gestures—and removed guns from Quebec armories so that hotheads can't get at them.

Just ahead of the current unrest, in the fall of 1960, came the birth of the RIN, which has its headquarters here. It is small (d'Allemagne, one of its founders, claims 5,000 to 6,000 members), and it professes to be peaceful. But d'Allemagne says with a foreboding scowl:

"If we are not left free to run candidates, or if we win power and the Canadian government resists our desire for independence, we will not abandon our cause. Fighting will break out in the streets.

"We want the approval of the people, in a democratic way. But if there is too little progress, the people will get fed up. Then they will take guns."

A French-language copywriter for an advertising agency here, d'Allemagne makes pro-independence speeches all over Quebec. Often RIN members assemble groups of friends in their homes and d'Allemagne is summoned to appeal for their support.

D'Allemagne and other members of the executive committee map the party's strategy at meetings every other weekend in Montreal or Quebec City.

THE HOME FRONT

André's beautiful blonde wife, Lysiane, 22, a reporter on the French-language newspaper, La Presse, is just as ardent a separatist as her husband. But Lysiane's fervor is tempered, her eager smile fades, at thoughts of harm befalling André, to whom she has been married for a year.

"We have thought—it is very personal—that we should not have children right away. I'm afraid about that. I don't want to be raising kids while André is in the woods somewhere.

"It is normal for a people to want to have a country," she continued as we talked in the small room of their 4½-room apartment which they use as an office. Here, André writes speeches and editorials for the RIN monthly newspaper in longhand and Lysiane composes party notices on a small portable typewriter.

"Quebec is not a real country now. In most fields you can't even work in your language."

The reasons for the anger of the French Canadians are found both in the past and present. Canada was discovered by the French in the 1500s, remained in their control until the British conquest 200 years later.

Quebec has remained French, but its economic power has not left the hands of English Canadians.

Canada was to have been by law a country of two languages. In practice, however, use of English has gained predominance, except in Quebec, and even here, business and proximity to the U.S. have dictated a wide use of English. Surrounded by alien influences, the Québecois settled into an insulated provincial life. Awakening in recent years, Quebec citizens found their poor English left them on the outside looking in at the good life in Canada.

The national government has made gestures apparently intended to placate the dissident Québecois. Most recently, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has proposed a new Canadian flag, displaying red maple leaves on a white field, to replace the present flag and its Union Jack emblem. Pearson has staked the prestige of his government on the proposal, to which there is widespread opposition.

However, government spokesmen say Ottawa is not seriously concerned over the unrest in Quebec and that outlawing the RIN has not been discussed. But if separation ever comes about, the loss of mineral-rich Quebec would devastate Canada.

The American is apt to wonder why separatists rule out any possibility of gaining the treatment and standing they want without tearing apart a nation of 19 million persons.

"We've tried for 200 years and not succeeded," is d'Allemagne's curt reply. "Independence is inevitable.

"The Republic of Quebec will . . ."he says, looking away, and it is plain he can see it very clearly.

my favorite jokes

by Paul Gilbert

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ever since he was 7, Paul Gilbert of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., has never known any life other than show business. His father, Joseph McMahon, was a famous English music hall comedian. His mother, a Frenchwoman, Eleanor Calvier, was equally renowned as a circus aerialist. When Paul was 7, his parents apprenticed him to the El Torreos, a South American family of aerialists. For years, Paul traveled with the El Torreos. At 17 he fell off the high wire from a height of 65 feet. Hospitalized for a year, he managed to survive, but from that point on, he was finished as a trapeze specialist. He then became a night club comedian, breaking in at small clubs and gradually working his way up. Between marriages—he's been married six times—Gilbert has appeared in all the major night clubs as a major stand-up comic telling such jokes as these:

You really see some strange pets around these days. The other day I saw a lady on the street with a big greyhound dog. It had a bus painted on its side.

A kid I know was complaining about the neighborhood he lived in. He said the house was so bad they finally tore it down and put in a slum district.

* * *

A fellow was accosted on the street by a holdup man. The robber said, "Stick 'em down."

"You mean 'stick 'em up,'" answered the victim.

"Oh, so that's it!" replied the crook. "No wonder I haven't been making any money."

A kid from the East Side was complaining about his family being too large—that there were so many kids they didn't know what was going on. In fact, he said one day a strange kid moved in with them, was there for three months and one day they found out he wasn't one of theirs when they caught him eating matzoth balls with chopsticks.

Two astronauts in the same capsule were 160 miles up in the stratosphere on their sixth day of circling the earth. One turned to the other and asked: "What do you mean, 'It won't flush?' "

* * *

A World's Fair visitor couldn't find his way in the big city of New York. He stopped a small boy on the street and said: "Can you tell me where Times Square is?"

"Nope," said the kid.

"Well, then," the man went on, "can you tell me where Grand Central Station is?"

"Nope," answered the boy.

"Do you know where the Empire State Building is?" asked the man.

The kid said, "Nope."

"Good heavens!" replied the exasperated tourist. "You certainly don't know very much about where anything is around here!"

"Nope," answered the boy, "but then, I'm not lost."

* * *

A lady told her friend she wanted to go on a diet and asked for suggestions.

"I've heard of a wonderful new diet pill out now," said her friend. "It paralyzes your mouth and you can't eat!"

A 5-year-old girl was asking her father to explain pay-TV.

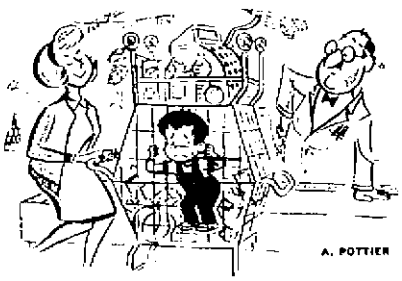

"They will charge you to watch the movies and plays and concerts and sporting events," he explained, "but the good thing about it is that each show will run for about two hours uninterrupted by commercials."

"Well, that sounds good," said the little girl, "but if there are no commercials, how will we know when it's time to go to the bathroom?"

* * *

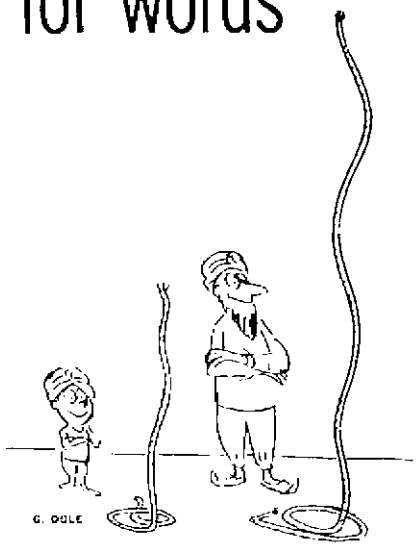

You hear a lot these days about how prosperous this country has become. Well, I'll tell you what prosperity is—that's when a family is paying off on half a dozen things instead of just one!

'Secret' Was Aired on TV Last January

LBJ RIPS BARRY ON A-PACT

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Sen. Barry Goldwater "the new and frightening voice of the Republican Party" Saturday and said some Goldwater accusations are impulsive, imprudent and erroneous.

Johnson, holding another of his Saturday afternoon news conferences, scoffed at charges by Goldwater that the administration is "soft on communism" and is keeping secret a proposed treaty aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons.

As for the soft-on-communism allegation, Johnson said:

"I see in the papers—that is the only information that I have—the new and frightening voice of the Republican Party is merely trying out this charge at the moment to see if it works. On that basis, my own advice would be to drop it."

Johnson, referring to "this sort of nonsense," said he believes Goldwater's nuclear-treaty accusation "was the product of some third-string speechwriter and accidentally got into the public print without prudent or careful screening."

Johnson didn't name Goldwater, but in addition to his mention of the "voice of the Republican Party" he referred once to "the Republican candidate."

The President said he announced the nuclear weapons treaty proposal before live television cameras last January and that "there is no secret of any kind." He said Goldwater's statement "is simply some more evidence that impulsive people should probably get themselves properly briefed."

Goldwater has said that he has doubts about the wisdom of the proposed treaty because, he said, it might be signed by Communist China.

Johnson said the Communist Chinese are "violently opposed" to any such treaty and that the Soviet Union has not accepted the idea.

On other major topics, Johnson told newsmen that the Secret Service has no complaints about his conduct in crowds and, in fact, believes that impromptu stops among throngs of people are one of the most important deterrents to risk.

He said "None of you need be worried about my physical safety between now and November." And he volunteered praise for the Secret Service and the FBI — two agencies rapped in the Warren Commission Report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Expressing concern that

29 Die in Louisiana Twisters, Hurricane

Toll Rises as Hilda Strikes

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Hurricane Hilda smashed full force across southern Louisiana with 120-mile-an-hour fury Saturday night and shrieked inland, dealing death and destruction behind an advance string of killer tornadoes.

At least 29 persons were dead, most of them tornado victims.

Six were killed in the wreckage of a city hall crushed by a water tower.

Hundreds were injured and damage was soaring into the millions as the vast storm slowly pushed inland through a Cajun-country slot between Avery Island and Morgan City, southwest of New Orleans.

Its path took it in Baton Rouge, the capital, and Lafayette. New Orleans was getting side winds and rain. Flooding was becoming a major threat.

* * * *

IT WAS ONE of the worst storms in Gulf Coast history. It approached in death-dealing mighty Hurricane Carla which killed 34 in Texas and 5 in Louisiana Sept. 12-14, 1961.

However, there appeared little chance Hilda could match Hurricane Audrey which killed an estimated 500 persons in the same general area in 1957.

Tornado alerts remained in effect through the night in southeast Louisiana and southwest Mississippi, where people began moving to high ground.

Three twisters ripped with the whistle of jet engines into the shrimp-fishing town of Larose in Lafourche Parish, 30 miles south of New Orleans.

As many as 40 houses were ripped to pieces or badly damaged in a 200-yard-wide swath one mile long.

Eighteen people died, three of them children. Of the town's 2,800 people, 162 were injured, many seriously.

Another five were killed when their car was swept into Bayou Manchac south of Baton Rouge.

Bloodied survivors dug through rubble for victims until forced out by the onrush of Hilda's terrifying winds.

Barry Says LBJ Selfish on Medicare

Politics Killed Social Security Raise, He Charges

By BILL SUMNER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

MOLINE, Ill. — Sen. Barry Goldwater charged here Saturday that President Johnson killed an increase in Social Security benefits just to "jam his Medicare scheme down everybody's throats."

"We do know, once and for all," said Goldwater in a speech, "just how far the interim President will go to harm the public for selfish purposes."

The Republican nominee blamed Johnson for the death of the Social Security bill in Congress Friday. The administration's Medicare program to provide hospital care for the aged was tacked onto the bill and Senate-House conferees could not agree on a compromise.

* * * *

IN ANOTHER speech, Goldwater referred to President Johnson as a clever compromiser and a scheming wire puller whose example was contributing to a breakdown of law and order in the United States.

These descriptions of Johnson, amost the roughest of the campaign to date, were contained in an accusation-laden speech at the Wheaton College football field in suburban Chicago.

The reference was indirect, but it followed a recitation of scandal and cover-up in which he called the administration "sick" and "riddled with abuse." "To restore public virtue, and thereby law and order," Goldwater said, "there is no place for the dealership of a clever compromiser, a scheming wire puller, a master politician. There is instead urgent need for leadership, dedicated to the principle that moral law binds both the high and the low, the public law must and should be enforced."

* * * *

HE REVIVED his charges that the administration had encouraged violence in the streets in the cause of civil rights.

Wheaton was the final stop on a five-day, 2500-mile whistle-stop campaign through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Wheaton is the seat of government of Du Page County which voted overwhelmingly for Richard Nixon in 1960, 101,000 to 44,000 for John F. Kennedy. Goldwater said the administration was attempting to

CARDS, REDS TIED

Incredible Mets Snarl It, but Good

The lowly New York Mets hit five home runs to wallop the St. Louis Cardinals 15-5 Saturday and plunged the National League into a tie between the Cardinals and idle Cincinnati with one game to wind up the season today.

It was the Mets' second victory in a row over the Cardinals.

If both Cincinnati and St. Louis win their single games Sunday, a National League playoff will be necessary. If St. Louis loses and Philadelphia beats Cincinnati, the result would be a three-way tie.

Manager Johnny Keane used eight pitchers in an effort to stop the flow of Met hits, which reached 17 including George Altman's home run in the second, Ed Kranepool's three-run homer in the third, Charlie Smith's 19th homer in the fifth and a three-run homer by Bob Klaus and a solo homer by Joe Christopher in the sixth.

The possibility of a four-way first-place finish was dispelled when the San Francisco Giants dropped a 10-7 decision to the Chicago Cubs.

In college football, Michigan State upset USC, 17-7, Minnesota toppled California, 26-20, and Iowa knocked off Washington, 28-18, as Big Ten schools made life miserable for West Coast teams.

Top-ranked Texas scored two fourth-period touchdowns to whip Army, 17-6, but third-rated Auburn wasn't as fortunate, losing to Kentucky, 20-0. Notre Dame won its second game, defeating Purdue, 34-15.

Viet Drive Nets 46 Reds Killed

SAIGON Viet Nam, Sunday (AP)—Government forces killed 46 Viet Cong and captured 16 others during a battle on Communist-infested Ca Mau Peninsula, the defense department reported today.

The government said it suffered two dead during the helicopter-borne operation near Tan Phu outpost in An Xuyen Province, 160 miles southwest of Saigon.

One Dead as Cycle Hits Car

Two youths, riding double on a newly purchased lightweight motorcycle, smashed into an automobile late Saturday night at Willow Street and Lakewood Boulevard when a stuck traffic light led them to believe they had the right of way.

The driver of the motorcycle was killed instantly. He carried no identification other than a bill of sale for the motorcycle dated Sept. 25.

* * *

SERIOUSLY injured and undergoing emergency surgery early today was Edward Charles Hoffman Jr., 18, of 7508 E. Racine Ave., Paramount.

He was pinned in a twisted piece of motorcycle wreckage when ambulance drivers arrived at the scene.

Driver of the automobile, who was unhurt in the collision, is Touissaint Parker, 27, of Los Angeles.

Police found signals at the heavily traveled intersection stuck on green and amber.

GOLDWATER LEADS ONLY IN DIXIE

Polls Forecast President's Victory in All but 3 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polls reaching the White House, it was learned Saturday, show that President Johnson was leading Republican Barry Goldwater in 47 of the 50 states on the days the polls were taken.

The three states missing from the Johnson column at this point are in the South and the outlook from one of them is described as fuzzy. The other two are unexpectedly close compared to what the Democrats thought the showing might be.

The word is, also, that there is room in polls for an error of 4% either way, so that Johnson doesn't have any solid expectation of grabbing off 47 states.

* * * *

THE WHITE HOUSE information is that the maximum change in October, in the history of polls going back through the 30s, was the 5% swing in the Truman-Dewey race in 1948, in which President Harry S. Truman squeaked through with an actual minority of popular vote. Usually the change is more on the order of 2% in one direction or the other.

In the 1960 presidential contest, there was practically no change in October, and in the two Eisenhower-Stevenson battles in 1952 and 1956 the poll percentages shifted only a couple of points, according to the figures made available to the White House.

At this point, the indication of the polls overall is that the President has about a two-to-one edge over his rival, with 62 to 32% and the rest undecided.

Johnson isn't taking anything for granted and tells friends that he intends to keep on working and trying to "get every vote we can."

Since he has been President, he has gone into about 30 states—many of them since his presidential nomination, and he hopes to get into perhaps 25 before the Nov. 3 voting.

* * * *

HE ISN'T sure just which ones he will hit and which he will miss, but Alaska and Hawaii look as if they are out of range. Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wife of the vice-presidential nominee, is going to those two.

Mississippi and Alabama are considered the two states most likely to wind up with Goldwater. In Louisiana, a poll that has come to White House attention shows that Goldwater has dropped 8% and Johnson is up 6% since the last count. A Mississippi reading was 70-30 against Johnson.

FIRE ALARM CRIES 'WOLF'

SEATLE (AP)—That $700 fire-alarm system installed by Edward Charles kept blasting off with false alarms and scaring the children. When it set up a clatter during a television program, Charles said, he shut it off and forgot to turn it back on later.

Firemen said the long-smoldering blaze in Charles' basement workshop Friday did $1,000 damage.

LBJ Adds 3 States to Junket

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson added Tennessee, Montana and Nevada plus additional parts of California Saturday to the weeklong campaign expedition he starts next Tuesday.

The trek will take him coast to coast and border to border.

The White House announced that on Friday, Oct. 9, the President will be going into Tennessee, between stops at Louisville and New Orleans. The specific place or places in Tennessee have not yet been determined.

* * * *

HE PLANS to spend a let-up day on Saturday, Oct. 10, on his Texas ranch near Johnson City, and attend a Columbus Day parade in San Francisco on Sunday.

The following day, the President will be campaigning "somewhere in California," and then move on to Butte, Mont., and back to Reno, Nev.

The trip starts Tuesday when Johnson sees Mrs. Johnson off on the "Lady Bird Special" campaign train that will take her through Dixie.

Sen. Magnuson's Wedding Is Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, 59, D-Wash., will marry Mrs. Jermaine Selliott Peralta, 41, today in a private ceremony, an aide said Saturday night.

Magnuson, a ranking Senate Democrat and chairman of two committees, was divorced in 1929 after his first marriage. A spokesman said Magnuson and Mrs. Peralta have been friends for many years.

L.A.C. Says:

Sermon That Caused a Political Furor

A noted clergyman who was born in the White House as a grandson of President Wilson has created quite a furor by one of his sermons. He is Dean Francis Sayre of the Episcopal National Cathedral in Washington, D. C. Since the sermon he has been besieged with phone calls, letters and newspaper correspondents and columnists—and answered by other leading clergymen.

In his sermon Dean Sayre said: "This summer we beheld a pair of gatherings at the summit of political power—each of which was completely dominated by a single man—the one a man of dangerous ignorance and devastating uncertainty; the other a man whose public house is splendid in its every appearance, but whose private lack of ethics must inevitably introduce termites at the very foundation."

Bishop Creighton of the church disagreed with the sermon, saying: "I would prefer to judge the candidates on the basis of their programs." The Rev. Dr. Shirkey of the Washington Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church says: "Both are worthy, good men. Not once have I had any reason to doubt the sincerity, the honesty; nor to question the motives or the basic character of the two men."

This difference of opinion was further increased the past week when Sen. Karl Mundt referred to the campaign as "Low level and schoolyard." He labeled it as "dirtier" and more diatribe-filled than any campaign of recent years. He said: "We all know in our hearts that Barry Goldwater is not a raving, ranting demagogue as charged by Johnson. Just as we know that President Johnson is not a crook."

The President made his charges in a speech to the Steel Workers Union. The reference to the President's honesty comes from the revelation of how his family fortune has been accumulated in his radio and TV monopoly made possible by rulings of the Federal Communications Commission over which he has had great influence—and the members of which he has the power to appoint. It also stems from his close association with Bobby Baker.

Last Sunday the minister of the First Christian Church where Mr. Johnson is a member replied to Dean Sayre as follows: "It is regrettable that you have spoken so as to discourage support of a leader qualified as none other to discharge the awesome responsibilities of the office of President in these world-shaking and threatening times." He also asked his congregation, including the President and Mrs. Johnson, to pray that the Chief Executive "be upheld by the electorate."

It is probable most of the voters have made up their minds as to the extent of "dangerous ignorance" that should be applied to Goldwater. But it seems there is a definite "blind spot" for those who shrug off the Johnson fortune and Bobby Baker association. When church people refuse to consider these activities as reflecting on a man's character they are, in effect, approving them. If this is their attitude, the question is: Where do they draw the line on such moral issues? What moral standards do they set up for the public officials in their teaching of young people? Wherein do they disagree with Dean Sayre's remark that "a lack of ethics must inevitably introduce termites at the very foundation?"—L.A.C.

(L.A.C.'s column by L. A. Collins, Sr. like other columns is an expression of personal opinion and does not necessarily reflect the considered opinion of this newspaper.)

All-Digit Opponents Lose Another Round

Opponents of the all-digit dialing system lose another round today.

An estimated 7,500 telephone numbers in Long Beach will be changed to an all-number series which begins with 59.

Hemlock exchanges account for most of the new numbers, but some Garfield 4, 5, and 7 numbers are also included, according to a General Telephone Company spokesman.

Letters on the 5 and 9 dial positions are JKL-WXY. Just try and fabricate a pronounceable prefix out of that!

STATE BALLOT PROPOSALS

$1.25 Billion Actual Cost if $790 Million Borrowed

By JIM McCAULEY
I, P-T Sacramento Bureau

(First of a Series)

SACRAMENTO — Three proposals for further state bonded indebtedness will top the list of 17 state propositions on the California ballot Nov. 3.

The bonds, proposed to finance recreation, school building and state construction projects, are ballyhooed as costing $790 million. Actual expense to taxpayers will be hundreds of millions of dollars higher.

If you figure in anticipated interest over the next 25 years, the legislative analyst estimates, ultimate cost may be $1.25 billion.

* * * *

PROPONENTS say that future generations will use the projects for a long time, it is only right that they should help pay for them. It is cheaper to borrow for projects now rather than pay an inflated price for them later, according to another proponent argument.

California's buy-now-pay-later credit plan, financed by bond issues, has been growing in recent years. Californians thus far have approved some $6 billion in bond issues, and some critics assert the state's fiscal good health will be perilled if it goes too deeply into hock.

* * * *

EARLIER this year Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh and Senate President Pro Tempore Hugh M. Burns warned that the point just about had been reached where it would be necessary to turn to pay-as-you-go financing. However, legislative leaders allowed the three current bond issues to go on the ballot and are not campaigning against them.

The financing can be OK'd by a bare majority of voters, a softer requirement than the two-thirds approval required on local school bonds. The California Republican Assembly opposed all three bond issues.

Proposition 2 for a $380-million bond issue for college-state institution building projects and Proposition 3 for a $260-million bond issue for loan-grants to local school districts will be discussed separately in future articles.

Proposition 1 should be familiar to 1962 voters. A similar $150-million-bond proposal for parks and recreation was rejected by voters then.

The new proposition proposes $85 million for beach-park land acquisition, $20 million for land development, $40 million for grants to cities and counties for local recreation projects and $5 million for wildlife conservation —another $150 million catch-all package.

The proposition's backers say the need was demonstrated by California's recent 50% increase in population. In that same era, park-beach lands increased only 24% Yet recreational use soared 430%, they assert. Turned away from state recreational facilities were 500,000 persons.

State park-recreation officials forecast it may be necessary to increase recreation fees and apply reservation restrictions if the bond issue is defeated.

"Our existing system of beaches and parks barely meets the needs of our 18 million Californians. Unless the system is expanded, it will not be adequate for the 27 million persons expected in our state by 1970," said Assemblyman Carley V. Porter, D-Compton.

Writers of the pro-bond arguments call the situation a "recreational crisis." They are Walt Disney, Judge Ronald Cameron of the Placer County Superior Court and Alvin C. Weingand, a state senator from Santa Barbara County.

Proponents further say needed acreage is disappearing through private purchase.

* * * *

THE LEGISLATIVE analyst's office noted that current State Parks and Beaches Division revenues from service fees amount to only one-third of operating costs. That was a hint that if new facilities are added, they will add to the drain on general fund sources.

The office also estimated that the $50-million bond issue would cost taxpayers an additional $77 million in interest. The interest cost isn't mentioned in the ballot argument.

Opponents of the proposition charge the issue would encourage unsound projects. They also urge development of presently owned state lands rather than purchase of others.

* * * *

"PRESENTLY there are vast acreages of land previously acquired by the state for recreational purposes which are lying undeveloped and idle," charged Sen. Carl L. Christensen Jr., D-Humboldt, and Paul Sheedy, executive vice president of the Property Owners' Tax Association of California, Inc.

Christensen and Sheedy also assert that placing more lands under state ownership will erode the tax base. "This diminution of the taxe base has the effect of producing higher taxes on remaining property," they say.

'COKE' CAPER

Bottles Up Waitress, Takes $90

A 220-pound man got away with $90 from a Hawaiian Gardens restaurant Saturday and the only "weapon" he used was a huge soft-drink machine, according to Lakewood sheriff's deputies.

The man entered the restaurant at 12440 Carson St. shortly before 6 p.m., and ordered dinner from waitress Jo Ann Whitlock, 22, who was alone at the time.

When she entered the kitchen, deputies said, the man, described as being approximately 45 years old and having long black hair, jumped off a stool, slammed the kitchen door and pushed the soft-drink machine in front of it.

He then rifled the till and walked out.

Dies Following Football Game

A Lakewood man died saturday night following a football game he participated in with neighborhood children.

Jack Hinsche, 45, of 3216 Arbor Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital at 7:55 p.m.

He was discovered in a semi-conscious state on the patio of his home. Hospital officials said he apparently suffered a heart attack, but had no previous history of cardiac trouble.

Congress had adjourned without acting on health insurance for the aged under Social Security, Johnson said, "We confidently feel we will find a way to get agreement (on it) in the next session." The President said it was unfortunate that Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee had joined Republicans to create an "impasse" on the bill. He said he was certain Mills was sincere.

Johnson announced that the Defense Department's civilian payroll will be reduced by another 2,900 by mid-1965 and reported that non-defense agencies this year have racked up annual savings of $310 million through economy programs.

Discussing a progress report on a Pentagon study on whether to continue the military draft, Johnson said Americans "want to minimize the use of compulsion" but will run no risks in military security. He said the study will be available in April.

In dealing with Goldwater's accusations, Johnson seemed to be consulting papers lying on his desk. Presidents frequently prepare statements in anticipation that certain questions will be asked at news conferences.

After arguing that there was no secret concerning the proposed nuclear arms treaty, Johnson said that as long as he was President, he would work hard to reach agreements designed to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

At another point, Johnson was told by a reporter that some candidates for high offices have been using words like "lies, deceit, drift and defeat."

Asked to comment on "that kind of campaign," Johnson at first refused, then added that people know "candidates don't spend much time recommending the other fellow."

And Johnson repeated a past statement that, in his view, voters aren't interested in his opinion of Goldwater or Goldwater's opinion of him.

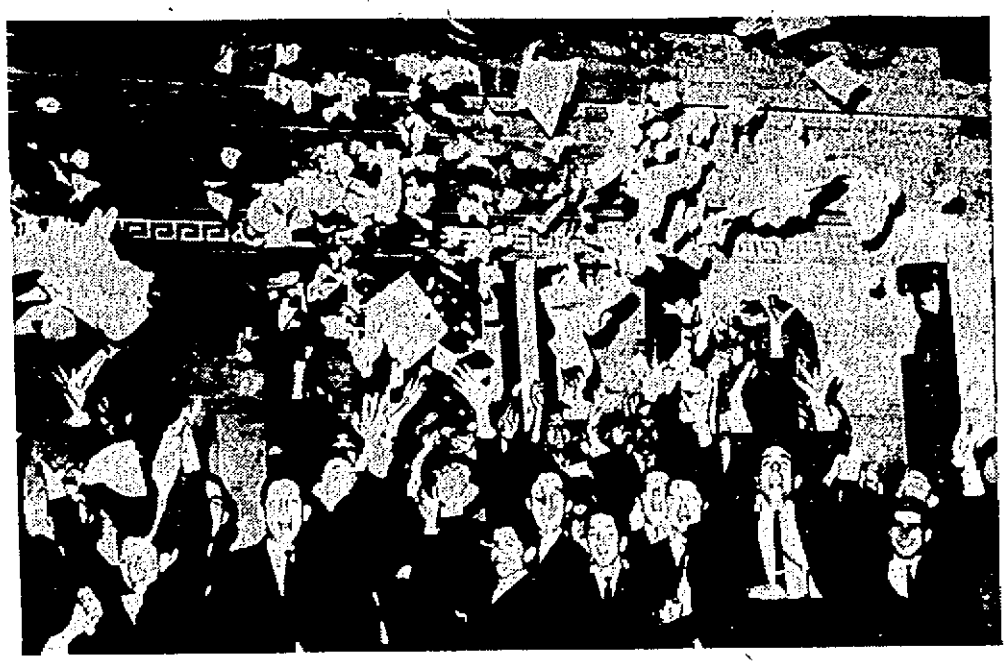

The chief executive, in an opening statement, expressed optimism about meeting his budget targets.

He said budget spending during July and August was $676 million less than in the same months last year and that federal civilian employment on August 30 was 17,000 less than a year earlier.

As has become his custom, Johnson read still another statement detailing some of the most recent economic statistics — all glowing — and said, "Our great gains are not being eroded by inflation."

On another favorite topic, Johnson said 88 more women have been appointed or promoted to high-pay federal jobs in recent weeks. He said that since he began a women-in-government drive early this year, the number of such appointments and promotions has risen to 1,610.

Weary Congress Adjourns After Upping Vets' Pensions

—AP Wirephotos

PAGE BOYS in House of Representatives chambergleefully toss papers in the air to signify long-awaited adjournment of 88th Congress. House wound up its business in mid-afternoon a few hours after Senate quit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A politically impatient Congress disposed of some odds and ends Saturday, then shut up shop and hustled off to the hustings —where its lengthy legislative record will loom large in campaign oratory.

Sine die adjournment came in the Senate at 1:41 p.m. EDT and in the House at 3:16 p.m. Both adjourned until Jan 4 which means the 88th Congress has completed its record—unless it is recalled in special session by President Johnson.

As the windup came the President was urged to do just that. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., sent Johnson a telegram urging a post-election sitting to deal with a massive revival program for Appalachia and with health care for the aged—two major administration projects left stranded by adjournment.

THERE WAS no hint from the White House whether the chief executive is considering such a step. oJhnson's readings of the election results could determine his course on these matters, at least one of which—health care under Social Security—seems certain to be a top campaign issue in many districts.

Regardless of issues, the adjournment only a month from ballot day means that members of the 88th who want to come back with the 89th—as nearly all of them do—must do a fast job of pointing with pride and viewing with alarm. All House seats and a third of those in the Senate are to be filled.

Principal last-day actions clearing the way for adjournment were:

—Acceptance by both chambers of a $1.1-billion supplemental appropriations bill providing operating funds for several agencies, including $800 million for the new one to administer the new anti-poverty program.

—Passage of a compromise bill raising veterans' pensions and reopening the federally subsidized national veterans insurance program for a limited number of former servicemen.

The last-minute agreement which rescued the pension bill from the shelf provides for a 5% increase in all pensions now being paid to veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict. The estimated added cost is $80 million annually.

The compromise also settled one of the longest-standing legislative disputes between House and Senate. Seven times the Senate approved reopening of the National Service Life Insurance program for veterans who didn't take it or let it lapse under present law. Seven times the House refused to go along.

This time the conferees, led by Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., and Sen. Russell Long, D-La., agreed to a provision which will allow reopening on a limited basis.

THOSE ELIGIBLE to apply will be those who served in the armed forces between Oct. 8, 1940, and Dec. 31, 1956, and who have a service-connected disability or are regarded by private companies as uninsurable risks.

The 88th was one of the sittingest of congresses. It was in session more than 11 months in 1963 and nearly 10 months this year.

Despite heavy Democratic majorities—about 2 to 1 in the Senate and 3 to 2 in the House—it frequently frustrated the plans of Democratic Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

After former Sen. Johnson succeeded the assassinated Kennedy last November, the Southern Democrat-Northern Republican combination became less effective against administration aims. In the end, Johnson saw it enact 24 of his 30 principal "must" measures—and give him the basic foundation on which he is waging his campaign for election in his own name.

Ethics Panel Still Awaits 1st Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate adjourned Saturday without having named the members of a special bipartisan committee to investigate charges of misconduct against senators or Senate employes.

The Senate amended its rules last July 24, by a 61-19 vote, to provide for the committee, in the wake of its Rules Committee's report on its Bobby Baker investigation.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., author of the resolution creating the Committee on Conduct and Standards, deplored in a brief Senate speech Saturday that no senators have been named to bring it into being.

★ ★ ★ ★

HOWEVER, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana assured him that "the committee will be appointed."

Mansfield said he and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois "will take this up at an appropriate time with the president pro tempore and see that the will of the Senate is carried out."

Cooper noted that investigation of the Baker case has been reopened by the Rules Committee and said, "It is apparent that whatever the committee may do, it will be charged with politics."

He said he feels the special committee voted for by the Senate last July, to be composed of three senators from each party appointed by the president pro tempore, would command the respect of the country and be as nonpolitical as possible.

★ ★ ★ ★

DIRKSEN voted against creation of the committee, and Mansfield previously had said that he knows of "no volunteers" to serve on it.

Cooper, a member of the Rules Committee, said it is "not sufficient to say that senators will not serve" on the special committee assigned to check up on any illegal or improper conduct by their colleagues.

AN APPEAL FOR SAFETY

Jazzman to Be Parade Marshal

Ward Kimball will be grand marshal of the 40-unit parade which gets under way at 12:30 p.m. today in downtown Long Beach to celebrate National Fire Prevention Week.

Kimball is a nationally known trombone player and unofficial chief of the Dixieland combo the Firehouse Five—Plus Two.

He will be riding on one of five ancient pieces of fire-fighting equipment entered by the Long Beach City Fire Department for contrast with the four pieces of most modern equipment which also will be in the parade.

★ ★ ★ ★

THE PARADE, which will begin at Ocean Boulevard and Magnolia Avenue and end at Ocean and Alamitos Avenue, kicks off a week-long celebration, sponsored by the area fire departments and the Long Beach Safety Council.

A highlight of the parade will be Los Angeles County's Truck No. ½, a team of comedy firefighters whose antics always please the crowd and particularly the small children.

Marching bands and units from all military installations in the Long Beach area, including the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard, will participate.

★ ★ ★ ★

FIRE DEPARTMENTS from surrounding cities, including Los Angeles City and County, Signal Hill, and Seal Beach, will be showing off their latest equipment.

Beauty Queens, including Miss Long Beach and Miss White Hat, will be riding on floats entered by civic and industrial groups.

WARD KIMBALL
Firehouse 5+2

Kimball will lead off the parade and the line of old-time fire units riding in the two-wheel hose reel, known in its heyday about 1812 to 1900 as a Jumpe, Leader Cart or Tender. It was, and still is, capable of hauling up to 600 feet of hose.

★ ★ ★ ★

TWO OTHER old units, dating about 1894, will be a steamer-type Amoskeag 882, and a horse drawn hose wagon. Both these items were purchased and restored to their original glory by member of the Long Beach Fire Department.

After the parade the Long Beach Fire Department will conduct a special fire fighting and rescue demonstration at 600 E. Ocean Blvd.

VISITS 270 TOURISTS

Johnson Says Hand-Shaking Safe, Then Proves Point

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson reasserted Saturday his idea that he is safe in shaking hands with crowds and then went out and practiced his preaching with a throng at the White House gate.

He wound up ordering the gate opened — after asking the Secret Service agents around him if it would be all right — and making a quarter-mile circuit of the grounds with some 270 tourists in tow.

The President traded chit chat, handed out autographs, shook a lot of hands, walked along hand-in-hand with a couple of youngsters, and seemed to be enjoying himself just as much as his guests.

★ ★ ★ ★

"NOT AN easy job to be President, huh?" one of his younger visitors inquired.

"No, it's good," the President assured him.

With a smile, he told "you pretty girls to get up here with me—don't let those men crowd you out." He cautioned a boy to stop shoving — "you're messin' up my writing." That was when he was autographing a Johnson campaign poster someone brought along.

The President took just two turns around the grounds but it required about an hour and a quarter because of long stops here and there to talk with trailing reporters.

After he got through, he invited newsmen into the cabinet room to see some color slides of himself in Providence, R.I., and Hartford, Conn., last Monday.

The pictures showed some of the huge throngs and the wild enthusiasm of shouting people with hands reaching out for his.

"I want to build my image," the President said at one point. And at another: "Go slow; I like 'em."

LBJ Bids 15 Study with Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson established Saturday a program for White House fellows—15 young men or women who will be given "first-hand, high-level experience" with workings of the government and an increased "sense of participation in national affairs."

A 12-member commission, headed by David Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, will select the fellows.

The qualifications: Age 23 to 35 years, American citizenship and graduation from an accredited four-year college.

★ ★ ★ ★

THE 15 FELLOWS will serve 15 months beginning about June 1, 1965.

The White House said it is not a college or scholarly program, since the fellows will have completed their educations and a number of them will be well into careers. It said they will be chosen from business, law, journalism, universities, architecture or other occupations. It said each will have demonstrated "high moral character, exceptional ability, marked leadership qualities and unusual promise of future development."

★ ★ ★ ★

EACH WILL be on leave from his present occupation and will receive a base salary of $7,500 to $12,000, plus additional amounts to take care of family responsibilities. The program is supported by a Carnegie Foundation grant.

Four of the 15 fellows will be assigned to the White House staff and one to the office of the vice president. One each will be attached to the 10 Cabinet members.

Stalemate on Food in 21st Day

The wholesale food tie-up is 21 days old today and negotiators of the Food Employers Council and the Teamsters reported no quick solution in the strike-lockout stalemate.

Federal mediators Saturday requested that Teamsters delay on their threat to fly pickets here from Northern California and other states.

★ ★ ★ ★

Early Saturday, negotiators announced some progress. A Food Employers Council spokesman said, however, "It is not over and probably won't be for some time."

Negotiations were expected to continue through today. Both sides have agreed to seek a breakthrough in the dispute which has affected some markets and left others virtually untouched.

Caught in Big LBJ Jam-Up, He 'Joined' Secret Service

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A college student said Saturday his being mistaken for a Secret Service man was and not intent.

The Brown University Herald reported Friday that Neil P. Coady, 19, of North Smithfield, a student at Johnson and Wales Junior College here, helped Secret Service men control crowds during President Johnson's visit.

The college paper said Coady assisted Mrs. Johnson while the chief executive spoke at City Hall and later at the university.

The Herald said it had "absolute" pictorial proof that Coady took part in the incident.

Coady said Saturday in an interview with a Boston radio station that he went to Providence to see the President and was caught up in a huge crowd. He said he helped police hold back the throng which was swarming beside the motorcade.

He said he took advantage of the situation to jump on one of the cars and rode along the motorcade.

Coady had told newsmen: "At one point a uniformed policeman tried to push me away but a motorcycle policeman stepped in and said, "No, he is one of the Secret Service."

The student said he chatted briefly with Mrs. Johnson and helped her from the car when the motorcade reached the auditorium where the President was to speak and receive an honorary degree.

"At one point Mrs. Johnson rolled down the window and said something about the reception the state gave her husband. . . I agreed with her and that was about the extent of our conversation," the Herald had quoted Coady.

Coady said the Secret Service told him "it was a rather risky thing to do." He said the Secret Service told him they did not know whether any action would be taken against him.

Pastor Faints Easily but Witnesses Births

(Editor's Note: On Sept. 20th, The Independent, Press-Telegram carried an article, asking the question: "Should a Father Witness the Birth of His Child?" The Rev. Robert H. Stearns, pastor of Community Assembly Church, 1243 E. Fourt St., and Mrs. Stearns, impressed with the article, wrote their own views on the subject.)

By REV.
ROBERT H. STEARNS

Should a father witness birth? For some reason, the experts quoted in your interesting article neglected to present their qualifications to speak for the fathers. How many of the experts witnessed the birth of their own children- If they did not witness the birth of their own children, how could they be in a position to state what is and what is not good for the physical mental, and psychological condition of either parent?

I have been privileged to witness the birth of two of our three children, and it is from personal experience I write this letter. One of the most regretful decisions my wife and I have ever made was for me to waive the witnessing of the birth of our third child. It creates a wholeness of the family to have both parents in the delivery room. The father was present at the conception of the child—why exclude him from the miracle of birth—in which he played such an important role? The father and mother together should be allowed to enjoy the birth of their offspring.

Physically, the father is on the scene, to strengthen, and to encourage his wife. He is not sitting in a gloomy waiting room with its worry and anxiety, but rather is where he can be assured that all is well. The father belongs with his wife.

I would like to examine the reasons for exclusion of the father from the delivery room.

1. "The fathers fainting" This writer is one of the individuals given to fainting upon the sight of blood. I have fainted during routine blood tests, and even in the dentist's chair! Yet, in the delivery room, under the pressure and the excitement of the birth, I did not even get "woozy." Many fathers have served in the Armed Services, and have witnessed things much more likely to cause one to faint than the birth of a child. It is as logical to state that the father might faint as a reason for his exclusion as to state that the doctor . . . or aid might faint.

2. "The father is apt to get excited." Again, this is an illogical statement. From my own personal experience, I can say that there is much more pressure, worry, anxiety and undue excitement for the father in the waiting room, as he is wondering . . . wondering . . . always wondering . . . if all is well, than being on the scene of action. During the birth of our second child, my wife did not make it into the delivery room and I found myself "pinned" between a wall and the delivery cart. Did I panic? No indeed! In fact, I was given a task to do in the assisting at the birth due to its suddenness.

3. "The danger of infection is greatly increased." I wonder does the doctor, who comes from his home or office, wears clothing such as you and I, and drives a car which came from the same assembly line as ours, become immune to germs because of his profession? Of course not! He scrubs with soap and water and disinfectant at the hospital and puts on hospital garb. Won't soap, water, disinfectant and hospital garb do the same job for the father?

As a father who has witnessed the birth of his children, I feel fathers should, if they so choose, and their wife agrees, be permitted to observe the birth of their children from the delivery room.

THE REV. ROBERT H. STEARNS, 29, Mrs. Stearns, 28, of 3336 Falcon Ave., and their children (from left), Esther, 5; Robin, 7, and Elizabeth, 4.

Mother of Three Urges Mates Be Given a Choice

By VIRGINIA STEARNS

Having had my husband by my side at the time of two of our three children's births, I am for allowing the husband to be with his wife in the delivery room. I don't say that it should be mandatory for husbands. Must men probably prefer not to be there, but why prevent those who want to be there from being with their wives?

The miracle of birth is a wondrous thing. Why should only the doctors, nurses and mothers be privileged to witness this wonder of all creation? Do we three groups of people feel like the father is intruding? This is unfair to the father; after all, if it were not for him, there would be no child. Why not let him witness the culmination of this miracle of life?

The silent nearness of my husband, his strong hand holding mine, gave me strength and courage. I also say that I had emotional support from him from the first of my pregnancies. What a thrill it was to have my very own husband tell me that we had the son we so wanted and the daughter we looked forward to having. It must have been a thrill to him, too, like opening a surprise gift himself, and not having someone tell him. He had seen the child for himself.

Never once did my first doctor exclude my husband. Even during regular monthly visits, the doctor would chat with him while examining and caring for me. As a result, there was a special understanding of one another and a union of purpose.

I have read of a hospital in the Eastern U. S. which has provided a husband's observatory room for them. They feel so very much that the husband should witness the child's birth that they orientate the husband for this experience.

Therefore, both my husband and myself feel wholeheartedly that the medical reasoning is unfounded and that those husbands who so desire should be allowed to attend their wives in the delivery room.

BOUNCED FROM WYOMING TO ALASKA TO SEATTLE

Rejected Girls Plead for Orphanage

SEATTLE (AP)—You could hardly call the letter formal, but King County's juvenile court judges deemed it literature when they opened the envelope and read:

"DEAR YOUR HONOR,

"My name is . . . I am in the 7th grade and I am 12 years old. I wish that I could go to Washton Childern's Home. I promise I will be good and obey my houseparents. My case is that my mother does not want me and my father wants me, but doesn't have enough to support me and my little sister, she is 10 years old and in the 5th grade. We don't want to go with our mother. We been here 3½ months. There is 11 kid in our family so that's why my father can't suport us. I don't care much what happens to me but please give my sister a place to go. We will try our hardest to be good where ever you put us."

"All true," said Mrs. Charmaine Ashcraft Saturday—except, perhaps, for the part about the father. He's demanding a refund for the unused part of the plane tickets he bought to send the daughters back from Alaska to their mother in Wyoming.

* * * *

MRS. ASHCRAFT is a case worker at the King County Youth Service Center, which has been all the home the girls have known since they were brought in July 15 from the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

The Travelers Aid Society found them there, waiting out a five-hour layover in a flight from Anchorage to Denver. Suspicious, the society telephoned a Wyoming town and found the mother had disappeared without leaving a forwarding address.

Mother had shipped them unannounced to father in Alaska, said Mrs. Ashcraft. Four days later father had started them back. Mother never has been located.

All their lives the attractive little girls have been bounced from relative to relative and the rejection has rubbed off. They are not little angels, said Mrs. Ashcraft. "They have not been trained to live in a compatible social group."

The Youth Service Center does not divulge the girls' names and the juvenile court judges haven't said as yet how they plan to reply to big sister's letter.

Nuclear China Tops U.S.-Russia Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet-American talks on critical cold war issues, including Red China's nuclear weapons potential are expected to resume in New Ynrk soon after the Nov. 3 presidential election.

They were suspended for the duration of the election campaign.

U.S. and Russian officials said Saturday that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko undoubtedly will confer during the opening days of the United Nations General Assembly. The assembly opening also was postponed from September to Nov. 10 in deference to the election.

* * * *

OFFICIALS said that if President Johnson is elected, the talks could pave the way for a summit meeting some time next year between him and Soviet Premier Khrushchev. First, however, Johnson would meet with British, French, German and Italian leaders to avoid any appearance of dealing with Moscow behind their backs.

The knowledge that Red China apparently is close to testing its initial nuclear device undoubtedly will be discussed. Rusk predicted this week that the blast could come "in the near future." If it has taken place by the time he meets Gromyko, increased urgency will attend their talks.

The Russians were said to have shown no interest in July 1963, when Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman suggested to Khrushchev the possibility of exploring ways to dissuade Red China from developing nuclear weapons. The Soviet leader felt that the limited nuclear test ban treaty then being negotiated might provide enough worldwide pressure to accomplish that.

Soviet and American officials said Rusk and Gromyko probably would devote a major portion of their talks to disarmament.

Mooney Will Address Community Forum

Long Beach Police Chief Bill Mooney will be the principal speaker at the Community Forum Wednesday.

His topic will embrace police problems as they relate to decisions in recent court cases.

Sponsored by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the forum is conducted weekly in the Crown Cafeteria, First Street and Alamitos Avenue, beginning at 7:15 a.m.

Floyd Mason, local investment counselor, is program chairman.

DISLIKED QUIZZES

Irvin S. Cobb Frank When He Answered

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The late humorist Irvin S. Cobb might have questioned the value of authors' autobiographical questionnaries donated to Indiana University by the publishing firm of Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Included among the papers was Cobb's own form, with these answers:

Q. Personal experiences you consider remarkable or unusual?

COBB. Being born.

Q. How did you happen to write this book?

COBB. I needed the money.

Q. List personal dislikes.

COBB. People who get up fool questionnaires.

No Negotiated Peace Seen for Cyprus

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Saturday prospects for a negotiated Cyprus peace settlement in the foreseeable future can be virtually written off.

President Archbishop Makarios was seen to be simply biding his time and determined to take the Cyprus issue to the United Nations General Assembly next month.

There the Cyprus leader expects to win majority support from non-aligned nations for a resolution calling for complete independence of Cyprus, in defiance of Turkish claims.

Ike Backs Drives for Election Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower endorsed Saturday the raising of campaign funds to help in the election of Republican congressmen.

In a letter to Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, Eisenhower commended the recent establishment of the Republican Congressional Boosters Club, which is to raise funds for GOP congressional candidates.

Hurricane's Blast Tears at Louisiana

roof. All inside the house escaped.

At Erath, some 70 miles southwest of Baton Rouge, 100-mile-an-hour winds hurled a 70-foot water tower onto the small building that served as town hall. Nine Civil Defense workers were trapped in a 25x30-foot room.

Two got out, both injured.

* * * *

SEVEN remained inside. Leo Bernard, a Civil Defense worker, said six were dead. He could see the bodies, he said.

A crane was brought in to pull the wreckage away. The winds threatened to topple the crane.

In New Orleans, fire swept up through a grease duct from the basement to the roof of the 15-story New Orleans hotel. Some 300 guests, many in nightclothes, some of them mothers with children, fled into rainswept Canal Street.

Firemen quickly doused the blaze, the guests returned. No one was hurt.

* * * *

LIGHTS went out in town after town and flood waters rose as the winds rose.

Still more people fled to shelters. The Civil Defense director, Frank G. Spiess, said 150,000 Louisiannans had fled the storm.

The Red Cross said 66,702 of them were housed in 231 shelters around the state. The rest sought private havens.

The aroma of shrimp, rice, coffee, bread and humanity mingled in school gymnasiums, courthouses and other sturdy buildings set up with cots, blankets and kitchens. Some people fled to the Lafourche Parish jail in Thibodaux. It welcomed them.

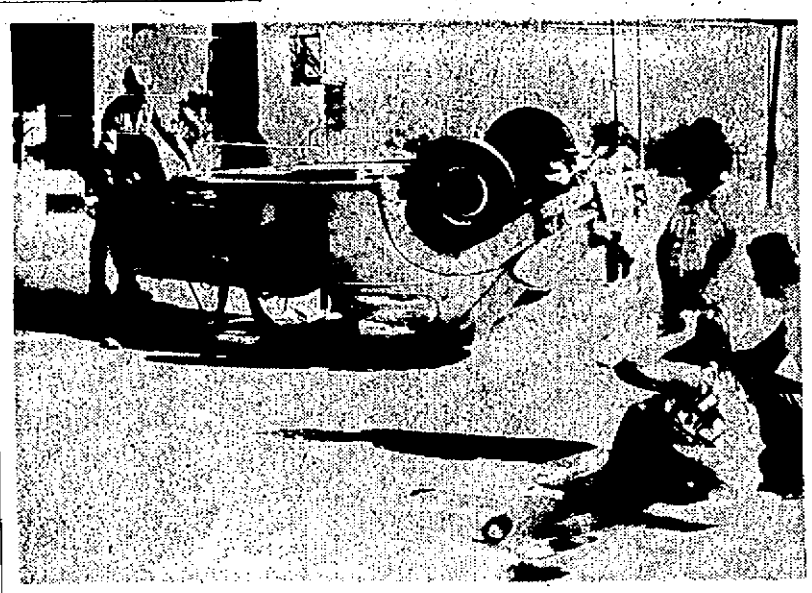

* * * *

WATER rose in Bayou Teche, the main artery in New Iberia. Lights blew out. Windows broke.

"It's blowing like hell here," was the word.

A window taped against the onslaught caved in and burst anyhow.

The three tornadoes that hit Larose were among a series of eight that danced erratically around the storm area, adding to the danger.

FREEWAY FLIP

A 16-year-old driver survived unhurt a 224-foot skid, a crash against a concrete divider and an 88-foot upside-down skid in his small foreign car Saturday under the Sixth Street overpass on the Long Beach Freeway. Fernando J. Botello, of 2128 E. 124th St., Compton, comforts passenger Ruth Contreras, 15, of 13101 Cargo Ave., Compton, seated, who suffered ankle injuries in the mishap. Esperanza Gamola, 12, of 13107 Largo Ave., Compton, standing, suffered possible head injuries. Motor Sgt. Gil Smith has just pulled the car—all by himself—on its top off of the freeway to allow traffic to pass. Botello was cited for speeding.

'MON DIEU, MON DIEU . . .'

Dazed Bayou Fishing Town Covers Dead in Streets

By ED McCUSKER

LAROSE, La. (AP) — The French woman, her head covered by a kerchief, cried: "Mon Dieu. Mon Dieu." My God. My God.

Down the road lay the still bodies of the first victims of Hurricane Hilda. They were covered with Indian blankets and rags and other remnants of a devastating tornado spawned in the vanguard of the hurricane.

The tornado cut a 50-yard swath through this French Cajun Bayou LaFourche fishing town, leaving in its path the death of at least 20 persons and the destruction of 30 or more homes.

* * * *

WITH Associated Press photographer Jack Thornell, I rushed to the scene in this town 55 miles southwest of New Orleans.

The bodies were laid out on makeshift mattresses on the side of a street that runs along the bayou.

Sheriff Eddie St. Marie, with blood stains on his shirtsleeves, said his count showed at least 20 bodies.

"We need doctors," said Ed Callais, a LaRose merchant.

* * * *

"WE HAVEN'T been able to reach any. We've been trying. But no success. A nurse just came in. That's all we have. Later, the Coast Guard flew in a Navy physician. He said about 425 people had taken shelter in the school.

"The people were trapped in their homes when they collapsed," Callais said. "They had broken ribs, broken arms, broken legs."

"We know at least two children have been blown into the canefield," said T. M. Barker, the parish Civil Defense director.

Orange County Traffic Kills Two

An Anaheim man and a Wilmington woman were killed in Long Beach-area traffic accidents Saturday.

Carl Heinz Wenske, 31, of 301 N. West St., Anaheim, was killed when his foreign auto flipped after being struck by another car. He was dead of head injuries on arrival at Orange County Hospital.

California Highway Patrolman Harry Gillespie said Wenske's car was struck by an auto driven by James Leslie Tirtle, 41, of Orange.

Gillespie said Wenske had indicated he was going to turn right onto Douglas Road from Katella Avenue. Apparently he changed his mind and swerved in front of Tirtle's car. Tirtle was not cited.

Dora Mae England, 51, of 1005 W. Cruces St., died early Saturday in Harbor General Hospital of head injuries. Her husband, Arron, 54, who was driving when their car crashed into a light post on Anaheim Street, was in satisfactory condition late Saturday at Harbor General.

Officer Donald Musselwhite said England apparently fell asleep at the wheel. His car ripped out a power-pole guy wire and hit a concrete light standard near Bay View Avenue.

Recovery Inc. Sets 2nd Group

Recovery Inc., an organization dedicated to the prevention of relapses in former mental patients, will open its second group in Long Beach Tuesday.

The group will meet at 1 p.m. in Temple Sinai, Seventh Street and Molino Avenue. The first Recovery Inc. group, which opened at the Brewitt Branch Public Library Auditorium, 4036 East Anaheim four years ago, still meets there at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

Democrat Drive for Registering Voters Succeeds

By BILL BROOM
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Concentrating on precincts picked out by the late President John F. Kennedy, the Democratic National Committee is nearing the end of its most successful voter-registration drive in history.

In California alone, 1,006,613 new voters have been registered since 1961. Nearly two-thirds (66.4%) of them are Democrats.

There are 31,000 new voters in Barry Goldwater's hometown of Phoenix, and 73% of them are Democrats.

The campaign was aimed at 12 states with electoral votes totaling 255—just 15 short of the number needed for election. The greatest effort was concentrated in traditionally Democratic precincts which gave Kennedy at least 60% of their vote in 1960.

As a result of the registration drive, Democratic leaders look forward to these developments in the November election:

—A significant increase in the percentage of the Democratic vote, which will show up sharply in traditionally Democratic areas.

—Decline in the Republican vote in areas where the GOP usually has been strong, because the GOP registration drive has not kept pace.

—A dramatic increase in the minority vote—Negroes, Puerto Ricans and persons of Mexican descent in Texas and California.

—A record election-day turnout of 74 million persons.

The registration figures are a major reason President Johnson whistles a happy tune as he surveys the election scene. The President is known to believe he is a certain winner in more than 30 states. He expects to win at least 40. Among the 20 or fewer in which a chance is conceeded to Sen. Goldwater, there is only one of the big industrial states—Ohio, with 25 electoral votes.

Under direction of Matthew A. Reese Jr., a tall, bluff West Virginian, the drive was aimed primarily at California, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey, Illinois, Maryland, Wisconsin and Indiana. Kennedy won eight of them in 1960, losing in California, Ohio, Wisconsin and Indiana.

IF A PRECINCT or county cast at least 60% of its vote for the Democrats in 1960, it immediately became a candidate for the registration drive. As a result, there were 18,000 precincts in 50 target areas eventually chosen.

After Lyndon Johnson became President, the basic plan was submitted to him. He ordered it followed without change.

Reese's organization developed its registration procedures and tested the plan in key interim races — the Hughes gubernatorial campaign in New Jersey (1961), the Don Fraser congressional campaign in Minnesota (1962), and the Barton mayoralty campaign in Indianapolis (1963).

Barry Says LBJ Politics Hurt Benefits

sweep scandals under the rug. He implied that through prolonged investigation, acting Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach was stalling on the Bobby Baker case.

* * * *

"THE COVER-UP has gone so far," he said, "that my opponent's curious crew tries to turn your attention away from the White House." Police officers are abused at will, Goldwater said, but Bobby Baker has to be investigated carefully and put to trial before anything is said about him."

He said there is much more to high standards than merely staying within the law, and declared:

"It is up to public officials to prove their innocence of moral stain, not up to the public to prove their guilt. This is not a question of crime and punishment. It is a question of moral purity in public service."

Goldwater also renewed his attack on the Supreme Court. He charged that with its present makeup it was legislating rather than interpreting the Constitution and he said that when vacancies occured men should be appointed who would respect the Constitution.

* * * *

HE SAID, too, that he would promote a constitutional amendment that would negate recent Supreme Court decisions affecting the rights of defendants in state and local courts.

"Such amendment," he said, "should give back to the states those powers absolutely necessary for fair and efficient administration of criminal law. It should safeguard rights of defendants, while giving the states power to enforce law and order."

But it was on Lyndon Johnson that Goldwater heaped the full measure of his scorn.

"We want humility and honesty of service in the White House, not arrogance and personal power," he said. "We want and we pledge an administration that will respect and support, not overlook or undermine, local law enforcement. We want to make it safe to live by the law. Enough has been done to make it safe to live outside the law."

* * * *

GOLDWATER also rapped Johnson for covering up a proposed treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The announcement of a treaty draft on nuclear weapons, one that would pledge present nuclear powers against spreading this form of weaponry to other nations, was made Friday by British Prime Minister Alec Douglas Home. Home said he believed that the Anglo-American plan provided for the participation of Red China.

At a station stop at Galesburg Saturday, Goldwater described it as "a treaty that is in the process of being formed between Great Britain, the United States and Red China."

He said there were times and places for secrecy in the conduct of government, but that "I don't think there should be any secrecy when our country is dealing with the enemy."

He asked why the United States had to rely on a report from London to hear about it.

"Our press," he said, "is recognized around the world for honesty. Why can't we trust them? Why not give them the story? Why do we have to break a story in a political speech that should have been broken to the American people yesterday — not waiting until last night — and again this morning."

N.Y. Paper Breaks Tradition for LBJ

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune Saturday night endorsed Lyndon B. Johnson, the first Democratic presidential candidate the newspaper has backed in its 124-year history.

The newspaper said in an editorial that it was "Republican before there was a Republican Party, has been Republican ever since and will remain Republican."

But it said the choice of Johnson over GOP candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater was "inescapable."

It said the Herald Tribune had hoped that Goldwater, whose nomination it had opposed, would prove during the campaign that its fears were unfounded.

"He didn't. At every step of the post-nomination way, two things became ever more evident: 1) That Sen. Goldwater, for all his obvious sincerity, simply does not have the combination of personal talents necessary for the presidency of the United States; and 2) that his course, if pursued as he has pursued it, would wreck not only the Republican Party but the two-party system."

The newspaper said it was supporting Johnson "with our eyes open and our fingers crossed." It said is disagreed with some Democratic Party doctrines, but that Johnson is "a man of vast experience and competence."

"Moreover, Lyndon Johnson's greatest talent," the editorial said, "is the one needed now as seldom before in our history; that of reconciling the seemingly irreconcilable and pulling opposites into a consensus.

"In a nation torn by racial and sectional strife, its divisions exacerbated by the ugly passions stirred up (on both sides) by the Goldwater candidacy, the nation needs a president who can bind up its wounds and let it finds its soul again."

PENSIVE VIETNAMESE LEADER
Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, prime minister of South Viet Nam, looks thoughtful during news conference in Saigon before saying he plans to return to military duty but would accept a draft if the people want him to remain as premier when the government returns to civilian control.

Khanh Plans to Call Army to Break Strike

SAIGON (UPI) — Government sound trucks rolled through the streets of Saigon Saturday warning that the army will be called in to break up labor demonstrations scheduled for Sunday.

If the government carries out its threat it will be the first time it has forcefully intervened in demonstrations before they degenerated into riots.

Such a policy would be in line with Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's warning Friday that "security and order will be protected, by force, if necessary."

Khanh ordered troops into the town of Qui Nhon and the surrounding region 270 miles north of Saigon last week after demonstrations led to three deaths. He also threatened force when mountain tribesmen revolted two weeks ago.

* * * *

TODAY'S demonstration was planned by several Saigon unions which claim the government failed to carry through on the promises it made to end a general strike on Sept. 22.

At that time the government promised to intervene with the local Vimytex textile mill to reinstate workers the unions say were fired on unfair grounds. The workers who called Sunday's demonstration said Vimytex has failed to take back those it fired.

In a major political development Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, commander-in-chief of the Vietnamese armed forces, postponed his reluctant trip abroad for the second time in two days.

Khanh has been acting commander-in-chief in preparation for Khiem's departure for Europe on a hastily-arranged "goodwill mission."

Khanh, under pressure from Buddhists and a group of young army officers, asked Khiem to leave Thursday but Khiem said he was unable to go on such short notice. He was to have left Saturday but did not for unexplained reasons. He told newsmen he would go later this week.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

5 Mississipians Seized by FBI

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The FBI, armed with civil rights warrants, arrested five Neshoba County men Saturday, including Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy, Cecil Price, on charges of violating the rights of Negroes.

All were released on $1,000 bonds on each count after about three hours in custody.

Rainey, 41, and Price, 26, were picked up at the courthouse in Philadelphia, about 40 miles from here, by FBI agents. Others seized were former Sheriff Ethel Glen Barnett, 42, and two Philadelphia city policemen, Richard Andrew Willis, 40, and Neal Otha Burkes, 71.

* * * *

THE MEN were accused of subjecting a Negro, Sam H. Germany, to "deprivation of rights by arresting, incarcerating and detaining" and "striking, beating and whipping him. . . ."

The accusation said four other Mississippi Negroes were deprived of their rights by the same men.

The indictments were issued Friday by a federal grand jury which held two weeks of secret sessions in Biloxi, Miss., hearing about 125 witnesses. The jury was called to probe, among other matters, the case of three civil rights workers whose bodies were unearthed from a dam near Philadelphia.

French Plane Wreckage Found

TREVELEZ, Spain (AP) — The wreckage of a French airliner was found Saturday high on a peak in southern Spain, the bodies of the 80 persons aboard scattered over the headstream of the Valley of Hell, civil guards reported.

Some villagers reported seeing burning parts falling from the sky Friday, the day the plane vanished on a flight from Paris to Africa, the civil guard said.

Whether this meant the plane exploded in air or the villagers had seen debris falling from the point of impact on 11,043-foot Alcazaba Peak was not known. All aboard were reported to be French or Mauritanians.

3 Killed in Navy Air Crash

MANILA (AP)—A U. S. Navy plane plunged into the sea Saturday moments after leaving the flight deck of the Aircraft Carrier Kearsarge, killing all three men aboard, a Naval spokesman at Sangley Point announced.

The men were:

Lt. Harold S. Roach Junior, 31, of Sacramento; Lt. (JG) Gregory K. Hudson, 21, of West Sacramento, and Horace E. Rainey, 26, aviation electronics technician of Talladega, Ala.

Brown Rips 'Reckless' GOP Pair

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Declaring Barry Goldwater and William Miller a "reckless pair of political hijackers who have temporarily seized the leadership of a great political party," Gov. Brown Saturday called on Californians to lead the way in "repudiation" of the Republican presidential ticket.

Brown told a $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner at the Biltmore Hotel "acts of overt vandalism . . . have marked this presidential campaign ever since Barry Goldwater entered the California primary."

Mrs. Goldwater to Tour 9 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Barry Goldwater, wife of the Republican presidential candidate, is going to step up her own campaigning—with visits to at least nine states on her own in the next three weeks.

Up to now, Peggy Goldwater, who says quite frankly she does not like political campaigning, has been accompanying her husband on his trips around the country.

This coming Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 7 and 8, Mrs. Goldwater will make a two-day tour, taking her to her home town of Muncie, Ind., and then into Ohio. Later she will visit Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Illinois, New York, Colorado, and California.

Spectacular Gas Line Break

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP)—A natural gas pipeline exploded about 15 miles southwest of Ottawa Saturday night with a towering blast of flame that was seen as far as 70 miles away. The break was in a field about a mile from U.S. 50 and there were no reports of injuries.

Marines, Spanish to Storm Beaches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 28,000 U. S. Marines will join Spanish military units in storming beaches in southern Spain this month in a joint exercise.

The defense department said Saturday that 50,000 men would take part in Exercise Steel Pike I, which is designed to test fast movement and support of amphibious units overseas.

Leathernecks from the 2nd Marine Division and 2nd Marine Air Wing will leave the United States today to join a reinforced battalion of Spanish marines in amphibious landings Oct. 26.

During the simulated attacks, a Marine innovation for improving air support of ground units will be tested. It involves quick construction of an "aircraft carrier" flight deck on land.

Carrier-launched Marine jets will be able to land and take off from the field, equipped with landing arresting cables and other equipment used on carrier decks.

* * * *

KNOWN as short airfield for tactical support, the field built under combat conditions will free support aircraft from the need of carriers and established land bases.

Eighty warships from the U. S. Sixth Fleet and the Military Sea Transportation Service along with 10 American merchant ships and 14 Spanish warships will take part.

Spanish air units also will participate. Spanish paratroops belonging to a special air force mission will make jumps.

Adm. H. T. Smith, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Command, has named Vice Adm. John S. McCain Jr. as commander of the U. S. amphibious task force.

Conceptive Facts Told in Report

By BEN ZINSER
I. P-T Medical Science Editor

A research team at Harbor General Hospital offered evidence at a medical meeting Saturday that modern intra-uterine contraceptive devices don't slow up activity of male and female reproductive cells in the body.

Instead, the devices, commonly called IUCDs, appear to speed the travel of the female cells (ova) in the female reproductive tract.

This rapid movement appears to be the mechanism that prevents fertilization from occurring.

* * * *

SCIENTISTS have long known that IUCDs are effective in preventing conception but don't understand why the insertion of an inert object into the womb prevents pregnancy. IUCDs are metal or plastic rings, bows or spirals.

The goal of investigators is to find methods of contraception that will be acceptable to all. Systems that prevent ovulation or bar or destroy sperm are unacceptable to some.

Harbor General researchers reported their findings in New York City at the International Conference on Intra-Uterine Contraception, a meeting attended by hundreds of scientists from more than 40 nations. The conference was sponsored by the Population Council, a private foundation.

Dr. Luigi Mastroianni Jr., chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Harbor General and holder of a $163,000 grant from the Population Council, told of his research with macaque monkeys.

* * * *

COIL-TYPE intra-uterine devices known as Margulies' spirals were inserted into the wombs of adult macaque monkeys. Ovulation (release of female reproductive cells) was achieved by giving the animals a hormonal preparation called Pergonal.

The monkeys were artificially inseminated. Later, surgical inspection of the animals' reproductive tracts was undertaken.

In monkeys in which coils had been inserted, there was rapid discharge of ova from the fallopian tubes — the ducts in which fertilization occurs.

* * * *

HERE, briefly, is a description of the fertilization process:

The ovum (egg) is released from the ovary, the female reproductive gland. Liberated, it enters the fallopian tube, a passageway to the womb. If sperm (a male germ cell) is present, it may meet and penetrate the egg to fertilize it. If not, the ovum degenerates within the tube and eventually is dicharged from the body.

A ripened ovum has a short life span—probably not more than 48 hours. Unless the sperm and egg meet within this time, the egg will die and will be shed.

Dr. Dean Moyer, co-director of the Reproduction Laboratory at Harbor General, says that the ovum ordinarily remains in the fallopian tube for three days, whether in monkey or human.

* * * *

BUT IN those monkeys with intra-uterine coils, ova were flushed out of the tubes before conception could occur, he reported.

Dr. Moyer said ova were flushed out of the tubes in less than 12 hours.

The research team, which also includes Dr. Chusri Hongsonand, reported that sperm migration remained unimpaired in animals with intra-uterine coils.

Dr. Mastroianni said efforts are now being made to recover ova from the wombs of experimental animals in a further attempt to assess the relationship between rapid transport of ova and the contraceptive process.

MARINES ENTER 'VIETNAMESE VILLAGE' TO HUNT 'GUERRILLAS'
Realism Stressed at Training Ground, Even to Costumes and Livestock

HUT TO HUT SEARCH STARTS

FLUSHED 'GUERRILLA' RUNS FOR IT

LEATHERNECKS TRAIN FOR

A Rough, Dirty Job

By BILL DUNCAN

Marine Capt. Nick Carter teaches combat leathernecks to tell the good guys from the bad guys—guerrillas, the barbaric new type of enemy the Marines may face someday.

Capt. Carter is the officer in charge of the 1st Marine Division counter-guerrilla and counter-insurgency school at Camp Pendleton, home base for the 22,000-man Marine division. The classroom is a two-acre exact replica of a Vietnamese village—complete with good guys, bad guys, goats, cows, ducks, rabbits and chickens.

The village, located deep inside the reservation, was built by Capt. Carter, a former enlisted man who was wounded in Korea. The Marine officer, whose home is at 26805 Calle Real, Capistrano Beach, knew from first hand experience what went into a native village.

* * * *

THE CAPTAIN visited Vietnam and studied Viet Cong guerrilla activities while he was assigned to advisory duty with Korean Marines in 1961.

He insisted the training village be an exact replica. It is so authentic, so the story goes, that Capt. Carter became ill while constructing the village and Navy doctors diagnosed his ailment as "Asian flu."

An assemblage of eight huts—one of them a replica of a Buddhist temple—could approximate villages in other parts of Southeast Asia, or in fact, villages in Central or South America and Africa, Capt. Carter explains.

CAPT. NICK CARTER
Chief Trainer

* * * *

EMPHASIS on realism in the training has been so effective that Maj. Gen. W. T. Fairbour, commanding general of the 1st Marine Division, has ordered construction of three more villages—one for each infantry regiment.

Graduates of this first village training course are now sent back to their own units to train the troops in ferreting guerrillas and eventualy will use the new villages.

Six officers and 14 enlisted men serve as instructors in the village. Some play the role of guerrillas; others act as frightened villagers forced to aid the marauders.

* * * *

THE MARINE combat trainees are given lectures on how to tell friend from foe, how to search for hidden guerrillas, secreted weapons and booby traps before they are put through the village itself. Emphasis is placed on the fact the Marine must not harm the innocent villager.

"Counter guerrilla warfare is dirty and tough," explains Gen. Fairbour. "It requires more intelligence since the individual fighting man must be able to discern the good guys from the bad guys. He must know that if he offends one of the good guys he can turn an entire village against us. And, if he errs in the other direction it will cost him his life."

The realism of the village includes spike-lined man traps (holes covered with brush and lined inside with razor sharp bamboo poles), dread panji traps (nail-filled boards in covered holes) and other booby traps. Every hut, including the temple, has hidden compartments where men, weapons and supplies are secreted.

"It is part of the training for the student to locate these traps," Capt. Carter says.

In addition to the traps, the Marine must be on guard to prevent guerrillas from escaping. Four hundred feet of tunnel under the village provide escape routes for the guerrilla forces.

* * * *

A TYPICAL exercise begins this way:

An officer, leading a platoon of men, announces over a loudspeaker that the village is to undergo a search and seizure. With much yelling in babbling tongues, the village goes into pandemonium, allowing the guerrilla forces to hide.

The Marines move cautiously into the village and begin a hut-by-hut search, punctuated at times by exploding booby traps and exchange of firepower with guerrillas springing up from underground spider traps.

Capt. Carter and other instructors score the platoon on how well they are able to "conquer" the village. To shoot a friendly villager is to fail the course.

* * * *

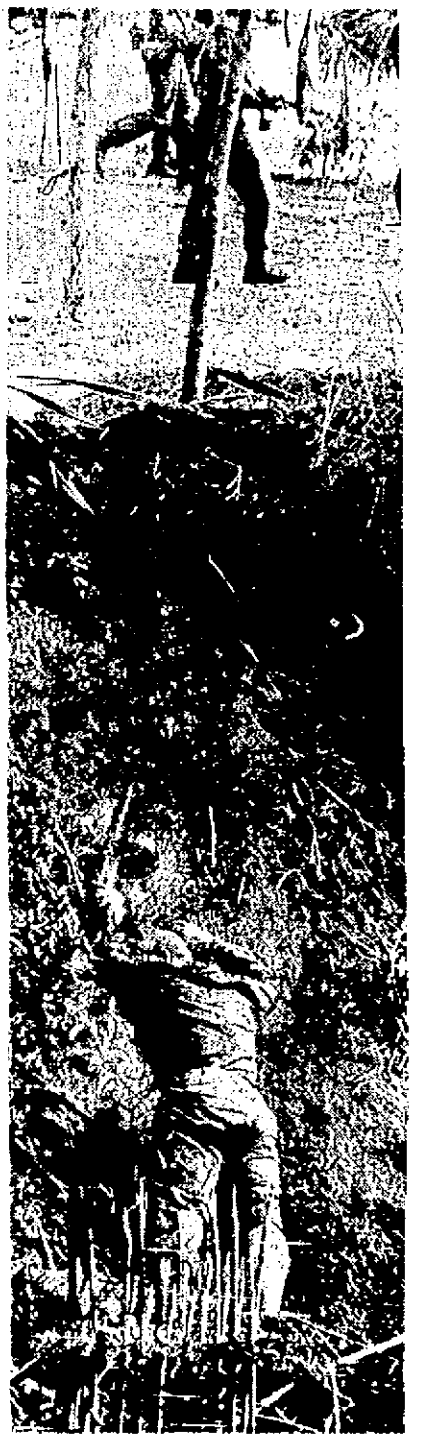

IN ADDITION to the village training, Marines are put in the field and forced to barter for chickens, potatoes and drinking water from other Marines posing as natives.

"We expose them to a motley collection of pseudo villagers and cause them to sort out the bad apples," Gen. Fairbour says. "We send them into unfamiliar places in the Cleveland National Forest and let them learn that every foot of ground may have a mine or panji trap beneath it."

Capt. Carter and his motley villagers needle the trainees into combat-ready Marines who learn that the spear is still a deadly weapon in this nuclear age.

VILLAGE RICE PADDIE IS PROBED FOR ARMS CACHES

IT WAS ludicrous—and a little sad.

Here the taxpayers had spent millions for a freeway segment to ease traffic through the area—and it's opening was celebrated by one of the biggest traffic snafus in local memory.

Where did the cars come from that suddenly swarmed like a horde of Mormon crickets on the newly dedicated nine-mile stretch of San Diego Freeway through L. B. and western Orange County?

Where would they have been routed by their drivers if the new freeway hadn't been there?

There can be no positive answers to that mystifying question. They might have been obtained by sending a survey crew out on the jammed-up highway and asking each driver. The surveyors would have had ample time to ask their questions, but they might not have gotten answers.

Judging from the grim and angry faces I saw out there—yeh, I was in the middle of it—those drivers might not have taken kindly to nosy questioning. It's easy to imagine a pollster being told it was none of his damned business.

MY OWN presence in the horrendous thing might help provide a partial explanation.

My normal course homeward—downtown to College Park — is by Seventh St. That evening I decided to satisfy my curiosity as to how it would go if I drove up Long Beach Freeway and out east on the new San Diego Freeway segment to Studebaker Rd.

I got my painful answer. And I suppose a good many others, out of curiosity, drove the route that evening even though it was off their normal or even logical course.

But who, but me, would publicly confess such idiotic judgment.

THE DEDICATION ceremonies that preceded the snafu, incidentally, were marked by the longest list of personal introductions within my experience as a veteran attendant at such events.

It was staggering. Minor and major politicos, minor and major civic leaders, (these minors and majors from two counties and seven cities), a raft of highway officials, contractors and their men and others got the call.

There were enough introductees, if they had all decided that evening to return to the scene of their brief moments in the sun, to create a fair-sized jam. Maybe they did.

OUR CITY'S firemen get an accolade today relayed through this dept. from Mrs. Patricia Canale, 816 Cerritos, who hailed the fire laddies for an unusual problem involving a pup.

Mrs. Canale found it necessary Friday to leave a mother Labrador Retriever and three day-old puppies for about an hour.

When she returned, one puppie was lodged between her washing machine and drier.

Unable to extricate the pooch, Mrs. Canale called the fire dept. The firemen responded immediately, freed the puppy and departed.

Semper paratus!

FUN FEATURE of the kickoff breakfast of the United Crusade at Alfred's provided key figures with old-time town crier hats and bells to ring. In preliminary remarks Chairman Mac McLaughlin painted a word picture of the town crier of yesteryear giving the news.

One wonders if some old-time householder ever cocked an ear at the doorway and snarled, "It's slanted."

You couldn't nowadays proclaim that it's "9 o'clock and all is well" without somebody giving you an argument.

Presidency Not the Only Issue

AS FAR BACK as we can remember, succeeding presidential elections have been widely described as "the most crucial in history." In fact, we recall dire predictions from some partisans that if their candidate didn't win, it might well be the last presidential election. But he didn't, the nation continued to hold presidential elections, and now we approach another which, in some quarters, is again described as the "most crucial in history."

We won't argue the point, though we suspect that however the Nov. 3 presidential balloting turns out, the nation and its free institutions will survive. And we feel that it's time for a reminder to embattled citizens of our area that there are some highly important matters of local and regional interest to be settled at the November election.

The presidential campaign, vital as it is, will be getting more than its proper share of attention if it so preoccupies our citizens that they fail to inform themselves for intelligent decisions on these issues that mean so much to their city, county and state.

MANY OF THESE QUESTIONS may have greater personal impact on the welfare of the citizen and his family than the outcome of the national balloting. It's every citizen's right—even his duty—to look out for his own interests. He won't be doing that if he goes into the voting booth fired up over the "x" he's going to mark at the top of the ballot but woefully ignorant and dependent on hunches for what he does on down the sheet.

There through guesswork he could make mistakes—against his own interests—on such matters as providing adequate educational, recreational and library facilities in his area, the delicate issue of state policy on housing transactions, the financing of drains to protect property in the region from excess storm waters, and many others.

These issues will be explained and discussed in this newspaper and other communications media, they will be covered in non-partisan official voters pamphlets and pro-and-con publications prepared by such organizations as the League of Women Voters; they will be the subjects of speeches and debates.

The citizen will have ample opportunity in the next month to bone up. But he's got to have the desire—and the good sense to resist the domination of his interest by the top national contest. That, to be sure, can be fascinating—but let's not let it be too fascinating.

Rule by Mob

WHILE SEN. HUBERT HUMPHREY this week was telling students at the University of Southern California that "yours is the generation of hope, the generation of fulfillment," mobs of students of the same generation were rioting and defying the police on the campus of the University of California.

Actually, each new generation is the world's best hope, because it represents a new start; but many of today's younger generation have rather peculiar ideas about how to achieve "fulfillment." They have an astonishing lack of respect for the law and a discouraging, even frightening, belief that might makes right.

WHAT OCCURRED THIS WEEK on the campus at Berkeley was much more serious, much uglier, than traditional collegiate high jinks.

That the student rioters won concessions from the university authorities only serves to sharpen the disturbing aspects of this situation.

The University had ruled against on-campus solicitation of funds for off-campus political projects. A young man who is not even a student of the University appeared on the campus and broke that rule. Despite several warnings, he continued to break the rule. Police finally took him into custody.

To demonstrate their displeasure at the determination of the police to uphold the law, thousands of students gathered. They wrecked the police car. Seventeen policemen who arrived to restore order were jeered, shoved, and forced to retreat.

Somehow the students had been led to believe that the effective and accepted way of winning an argument these days is to exert force in defiance of constituted authority.

The last place you'd suppose such a notion would prevail is a university, which theoretically is a center of intellectualism and order.

This shows how far society has drifted toward mob rule. When the supposed elite members of the "generation of hope" abandon orderly ways and join the wolf pack, society is in very serious trouble and when authorities yield to the wolf pack, as they did at Berkeley, an ugly drift is encouraged.

The Phantom Horse?

DAVID LAWRENCE

Barry Poses Major Challenge to Doctrines of the New Deal

WASHINGTON — Why is Sen. Goldwater hated so much and denounced so bitterly? What is the explanation for the wave of almost fanatical attacks on the Arizona Senator?

This correspondent has never been concerned with personalities and has known and liked all the men who have run on both tickets in the many campaigns of the last half-century. What is more important today, as always, is the kind of advisers either nominee, if elected, would have and what basic philosophy would be applied in running the government.

LAWRENCE

Many of the critics of Sen. Goldwater say their criticism isn't personal — they merely dislike his ideas. In campaign after campaign, however, issues have been widely discussed and personal epithets have been rare. But this time derogatory words are used almost daily by Democratic spokesmen to characterize the Republican party's nominee. Little light is being shed on fundamental questions, and the whole campaign tactics of the Democrats seem to indicate a deep-seated contempt for Mr. Goldwater as a person—his alleged "recklessness" or "dangerous purpose." This is a strange development, the effects of which will not soon disappear. It means that the battle will not be over on election day, no matter who wins.

For what we are witnessing in the Goldwater movement is not the rise of a relatively unknown man as the presidential candidate of the Republican party, but the expression for the first time of an organized opposition to widely accepted doctrines — the philosophy that arose with the New Deal in the 1930's and has been dominant ever since. The latter can be summed up as a belief in the majesty of big government as the cure-all of everything unpleasant.

What has evolved is a concept which has been taught in the schools and colleges — explicitly or implicitly—and which is accepted as gospel today by a vast maority of those who influence public opinion. It is, in brief, that government is responsible for the welfare of the individual, that self-reliance is theoretically desirable but not universally applicable, and that private property can be taken and private incomes taxed heavily in the "Public Interest" and the resultant billions spent just because the ultimate obective is portrayed as worthy.

As long as theory was debated, and intermittent "booms" in business were stimulated, the average man was inclined to feel that maybe it was best to "let things alone." But today such superficiality is being questioned. As taxation has become confiscatory, as the states have been reduced to the level of dependent units and as government permits private groups such as labor organizations to wield vast power — because they are politically decisive in many an election—resentment has been steadily developing. Many citizens have in dismay begun to look upon their own government as a dictatorship, benevolent in purpose but tyrannical and discriminatory at heart.

In desperation, groups of the "radical right" have arisen. Some are irresponsible and deserve condemnation. But others have come into being because of a feeling of frustration, a kind of irrational but nevertheless revolutionary rejoinder—a "grass roots" upheaval so familiar in world history. Angry people may not always act politely or sensibly, but the grievances they reflect cannot be brushed aside because the champions of their ideas are at times tactless.

What is really bothering these people? They don't regard Sen. Goldwater as a governmental genius, any more perhaps than numerous Democrats feel that way about Lyndon Johnson. Many a newspaper which has come out for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket has had a qualifying sentence or two in its endorsement which mention defects or shortcomings of the President and his running mate.

The truth is that, personalities aside, there is a fundamental collision going on between two schools of thought. Neither one is clear as yet in its exposition. But the "New Deal" school wants to be left alone to spend and spend, to borrow and borrow, and to tax and tax, while the opposition, though not offering a panacea, wants to stop what it is convinced is a really dangerous trend for America.

* * * *

AS SO OFTEN happens, a battle may be won, but not a war. After November, if President Johnson is elected, the present trend will continue — government deficits and more and more interference with the opportunity of free enterprise to develop a healthy expansion. But memories are short as to what has happened in the past. Some day—maybe a couple of years or five years hence, or even more—when the climax comes and the "New Dealers" of this era discover that constant federal deficits can really devalue the dollar with consequent unemployment and economic distress, perhaps a few voices will be heard saying, "I told you so."

BOB HOUSER

A 12-Foot Greeting at USC for Pierre: 'Carpetbagger!'

I, P-T Political Editor

ONE-TIME PHARMACIST Hubert Humphrey moved figuratively over to the soda fountain Friday when a lively but minority student Goldwater group at USC's Bovard Auditorium greeted his appearance with the familiar, "We want Barry!" chant.

Said Hubert, "You say you want Barry, but I don't know whether it's strawberry or raspberry."

Well, you really had to be there, but it sounded funny at the time and it brought down the house of mainly Johnson-Humphrey inclined students.

Senator Humphrey also insisted his talk would be nonpartisan because, "Most Americans are going to vote for Lyndon Johnson."

Before his formal talk, Humphrey suggested a question period afterward because it would give Goldwater people a chance to be identified "and confess their political sins."

HE SATIRIZED GOLDWATER'S barking to the turn of the century for the 'good' days, remarking that only four of 100 young people 18 to 21 attended college then, and in a cutting snipe at Goldwater's dropout of college in his first year, added: "There WERE colleges in 1900 and there WERE boys then, even in Arizona, but not many of them attended college."

Humphrey charged that you can tell how enlightened one is today by the number of fears, doubts and suspicions he entertains in his public talk. The kind of an America we want to see, he said, is not one which "recites its pains and aches, but one which asks us to be true to ourselves, our ideals, to social justice, to the rights of others, to the total emancipation of the people from bigotry, poverty and frustration."

Humphrey atacked again on Goldwater's "soft-on-communism" charge against LBJ, telling the student group that he's never heard a thoughtful man make such a charge. "He's a little soft on Republicans," quipped Hubert, "but not communism."

IT WAS NOT all wine and roses for the other platform people at USC. Governor Brown got quite a few boos when he was introduced by President Dr. Norman Topping, then compounded the discomfiture by stumbling over the word "distinguished" two or three times, and finally copping a plea that, "I guess I got some confetti in my mouth!"

Brown introduced U.S. Senator Pierre Salinger, who also got some boos and a 12-foot "CARPETBAGGER" sign unreeled as he came to the microphone. Salinger ignored the sign and came off well when he said his only disagreement with President Johnson was over LBJ's contention that Texas had the nation's Number 1 football team.

Newsmen enjoyed a discussion of the numbers game, regarding crowd estimates, while awaiting the arrival of Humphrey's plane at Los Angeles International Friday morning. No airport reception had been planned, but about 50 students and Young Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey were there. Total crowd when Hubert arrived was probably 200.

One northern political writer said, "What'll we say? A crowd of several people?"

EARLIER IN THE morning, a newsman counted 75 people. He asked a Humphrey staffer what his estimate was. "Looks like 5,000 to me," he said.

One newsman who served on a candidate's flack staff in 1960 made a confession: "We used to ask the chief of police for a crowd estimate for transmittal to the press. If it seemed too low, we'd consult a captain, remarking, 'It seems to me a wide-awake town like this could turn out more than 3,000 people.'

"'Hell,' the captain would say, 'There's at least 5,000 here.'"

They'd go from officer to officer until they found a generous one, then quote him to the press!

Come to Halt for School Bus

EDITOR:

Many people who consider themselves to be the safest and most law abiding drivers daily commit one of the most serious traffic offenses without even realizing it. The law infraction I am referring to is the failure of bringing a vehicle to a complete stop next to school buses loading and unloading children.

I see almost every day a driver stopped for this violation. Many of the people that know that they are not supposed to overtake and pass a stopped school bus may be surprised to know that this pertains to traffic from both directions.

The other day I saw a school bus unloading children with a police car behind it waiting for violators. A woman drove slowly by the policeman and, as cautiously as she knew how, drove by the school bus looking left and right. She then proceeded down the street unaware of her violation. Needless to say, moments later she was showing her license to the policeman.

I see this scene repeated almost daily and feel there is no excuse for this dangerous ignorance of the driver on this point.

L.B. Arena Needs Better System

EDITOR:

Our family attended the Ice Follies at the Long Beach Arena, and came away with the impression that the managers of the place are out of touch with reality.

First tip-off came when we were stalled in a traffic jam five to 10 blocks east on Ocean Ave. The jam was caused by an antique system at the entrance to the Arena parking lot. If a crowd this size—maybe 10,000—could tie up downtown Long Beach for 40 minutes, what would we have done with a World's Fair? Clearly, the parking lot entrance should be automated, a la those at the International Airport, and more gates added.

Second, when we arrived at the arena, along with thousands of others, we had to jam into a steamy line and crowd along for 10 minutes. With this huge building, with all its many doors, the only way the crowd gets in is through a small handfull of turnstiles. Result was that the auditorium was only two thirds full when the performance started. A couple of thousand people had to grope their way to seats in the dark, due to the turnstile situation.

Worst of all, when intermission came the crowds on the lower floor had their choice of two small concession booths. Both were mobbed. There was no system—just jam in and hope. The booths ran out of hot dogs, cracker jack and other things. Hundreds of people were late getting back to their seats.

Whoever runs the arena should be sentenced to spend 30 days at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, where you can always get quick parking, quick entrance and quick service at concession booths. It's not such a big problem, really—all it takes is a few experts who know their business.

Government Like a Helpful Wife

EDITOR:

The press recently quoted Sen. Goldwater as saying, "The country doesn't owe anybody a damned thing." The Senator has a most charming and persuasive personality and I have great admiration for him. But I think he should sit down and think that one out.

The country does many things for all of us. I am inclined to think we take them for granted, like the man who never realized how helpful his wife was until she went on a month's vacation. Before Sen. Goldwater was born a most controversial issue was decided by the people that has ever since exerted a tremendous impact on our lives and fortunes.

Our manufacturers were appealing to the country to help them in their battle with foreign competitors. The voters were impressed by their pleas and Congress responded by passing a series of Protective Tariff laws which some people thought were fantastically high. Manufacturers made fortunes and employes received more pay which in turn was a great help to businessmen. Population flowed in from the farms to fill up our cities and today our nation is 90% urban. There was once a time when it was 90% rural.

These protective measures are still the law of the land and to repeal them now would revolutionize and probably demoralize our economy. I doubt the good Senator could ever succeed in persuading the people to give them up. I doubt if he would want to.

New Rafferty Image Emerging

I P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—A new Dr. Max Rafferty is emerging—deservedly so.

Fading is the erroneous political tag, clamped on the State Superintendent of Public Instruction by his critics, to the effect that Rafferty is an ultra-conservative.

Supt. Rafferty finally shattered the image by his own record and statements. But it took months.

Capitol Democrats laughed 20 months ago when Supt. Rafferty proclaimed he was a political moderate but an educational conservative. He stressed there was a marked difference between educational and political terms.

McCAULEY

Supt. Rafferty's political stance further was confused as a result of the sharp exchanges with Democrat Thomas Braden, Oceanside publisher who is chairman of the State Board of Education.

The new Rafferty is a real shocker to Rafferty critics who have tried to link him with right-wing extremists.

Supt. Rafferty himself tangled with extremist pressure groups in recent remarks to his staff. He lashed out at them for triggering a series of recall elections, noting recent California school-district recall elections had been led by groups at both ends of the political spectrum.

Supt. Rafferty deplored recalls for "sociological and religious reasons, stating that previously a school board member was recalled when some one had a hand in the till.

Dr. Rafferty also lashed out recently at a California Republican Assembly resolution. He branded the GRA as misguided for urging the defeat of state school and college-construction bonds.

Gov. Brown, who has feuded with Rafferty in the past, this time hailed the superintendent as "a great statesman for his attitude on bonds." At a recent Los Angeles meeting of the state board, Brown also praised Rafferty as "a good superintendent."

Some Dr. Rafferty foes have criticized the superintendent for declining to take a stand on Proposition 14 — the Rumford Fair Housing Act repealer.

THE SUPERINTENDENT still was under the political needle for refusing to take a stand, even though he said it would be improper for him to comment because it was a political rather than an educational matter.

But that was before the foes checked Dr. Rafferty's personal record on civil rights.

The NAACP is making national distribution of a Rafferty comment on school integration. Only other public figure quoted: President Johnson.

In the NAACP brochure, Dr. Rafferty declares school segregation will remain a problem "so long as any American family is prevented from acquiring housing in any neighborhood where the family wants to live."

WITHOUT RACIAL FANFARE in 1963, Dr. Rafferty appointed Negro Dr. Paul Lawrence as associate superintendent of public instruction.

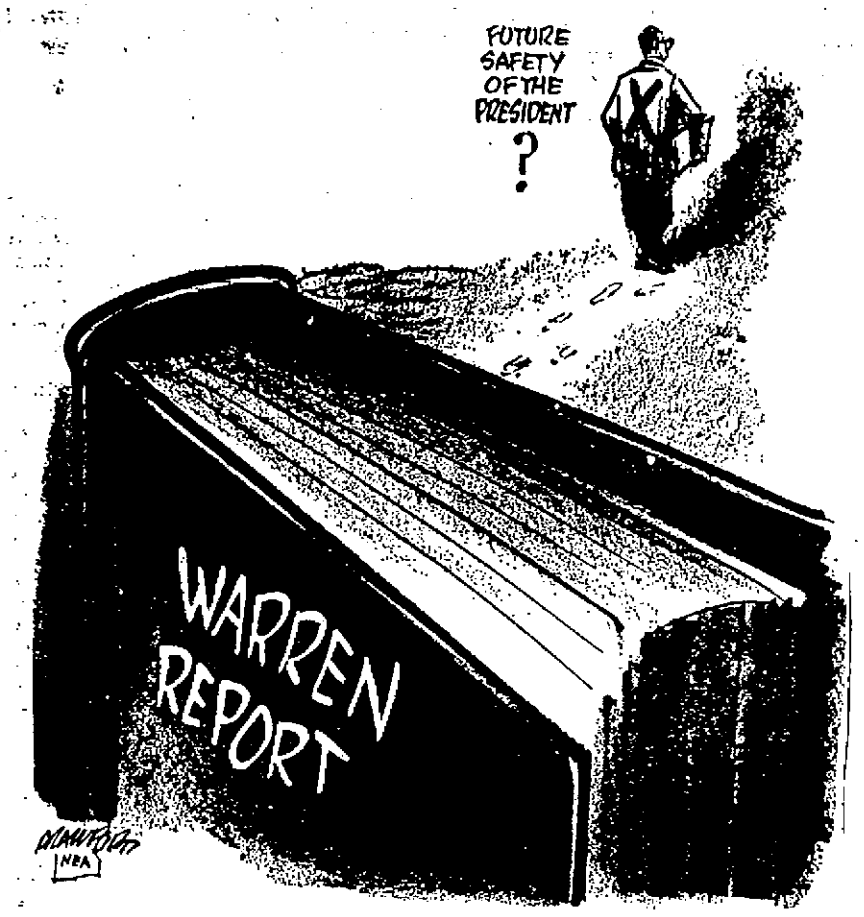

Later, Dr. Rafferty deplored "those who just talk about civil rights but don't do anything." One Negro at the policy level is worth 50,000 words, he declared.

Rafferty has stuck to a clearly nonpartisan role as superintendent. Named as deputy superintendent was Dr. Everett Calvert, long-time Democrat and member of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Dr. Rafferty, a self-styled reformer in the educational arena, is bound to stir controversy. But there is one thing he is not: a political ultra-conservative.

It is time the school slate on Rafferty is set straight!

DREW PEARSON

LBJ Shows Influence With Businessmen

WASHINGTON — Shortly before the General Motors-UAW strike, President Johnson performed a miracle of persuasion. He induced GM Chairman Frederic G. Donner to join the Board of Communications Satellite Corporation. Johnson was not trying to influence the strike, but rather wanted a good man for this semi-government agency.

PEARSON

White House advisers told LBJ he couldn't possibly snag Donner into any type of pro-government work. But Johnson replied that he had heard Donner was the most efficient executive in American industry and he was going to try.

First, Johnson called Clark Kerr, President of the University of California, and said he needed a good man to serve as a Director of the Satellite Corporation.

Next, the President called George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO, and drafted him.

Only after these two men were in the bag did Johnson call General Motors.

"The President of the United States can't run the country all by himself," he told Donner. "He's got to have help. Some people say the President's got the ox cart in the ditch. But anyway, I need good men; and they tell me you're the best executive in the United States. We need you."

Donner said he would think it over. But taking no chances, Johnson then called General Motors' banker. A day or two later, Donner called back and accepted the job.

Note—Talking to friends later the President remarked, "we've just got to have good men running the government, and I am proud of some of the men who have been willing to join me. Here is the executive of the biggest corporation in America who is willing to give his time right in the middle of strike negotiations to help out the government."

BARRY GOLDWATER, a baseball fan himself, is wondering whether some major league ballplayers are ganging up against him.

During a recent New York Yankees-Los Angeles game, Jim Piersall of the Angels had to hit the ground to avoid being struck by a fast ball from a Yankee pitcher. Angrily, Piersall looked around at Yankee catcher Elston Howard, a Negro, who was squatting behind the plate.

"Elston," he barked, "if you call for another close one like that, I'll vote for Goldwater."

* * * *

WILLIAM F. Buckley, the right-wing publisher, sent a hurry call to Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, pillar of the Republican Party, to come up to Connecticut and stem the tide of Republican Defectors away from Goldwater.

The Buckley family has long lived in northwest Connecticut around Lakeville, an area normally 3 to 1 Republican. No Democrat has had a smell of victory in that area for about one hundred years. And the Buckley family is distressed over the possibility that this year may break the precedent.

The bolt from Goldwater among Republicans has become so rapid that Priscilla Buckley, sister of the right-wing publisher and managing editor of the National Review, announced that she would give $5 to Goldwater for every independent Republican who bolts to Johnson.

Finally, the Buckleys dragged weary Ev Dirksen all the way from Washington to make a speech last Sunday. But Ev drew less than one thousand people, when 15,000 were expected.

Just before he arrived, the Democrats ran a local newspaper ad in the form of an open letter to Dirksen, warning that the wrong people had taken over the Republican Party. They cited Hubert Kregeloh of Springfield, Mass. who spoke at the opening GOP rally in the Buckley area. He is a high official of the John Birch Society, serves on the committee of endorsers of the Birch Society, on the American Opinion's speakers bureau for the Birch Society, and is a contributing editor to the Birch publication "American Opinion."

Sharon, site of the Buckley's family home, was the birthplace of "Young Americans for Freedom." Buckley is reported to have given $50,000 out of his own pocket to get the Young Republicans organized.

Yet this birthplace of conservatism is now defecting to Johnson.

* * * *

SEN. Barry Goldwater was supposed to be terribly busy campaigning for President in August. However, he took time out to try to block the appointment of U.S. Attorney Carl Muecke as District Judge in Arizona. Muecke is a former labor lawyer who is not popular with the Goldwater crowd in Arizona. And Barry tried to block his appointment through his old friend, Mississippi Sen. Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The incident illustrates the close backstage working agreement between Republicans and Dixiecrats.

In a "Dear Jim" letter, dated Aug. 18, Goldwater wrote to Sen. Eastland:

"The President, I understand, has sent the name of Carl Muecke to your committee for consideration as a District Judge in Arizona. I understand that the Arizona State Bar has judged this man to be incompetent and I further know that the vast majority of Arizona lawyers, I would say approaching 100%, are violently opposed to this man being appointed."

Eastland succeeded in delaying the appointment for six weeks. Meanwhile, Arizona's senior Senator, Carl Hayden, claimed Goldwater didn't know what he was talking about or else deliberately fuzzed up the truth. To prove it, Hayden took a poll of Arizona lawyers to determine whether it was really true that "approaching 100%" of them were violently opposed to Muecke. The Arizona Bar Association conducted the poll, which brought in 484 votes for Muecke, only 302 against.

Confronted with this evidence, the Senate overrode Goldwater and voted to confirm Muecke.

VIRGINIA KELLY

Hosmer Proposes Developing 'Discreet' Nuclear Weapons

REP. CRAIG Hosmer (R., Calif.), senior House Republican on the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, envisages "discreet" atomic weapons equivalent to five or ten tons of conventional explosives. He believes these missiles can be fired from portable and accurate bazookas or other launchers. It is possible, he said, to develop these weapons without atmospheric testing.

KELLY

He also referred to his exchange of ideas in the House of Representatives with Rep. Chet Holifield (D., Calif.), former chairman, and presently vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

Hosmer made these points:

—That the Kennedy-Johnson Administration could have but did not develop these small weapons. He cited an open letter written in 1960 by former Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas Murray in which Murray advised President Kennedy and Richard Nixon that these discreet weapons were possible and should be developed.

—Discreet weapons could be safely used by the President or by a delegation of authority to responsible commanders.

—Discreet weapons could be used strictly against the enemy on the battlefield. The effects could be limited to the battlefield.

With these discreet weapons, Western Europe could be promised a guaranteed deterrent against Soviet invasion.

The lack of these weapons is the issue of the campaign.

President Johnson has denounced mixed nuclear control at the same time he proposes the multi-lateral forces which is "one of the illusory deals cooked up to make Europeans think they have some substance of control while withholding it."

President de Gaulle has acquired strategic nuclear weapons and is developing tactical nuclear forces because he was told by President Kennedy in 1961 that the USSR's massive capability to exchange ICBM's with the United States made massive retaliation no longer valid as a deterrent against Soviet invasion of Western Europe.

Sen. Goldwater has been unfairly attacked for advocating delegation of authority in precisely defined situations.

Time and U.S. News and World Report have stated that there was such a delegation made by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy and that such a delegation by President Johnson exists today.

The Johnson Administration has not revealed this nor denied it.

* * * *

IN THE HOUSE discussion, Rep. Holifield said:

The reason the French have developed nuclear weapons is that we would not give them nuclear secrets because French security at that time was permeated by Communists, who occupied over 30% of the Parliamentary seats.

Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, and Johnson, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff decided what types of weapons should be made.

President Johnson is correct in stating that no nuclear weapon can be considered conventional.

Sen. Goldwater's proposal that some nuclear weapons be considered conventional and that they could be used without prior Presidential approval is the most irresponsible and dangerous proposal ever made by a Presidential candidate.

DE VAN SHUMWAY

Prop. 14 Generating Heat, but Court May Cool It Off

United Press International

SACRAMENTO — Californians will vote Nov. 3 on a housing measure that has generated as much if not more heat than the presidential contest.

In fact, implications of the fight could reach into the presidential race between Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Barry M. Goldwater.

On the ballot, it's Proposition 14—No. 14 in a list of 17. It would amend the State Constitution to give a property owner "absolute discretion" in selling and renting his home.

Backers say it will help defeat socialism; opponents condemn it as legalized bigotry.

Principal target of the measure is California's Rumford Act, authored by Negro State Assemblyman William Byron Rumford. With some exceptions, it forbids racial discrimination in sale or rental of housing.

If Proposition 14 is passed —and recent polls indicate it will—the Rumford Act will be nullified for all practical purposes. A home owner would be allowed to say no to a prospective purchaser or renter just because he's a Negro or a Mexican-American or a white man, for that matter.

Approval of the proposition would effectively forbid the state legislature from ever again passing laws banning racial discrimination in housing. This would hold true for cities and counties too.

The Rumford Act squeaked through the Legislature only with seven minutes before mandatory adjournment in 1963 after months of angry debate and a three-week Capitol "sit-in" by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

* * * *

REACTION WAS swift in coming.

The California Real Estate Association sponsored a campaign to rid the state's lawbooks of the statute, which had the whole-hearted support of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a Democrat.

L. H. "Spike" Wilson, chairman of "The Committee For Home Protection" and former president of the Real Estate Group, roundly denounced the law. He called it not a "fair housing" law but a "forced housing" act.

"We consider that the Rumford Act is socialism," he said. "The question is, shall the property owner control his property or shall the state control it for him?"

Brown is a vocal supporter of the Rumford Law, and opposes Proposition 14 in strong terms.

The governor, President Johnson's California campaign manager, charges that "the shock troops of bigotry . . . the White Citizens Council, the John Birch Society, the American Nazi Party" are backing the proposition. He calls the proposal "legalized bigotry."

* * * *

THE ISSUE is politically sensitive because Democrats are generally outspoken in opposition to the proposed amendment to the State Constitution, while many Republicans — particularly the "volunteer" GOP organizations—support repeal of the Rumford Act.

Neither Johnson nor Goldwater has taken a public position on the act, although Brown encouraged the President to speak out. Goldwater, asked about it by newsmen, answers that it's a California problem, a local issue, and he doesn't feel he should get involved.

Despite all the ill feeling generated by the initiative, the argument may be academic. Already, the State Supreme Court has expressed "grave doubts" about the constitutionality of the initiative.

So it appears possible that if the initiative passes on Nov. 3, it will be wiped from the lawbooks a short time later by the courts—making the whole battle futile.

KATHERINE HAGELAND . . . prize-winning poet

NATIONALLY HONORED

Young Poetess Plans to Teach

GARDEN GROVE — For all the years of her Garden Grove High School career, Katherine (Kit) Hageland has been writing poetry—so she can be a teacher of English and American literature.

Three of her poems have been published in anthologies of high school verse, and another has just won the first poetry award of American Girl magazine.

It's titled "Listen," and it reflects the solemn ritual of the funeral procession for the slain President Kennedy.

Kit's poem was in national competition this time, and she considers her win a climax to her "serious study" of prose and poetry under tutelage of Mrs. Kay Sloan, chairman of the school's English department.

Three of her works were published in "Young America Sings," an anthology of selected poems of high school students in California. They were published in the 1962 annual. Another was published in 1963 and the third one last spring.

The same three poems were published later in the national anthology, titled "Songs of Youth."

One was a memorial to Robert Frost, after death of that famed poet. Another was a study of the philosophy of youth, and the other was a tribute to the famed painter Gauguin.

Kit, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingval Hageland of 11332 Ora Drive, can be described as both pert and saucy.

She takes her accomplishments lightly; she's a National Honor Society student, is president of the Girls' League and is an ardent football fan. She was in the school's drill team last year, so she could root for the school's Argonauts on field and court.

Now a senior, Kit will go to California State College at Long Beach next September to prepare for her career as a teacher—she hopes at Garden Grove High.

NEW CONTRACT WITH BOWERS

City Ambulances Out

Long Beach city officials have dropped consideration of resuming emergency hospital service by the fire department, at least until next year.

Instead, City Manager John R. Mansell, with consent of the City Council, has signed a new five-year contract with Bowers Ambulance Service.

Bowers has been the city's agent for emergency cases since the fire department service was abandoned in 1959.

Under the new agreement, the city assumes a greater degree of responsibility for indigent and uncollectible bills. Previously such bills were underwritten only in cases originating on public property. The present contract broadens the city liability to include indigent calls originating on private premises.

Estimated annual cost to the city will be increased from $15,260 to $32,564.

However, at the request of the council, Mansell has agreed to file a report early next year on the whole ambulance program, including a possible return to fire department service. The budget and research division already is collecting facts for the report, he said.

Preliminary estimates indicate that the capital cost alone of restoring city ambulance service on a broad scale would approximate $250,000. Even if the council should decide on such a program, it probably could not be carried out until the new fiscal year starting July 1, 1965.

The Bowers contract includes a 30-day cancellation clause in the event of failure to perform adequately. It may be cancelled on 90-day notice without cause.

City officials also have asked Mort Golden, the county's city-county coordinator, to look into an existing policy of the Board of Supervisors which, Long Beach spokesmen say, works an inequity on local hospitals in the emergency care of indigent patients.

Under the policy, the local hospitals are not being reimbursed for emergency indigent care unless the patient was picked up outside of Long Beach, was transported in a county contract ambulance and was cared for in a hospital under county contract.

A typical instance of discrimination, according to city officials, is this:

A Bowers ambulance (which is under contract to the county as well as the city) picks up an emergency indigent patient in Lakewood and transports him to Memorial Hospital; the county pays the cost of his hospital care. Under identical circumstances in Long Beach, with the same ambulance in use, the county pays nothing and the hospital absorbs the cost.

Mansell's office has asked for county study of an agreement allowing the city to maintain its present ambulance service—or assurance that the county itself will provide comparable service here—without penalizing the local hospitals.

PARENTS GET CHOICE OF PLANS

Student Insurance Protection Offered

Application forms have been distributed to parents of the 75,000 Long Beach public school students for a new "24-hour-protection" student insurance plan.

This year parents for the first time are offered a choice of two accident insurance programs. Both provide medical and dental expense benefits.

One of the plans offers "schooltime" protection, while the new one extends coverage to 24 hours a day on a year-around basis.

Both are offered through the Long Beach Unified School District with the cooperation of the Long Beach Insurance Association.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS explained that while the district is protected against liability in school-connected accidents the student is not covered.

The plans provide identical medical and dental benefits to a maximum of $5,000 and death benefits to a maximum of $8,500.

The school time plan, offered since 1960, covers the student while he is attending school, being transported to and from school by bus, and participating in school-sponsored and school-supervised activities. The other plan has no time limitations.

The schooltime coverage costs $2 for grade school students and $3.50 for high school students. The unlimited plan costs a flat $12 per year.

Fort's MARS Capacity Up

MARS, Army Military Affiliate Radio System station (AA6WAH) at Fort MacArthur, San Pedro, has increased its message-handling capacity by means of voice, code and radio teletype.

The new radio facility will operate on amateur bands as well as authorized Army MARS frequencies.

Present operation includes eight scheduled amateur nets and two military nets ranging from the western United States to Hawaii and Okinawa. Sgt. James K. Anthony is the non-commissioned officer in charge of the station. He is assisted by Private First Class Malcolm K. Douglas. Both are licensed amateur radio operators: the former W7AZK, the latter K9OUN.

* * * *

COL. Stephen C. Monroe, A6SFI, Sixth U.S. Army MARS representative for the Los Angeles area accompanied by Capt. Richard H. Hightower, Fort MacArthur Signal Officer and MARS director, officiated at opening ceremony recently. They were assisted by Maurice Smith, AA6EPT, 5053 Fidler Ave., Lakewood, recently appointed civilian representative for the new station.

Anyone may send a personal message of 25 words or less to almost any area in the world free of charge through the MARS station at Fort MacArthur.

More than 250 civilian licensed amateur operators in the Los Angeles-Long Beach area are members of the Army MARS, and work with the Fort MacArthur MARS station.

The station is open to all military personnel and civilians interested in amateur radio operations, or information on obtaining an amateur license. Licensed amateurs are invited to join the Army MARS program. Information may be obtained by contacting AA6WAH or any MARS station in the area.

Modern Dental Plates
Aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques," used in the construction of dental plates. Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, uppers, lowers and partials. GOOD dental plates need not be expensive. THE COST IS SMALL.

Possible Peking A-Blast Causes Concern in Asia

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

Secretary of State Dean Rusk predicted last week that Red China, Russia's arch rival for leadership of world communism, would soon explode a primitive nuclear device.

He said the United States long ago had taken this into account in its military and nuclear planning.

Rusk's statement obviously was based on firm intelligence. It also appeared intended to cushion election-conscious Americans and the world against any psychological shock. The impact could be especially grave in embattled Southeast Asia where Peking is fomenting war.

* * * *

THE secretary of state had one reassuring note. He said it would take Communist China many years to build a nuclear arsenal and a modern delivery system. The only immediate danger, he said, is deadly atmospheric radiation which the 110-nation nuclear test-ban pact sought to end.

Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater, who voted against the treaty, accused President Johnson of downgrading U.S. nuclear strength while Red China readies "a bomb that well may be heard around the world." The Democrats are charging Goldwater with being "trigger-happy" with nuclear weapons.

Red China refused to sign the treaty. It accused Soviet Premier Khrushchev of conniving with the U.S. and Britain to use the pact to curb Peking's type of militant world communism.

Russia itself put Peking on the nuclear road in 1950, but claimed it was only assisting in peaceful projects. When the two nations collided ideologically 10 years later, Moscow recalled all its technicians.

* * * *

RUSK SAID that if a detonation does occur, "we shall know about it and will make the information public." The test-ban pact gives any nation the right to withdraw if it concludes its interests have been jeopardized. Officials said the United States had been in touch with its allies. There also were reports it had talked with Russia.

Goldwater, on a whistle-stop campaign tour of the Midwest, charged that Johnson was "reducing our nuclear capabilities while talking peace, peace, peace." He asked: "How can anyone trust a man to whom everything is just a political game?"

The GOP standard-bearer also accused the President of "being soft on communism" by "seeking accommodation" with Khrushchev. He said the administration's policy in Viet Nam and elsewhere was "lie and lie, elect and elect."

* * * *

JOHNSON replied indirectly. After proclaiming 1965 international cooperation year, he told a top-level bipartisan group of officials that they may be branded idealists or crackpots if they spread the gospel of international cooperation. "They may say you're soft or hard," he said, "or don't understand what it is all about in some of these fields. . . ."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey, also stumping the Midwest, said Goldwater had reached "down into the bottom of the barrel to dig up that old smelly argument and all I can say is that he will die in the stench. . . ."

The President stumped New England with a promise of "new initiatives" to ease world tensions. In reference to Goldwater, he said the "captors" of the GOP were laboring under three illusions—"that force or threat of force can resolve all problems; that the United States can demand resolution of all the world's problems," and that "we could, if only we tried hard enough, put an end to difficulty and danger, and then retire from the world."

Johnson got tumultuous welcomes and was almost mobbed at times. This week he will speak in the South, the Midwest and the Far West. It was revealed meantime that if elected he will fly to Paris to outline a world peace program for America's allies. He also would not be averse to a meeting with Khrushchev. In a speech Thursday at Baltimore he urged the NATO alliance to help build bridges to Iron Curtain nations by means of trade, ideas, visitors and humanitarian aid.

* * * *

"OUR politics must serve our faith rather than foster fears," he said. "No one can serve in the office of President without being aware of his obligation to all humankind."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon began a 36-state tour in behalf of Goldwater. Goldwater said that if elected he would name Nixon secretary of state. Nixon said his main job would be to "attack the very real problem of Republican defection" from Goldwater.

GOP vice presidential nominee William E. Miller branded Johnson's planned European trip as "purely a political play. . . I wish Johnson would say he would go to South Viet Nam and end the war there."

* * * *

HOUSE Democrats continued attacking Miller on conflict-of-interest charges. Rep. W. Donlon Edwards, D-Calif., introduced a resolution calling for a full investigation of why Miller voted against a felt imports bill while he was on the board of the Lockport, N.Y., Felt Co. He also questioned the propriety of Miller's association with a Buffalo, N.Y., law office.

Congress, in the wake of the Warren Commission report on the Kennedy assassination, wrestled with the problem of what to do about presidential protection. Johnson set up and met with a commission to study the matter. It may have legislative recommendation in January. But the President refused to be scared off by the commission's admonitions. He mingled with crowds and shook thousands of hands during his New England campaign sortie.

Published testimony of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover before the Warren Commission revealed that he had cautioned against letting a desire to protect presidents lead to a "gestapo" or to a police state. He also testified that the State Department had termed accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald a "thoroughly safe risk" when he returned to U.S. after defecting to Russia.

* * * *

IN OTHER news spheres the Navy found the hull of the nuclear-powered submarine Thresher which sank with 129 men aboard April 10, 1963. It published photographs of parts of the hull. The tragedy occurred 220 miles east of Cape Cod, Mass., in water 8,500 feet deep.

Communist China denounced President Johnson's order to U.S. war planes to pursue hostile planes into Red territory and destroy them if they attack U.S. naval patrols in the Bay of Tonkin off South Viet Nam.

It warned that this would mean expanding the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam.

* * * *

DEMOCRATIC congressional leaders were forced to give up on Johnson's billion dollar Appalachia region aid bill. Medical care for the elderly also died until next year, along with a 5% increase in Social Security benefits. Foreign aid was rescued after a rider attacking the Supreme Court's state legislature reapportionment ruling was dumped.

The United Auto Workers wage contract strike against General Motors continued, raising prospects it also would damage the steel, rubber and glass industries.

Bar Acts on Three Issues of Major Significance

By BOB SCHMIDT

Some 2,500 members of California's legal fraternity have ended a week-long examination of their profession, with at least three developments of major significance emerging from the 30th annual State Bar Convention in Santa Monica.

One of the developments—the precedent-shattering decision to take a stand on a keenly contested political issue—was hotly debated on the convention floor. The other two were reports from committees which did not require public discussion.

The keenly contested political issue — Proposition 14 — was the subject causing the most excitement. The conference voted, by a 304-121 ballot, to go on record in opposition to the proposed amendment to the State Constitution which would prohibit the state from legislating against racial discrimination in housing.

* * * *

THE VOTE reflected the feelings of the Conference of Delegates, not of the State Bar as a whole, but was still significant.

On Friday, the final day of the convention, the delegates were presented with a massive, 70-page report prepared by the State Bar's Committee on Group Legal Services.

The report to the Bar's Board of Governors recommended the encouraging of private groups to provide a form of legal insurance for members or employes. Unions, professional associations, and large corporations would administer their individual programs, with an approach similar in philosophy to group medical insurance.

Augustus Mack Jr., new president of the State Bar, said California is "far ahead" of any other state bar in studying the "group legal services idea."

* * * *

SEVERAL changes in the Bar's Code of Ethics would be required before the program could be implemented.

Finally, the organization may have pushed the idea of capital punishment a little further toward obsolescence when it approved a resolution adding the sentence of "life without possibility of parole" to the sentences possible for persons convicted of first-degree murder.

The Board of Governors will consider all the recommendations and proposals made at the convention, but is not bound by any action of the delegates.

* * * *

DELEGATES from the Long Beach Bar Association, which is trying to lure the 1968 convention here, were active in the Santa Monica conclave, offering seven of the 71 resolutions considered.

Henry Clock, chairman of the delegation, explained that all but one of the Long Beach proposals were highly technical in nature, the one exception being attorney Stephen Pace Jr.'s suggestion that county clerks be authorized to perform marriages.

The motion was defeated by the state delegates because they felt it would add "undue burden to the duties" of the clerks, even though Los Angeles County Clerk William Sharp, the state's busiest, urged its passage.

Thomas McCarry was elected to the executive committee of the State Bar Conference, succeeding San Pedro's Arch Ekdale, who chaired the delegate conference in Santa Monica.

Clarence Hunt, a member of the Board of Governors, chaired a panel on criminal law, and Donald Caffray, a member of the Bar's Conference of Barristers, headed a panel discussion of civil and constitutional rights.

LBJ May Visit U.N. if He Wins

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Thant said Saturday President Johnson has indicated a desire to visit the U. N. Assembly session beginning Nov. 10, if he wins election the week before.

Reporters queried Thant as he arrived for work. When one asked if he expected the President to attend the Assembly, he replied, "During our conversations in Washington, he indicated a desire to come—if he is elected."

TAUBMAN HEADS COLLEGE BOND UNIT

Prop. 2 Leaders Named

Attorney George Taubman Jr. has been named chairman of the Long Beach Area Citizens for Proposition 2, the $380 million college construction bond issue on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Co-chairman of the committee are two Board of Education members, M. A. Duncan, board chairman, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson.

Other executive committee members are Dr. Francis Hertzog, Councilman William S. Grant, businessmen Llewellyn Bixby Jr. and Darrell T. Neighbors and Board of Education members Dr. Dwight Sigworth, Jerald Jacobs and Dr. James M. Crawford.

* * * *

DON MUCHMORE, savings and loan executive of Long Beach, is co-chairman of the statewide Citizens Committee for Yes on Proposition 2. Dr. Francis J. Flynn, dean of development at Cal State, Long Beach, is assistant regional coordinator.

Flynn said today that the long-anticipated influx of college students from the post-World War II "baby boom" has hit California college registration lines earlier and heavier than expected.

Flynn pointed out that fall registration at Cal State, Long Beach, was nearly 1,000 students above expectations with the biggest increase coming in the number of new freshmen seeking admission.

"California is expecting an 80% increase in its student population between 1964 and 1970 while the general population will increase only 40%," Flynn said. "We must expand our facilities if we are going to educate all our qualified potential students."

* * * *

ABOUT 70% of the construction bonds will be used to build classrooms and laboratories for the state colleges, junior colleges and the University of California.

The remainder of the bond issue funds will go for construction of youth and adult correction facilities, narcotics control and mental hospitals, and state forestry conservation facilities.

Flynn said that CSLB will receive only about $1.3 million from the bond issue. However, he noted that if it fails there is danger that Long Beach campus funds in the regular state college budget may be cut back and the funds diverted to other colleges now scheduled to receive more from the bond issue.

Scientists Told Church of Rome Offers Its Help

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI Saturday told a group of scientists that the Roman Catholic Church is ready to "offer its light" whenever scientific research leads "to the threshold of grave questions which go beyond the scientific field."

The Pope received the scientists from various fields attending a study week sponsored by the Pontifical Academy of Science. He told them:

"The Church does not fear progress in science. She enters voluntarily in dialogue with the scientific world, applauds marvelous discoveries achieved by men of science."

THESE ARE THE WEEDS YOU WON'T HAVE TO PULL WHEN YOU USE GERMAIN'S DICHONDRA WEED CONTROL

A proven product that gets to more weeds than other brands

No more bending, no more back aches. Just spread on Germain's Dichondra Weed Control, an outstanding, new product that knocks out established Bluegrass and Bermuda Grass, Crabgrass before it sprouts, and eleven more unwelcome weeds. While it dooms weeds and grasses that encroach on your dichondra, Germain's does not burn or retard your lawn, even a newly seeded one.

GETS TO MORE WEEDS THAN OTHER BRANDS

That's because Germain's is made with uniform granules. Each granule is impregnated with all the elements in the product ...and this includes Diphenamid, the miraculous weed control chemical. These uniform granules provide a smooth, even texture that spreads evenly, gets to every part of your lawn. Not every product sold as a weed control can make this claim. In many of these, the weed control chemical is separated from other elements in the mix. The result: Large and small particles, an uneven mix in which the weed control agent reaches only part of your lawn. With Germain's you're assured of complete weed control coverage.

FEEDS DICHONDRA TOO

Not only does Germain's knock out weeds, it feeds your dichondra just the right amount of nourishing nitrogen fertilizer to keep it green and healthy. For a beautiful, weed-free lawn, ask for Germain's Dichondra Weed Control.

HUGE OVAL ORBIT

U.S. Orbits IMP to Snoop on Sun's Deadly Flares

CAPE KENNEDY (AP)—An interplanetary monitoring platform (IMP-2) rocketed into a great oval orbit Saturday night to chart radiation hazards along the astronauts' route to the moon.

The 'flying physics laboratory" shot away from Cape Kennedy right on schedule at 10:45 p.m. EST atop a towering Delta rocket whose three stages functioned with precision and drilled the satellite into space at a speed of more than 23,000 miles per hour.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced 15 minutes after launching that the satellite was in orbit and gave it the official designation—Explorer 21.

The 136-pound payload was aimed at a great elongated course intended to take it 161,000 miles from earth—more than halfway to the moon—before it swings back as close as 120 miles at the low point of its orbit.

* * * *

EXACT orbital figures were not immediately available.

The flight-control center reported tracking stations were receiving good signals from the high-flying satellite.

The path would carry IMP-2 once around the globe every six days instead of the normal satellite transit time of about two hours.

IMP-2 is the second of seven similar satellites planned in direct support of the United States' Apollo project to land men on the moon in this decade.

A major goal is to determine if satellite instruments can predict when great flares will erupt on the sun's surface, spreading dangerous doses of cosmic radiation through space on swift solar winds.

The launchings will be spaced to provide continuous data throughout a substantial portion of an 11-year sun cycle. The sun presently is in a two-year quiet period when flare explosions are rare and thus easier to study and understand.

* * * *

THE NUMBER and intensity of solar flares gradually will increase until a peak is reached in 1968-69, then a period of declining activity will begin.

The peak activity years span the time when the United States hopes to send its first Apollo team of three astronauts toward the moon. The effort might have to be postponed unless scientists find a reliable method of forecasting flares.

Present will be representatives from United Edison Co. and the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District.

Highway Divider Test Set

Test of a new type of glare-cutting highway divider is being made on a 3.3 mile-strip of the San Gabriel River Freeway, between Whittier Boulevard and Peck Road, at the northern end of the freeway.

The State Highway Division has installed a new aluminum "Glare-Barrier" which reportedly eliminates the glare of oncoming headlights, while giving perfect 90-degree "sideways" vision to drivers on both sides of the barrier.

The product was developed by Soule Steel Company in cooperation with the Research and Materials Laboratory of the State Highway Division. Tooling for machinery for manfacture was done at the Long Beach plant of Soule at Carson and Alameda Street. The product is manufactured at the firm's San Francisco plant.

* * * *

THE NEW MEDIAN divider is composed of expanded aluminium shields, 8 feet by 4 feet. Two thousand of these shields are strung from median posts and cables. The shields are made so that venetian blind results when approaching from an angle.

The product was developed specifically for median divider safety after three years of work.

Installation on the San Gabriel River Freeway is the first significant test of the product. The section of the freeway in which the median barrier is installed was opened in mid-September. A short strip of the material was installed on a section of the Golden State Freeway Pasadena interchange, but was not sufficiently long in length to be judged significant.

Guard Quits Perils of School Crossing

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Joyce Hallamby, 40, said she is quitting her job as a school crossing patrol officer, because she has been hit by vehicles three times in six years and "I've had enough—I work in fear of my life."

Schultz to Head Drive for Chamber

Aaron Schultz has been named chairman of the mid-year membership drive of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

In announcing the appointment President Phil Hattery said Schultz has been instrumental in boosting Chamber activities for many years.

Schultz said he will announce team leaders within the next few days for the drive which will end Nov. 10. More than 150 volunteer workers will participate.

Moon-Land Craft to Be Discussed

Details of the Surveyor spacecraft, which will make a "soft" landing on the moon next year, will be explained to members of the Microwave Society of Long Beach Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at 5107 E. Ocean Blvd.

Guest speaker will be Sheldon C. Shallon, radio amateur and head of the Surveyor program for Hughes Aircraft Company, which is building the spacecraft for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Purpose of the Surveyor flight will be to demonstrate lunar soft landing technology and to gather data in support of the Apollo program to land astronauts on the moon within this decade.

The meeting's agenda will also include a demonstration of a standard scan television camera used in previous manned space missions.

Hire the Handicapped Week Observed

The 20th annual observance of National Employ the Handicapped Week begins today. The theme for this year's observance will stress that being handicapped shouldn't bar a qualified worker from employment.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade issued a proclamation on Sept. 29 declaring the week of Oct. 4 as Employ the Handicapped Week in Long Beach.

Long Beach, recognized as a leader in rehabilitation resources, has several vocational agencies training mentally and physically handicapped persons for useful and gainful employment.

* * * *

TWO OUTSTANDING workshop programs for the handicapped — Community Rehabilitation Industries and Goodwill Industries — have provided hundreds of trained, disabled employes for local jobs.

The stated goal of these programs is to get these people, most of whom would lead lives of dependency, frustration and despair, on jobs that make them self-respecting, useful members of the community.

Community Rehabilitation Industries, 1409 Anaheim St., keeps about 75 disabled persons in its training programs which emphasize industrial trades, such as electronic assembly, metal trades and bench assembly. It has a staff of personnel trained to teach the rehabilitation programs.

Goodwill Industries has over 100 physically and mentally handicapped persons working for it in useful service trades and salvage.

* * * *

COMMUNITY Rehabilitation Industries' stated objective is to place the disabled into private industry, but Goodwill Industries usually retains most of the persons it trains for work in its programs.

Determining an individual's employment capacity and adequate preparation for his becoming employed are the responsibility of the rehabilitation division of the local Community Welfare Council. This special division was formed this year.

Recently Gov. Brown called on all able-bodied Californians to join in supporting programs which rehabilitate handicapped workers and place them in jobs.

He pointed out that those people who have been trained and employed have been converted from tax consumers to taxpayers.

"I urge all citizens to observe National Employ the Handicapped Week," the governor said. "The challenge is to utilize all of our resources, human and natural. We must meet that challenge."

BEATRICE LUMUS, a polio victim (and handicapped) was trained by Community Rehabilitation Industries to fill this job as an electronics assembler with the Skycrafters Co., of 1365 Gladys Ave., firm which participates in the program of hiring the handicapped.

Joan Merriam Sets Solo Distance Mark

Long Beach aviatrix Joan Merriam's recent 27,750-mile flight around the world was the longest solo distance flight in history, the National Aeronautics Association said last week.

She also became, with her flight, the first solo pilot — man or woman — to fly around the world at the equator, according to NAA executive director Mitchell Giblo.

Miss Merriam, 5055 Garford St., left Oakland March 17 in a light twin-engined plane to begin her tour.

She landed again at Oakland on May 12 after many en route troubles to complete the world route planned in 1937 by Amelia Earhart, who vanished somewhere in the Pacific on a similar venture.

NAA records, plus a search of those on file at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, revealed that Miss Merriam broke the 26,553-mile distance mark established in 1924 by eight U.S. Army fliers in four Douglas World Cruisers.

Hard of Hearing!

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given.

If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

We are one of the busiest offices in Southern California, so if we cannot help you, be assured that we will not take your case.

The total charge is $5.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1505, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L.B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

Rear Adm. Palmer, Active in Fight on Subsidence, Retires From Navy

A Naval officer who was one of the city's most effective and respected leaders in the anti-subsidence fight has retired from service and returned here to live.

Rear Adm. Charles J. Palmer has plenty of reasons for returning to Long Beach.

He served two different tours of duty here. He became an admiral while stationed here. His wife grew up in Long Beach. They were married here.

And as the admiral said: "I love the city."

Adm. Palmer's last tour of duty here was as commander of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard, a post he held from June, 1958, to January, 1961 —the period when the most critical work was done in getting the city's water injection program under way. When the admiral first came here the shipyard was sinking about a foot a year. When he left, the sinking had practically stopped.

REAR ADM. C. J. PALMER
Officer Retires

The admiral retired from the service Sept. 1 after more than 36 years of duty. His most recent post was commanding officer of the Portsmouth, N. H., Naval Shipyard. It was from that shipyard that the submarine Thresher began its last voyage.

Adm. Palmer said his plans for the immediate future are uncertain. He and his wife, Kathryn, are living in an apartment at 124 St. Joseph Ave. and are searching for a house.

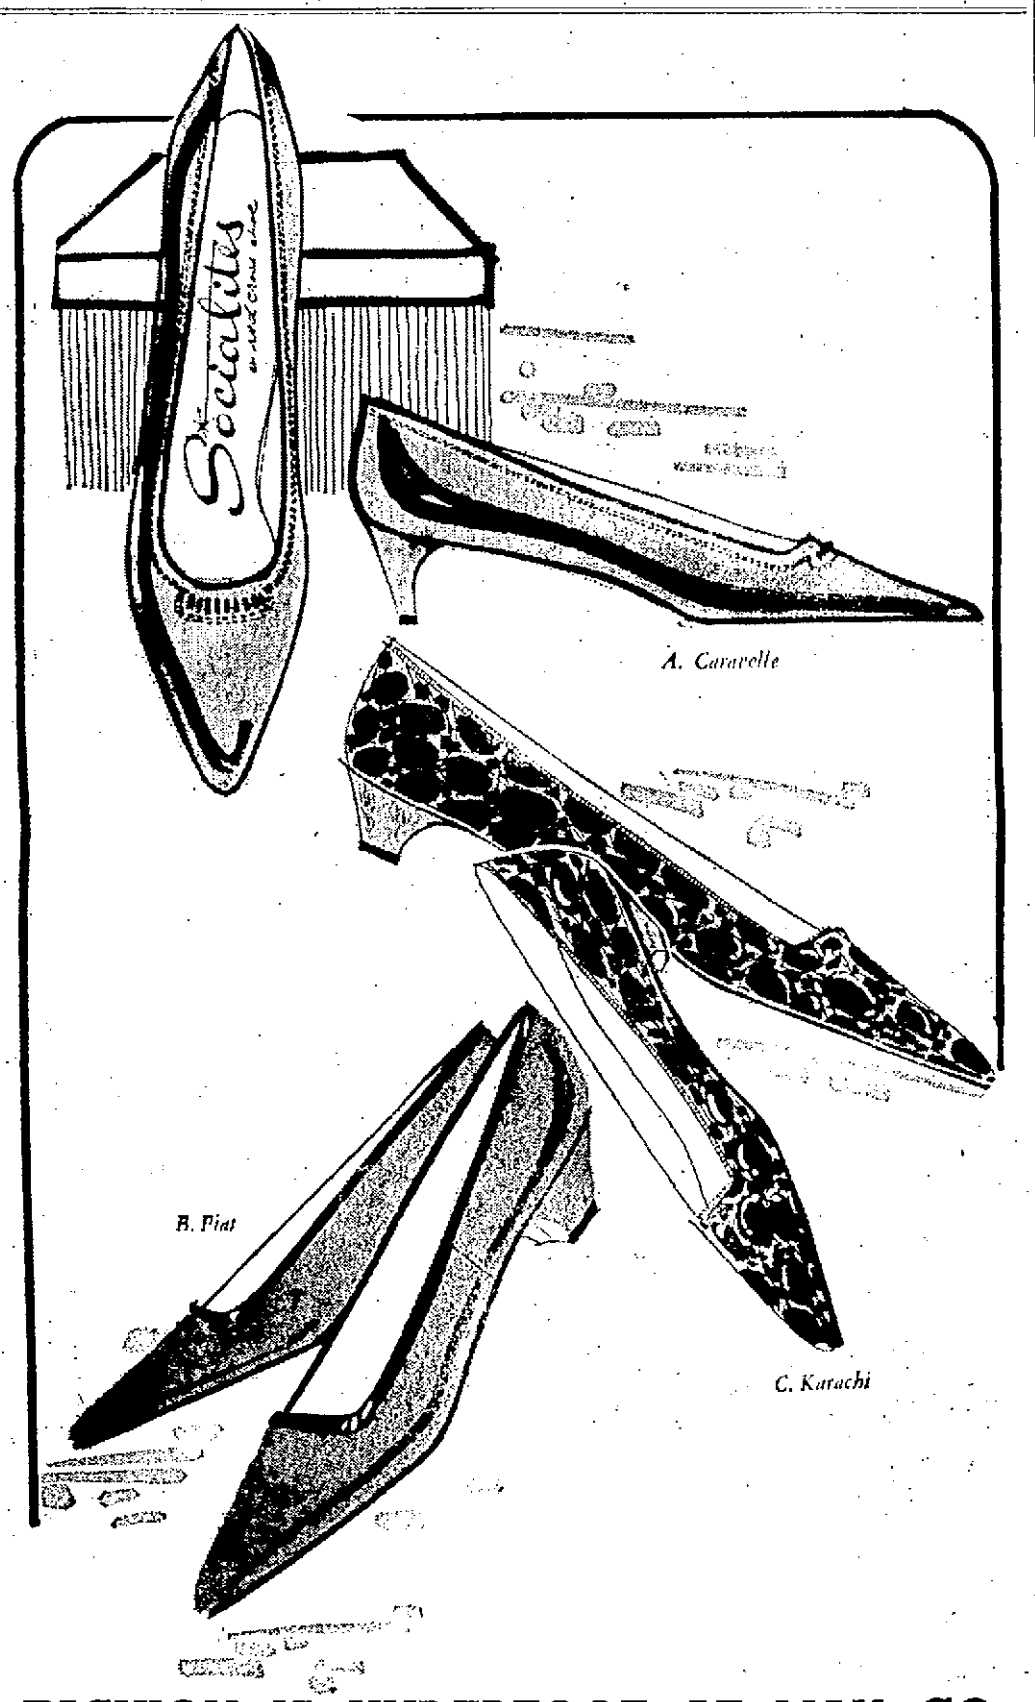

The admiral said he is considering several different fields of work in engineering, production or administration in connection with heavy metals fabrication or mechanical or electrical equipment manufacturing.

Mrs. Palmer, whose mother Mrs. Kathryn Taylor is a long-time resident of Long Beach, said the couple had long wanted to come back and "naturally I'm glad to be back in my home town."

She recalled that she and her husband were married here in 1933 "about the time of the earthquake" when Adm. Palmer was serving aboard the USS Lexington.

The admiral, incidentally, is a native of New Hampshire. He's a Naval Academy graduate and received a master's degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Adm. Palmer has served in practically all phases of naval engineering. He had tours of duty in several other shipyards besides Long Beach and Portsmouth and during World War II served in the South Pacific. He also at one time was head of the hull design branch of the Bureau of Ships.

Adm. and Mrs. Palmer have two children —a daughter, Priscilla (Mrs. Arthur Savage) living in Maryland, and a son, Bruce, who somewhat to his father's discomfort is in the Army.

NEW SUPREME COURT TERM OPENS MONDAY

Docket, Filled With Key Issues, Sure to Produce Controversy

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, under fire for what some critics call its overly liberal views, opens a new term Monday facing a crowded docket certain to produce more controversy.

Majority votes in recent landmark decisions have raised complaints that the court is easy on criminals, soft on communism, invading states' rights to apportion their own legislatures, in error on church-state matters, and too liberal in race relations matters. The tribunal will make historic rulings on these new key issues in the next nine months:

Does the public accommodations section of the new Civil Rights Act violate the Constitution? Under a speeded-up schedule, this question will be argued Monday.

* * * *

SHOULD A schoolroom Pledge of Allegiance that uses the phrase "under God" be declared unconstitutional?

Must a man express belief in a Supreme Being to qualify for draft exemption as a conscientious objector?

To provide racial balance in public schools, is it constitutional to reassign pupils and bus them from one neighborhood to another?

May pupils be reclassified on the basis of their educational aptitudes, even though the result may be classes that are all Negro and all white?

Should states be permitted to bar marriages of Negroes and whites and make it a crime for men and women of different races to occupy the same room at night?

* * * *

DOES A STATE LAW violate the Constitution by outlawing the use of contraceptives and forbidding doctors to give advice about their use?

May asserted Communist-front organizations and Communist Party members be required to register with the attorney general?

Should the court strike down laws that bar Communists from office in labor unions, and that permit the Postmaster General to destroy Communist political propaganda mail from abroad?

In peacetime, may the Secretary of State prohibit travel of citizens to Cuba?

Did Texas authorities violate the Constitution by seizing 2,000 books and pamphlets from the home of a suspected Communist?

May Louisiana enforce its subversive activities and Communist control law and its Communist propaganda control statute?

* * * *

LAST JUNE the high court overturned convictions of sit-in racial demonstrators in three Southern states, but did so on narrow, technical grounds. The justices thus left unanswered the major question whether states may use their trespass laws in support of businessmen who do not choose to serve Negroes.

The question may be answered in the new term since the court has agreed to hear arguments in racial demonstration cases from South Carolina, Arkansas and Alabama. The new Civil Rights law will have an important bearing on these cases in that it prohibits such businessman discrimination in many instances.

About two dozen other racial cases on which the court is asked to hear arguments involve such diverse questions as: (1) picketing of stores to compel the hiring of Negro clerks; (2) Virginia requirements that divorce decrees state the race of husband and wife and that other official records separate names by race; (3) Justice Department efforts to compel desegregation of public schools near military installations; and (4) a contention that constitutional rights of a Negro who was convicted of raping a white woman were violated because of intentional inclusion of Negroes on a list from which grand jurors were drawn for the case.

* * * *

WHILE CONGRESS debated the court's rulings that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned substantially equal, on the proposition of one person one vote, new appeals on the reapportionment problem were filed during the justices' summer vacation.

The appeals involved reapportionment questions in Georgia, Pennsylvania, California and South Carolina. The justices also were asked to reconsider their last term decisions in cases affecting Alabama, Florida and Illinois.

A batch of labor cases on which the court already has agreed to hear arguments in the new term appear certain to throw new light on the rights of unions, workers and employers.

These cases include an appeal from a lower court decision that the United Mine Workers must pay damages to a small coal company, under antitrust laws, because the union engaged in industry-wide labor contract bargaining. UMW bases its appeal on a section of the Clayton Antitrust Act that says antitrust laws do not apply to unions.

In the area of labor-management relations, the court will also rule on:

—The right of a manufacturer to shut down his plant in asserted retaliation for union activity;

—The right of a company to contract out part of its work without first bargaining with unions on the action;

—How union conventions may vote to raise membership dues;

—If meat cutter unions violated antitrust law by insisting on a working agreement limiting hours for retail sale of fresh meat.

Censorship problems, which have been before the court over many years, are back for decision in the new term.

A test case from Maryland questions constitutionality of that state's law requiring submission of motion pictures to a censorship board for approval and licensing. The case involves a film called "Revenge at Daybreak." It deals with the Irish Rebellion. A Baltimore theater manager who filed the appeal said the state conceded the film would have been approved if submitted. But he refuses to submit. He must pay a $25 fine if the Maryland law is upheld.

* * * *

ANOTHER CENSORSHIP case from New York concerns refusal of state officials to license a Danish film they previewed. The censors said two scenes were obscene and had to be eliminated before approval of the film, called "A Stranger Knocks." Still a third case questions seizure by police in Philadelphia, Pa., of several thousand publications for asserted obscenity.

Other appeals which the court has agreed to hear involve: authority of the Federal Trade Commission to ban use of a television commercial showing a faked "sandpaper test" of a shaving cream; whether a man found near an illicit still can be held responsible as a moonshiner; if the Internal Revenue Service may compel a taxpayer to produce records of "closed" tax years, where collection of any deficiency is barred by a three-year statute of limitations; whether the court should apply retroactively its 1961 decision that illegally seized evidence may not be used in state criminal trials.

This last case could lead to new trials, and possibly freedom, for hundred of persons now in state prisons.

* * * *

NEW APPEALS for Supreme Court reviews filed during the court's summer adjournment questioned:

The swindling conviction of Billie Sol Estes, whose West Texas financial empire crashed; constitutionality of a California law making close relatives responsible for part of the cost of treating patients in mental hospitals; the right of Mad Magazine to satirize lyrics of popular songs; whether Orlando Cepeda, pro baseball player, is entitled to jury trial of a $1-million damage suit he filed against Look Magazine; if Atlantic City must pay $600,000 damages to a bather who struck his head on a submerged beach pipe.

Other cases among the 1,100 already docketed for the new term deal with what seems about every facet of human behavior.

There's a complex appeal concerning alleged patent infringement by several makers of doll wigs. It deals with "a patent which relates to a doll's head with rooted hair" and "a patent which relates to a machine for rooting hair"—dolls' hair, that is.

* * * *

THERE'S THE CASE of a whisky-drinking airplane passenger who seized controls, turned off the ignition key and put it in his pocket, and was finally subdued by being hit with his bottle. The pilot made a safe "dead stick" landing. The passenger appealed his sentence of 15 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

There's an appeal protesting use of evidence against four men, taken by police in a city's public toilet by use of a trick mirror and a motion picture machine.

Then there's the case of two women who were beaten and one of them raped by an intruder in their apartment. They claimed damages from their landlord's insurer on the ground the door to the apartment house was defective, collapsed, and allowed access to the place.

The Supreme Court's judgments on what to do about many of the appeals—whether to grant or deny hearings—will be announced on Oct. 12.

BETTY GRABLE AND DAN DAILEY
At Melodyland in 'High Button Shoes'

'Keystone Ballet' Melodyland Hit

By BOB BECKMAN

Long after other scenes in "High Button Shoes" at Melodyland are forgotten, the beach-and-bathhouse number will provoke mirth.

The second act scene, "Keystone Ballet," not only shines as the best-rehearsed show number but swings the spotlight onto the theater-in-the-round's always fine costume design.

As if a five-door comic bathhouse setting with a flood of Keystone Kops isn't enough of a tickler, Melodyland adds Dan Dailey and Ben Lessy.

* * * *

THE BATHHOUSE marks a departure from the theater's usual see-through prop construction. Its solidness causes some blocked-out action, but not enough spoil the outstanding comedy.

Dan Dailey, as swindler Harrison Floy, keeps applauding Melodylanders interested until the pace picks up post-intermission.

Betty Grable as Sarah Longstreet easily makes up for singing deficiencies with vivid grace and acting talent.

Miss Grable and Glenn Turbull, playing her husband, do a creditable job on the show's top number, "Papa, Won't You Dance With Me."

A superb acting job is turned in by Shirley Simpson, head of a bird-watching society, and by Janet Wells (Long Beach girl remembered for her fine efforts in civic light opera and Long Beach City College productions), in the role of Nancy, the maid.

Martha Stewart and John Craig draw warm applause for their romantic lead styles and Miss Wells and Dallas Johann excel in a tango.

"High Button Shoes" plays another week at the Anaheim theater if you'd like to bask in some of the Dailey flashiness and Grable glamor.

Philippines Leader, LBJ Meet This Week

TOKYO (UPI)—Two presidents busy on their own campaign trails—Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines and Lyndon B. Johnson of the United States—will meet in Washington this week for personal talks.

The leader of the only nation in the world which the United States once ruled as a colony will arrive in Washington Monday as a state guest of the American government.

Macapagal, 54, originally was scheduled to visit the White House in 1962.

But, displaying pique unusual for a Filipino against America, he canceled his 1962 appointment at the last minute because the U.S. Congress voted down funds to pay the final instalment on Philippine World War II damage claims.

* * * *

CONGRESS LATER reversed itself, thus eliminating one of the few sore spots to develop in Filipino-American relations since the United States gave the islands their independence in 1946.

Macapagal is no stranger to Washington. He attended the state funeral for President John F. Kennedy last November and once served as a secretary in the Philippine embassy in Washington.

Just a few days ago, his daughter, Gloria, enrolled in Washington's Georgetown University to study international relations.

In one of Asia's most democratic nations, Macapagal won the presidency in 1961 on campaign promises of helping the common man, uprooting graft and not seeking a second term.

To no one's surprise, he reneged just last week on re-election, announcing that he will run for a second term in 1965.

Quebec Trouble Mars Queen Trip

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II is coming to Canada Monday for an eight-day visit. She is assured of a hearty welcome, but some officials will sigh in relief when she heads back to London.

In Quebec, where explosions and armory raids have expressed anger over political issues, certain elements seem unhappy about the queen's visit. Security precautions have been taken accordingly.

Elizabeth is Queen of Canada just as she is Queen of Britain. The purpose of her visit is to mark the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Canada's constitution. When it came into effect in 1867 it united the old British colonial possession of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

Dissident elements in Quebec want the constitution changed to give that province greater independence, either as a self-governing nation or as an equal partner with the nine other provinces of Canada as a group, in a two-nation complex within the one set of national boundaries.

* * * *

QUEBEC is predominantly French-speaking and has preserved cultural customs dating from the 17th and 18th centuries. A cultural and industrial renaissance in the past decade has aroused jealousies and rivalries with the predominantly English-speaking majorities in other provinces.

The queen and her husband Prince Philip, will visit Charlottetown, Quebec and Ottawa.

While some newspaper editorials in Britain and Canada have urged cancellation of the queen's visit if there is any real danger to her, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has told parliament:

"I do not agree that her majesty in coming to Canada . . . is being subjected to a very awful risk."

Opposition to the queen's visit to Quebec began when plans were announced last winter. Most vocal and threatening has been the Rassemblement Pour L' Independence Nationale, which views the queen as a symbol of foreign domination of Quebec. It advocates political independence for the province as a separate national state.

* * * *

THE ST. JEAN Baptiste Societies—once a powerful political force in the province and still strong advocates of Roman Catholic influence and preservation of Quebec's French culture—has urged French-Canadians to shun the queen's visit.

"The queen's visit," said Georges-Henri Fortin, president of the societies, "is aimed at celebrating a constitution which many social and political groups in Quebec deny or denounce and which a great number of French-Canadians reject.

"The federation hopes that on Oct. 10-11 the French-Canadians will give an unequivocal demonstration of their profound discontent with the present constitutional situation by staying home and refusing to welcome the queen or to participate in any other manifestations, no matter what kind they are."

The queen was last in eastern Canada in 1959 when she and President Dwight D. Eisenhower dedicated the St. Lawrence Seaway. She was warmly welcomed in Quebec province.

Laser May Bounce Off Satellite

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—A windmill-shaped satellite called Beacon Explorer-B soon will be launched from the West Coast, carrying special mirrors off which scientists hope to bounce laser beams.

Laser is a thin light beam one million times as intense as light on the sun's surface, and it can be flashed for great distances as a new highly advanced means of communication.

If successful, the satellite will make it possible for scientists of 32 nations to join in a world-wide survey of the behavior patterns and conditions of the earth's ionosphere.

* * * *

THE IONOSPHERE is the region of gases, electrically charged by the sun, which permits man to bounce radio signals from continent to continent. The ionosphere begins about 35 miles above the earth.

Scientists said the laser beams, flashed from East Coast stations of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will attempt to make precise measurements of the satellite's position in space.

Explorer-B will be launched from this Pacific missile range base any time soon after Oct. 8.

* * * *

SCIENTISTS said the 116-pound satellite will transmit a continuous series of radio signals to a network of more than 80 ground stations operated by some 50 scientific groups in 32 countries.

It will be the most extensive international scientific effort yet undertaken by a United States space project.

The Beacon Explorer's signals also can be received by simple do-it-yourself ground stations costing less than $5,000 and consisting of only an antenna, two radio receivers, a timing device and a recorder.

Cards, Reds, Phils...Or All 3?

Today marks the end of the National League's regularly scheduled baseball games. Under ordinary circumstances, a standard bearer already would have been determined to represent the senior circuit in the World Series.

But St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia apparently didn't read the script, and in the last few weeks the National League pennant race has become tighter than a fat lady's girdle.

Now, going into the final day of play, the National League pennant principals are faced with more options than a pro quarterback and could encounter enough ties to last over until Christmas.

Perhaps St. Louis manager Johnny Keane put it best when he said on the eve of the final series of games:

"It's become a one-day season."

Saturday he sat back with a share of the National League lead and a job offer for next year in his back pocket and didn't look at all like the manager of a team that had just been shellacked, 15-5, by the New York Mets.

The loss kocked the Redbirds out of undisputed possession of first place in the National League, but the 51-year-old Keane was much more cheerful than the newsmen who talked to him in the clubhouse.

"You fellows lok like you're going to a funeral," Keane said.

"I'm tied for first place. There's nothing wrong with that. We just blew it, that's all."

San Francisco was eliminated by a 10-7 loss to Chicago. Philadelphia and Cincinnati were idle as the Phillies moved to within one game of the leaders. Pittsburgh beat Milwaukee 11-5 in the only other day game.

During the Cards' game, it was anounced that Keane had been offered another year at the helm of the Redbirds, but that he had asked for a postponement on contract talks until the season is over.

"When it's all over, we'll talk, I mean when the whole thing is over . . . the World Series, if we're in it," Keane said.

Keane returned to the pennant race, saying: "We're still tied for first. What's wrong with that?"

Keane said the Cardinals had "bounced back from defeat before."

49ers' Defense Decisive, 18-15

SACRAMENTO—"A win is a win, is a win."

Long Beach State College's football team may not excel at poetry, but it rates "A" for an impressive 18-15 victory over previously unbeaten Sacramento State Saturday.

Coach Don Reed's 49ers changed from an offensive power to a hard-nosed defensive outfit and beat the Hornets at their own game—defense spelled with a capital "D".

Twice Long Beach stopped the Hornets on fourth-quarter goal-line thrusts to the dismay of 3,504 partisan fans. Biggest heroes were sophomore middle guard Bob Johnson and senior defensive end Dick Degen who came through to squash Sacramento marches on the 29 and 10-yard lines.

Long Beach, which now has won three games in a row, became the first team to score on the Hornets this season.

WILLIE Martin had another outstanding day as he gained 97 yards on 15 carries, caught four passes for 34 yards and scored one touchdown.

Martin got things started late in the second quarter when he weaved through a gaping hole over right tackle and raced 37 yards, behind the interference of Joe Young, for a touchdown.

The first many oddities followed on the PAT. Martin banged into the end zone, but officials nullified the 2-pointer and tacked a rarely called 15-yard infraction for "assisting the runner." Gordon Nail tried a placement next, but dug a divot and L.B. led 6-0 with 1:31 left in the half.

SSC squared matters with 3:29 elapsed in the third period when end Gary Kelley pulled in a pass from Bob Miller and then beat Bob Maynard and Rudy Perez in a foot race to the end zone. The TD pass-run covered 34 yards. Mike Clemons kicked the extra point and the Hornets led, 7-6.

The 49ers surged ahead 12-7 when Shelly Novack grabbed a 29-yard scoring strike from Jerry Otterson. Novack made a difficult catch in the end zone with defenders Othel Pearson and Gary Smith draped over him. Les Shy's run for the PAT was stopped short.

COACH Ray Clemons said afterward: "That ball was thrown so perfectly that if we'd had five pro backs defending, the boy still would

M'KAY NOT S'GAY T'DAY

USC coach John McKay, who usually has a quip to meet any situation, found nothing funny about Saturday's loss to Michigan State as he wrung his hands with quarterback Craig Fertig (15).

MSU, Barefoot Boy Maul Men from Troy

By JEROME HALL
I. P-T Staff Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Michigan State University put a typical Big Ten team on the field here Saturday—all muscle and maul—and it registered one of the big upsets of the young season.

Left in a heap in the middle of the spacious Spartan Stadium were the USC Trojans and their No. 2 national ranking.

The score was 17-7.

It was a shattering defeat, for two weeks hence the Trojans must come right back to this Midwestern territory to tackle Woody Hayes' hessians at Ohio State and suddenly, with the bubble of Troy's invincibility burst, the prospect is more frightening than ever.

They were not the same Trojans who a week ago submerged the Sooners at Oklahoma. The Trojan offense didn't get untracked this time.

The Spartans, before a home schedule-opening crowd of 70,102, tallied in the first period on a record-breaking field goal of 49 yards and added a touchdown in each of the final two periods. The Trojans got their touchdown in the third period, marching 80 yards in one of their two cohesive efforts of the day.

The other time the Trojans resembled a ranking team was opening series when they boomed downfield for a touchdown that was nullified by a clipping penalty. They never recovered from this morale-buster.

Troy quarterback Craig Fertig, Saturday's hero a week ago, completed but 5 of 22 with 1 interception. The air game accounted for but 90 yards. Halfback Mike Garrett, who tallied the touchdown on a one-yard run, carried 26 times for 94 yards in a performance coach John McKay praised as "a great job." Garrett was sidelined from practice all week with a rib injury and took a ferocious pounding from the Spartans.

To say that the Trojans lost because they were flat after that collossal conquest of Oklahoma would be to do the Michigan Staters an injustice. The Trojans won the battle of statistics (it was 13-7 for Troy in first downs, 270 to 172 in total yards) but the Spartans won the go-get-'em-and-knock-'em-down battle.

Maybe Duffy Daugherty's boys lack fitness, but they don't lack muscle. They were the best defensive team in the Big 10 last year and somebody besides USC will have to prove they are not the best this year, in spite of their defeat (21-15) by North Carolina a week ago.

The Trojans started off as if to duplicate last weekend. The game was only five plays and less than two minutes old when Rod Sherman boomed through the middle of the line on a quick-opener and raced 50 yards to the end zone.

But when he was only a few steps from the goal line and far into the clear, one of his teammates made a mistake. Dave Moton, junior end from Stockton, threw a clipping block. It was not near the play; was not needed by Sherman.

The penalty wiped six points off the books and set the Trojans back to the Spartan 40, where two line plunges and an incomplete pass advanced the ball seven yards and so the Trojans were forced to punt.

The Spartans took the ball on their first series of downs and moved to a field goal. They got assist from a freak occurence on the first play when a short pass bounced off the hands of Troy. defensive halfback Gary Hill into the arms of halfback Harry Ammon for a gain of 14 yards.

The Spartans moved downfield on power runs around end, 2 and 3 and 4 and 5-yard runs until they were stopped at the Trojans at the USC 32.

That called for, on fourth down, the appearance of a young sophomore from Hawaii, Dick Kenney, who was in a college game for his first play.

Barefooted, he put his toes against the ball at the 39-yard line. It sailed high and true, 49 yards across the goal post for a new Michigan State distance record. The game was eight minutes old.

Though the Trojans doubled the yardage on the Spartans through the first half, they couldn't put together a sustained drive.

The Trojans started the second half the same way. Little Billy Renison elected to run back the kickoff from deep in the end zone and got no further than the four-yard line. Fertig had to punt out and the Spartans got possession on the

LBCC Edges Fullerton in 21-14 Thriller

Vikings Score in Last Quarter to Subdue Hornets

By GARY RAUSCH

Long Beach City College stirred up a Hornets' nest and got the biggest scare of its young football season Saturday night, barely eking out a 21-14 victory over a highly-underrated Fullerton team.

The Vikings, however, showed a never-say-die spirit in coming from behind in the final period.

Long Beach had driven to the Fullerton three but Elwood Stewart was stopped for no gain on fourth and one.

Elwood Stewart, starting his first game at fullback, scored the deciding touchdown on a one-yard drive over right guard behind the wedge-blocking Bill Zingg, Jack Frost and Tom Skidmore.

The Vikings saw Fullerton go ahead, 14-13, on the first play of the fourth quarter. Long Beach took the ensuing kickoff, marched 75 yards to the Hornet three where a first down attempt on fourth and one failed.

DAME FORTUNE, however, had not turned her back on the Vikings. On second down on the five, Fullerton's Mike Acker fumbled on a sweep and Long Beach's Earl McCullouch fell on the loose ball at the 10.

McCullough went around end to the one, setting up Stewart's decider. He carried two tacklers the last six yards on the clutch play.

Long Beach opened the game's scoring midway through the second period with Pat Cashman going over from the one to climax a 51 yard drive.

A 16-yard pass play from Greg Barton to Ron Drake keyed the march, and a pass interference call on the one kept it going. Even then it took the Vikings three tries to score. Bill Reich kicked the conversion.

Fullerton took a Long Beach punt on the Viking 42 and took only six plays to get the tying tally with 25 seconds left in the half.

Quarterback Dick Hough hurled a 30-yard touchdown pass to end Rich Leon and Dick Tarillo booted the extra.

After being held to 28 yards in the first half, the Vikings' sensational halfback Marv Motley broke loose on

UCLA, Zeno Tip Stanford, 27-20, Stay Unbeaten

By DAVE LEWIS

UCLA's Bruins "Zeno-ed" in on a ranking among the nation's top 10 college football powers Saturday night by outlasting the Stanford Indians, 27-20, in a wild spectacular offensive battle before 35,970 limp fans in the Coliseum.

The Bruins' third victory in a row left them one of the only two major West Coast powers still among the unbeaten. Oregon's powerful Webfoots in the Pacific Northwest are the only other ones boasting of an unblemished record.

It was Stanford's second Pacific Athletic Conference loss. This was UCLA's first conference game.

But the shocking wave of upsets which has swept through college football for the past three weeks almost engulfed the Bruins before they were able to turn back an inspired Stanford squad that turned in its finest performance of the season after two disappointing starts.

* * * *

TWO BRUIN stirring goal line stands, three key pass interceptions, a couple of Stanford ball-handling errors, two Indian field goal attempts that went awry, and an unusual kickoff return by guard Barry Levanthal set up the final touchdown to produce UCLA's final six-point victory margin.

In addition, the Bruins needed—and received — another superb game from Larry Zeno, who completed 15 passes for 161 yards and three touchdowns; scored the other TD himself on a one-yard plunge; booted three extra points, and picked up a total of 36 yards running.

The frantic crowd-pleasing action started on the opening kickoff . . . and increased in tempo until Jim Colletto broke up one last ditch effort by Stanford to pull the game out of the fire with an interception on the Indian 47 with 1:06 remaining.

ALTHOUGH STANFORD led only once—briefly in the first period—the Indians had UCLA hanging on the ropes ready for the kill time and again only to see errors break the momentum . . . or the Bruins come up with game-saving defensive plays in critical situations. They netted an incredible 399 yards to UCLAs 270.

UCLA took the lead for good late in the third quarter on Zeno's third touchdown pass, an 11-yard pass to sophomore Ray Armstrong. Zeno's third conversion of the game made it 31-14 with 1:39 left in the period.

The Indians finally slammed their way to their third TD with only 3 minutes and 22 second left to go, making it 21-20.

Instead of playing for what probably would have been a sure tie, Stanford gambled on a two-point conversion, but it was doomed to fail when little Terry Desylvia's second wild pitchout of the night bounced off fullback John Read's shoulder and was downed on the 5.

* * * *

STANFORD tried to get the ball back on an onsides kickoff, but Leventhal picked up the ball on the Indians' 46, broke through the thin line of defenders and lumbered to the 6 before being caught from behind.

The tribe was guilty of a personal foul while running him down and the ball was moved to the 3 on the penalty. Three cracks at the line only moved it to the one. But just when it appeared as if Stanford might deny the

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . Why-they're-champions dept.: Baltimore Colt coaches were shocked this past week to note in game movies quarterback star Johnny Unitas throwing downfield BLOCKS! Explaining his un-quarterback-like behavior, John said: There are times when I think a play will gain more ground if I knock somebody down. Actually, all I do is try to get in someone's way. After the handoff I could take off in the direction that the play breaks and nail a defender.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

It's just a situation that arises during the course of a game and it seems like the natural thing to do. We don't practice such plays at all. I don't ever remember throwing a block in our drills." (I bet you don't, Mr. Unitas, and now that your coaches have got wind of your versatility, I have an idea you won't be doing much body-tossing today against the likes of Rosey Grier, Merlin Olsen, Deacon Jones, Mike Henry or Lamar Dundy. At least, I hope you don't . . . for your sake!)

. . . Add dept.-of-champions: Lou Brock, the man who has made St. Louis run. In addition to hitting over .300 since joining the Cards from the Cubs, Brock is among the National League's top five in four categories: runs, hits, triples and stolen bases. In the latter field he's second only to Dodger Maury Wills, the greatest—even if he found a roadblock this season when the umps wouldn't enforce the balk rule.

The reason for Brock's sudden claim to greatness was simple, or at least that's what Lou told us a month ago in St. Louis: "I'm now on my own running the bases, but I wasn't when I was with the Cubs: I feel easier doing everything with the Cardinals. It's a tremendous thing, knowing the boss (Johnny Keane) has enough confidence in me to let me pick my pitch and the pitchers to steal on instead of waiting all day for signs." (And isn't Keane the same man the Cardinals were itching to fire just a few short weeks ago? If there isn't a horde of sick people and virtual idiots in St. Louis today, then there's no cows left in Texas.)

GREATEST LINE-of-the-week dept. (from Lakewood's inimitable Roger Craig, the Paramount stables owner who was asked if he would like to see Keane back as Cardinal manager). "Sure," gurgled Roger, "if I didn't I wouldn't tell you, because I'd like to be back, too." (No, fool, the ex-Dodger knows a World Series check will purchase a lot of horses.)

. . . Long Beach got a slight black eye the other night on teevee, according to the city's famed weather observer, John Teed. "According to a bunch of ladies," said John, "we really got the business when Dick Lane handled the roller derby telecast from Veterans Stadium." (Ed. note: Why are all men afraid to admit THEY watch roller derby? It's always the ladies who inform them.) Anyway, when the National Anthem was played, Lane snorted: "This is terrible. They don't even have a flag to run up here." I never realized that situation . . . in fact, I'm wondering if there's even a pole there upon which to run up the flag.

. . . Add Veterans Stadium note: A bouquet to our Doug Ives (who doesn't often spring on a limb) for stumping for completion of the place's east side stands after the turnaway 18,000 standing-room crowd at the Milk Bowl event. Even stadium manager Win Hanssen got in a few licks too. "I wish that kind of crowd would make people realize that we could get more and bigger events here if permanent stands were erected on both sides of the park." (Oh, well, join the club, fellows. I've been saying that same thing for years . . . with nothing but deaf ears turned in this direction.)

FLOWERY DESCRIPTION dept.: From Fred Miller, assistant L.B. State football coach—"Our second string halfback, Les Shy, chugged, slashed and crushed in our game against Cal Poly." (Could he be speaking of ONE man?)

. . . Saddest man in town last week was our Dave Lewis who ranked 14th in our 14-member staff football prediction race. "I've been doing this for 31 years, moaned Lewis, "and this is the FIRST time I've been last." Join this losers' club, too, Dave. I wagered on Frank Vessels' odds-on quarter horse favorite, Steam To Go, in the Pomona Futurity last week and really jinxed the poor colt. Steam To Go not only finished dead last (no pun intended), but died from an internal hemorrhage one hour after the race!

. . . At the writing, the only item of major importance that Don Reed's Long Beach State College football machine seems to lack is a journeyman place-kicker. However, to the rescue last week arrived tireless Ben Agajanian, who left his many business concerns to tutor young Gordon Nail. (If anyone can nail down a real placekicker—pun intended—ancient Aggie is the man.)

. . . Ad was the little bird who whispered that the Phils' collapse was due, in part, to pitcher Dennis Bennett, chirping the truth? I don't know, but the word is that most of the club was fed up with Dennis' antics, which resulted in not highly-publicized fines. The information came right from a National League umpire's mouth.

. . . Safe bet dept.: The wholesale shakeup of Dodger coaches Thursday was only a tiny indication of things to come. You should know what g.m. Bussie Bavasi has in mind for some of his "untouchable" players.

Maple Leafs Breeze by Blades, 10-3

6,456 L.B. Arena Fans See World's Ice Champs' Might

HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The Toronto Maple Leafs, hockey's equivalent of the New York Yankees, Boston Celtics and Green Bay Packers, got a bit of exercise in Long Beach Arena Saturday night as they frollicked to a 10-3 victory over Los Angeles' Blades before 6,456 patrons.

The National Hockey League kings, considered the best in the world, started as slowly as a bevy of Mack trucks. When they got down to business, they proved that their brand of play is considerably different from the type of which Southern California fans are accustomed.

The final result wasn't even close, as no one expected it to be.

The Blades, like they did their previous evening against the same club, got the jump on the world's champions. They tallied first in slightly over three minutes, Marc Boileau popping in a shot that sent the minor leaguers into a 1-0 lead.

Before the first stanza was completed, the champs got on the scoreboard—with only 33 seconds showing on the clock. The initial score of the big leaguers was tainted, however, as two Blades were in the penalty box when Kent Douglas fired the puck into the net. In the second period, class—or conditioning—told, the world champs holding a commanding 7-2 margin.

Within seven minutes of the second period, the Maple Leafs had a 4-1 edge and the fans began counting sheep.

* * * *

THE CITIZENS perked up momentarily five minutes later when the Blades made it "close" with a so-called "garbage" shot — four men were involved and the harassed Maple Leaf goalie was as swollen-eyed as an Iowa farmer in Hollywood. The rest of the Leafs were counting the audience between yawns.

At this point, the beautiful arena lights marked it 4-2. Then the roof fell in. The big boys got angry and went to work. They bombed three more goals before the minor leaguers could get their breath.

The only exciting thing after that bombardment was the ice machine which resembled a Patton tank. The Blades, sadly, retreated at that point like the Nazis during World War II . . . with Patton after him.

The Yankees never had it so good. Even with the Richmond farm club.

Arkansas Buries TCU

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—The Arkansas Razorback shook off a plague of penalties and fumbles in the last quarter Saturday and the defensive platoon provided the spark with six pass interceptions for a 29-6 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Christian.

Coach Frank Broyles' young Hogs from the Ozarks, the only unbeaten team left in the conference to challenge defending national champion Texas, passed and ran their way to their third consecutive triumph.

Their quarterback tandem of Fred Marshall and Billy Gray counted the first two touchdowns on runs of one and five yards, sophomore defensive halfback Harry Jones got the third on a 24-yard runback with one of the interceptions and tailback Bobby Burnet went five yards for the fourth after another thefted pass.

Jones' interception was extremely timely since it blunted an explosive TCU pass momentum that benchwarmer Kent Nix had ignited with a seven-play, 70-yard surge to pull the score to 14-6 with 11 minutes to play.

The Arkansas defense was so tough that TCU managed but 11 yards rushing and netted but 83 on passes despite Nix' concentrated scoring surge.

Marshall, who played most of the game at quarterback, hit 12 of 19 passes for 148 yards and contributed 37 yards on the ground to rank third in rushing behind Jack Brausell's 46 yards and Burnet's 44.

Southwest Texans Rally, Win

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Big Ernie Koy scored two fourth-period touchdowns Saturday night to fuel top-ranked Texas from a halftime deficit to a 17-6 victory over previously undefeated Army.

For the entire first half, it appeared that Army, playing its first game under the lights, had found their night eyes in sufficient clearness to upset the defending national champions.

Army's Carl Stichweh guided the Cadets to an early first-period touchdown after Army recovered a Marvin Kristynik fumble on the Longhorns' first play from scrimmage.

But in the final 30 minutes, Koy and Kristynik began to click with the type of ball-control game Texas is noted for.

The Beavers yielded a second-quarter touchdown to the Southwest Conference foes, then threw up a stout defense that shackled the pass-happy Bears.

TIGERS FALL, 14-7

Jackets 'Stop' Clemson

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech battled underdog Clemson off its feet Saturday, but was so ineffective when it came to actually scoring that the Yellow Jackets had to rely on a rugged defense to turn back the Tigers, 14-7.

The Jackets moved the ball at will—both in the air and on the ground against a slow Clemson defense, but could find the end zone only twice—once on their first offensive play of the game and the second time on a 54-yard run by halfback Johnny Gresham.

Clemson, trailing 7-0 at half-time, got its offense rolling after intermission and scored with 30 seconds gone in the fourth quarter on a three-yard plunge by Hugh Mauldin.

ANOTHER UPSET, 20-0

Kentucky Shocks Auburn

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Rodger Bird's two touchdowns, one on a 95-yard pass interception, beat Auburn 20-0 Saturday night, giving Kentucky its second successive upset victory over a nationally ranked opponent. The Wildcats beat Mississippi last week, 27-21.

Bird's 95-yard return of Jimmy Sidle's pass in the third period came just as the brilliant Auburn quarterback — playing with a shoulder injury that may have hampered his throwing—was moving the Tigers to what could have been a tying touchdown.

Kentucky's first touchdown came on a 76-yard drive in the second period, with three passes from quarterback Rick Norton to Rick Kestner eating up 33 yards of the distance.

Bird scored that one on a one-yard slant off tackle. Kentucky's third touchdown came in the closing minutes on a 9-yard pass from Norton to Kestner.

WYNN

Man to Man

DUROCHER

By JERRY WYNN

Southern California may have seen the last of him as a Dodger, but the baseball adventures of Leo Durocher are far from ended.

For a third-base coach with a seventh-place team, Durocher received more ink this season than a .400 hitter. Now the 58-year-young storm center has the sports world guessing over his plans for 1965. He won't comment on them, but reports persist that he will become manager of a National League team.

I had the pleasure of interviewing Leo on his radio show last week. Here are somes of the bases we touched:

Who would be your choice for the Cy Young Award as top pitcher of 1964, Sandy Koufax or Dean Chance?

"I'm a little projudiced. I think Koufax is the greatest pitcher in the game. I'm certain if he hadn't become injured, he would have gotten the award. But Chance has pitched the whole season and done a magnificent job and I would vote for him."

Would you like to see the Dodgers trade for Bo Belinsky?

"I'm certain Belinsky would help some club whether or not it is the Dodgers. He has a lot of talent. He just has to be handled the right way. I know he had quite a bit of trouble with the Angels. There's no question, he will do better with another club."

If the Angels couldn't handle him, what makes you think another team could?

"I know Bill Rigney did all he could and I have a lot of respect for Rigney's ability. But some players just have to be handled in a certain way. All I had to do to Willie Mays was pet him. But with Sal Maglie, I had to use the needle. I don't know if you have to rub Belinsky, pet him or kick him, but there is a way."

What was your opinion of the purchase of the Yankees by CBS?

"It all depends on their intentions. Do they want to stop Pay-TV? Do they want to get into Pay-TV? Will the other two networks buy clubs now? I'm sure the deal is going to have some effect on baseball, but it's too early to tell."

You played in your first World Series with the Yankees in 1926 and played, managed and coached in many more. Was there one which gave you the greatest thrill?

"The World Series always is a great thrill. Last year was a great one with the Dodgers especially that opening game when Koufax struck out a record 15 to beat the Yankees. Then I can't overlook 1954 when I managed the Giants and we beat the Indians four straight. I'd say those two years were the greatest."

You played on the famed Cardinal "Gashouse Gang", which won the 1934 Series. Was that team as colorful as its reputation?

"Yes, we had a great bunch like Pepper Martin, Ducky Medwick, Dizzy and Daffy Dean. I was captain. Frankie Frish was a great manager. But baseball was different then. It was a lot rougher and the players did more things. They came to play."

Does the best team always win the World Series?

"The best team doesn't always win the pennant. In 1954 the Giants beat the Dodgers with a great stretch drive but I don't think we were the better team. So much of it has to do with getting hot at the right time and having the pitching. Take the Dodgers last year. They had the pitching and were unbeatable in four games. I don't think they were that much better than the Yankees. Pitching is 75% of the game and in a World Series, it's 90%."

There has been talk of pro football supplanting baseball as the national pastime. Do you agree?

"Pro football has made a big dent in baseball's popularity. They've done things while baseball has stood still. But baseball is starting to come around by building new stadiums and improving conditions. Me, I'm a baseball man. I like football and I love golf but baseball has been my life."

And there always will be life in baseball as long as there is Leo Durocher in the game.

Pivotal Game for Upstarts of NFL Today

By JERRY WYNN
L. A. P-T Staff Writer

BALTIMORE — Signals on: 2-11-19-56,537 Hup!

These are the magic numbers for this morning's television treat — the Rams vs. the Baltimore Colts.

The 2 is for channel 2. The 11 is for an 11 o'clock (PDT) kickoff. The 19 is for the numbers worn by rival quarterbacks Johnny Unitas and Bill Munson. The '56,537 is for the sellout crowd which on football Sundays turns Memorial Stadium into the world's largest outdoor insane asylum.

A few weeks ago Baltimore had AL pennant fever; today it has NFL championship delirium.

"We love the Colts," the signs read in crabcake town on the Chesapeake, and the populace loves them more than ever after their rip-roaring victories over the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears the last two weeks.

The Colts stunned the Packers at Green Bay, 21-20, and demolished the Bears here, 52-0, after being tumbled by the Minnesota Vikings, 34-24, in the season's opener.

At stake today is first place in the Western Division. The upstart Rams (2-0-1) enter the game with the advantage over the Colts and Packers (2-1). But despite their lofty standing, the Rams are 8-point underdogs — which figures out to one point for each year since they last won a game in Baltimore.

They came within 33 seconds of victory last year before succumbing, 20-16; they blew a 27-16 lead in the last four minutes to lose, 30-27, in 1962, and they had a 24-10 lead turned into a 27-24 defeat in 1961.

The man responsible for all this misfortune is that master of miracle finishes —Unitas. The great Johnny-U is off to another great year, and benefits from a vastly-improved Colt running attack which has Lenny Moore and Tom Matte at halfbacks and Jerry Hill and rookies Tony Lorick and Joe Don Looney at fullbacks.

Moore, Raymond Berry, Jimmy Orr and John Mackey give Unitas four standout receivers in the starting lineup.

Ram victory hopes will rest on the ability of their charging Four Horses defensive line to pressure Unitas as well as their steadily improving offense. With Terry Baker starting in place of injured Dick Bass, the "Outpost" definitely is "in" today.

The series between the teams is deadlocked at 11-11-1. Signals on at 11 for this one: Lineups:

Bruins another score, Zeno fired a pass to Kurt Altenberg in the end zone with just 1:27 left. His final conversion try was wide.

Three long drives consumed all but the last four seconds of the first period, two paying off in touchdowns as the two clubs battled to a 7-7 tie.

Stanford moved 64 yards after the opening kickoff for a 7-0 lead on Read's 3-yard blast through the center at 4:14 and Braden Beck's extra point.

* * * *

THE BRUINS quickly retaliated with a 68-yard march culminated at 10:43 when they dug up the rarely-used tackle-eligible play to score.

Stanford struck back with a 71-yard advance that carried to the Bruin 11 before an offsides penalty shoved the Indians back to the 16, and Kent Francisco nailed DeSylvia for a 10-yard loss on the 26 as he tried to get off a pass.

Beck, who earlier in the season booted a 52-yard field goal, then came in to try one from the 32, but it was both wide and short.

UCLA came on strong in the second quarter to move out to a 14-7 halftime lead.

First, however, Zeno missed racking up another touchdown aerial when his eight-yard toss to end Dick Witcher in the end zone was nullified by an offside penalty. On the next play from the 13, Zeno fumbled the ball away to Stanford.

However, the Bruins were back in business a moment later when Gary Callies intercepted a deflected DeSylvia pass on the 46 and ran it back to the Stanford 32. The TD came after nine vicious stabs into the line with just 2:44 left in the half.

After a bad pitchout stopped a Stanford threat at the outset of the third quarter, a short punt and 22-yard runback gave the Indians the ball on the UCLA 24 and in two plays they tied it up. DeSylvia passing 19 yards to Mason, and Read barreling the final five yards around end at 8:27. Beck's kick was good.

Air Force 14-6 Over Colo. State

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Air Force, still frustrated by a sputtering offense, broke open a tight football game with a 45-yard scoring pass in the final period Saturday and beat Colorado State University, 14-6.

The Cadets went to the final 35 seconds of the first half before scoring on an eight-yard pass by Tim Murphy to halfback Guy Hogle.

A fumbled punt gave CSU an opening on the Air Force 22 in the third period. The Rams made it good on a touchdown pass of seven yards from Eddie Belt to Jim Biddle, but their pass for a two-point conversion fizzled.

Early in the fourth quarter, Air Force end Jim Greth got behind the CSU safety man and speared a pass from Murphy for the second Cadet touchdown.

CUSTARDO OUTDUELS MYERS

Illinois Hard Pressed, but Whips Cats, 17-6

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Quarterback Fred Custardo bounced back from a first-half blitzing and outpassed Big Ten rival Tommy Myers in leading Illinois to a 17-6 victory over Northwestern.

Charging lines made life miserable for both quarterbacks in the first half. Custardo was tossed for 55 yards while attempting to pass. Myers was smeared for only five, but was rushed into incompletions and, in all, was the victim of four interceptions.

Custardo wound up a hero by passing to Sam Price for a second-period touchdown, then hitting Bob Trumpy on a 44-yarder in the third quarter to set up another TD by Price, that on a 10-yard end sweep.

Myers brought the crowd of 52,062 to its feet late in the third period when he combined with halfback Ron Rector on a 78-yard touchdown pass play. Myers flipped only five yards, but Rector sprinted the remaining 72, outrunning three would-be tacklers.

Buck Back's Pass Steals Save Victory

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State's Arnie Chonko stopped three late Indiana drives with key pass interceptions Saturday to save a 17-9 Big Ten football victory for the Buckeyes.

Chonko, a 209-pound defensive halfback, made his last interception with 14 seconds left in the game and stopped the Hoosiers for the third time in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Rich Badar of Indiana had the Buckeyes on the ropes in the final period, passing for one touchdown when he hit Rudy Kuechenberg on a five-yard touchdown pass to make it 17-9. But his next two drives were thwarted by the pug-nosed Chonko.

Indiana, bidding for at best a tie, marched 63 yards in 10 plays to the Ohio State 13 late in the game. Chonko leaped in the air to grab his second interception and ran the ball back to the 16. He saved Ohio State's Big Ten opener seconds later with his interception on the Buckeye eight.

Wyoming in 17-14 Win at Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The passing of quarterback Tom Wilkinson and a 47-yard punt return by sophomore Rick Egloff sparked Wyoming to its third straight victory and a come-from-behind 17-14 upset over Kansas Saturday before 38,000.

A rugged Cowboy defense contained the Jayhawkers.

The Cowboys completely dominated play until midway through the second quarter when Kansas all-America candidate Gale Sayers broke loose for an 81-yard touchdown run to give the Jayhawkers their 7-3 halftime lead.

Oklahoma State, the last-place team in the Big Eight a year ago, now leads the conference with a 2-0 record. Phil Cutchin's club stands 2-1 for the season.

Snow Aids Irish Win

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, responding furiously to John Huarte's daring quarterbacking, smashed Purdue's Boilermakers 34 to 15, for their second straight conquest of a Big Ten football rival Saturday.

The home debut of new coach Ara Parseghian proved the "new" Irish were for real as they followed their 31-7 conquest of Wisconsin with an even more devastating mauling of Purdue.

It was the first time the Fighting Irish had beaten the Boilermakers at South Bend in 13 years.

Trailing 7-0 after Purdue scored on its first sustained drive in the first quarter, Huarte quickly led the Irish to two second quarter touchdowns and a 14-7 halftime lead.

Again Huarte's chief target was 215-pound end Jack Snow, who grabbed six passes for 82 yards, including a 20-yard scoring flip which moved Notre Dame ahead 14-7 in the second period.

SNOOK'S PASSES DECISIVE

Iowa Blows 14-0 Lead, Then Whips Huskies

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Gary Snook powered Iowa to a 28-18 upset of Washington Saturday with passing that riddled the defense of the nation's 10th-ranked football team.

The rangy Iowa quarterback tossed two touchdown passes and scored on a plunge in a comeback that sends Iowa into Big Ten action next week with a perfect record.

Snook completed 19 of 32 passes for 215 yards. He hit on 8 of 12 in the first quarter for 110 yards and propelled Iowa to a 14-0 lead.

Washington halfback Ron Medved ignited a comeback in the second period with his running and kicking that pushed the West Coast team in front 18-14 at the half.

Medved scored on a 12-yard run, kicked an extra point and booted a 31-yard field goal in the surge. It went for naught when Iowa converted Washington errors into a pair of fourth-period touchdowns that dropped the Huskies' season record to one victory and two losses.

The Hawkeyes clinched the victory when Snook leaped over from the one to end a 26-yard drive, which started when Rick Redman hobbled a snapback on a fourth down punt try.

Wolverines Blank Jolly Roger, Navy

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan moved on the ground and through the air offensively while its defense shut out Roger Staubach for the first time in his collegiate career Saturday to scuttle the Navy, 21-0.

Sophomore halfbacks Jim Detwiler and Carl Ward downs and with Detwiler's help amassed a total rushing yardage of 272 and Timberlake completed seven of 11 passes for 106 yards.

Meanwhile the defense, led by linebacker Tom Cecchini, picked up three fumbles and two pass interceptions in the first half and rose to the occasion when they had to go in the final two periods to blank the Midshipmen.

After walking off the field at halftime trailing 6-0, Navy had its best chances to score halted in the third quarter by Michigan's defense. The Middies moved to the Wolverine 17 early in the period but Michigan held and forced a punt from the 31 that sailed into the end zone.

Gophers Stave Off Cal, 26-20

BERKELEY (UPI) — Underdog Minnesota, sparked by fullback Mike Reid's 14 points, outlasted California 26-20 Saturday to mark the 12th straight time that a Big Ten team has downed the Bears.

Reid, Minnesota's all-purpose fullback, scored what proved to be the clinching touchdown to make the score 26-13 with 2:32 left in the game on a three-yard run. Earlier he had booted field goals from 33 and 29 yards in the first half.

The Bears, whose last win against Big Ten opposition, came in 1952, cut the margin of victory to 26-20 when Tom Blanchfield went over from the one-yard line with 17 seconds of play remaining.

There were nine seconds left when Jack Schraub of the Bears recovered a short kickoff on the Minnesota 33. But Cal quarterback Craig Morton overshot two long passes into the end zone as the clock ran out.

Two other Cal drives earlier ended on the Minnesota seven and 29-yard lines during the first half.

Although he was rushed silly during the first half by Minnesota's Brian Callahan and Aaron Brown, Morton stayed around to connect on 17 out of 29 passes for 259 yards. This raised his lifetime total to 3,042 and broke the old school mark of 2,966 set a decade ago by the Bears' Paul Larson.

The Gophers held a 12-0 halftime lead.

John Hankinson, Minnesota's quarterback who was out last season because of a broken collarbone, put the Gophers ahead 6-0 with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Kent Kramer in the first quarter.

Four minutes later, Reid booted a 33-yard field goal after Bob Bruggers recovered a bobble by Morton on the Cal 20. Reid added a second field goal from 29 yards out in the second period.

In addition to Blanchfield's two touchdowns from close inside, Jerry Bradley of the Bears made a diving catch in the end zone of an eight-yard pass from Morton for Cal's second score.

Pro Football Has 'Farm' League

HITTIN' THE HIGH SPOTS: The United Football League—a semipro circuit comprising such cities as Charleston, Wheeling, Canton, Toledo, Joliet, Grand Rapids, Montreal and Indianapolis — has become the leading testing ground for those who still harbor ambitions to play professional ball.

It also has become a "farm" for major league teams, especially for clubs stuck with players signed to no-cut contracts. They now send them to the UFL to gain experience, which they couldn't get sitting on the bench.

Several players are drawing money from NFL and AFL clubs, while most of the others are playing for the league minimum salary of $50 a game and working at fulltime jobs during the week while giving their all for another crack at the big time.

SONNY GIBBS
Farmed Out by Dallas

Heading the group being paid by a major club is Sonny Gibbs, former Texas Christian passing wizard who was signed a year ago to a three-year, no-cut contract by the Dallas Cowboys.

The Cowboys wanted Gibbs to spend this season in the UFL to gain needed experience. His first reaction was to collect his money and go home.

However, he changed his mind and is now playing for the Toledo Tornadoes.

Gibbs soon found out that it is a tough league which is gaining more status each year.

Some of the other quarterbacks in the league with high hopes of making it with NFL, AFL or Canadian League clubs include ex-Ram Ron Miller, formerly of Wisconsin; Ron DiGravio, fresh out of Purdue; Bob Brodhead (Duke;) Jake Jacobs (Arizona State) and Dave Mathieson (Washington State).

A CHICAGO SPORTS WRITER recently created a stir when he wrote that "Center Mike Pyle of the Bears was put through college by the Chicago 'syndicate'" . . .

A rumor making the rounds is that Jerry Wolman, new owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, "had to take Joe Kuharich as head coach in order to get the franchise; that he had no other choice . . .

The report undoubtedly grew out of the fact Kuharich worked in the NFL office last year . . .

Even if true, Wolman can't kick about the deal. Kuharich has been doing a tremendous job . . .

One of the most surprising trades in the NFL this season was the one that sent all-pro center Jim Ringo from Green Bay to Philadelphia for a first draft choice . . .

It is now heard that Ringo was traded after delivering a salary ultimatum calling for around $30,000, or else, and then hung up on Vince Lombardi!

have had a good shot at catching it."

Novack, a junior from Santa Monica, now has snared a touchdown pass in each game and four overall.

The 49ers went ahead 18-7 when Shy capped a 66-yard drive by slashing the final 12 yards. The hard-driving halfback broke three tackles en route to his fourth TD of the season. Martin's run for the 2-pointer failed and the 49ers seemingly had a lock on the game with only 7:27 remaining.

But the Hornets didn't quit. They stormed to L.B.'s three-yard line before Degen creamed quarterback Miller as he attempted to pass for a seven-yard loss.

LONG BEACH took over on fourth down Mike Anderson's punt was smothered by Kelley and SSC recovered on L.B.'s four. Clemons finally punched over on third down from the one. Miller pitched to Joe Cavallaro for the PAT and the Hornets trailed, 18-15, with 1:09 remaining.

An on-sides kick failed and L.B. ran out the clock two plays later.

Reed said "we second-guessed ourselves at the end. We discussed on the sidelines giving them a safety, but then decided to let Anderson (Mike) kick. But his protection broke down and he didn't have a prayer getting the kick away."

Now we'll listen to the coaches mutual admiration society.

"We were lucky to get out with our lives," said Reed. "This was a tremendous game for learning. We experienced situations today that we haven't worked on all year. Maybe we won't see them again, but if we do the boys should benefit."

The situations Reed was referring to included: (1) a quick kick (74 yards by Cavallaro in the first quarter); (2) a fake field goal in which Barry Wallace made a TD-saving tackle on the four-yard line. The first half ended out before the Hornets could get off another play; (3) an interference penalty for assisting a ball carrier (everyone does it but officials never call it); (4) not to field a kickoff in the end zone; (5) why linemen should not handle line-drive punts.

CLEMONS had nothing but praise for his adversaries. "We played a heck of a ball club today. They ran their plays with precision; they are a fine offensive team. I don't think they are any tougher physically than Santa Clara was, but they're much better drilled."

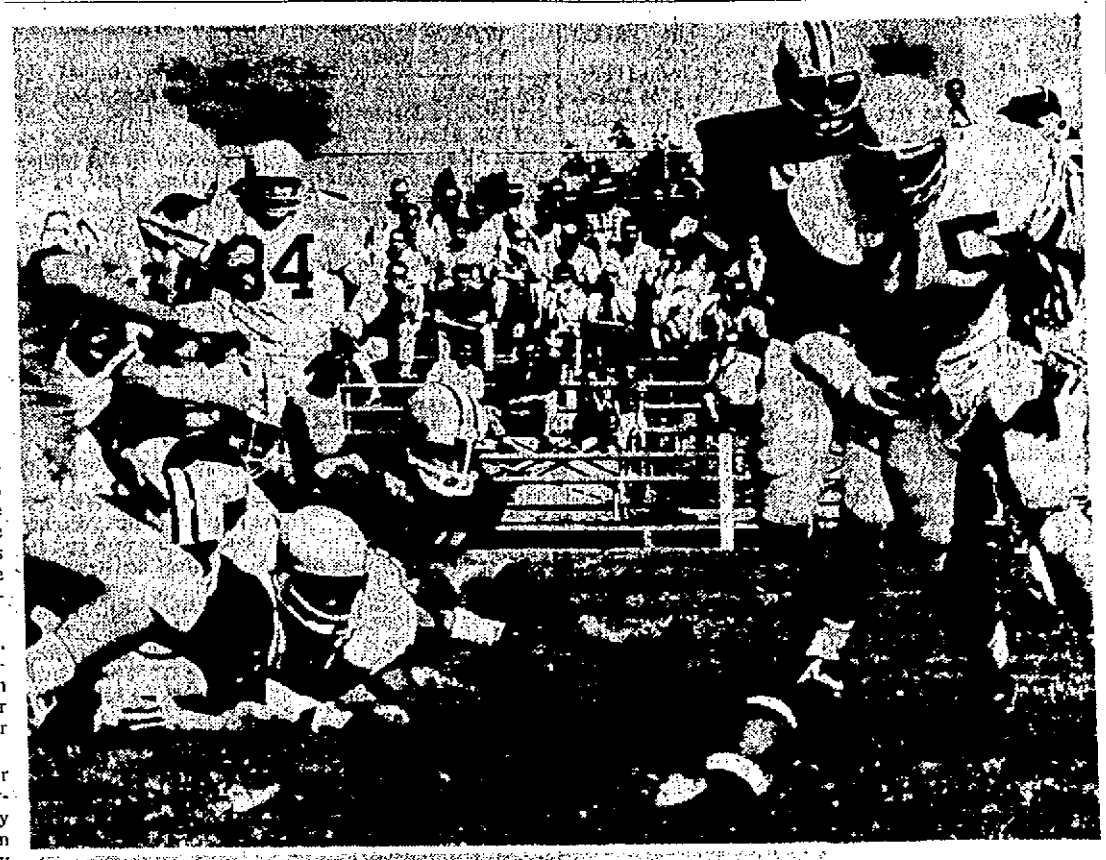

Bob Baker, former USC great and currently athletic director at Sacramento, was quick to offer his congratulations to Reed and voice that "This is the finest game I've ever seen Sac play. You've got to be good." Baker has been on the scene eight years.

Spartans Topple Trojans

Troy 46. In nine plays, all plunges into the line except for a 13-yard pass completion.

The touchdown came on a power handoff to halfback Clinton Jones, a 19-year-old sophomore speedster from Cleveland.

Lou Bobich, the Spartans' veteran sidefooted pacekicker who keeps his shoes on, footed the extra point and it was 10-0 with half the third period gone and the Trojans' chances appearing to be fading.

But the Trojans took the ensuing kickoff and marched 80 yards in 10 plays to a touchdown. The longest gainer was a 26-yard pass from Fertig to Moton that got Troy across midfield and seemed to spark them. Garrett added a fine run to the drive, breaking two tackles at scrimmage and scooting 17 yards to the enemy 17.

The drive was sustained by a pass-interference penalty that moved the ball from the 17 to the three on a call which seemed uncalled for but was mighty welcome on the Trojan bench.

Two plunges from the three and Garrett had put Troy on the scoreboard. Rich Brownell kicked the extra point. There was one quarter plus four minutes to catch up.

THEY GOT a chance by blocking a third-down punt and taking the fourth-down punt on the Michigan State 45. But then began a series of bad breaks for the Trojans. They couldn't advance and punted.

They got another chance two minutes later when they drove to the Spartan 34 but Don Japinga intercepted a Fertig pass on the 25 and ran it back to the 50. A few seconds later Sherman fumbled a punt on the Troy 23 and end George Webster pounced on it.

That, actually, was the play that finished off the Trojans, though they later made a move to the Spartan 8 when trailing 17-7 in the closing minutes.

After Webster recovered that muffed punt the Spartans moved to a fourth and 10 situation at Troy's 22 when Juday flipped a lateral to Ammon to toss to tall end Gene Washington in the end zone.

So the Spartan Stadium jinx for West Coast teams has held. In the past 13 tries by Western collegians here, dating back to a Santa Clara victory in 1938, our record is a blank.

Mazurek Runs, Passes Pitt to Win

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Quarterback Fred Mazurek, taking dead aim on the Pitt total offense record, ran and passed for 228 yards Saturday as the Panthers overwhelmed William & Mary 34-7 for their first victory of the season.

The visiting Indians, outweighed by nearly 20 points a man played Pitt even in the first period, stopping one Panther drive on downs and killing another with an intercepted pass in the end zone.

But the Panthers' superior manpower broke the game wide open with three touchdowns in the second quarter. Mazurek, who alone outgained the Indians squad, directed two of the drives. His replacement, Kenny Lucas, aided by sophomore halfbacks Dewey Chester and Bob Dyer, headed the third.

Tigers Topple Columbia, 23-13

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A pair of 61-yard runs by Cosmo Iacavazzi the first two times he carried the ball enabled Princeton to withstand a record-breaking passing attack by Columbia's Archie Roberts and defeat the Lions, 23-13, Saturday.

Roberts completed 19 of 35 passes for 206 yards, breaking the Ivy League single game mark of 16 completions held by Brown's Jim Dunda and Columbia's Tom Vassel.

Berry Sparks Oregon Over Winless Penn St.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Unbeaten Oregon's Bob Berry fired three touchdown passes and gained more than 200 yards in the air Saturday as the Webfoots came from behind to defeat fumble-plagued Penn State, 22-14.

It was the Lions' third straight loss and marked the first time in history a Penn State football team lost its first three games of a season.

Penn State lost six fumbles, four in the third quarter when Oregon picked up its last two touchdowns.

Berry completed 17 of 32 passes for 208 yards. His performance brought his career total for completions to 198, breaking the old mark of 195 at Oregon set by George Shaw between 1952 and 1954.

Rockets Play at Blair Field Today

By CHUCK MEDICK

The most positive sign of fall is the return to the baseball wars of the Long Beach Rockets.

Manager Jack Graham leads his charges into battle against the Embassy Club of the Long Beach City League at 1:30 today at Blair Field.

This year's edition of the Rockets should be as strong, if not stronger, than past teams. Two of the area's finest hurlers, Casey Cox and Terry Richards, will be on the firing line Sunday.

I, P-T WRITER DIXON IN JAPAN FOR GAMES

John Dixon, track and field expert for the independent, Press-Telegram, is in Japan to cover the XVIII Olympiad. He and a group of American and Mexican press and TV technicians arrived last week aboard a Japan Air Lines jet press flight.

Dixon's observations of pre-Olympic buildup, color of the opening ceremonies and reports on the games will be carried on the sports pages of these newspapers.

The Oct. 10-24 event in Tokyo will be the second Olympic Games the veteran Long Beach writer has covered.

Syracuse Hits Late, Romps

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Heavily-favored Syracuse, its ground game stalled for three quarters by a determined defense, roared from behind with five second-half touchdowns Saturday for a 34-8 televised victory over Holy Cross.

The Crusaders managed to keep sophomore Syracuse speed-merchant Floyd Little in check through most of the game and held him scoreless after his five touchdown spree of last week.

But the Orange converted two intercepted passes into third-quarter touchdowns, scored a third on their own pass and rushed for two more en route to their second victory in three starts.

Tackle Jerry Everling romped 18 yards to score with one intercepted pass.

Tokyo Primed for Olympics

First Asian Olympiad to Open Saturday

TOKYO (UPI)—The 1964 Olympic Games open Saturday with all the pomp and ceremony demanded by tradition, plus Oriental overtones befitting the first Olympiad ever held in Asia.

A total of 8,400 athletes and officials from 98 nations will take part in the competition which opens Oct. 10 and continues every day through Oct. 24. Both of those figures will set records for Olympic Games of the modern era.

Numerous world and Olympic records in various sports are expected to tumble during the carnival, with the Soviet Union favored once again to win more gold medals than the United States in the battle for the strictly unofficial but ardently desired team championship.

But more than anything else, the setting of these games in Asia is expected to set apart the XVIII Olympiad in the history of world sports. These are the games that Japan was scheduled to hold in 1940. When World War II forced their cancellation.

Japan, demonstrating its return to vigorous national health after its crushing defeat in that war, has spared no expenses in the construction of huge new arenas and gymnasiums in which to hold the competition, new roads, and Olympic village built on the site of what once was a U.S. Army installation.

And on every hand, from the Japanese-style hotels which many of the tourists will occupy to the colorful traditional costumes of many Olympiad personnel to the presence of judo for the first and perhaps last time on the official Olympic program, visitors are reminded that these are Asia's first Olympic games.

Ironically, Japan, which has scored many notable Olympic victories in the past especially in swimming, is not expected to reap a great harvest in medals despite its role as host.

But every Japanese heart will swell with pride Saturday when Emperor Hirohito mounts the rostrum in the 72,000-seat National Stadium and proclaims:

"I declare open the Olympic Games of Tokyo, celebrating the eighteenth Olympiad of the modern era."

With these and other ceremonies, including the playing of the Olympic hymn, the raising of the five-ringed Olympic flag, lighting the Olympic flame from a torch borne by air and by runners from Athens, site of the first Olympic Games, and the symbolic release of white doves, the Olympic Games will be under way.

The official opening ceremonies will occupy the entire program on Saturday. The actual competition will begin Sunday.

Fishin' Around

My, My, Such Noisy Neighbors!

A new family has moved into our neighborhood and the old-time residents of the area around Daisy and Magnolia Avenues and Hill Street have never heard such arguments and loud language. The family's name is Corvus Brachyhnchos and I personally counted 16 yakking at each other the other. day.

The neighborhood is divided in its thinking about the family. I'd like to shoot the whole outfit. My wife says the noise reminds her of the woods and farms of Montana, where she was reared. She likes it.

Not only are they noisy; they are flagpole, or I should say, power pole sitters. They have taken possession of the power line that goes down Christmas Tree Lane.

Oh yes, the family has a more common name—Old Black Crow, often described as the bird that doesn't have a friend in the world, that is, until Lenora heard them caw-cawing earlier this year. At that time there were only two as far as we knew.

Now that pair has reared a family and several cousins have joined the crowd until, as I said before, there were 16 at last count, and every one capable of caw-cawing the neighbors who don't like crows into Indian summer madness. There is one nice thing to be said about them: They don't make noises at night and that's more than can be said for some neighbors.

NOW A FEW GOOD WORDS for the crow: He has the highest respect of the hunters who find that after years of study of guns and ammunition and ballistics, the smart crow seems to know all that instinctively. His estimate, almost to micrometer exactitude, of the effective range of the full gamut of shotguns is proof positive.

His powers of communication also are of high order, perhaps more limited than those ascribed to the dolphin, but ample enough to establish danger, distress, fighting and chow calls between members of his clan.

His insatiable appetite leads him on almost constant search for nourishment, which he takes in a wide variety of forms encompassing practically anything edible. Perhaps that is why I don't like crows. But then I must admit that other birds live the same way.

The crow measures about 20 inches in length, weighs a pound and flies from 20 to 30 miles an hour at an elevation just out of the reach of the most powerful shotguns.

Ask any hunter who takes part in the Compton Hunting and Fishing Club's annual crew shoot how hard it is to hit one. And as in all events of such nature, the CHFC has been both praised and censored for its annual crow shoot. Some persons don't want any bird killed. There's no need to come to Christmas Tree Lane, hoping for a kill. Even BB guns and sling shots are prohibited within the city limits.

IF YOU ARE AN albarore fisherman and are still trying to catch them, try San Diego or Morro Bay, the only ports reporting any success. Even those are not having big dock totals, although San Diego's figure varies widely each day.

As for the Long Beach landings, they threw in the towel last week and there won't be any more albacore runs unless the fish come within range. Pierpoint's last trip took 20 hours of running time, to say nothing of the maneuvering while in the small schools, and there were not enough passengers to pay for the fuel, much less other expenses.

Pacific Landing is running a special to San Clemente Island, in addition to its regular Catalina Island boat, and operators hope to come home with some yellowtail. Pierpoint has a similar schedule.

June Ascolesi, the soft-voiced woman with the ready smile who runs the bait and tackle shop at the end of Belmont Pier, reports that patrons are taking limits of bonito every day on the Islander barge. She says that the barge will remain open as long as there is a demand, but that night service will be cut back to Saturdays only.

Also, the Queen of the Sea, Belmont Pier's half-day boat, will go on Saturdays and Sundays only, beginning this week. On the pier itself, good numbers of bonito and some medium-sized barracuda are affording excitement.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—This affects all California hunters, so read carefully. The California Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee is meeting at 10 a.m. Oct. 19 in Sacramento to conduct a hearing on the right of citizens to own, use, receive and purchase firearms.

Every sportsman is entitled to attend the hearing. If he wishes to testify he should contact the committee staff room, 5159 State Capitol, Sacramento. (Telephone 445-8528). Assemblyman George Deukmejian, 5366 E. Broadway, Long Beach, is a member of the committee. If you can not attend the hearing and wish to express an opinion, write to Deukmejian at his Long Beach address.

A revolutionary departure from the traditional life jackets and vests usually worn by boaters and fishermen is indicated in a new line of apparel being introduced for the 1965 season by a leading manufacturer of life-saving products.

Stearns Manufacturing Co., St. Cloud, Minn., is putting smartly styled jackets and vests on the market. Those garments have the appearance and tailoring of fine sportswear, without the tremendous bulk of some jackets previously on the market. The manufacturer says that each garment can keep its wearer afloat indefinitely.

Stearns has been producing life-saving garments for 20 years.

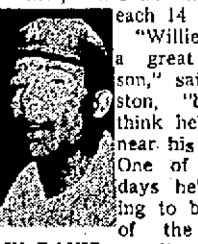

Willie Davis Dodger of Year in I, P-T

Brewer Shuts Out Colts, 7-0; Last Game Due Today

By GEORGE LEDERER

Willie Davis, a star in 1964 and tabbed by manager Walter Alston as a future superstar, is the Independent, Press-Telegram "Dodger of the Year."

Davis became the sixth winner of the award in a close contest with Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills. Willie was named "Dodger of the Day" 18 times in the Press-Telegram's daily feature. Drysdale was named 17 times, Willis and Koufax each 14 times.

W. DAVIS

"Willie had a great season," said Alston, "but I think he's not near his peak. One of these days he's going to be one of the outstanding players in baseball."

Going into this afternoon's season finale, Davis leads the Dodgers in hitting (.292), runs scored (89), is second in runs batted in (76), second in stolen bases (40), second in doubles (23) and third in home run (12).

The huge I, P-T trophy will be presented to Willie in pregame ceremonies at 12:40 today. Previous winners are Wally Moon (1959 and 1961), Norman Larker (1960), Wills (1962) and Koufax (1963).

Willie had to take a back seat, however, Saturday night as the Dodgers evened their final home stand record at 3-3 with a 7-0 victory over the Colts.

* * * *

JIM BREWER, a 27-year-old native of Broken Arrow, Okla., pitched the shutout, his first complete game in 22 major league starts. Brewer came close to both achievements in his first start for the Cubs in 1960, but lost to Milwaukee in the ninth inning on a two-out single by Al Dark.

Brewer (4-3) held the Colts to five singles Saturday and permitted only one runner to reach second base. He struck out six and did not walk a man.

Brewer also equalled his hit production of 18 previous times up as he shared offensive honors with Derrell Griffith. Each had three hits and Brewer drove in two runs.

The Dodgers had 13 hits off loser Don Larsen (4-9), Dave Giusi and Larry Yellen.

Maury Wills stole his 53rd base and said he will try to overtake major league leader Luis Aparicio of the Orioles in today's finale. Aparicio has 57 steals.

Rookie John Purdin, who has not allowed a run in 11 innings, will face Larry Dierker (0-1) this afternoon.

U.S. Gals Take World Golf Lead

PARIS (AP) — The United States took a one-stroke lead over France Saturday in the Women's World Amateur Golf Championship and Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., tied Catherine Lacoste of France for the individual lead.

Billie Jean, Ralston in Net Finals

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield will cary American hopes into the finals of the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament at the L.A. Tennis Club today.

Ralston and Roy Emerson, the top-seeded American and foreign entrants, Saturday reached the finals with easy victories over Fred Stolle and Rafael Osuna.

Seeking revenge for his key loss in the Davis Cup competition of last week, Ralston took the measure of Stolle, 6-4, 6-4. Emerson, the world's top singles player, defeated Osuna, Mexico's leading player, 8-6, 6-1.

Ralston, who dropped a five-set heart-breaker to Stolle at Cleveland in the Davis Cup challenge round, needed only 38 miuntes to defeat the Australian.

The University of Southern California collegian broke service on the 10th game of the first set, after having Stolle at set point three times. In the second set, Ralston broke Stolle's service in the second game and ran up a 5-3 lead only to have Stolle break his service in the ninth game. Ralston then broke service in the 10th to win.

* * * *

EMERSON, unbeaten in 51 matches, needed an hour to beat Osuna. The Mexican star took a lead by breaking Emerson's service in the first game and held the advantage until the eighth game when Emerson broke service and then drew even 5-5.

Emerson held his service at love in the 13th game and broke service in the 14th when Osuna twice double-faulted. The second set was virtually no contest as Osuna took only one game on service.

Ralston and Emerson clash today in the finals of the tournament.

In the women's semi-finals, top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil defeated Kathy Blake of Pacific Palisades, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Moffitt won her way into the finals against Miss Bueno by beating Mimi Arnold, Santa Barbara, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.

Yankee Burst Clinches American League Crown

Compiled from Wire Reports

The New York Yankees clinched a record-tying fifth successive American League pennant Saturday and San Francisco and Chicago joined the list of eliminated teams in title races for both leagues.

The Yankees exploded for five runs with two out in the eighth inning to trample Cleveland, 8-3 giving manager Yogi Berra a pennant in his first year as manager.

The Cubs knocked the Giants out of the tight National League race with a 10-7 victory. Although Chicago White Sox pitcher Joel Horlen shutout Kansas City, 7-0, the New York win finished the Chisox.

* * * *

IN OTHER games Baltimore edged Detroit, 7-6, Boston blanked Washington, 7-0; Milwaukee ripped Pittsburgh, 11-5; Minesota topped the Angels, 5-3, and the New York Mets upended St. Louis, 15-5.

Bobby Richardson's line drive single, which Indian shortstop Dick Howser could not handle, drove in the go-ahead run, and the Yanks went on to score four more times before the side was retired.

A bases-loaded walk to Mickey Mantle, who drove in thre runs, and singles by Elston Howard and Jeo Pepitone brought in the New York tallies.

The Cubs fell behind the Giants early, but pecked away to a 7-3 lead in the fourth. They held on to win in spite of Willie Mays, who cracked two home runs.

It was the 50th time in his career that Mays had hit two homers in the same game. It broke a National League record held by another Giant great, Mel Ott.

Fred Gladding walked Sam Bowens with the bases full and two out in the 10th inning to give Baltimore its edge over Detroit.

TWINS TRIP ANGELS, 5-3

McBride Joins 'Winter School' to Correct Wildness Problem

By ROSS NEWHAN
I, P-T Staff Writer

TWIN CITIES—Ken McBride's next start will come in mid-October on a sun-scorched Arizona diamond and the Angels prepared him for the task Saturday with a sandlot performance which left Minnesota a 5-3 victory and the one-time Cherub ace with his 13th defeat.

The game was meaningless, the Angels having sealed fifth-place Friday, but the contest bore intrigue in the form of an off-the-field meeting between manager Sam Mele and president Calvin Griffith.

Oft-fired in print, Mele turned the reins over to his coaching staff as he discussed his future with Griffith. The I, P-T has learned that Mele will be rehired with sweeping changes in his board of strategy.

Only Hal Naragon from the present coaching staff will remain with bids going to Billi Martin of the Twins' scouting staff and Washington coaches Eddie Yost and Sid Hudson.

The Angels made sweeping to Billy Martin of the to Saturday's game and with regulars Jim Fregosi, Felix Torres, Buck Rodgers and Jimmy Piersall out of the starting lineup, McBride was backed by four errors which left the Angels only one game above .500 heading into the season finale which pits Danny Osinski and Mudcat Grant.

McBride thus concluded the season with a 4-13 record and a badly damaged psyche. A repeat of McBride's 13-12 1963 log would have brought the Angels' fourth place if not an even higher station.

McBride walked five and hit one in six innings Saturday as the once most magnificent curve this side of Jayne Mansfield continued to play tricks. McBride walked 75 batters in 116.1 innings this season compared to only seven more in 251 frames last year.

In an effort to solve this "wild" mystery, the 29-year old McBride, a four-year major league veteran, will report to the Angels' instructional league entry in Scottsdale, Arizona in mid-October. There, he will come under the guidance of Bob Lemon and Tom Morgan.

Gun Bow Charges to Slim Feature Win at Aqeduct

(Combined Wire Services)

NEW YORK — Gun Bow spiked Kelso's bid for a fifth "horse of the year" championship and the money-winning title Saturday when he beat the mighty gelding by the very tip of his nose in the $108,200 Woodward Stakes at Aqueduct.

With jockey Bill Blum digging into him and Milo Valenzuela urging Kelso on, the two thoroughbreds charged to the finish line. The human eye could not separate them and Gun Bow's slim margin was hard to detect on the photo finish print of the race.

Kelso picked up $21,640 which raised his lifetime earnings to $1,732,772 still short of the record $1,749,869 won by Round Table.

Gun Bow paid $4.90, $2.40 and $2.10 while Kelso returned $2.30 and $2.10. Quadrangle, ridden by Manny Ycaza, paid $2.10.

SAN MATEO — Kentucky-bred Honored Sir beat the pace setting Sunn Hemp by a length for a mild upset victory in the $15,000-added Westlake Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Alvaro Pinedo brought Honored Sir over the mile and one-sixteenth distance in 1:42 3/5 for a payoff of $18.40, $10.40 and $7. Sunn Hemp returned $11.80 and $9 and third place Doctor Spark $6.60.

MAYS LANDING, N. J.—Third Martini, after four years of campaigning, finally scored his first stakes victory when he won the $23,450 Longport Handicap at Atlantic City by three quarters of a length.

Third Martini, carrying high weight of 120 pounds, was timed in 1:23 and paid $5.40, $3.80 and $2.80 as favorite.

Megaton Wins Fair 'Cap

By ERNIE MASON

POMONA — More Megaton successfully defended his "horse of the meeting" crown by charging to an unprecendented second straight victory in the $22,550 Pomona Handicap, providing a fitting climax to the best season in Los Angeles County Fairgrounds history.

Ray York, Pomona's riding champion this year, teamed with More Megaton, 1963's top horse, to score a hard-earned 1¼ length triumph over Victory Beauty in the mile and one-eighth classic which annually closes out the campaign at this half-mile oval.

More Megaton, the starting high weight at 118 pounds, sped the distance in 1:50-3/5 and rewarded his supporters with $5.40, $3 and $2.80. Victory Beauty, winner last season in the Pomona 'Cap, paid $3.80 and $3.60, while Little Juan paid $6.80.

More Megaton's victory also provided York with a most appropriate capper to his season as he clicked for his fourth quadruple of the meeting, pushing his record-breaking total to 33, 16 ahead of runner-up George Taniguchi.

Red Smith's Views of Sports—

Manager of the Mets

Baseball managers are always in demand, for the turnover is constant and the supply of men who have had on-the-job training is limited.

It is difficult to understand why this should be, because in every community where the game is played there are many individuals who know how the job should be done far better than the man who is doing it. Yet nobody ever hires them.

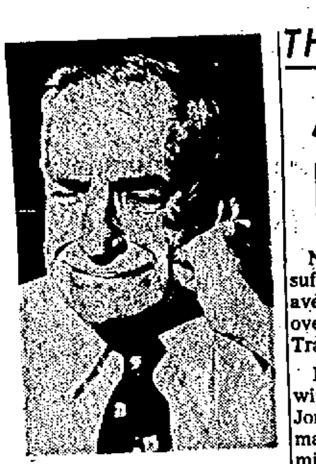

It is no good arguing that clubowners do not know who these potential maestros are, for some have by-lines in the newspapers and some dispense wisdom through microphones and others can be identified simply by walking through the bleachers and listening. It must be that the owners are too thick to recognize talent.

In this respect the proprietors of the New York Mets are no exception. In a town where scores of authorities better qualified for the job have been favoring Casey Stengel with advice for two solid seasons, the owners still couldn't come up with anybody for 1965 except Charles Dillon Stengel himself.

So the mountain went to Mohammed, and the Great Guru, arraying his bones in sharp new threads of Italian silk, graciously accepted reappointment and "a very splendid raise."

With the future thus arranged, Stengel then took off for the Midwest to stick a gnarled and meddling finger in the National League pennant race.

A trifle waspishly, he brushed off a question about the "buzzards" who have tried to earnestly to instruct him in baseball

CASEY STENGEL
A Successful Loser

fundamentals. No doubt he is aware that when he returns they will still be on hand to lend their aid.

It does not seem difficult to follow the thinking on the Mets' upper echelons. Don Grant, chairman of the board, said no "available" successor to Stengel had been considered, though "one or two" men who proved unavailable had been sounded out because of rumors that Casey might decide to leave.

When Casey wanted to know how he stood before leaving town, the decision was made swiftly.

In other words, as soon as he made it clear that he would entertain an offer, the offer was made and accepted. What other decision could there have been? With George Weiss as president and Casey on the bench this tenth-place team drew 1,732,000 customers at home.

The Giants never touched that figure in New York in all the years of John McGraw and Bill Terry and Mel Ott and Leo Durocher. The Dodgers topped it in Brooklyn only once, in the pennant year of 1947. The Yankees have beaten it seven times (three times with Stengel as manager), but only once in the last 13 years.

Unless they're determined to quit, you don't break up a combination that produces these results.

Face-Off Important in Hockey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Many a hockey game is lost at the drop of a puck, according to Norman (Bud) Poile, former National Hockey Leaguer and highly successful coach.

Many fans, and even a lot of coaches, fail to realize the importance of the face-off to a hockey team, says Poile, now general manager of the San Francisco Seals of the Western Hockey League.

"They seem to think it's just a way to get the game started," he says.

But Poile, 40, who played in the NHL for eight years and saw service with five of the six teams, doesn't look at it that way.

"We don't have the statistics they do in baseball," he says, "but one of the things I always keep is the number of face-offs we win or lose and how well each man does at that job.

"Championships have been won and lost on face-offs."

Poile says there are about 30 face-offs during a hockey game, with each centerman usually getting in or about 10.

* * * *

IN GENERAL, Poile says, the team on offense is trying to send the puck back to the blue line for a shot when it is faced off, while the defense is trying to get it into the corner so no shot can be made on the net.

"But once in a while you can set up a play from the face-off—like a quick opener in football," he says.

Poile cited Phil Maloney of Vancouver and Norm Johnson of the Blades as the best in the league at winning face-offs.

"And of course there are some players who will never get a face-off in their life," he says.

"The face-off is not the whole game, of course," Poile admits, "but nine times out of 10 the team that is getting the most face-offs is going firing line today.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Averages Suffer Minor Loss in Trendless Mart

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks suffered a minor loss in the averages last week, but the overall list was trendless. Trading was dull.

Prices opened the week with a small gain in the Dow-Jones Industrial average and managed to chalk up another minor advance in the following session. Both were wiped out when the indicator tumbled 3.37 Thursday. In the final session prices continued to move uncertainly but this time the picture was complicated by normal pre-weekend hesitation and profit-taking.

* * * *

TRADERS and investors seemed to have taken to the sidelines to wait out the auto workers strike at General Motors and were even less inclined to stay in the market after the dock workers struck on the eastern seaboard.

The dock workers walkout was short lived, but the lagging talks at General Motors may, according to some observers, drag out until late next week. The strike, now eight days old, has cost GM an estimated $56 million and now that the company's non-struck plants are beginning to close down the tab may run substantially higher.

Should the strike be settled soon, little reaction is expected in the market place. However, should it run longer, a downswing could be expected not only in the auto section but in steels and related industries as well.

* * * *

THE ECONOMIC picture continues favorable with a decline in the number of people drawing unemployment compensation being one of the brighter items in last week's newsbag. A 5% drop in factory orders was largely ignored since the Commerce Department, which reports the figures, attributed the decline mainly to a temporary fluctuation in defense orders rather than a drop in the private sector.

Regardless of the long-term outlook, near-term trading seems to be largely cautious and anticipatory. This was well shown by the fact that volume for the week dropped to 23,449,745 shares from 28,484,425 shares the previous week and compared with 21,496,437 shares in the same week last year.

Dow-Jones Industrial average slipped 2.06 on the week to 872.65. Rails managed to inch up 0.07 to 281.10 and utilities advanced 1.17 to a new peak of 153.37. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.15 at 84.36.

* * * *

GAINS and losses were fairly evened matched with 662 issues advancing while 679 declined. Of the 1,514 issues traded, 182 touched new 1964 highs while 38 hit new lows.

Texas Gulf Sulphur took trading honors with a gain of 1 at 61¾ on 509,700 shares. It was followed in activity by Sunshine Mining, off 2⅜ to 32⅜ on 386,500 shares, Sunray DX Oil rose 1 to 35⅛ on 356,200 shares, Chrysler dropped 1 to 62 on 296,900 shares.

General Refractories also was active. It finished with a gain of ½ at 18½ on 237,800 shares. The company denied it was planning a merger.

General Motors and American Motors dropped ⅞ each but Ford rose a like amount. Steels were generally lower. U.S. Steel dropped 1⅜, Lukens 1 and Bethlehem ⅞.

* * * *

DU PONT advanced 2½, and Diamond Alkali picked up 2¾. Eastman Kodak held unchanged, but Monsanto dropped 2.

IBM ran into selling pressure and lost 5¾. Texas Instruments gained 3 and Litton picked up 3¾. Beckman dropped 1¼ and Honeywell shed 1⅛.

Oils met strong demand. Occidental Petroleum jumped 3, Pennoil 4¾, Skelly 3½, Sinclair 3¼ and Getty, Continental, Texaco and Royal Dutch all advanced more than 2.

Boeing rose 2⅛. Aluminum Ltd. dropped 2¼, Alcoa 2⅛ and Reynolds Metals 2⅜. Cerro gained 2¼. Upjohn advanced 2¾. Sears Roebuck dropped 2½. General Cigar gave up 3⅞.

Polaroid advanced 4⅞, but Xerox tacked on only 1⅛, despite a gain of more than 5 in the final session.

Great Northern Railway climbed 3¼ and Louisville & Nashville picked up 2⅛. Pennsylvania Railroad dropped 2.

Hilton Hotels advanced 3. Avon Products soared 9½. Dymo Industries sold off 5¾.

Rich Sugar Crop Heavily Damaged

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The knife-like winds of hurricane Hilda cut into two vast sugar cane areas Saturday and reports were an estimated 90% of Louisiana's rich sugarlands faced heavy damage.

The crop, only days from harvest, was expected to total about $115 million.

Lloyd L. Dauden of the American Sugar Cane League, who made the damage estimate, said it takes winds of only 30 to 35 miles an hour to bend cane. That doesn't kill it, he said, but it makes it extremely difficult to harvest by machine.

Reports had reached him that the massive storm had toppled cane in two big crop areas—along Bayou Lafourche toward the coast from Lockport and in St. James Parish north of New Orleans.

If the winds twist and tangle the cane, Lauden said, it would certainly increase harvesting cost—if labor were available. But it isn't, he said.

3 New Films Open Wednesday

Three new films open in area theaters Wednesday—Walt Disney's "So Dear to My Heart," Universal's "Bed Time Story and Embassy Picture's, "A House Is Not a Home."

"So Dear to My Heart," is based on Sterling North's story of rural Indiana, recounting the tale of a boy, his black lamb and the dreams, aspirations, disappointments and joys of childhood. Jerry's dream is to take his lamb to the County Fair and win the Blue Ribbon Award.

The picture combines animation and live action. Players include Burl Ives, Bobby Driscoll, Beulah Bondi, Harry Carey and Luana Patten.

* * * *

MARLON BRANDO, David Niven and Shirley Jones star in "Bedtime Story."

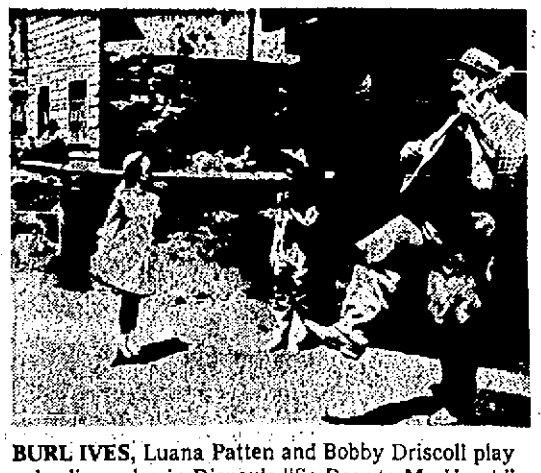

Brando and Niven portray con men who prey on romantically susceptible women, while Miss Jones is seen as an innocently involved winner of a soap queen contest.

* * * *

POLLY ADLER'S autobiographical "A House Is Not a Home" tells the—for adults—story of her life as a "madam."

Shelly Winters plays the lady in the world's oldest profession. Robert Taylor costars in the films which also features guest stars Broderick Crawford and Cesar Romero, and includes Ralph Teager, Kaye Ballard, Mickey Shaughnessy and Polly's Girls, one of whom is played by Leona Gage. Miss Gage won the Miss Universe title here one year and held it briefly before being disqualified because she was married at the time.

VACATION TIME will be more fun if you turn your no-longer-used household articles into cash by selling them with an Independent, Press-Telegram Want Ad. Dial HE 2-5959 right away to start things moving!

BURL IVES, Luana Patten and Bobby Driscoll play leading roles in Disney's "So Dear to My Heart."

MARLON BRANDO'S embrace of Shirley Jones, in "Bedtime Story," is momentarily interrupted by David Niven.

Cugat Goes Into Mexican Beaneries

NEW YORK — Xavier Cugat'll own 40% of a food chain serving Mexican dishes (and called, naturally, Cugat's) . . . Tony Bennett was visited at the Latin Casino by Bob Hope, who gave him his current name (after he'd worked awhile as "Joe Barry") . . . Ray Walston's studio was happy with him in "Kiss Me, Stupid," gave him a gift-wrapped Rolls Royce . . . Irving Shulman's book, "Harlow," is in its second paperback (Dell printing, after two weeks (that's the one Joe Levine'll film).

LOOKALIKES: LBJ and actor Jim (Mr. Magoo) Backus . . . B'way gag: "The Luck of Ginger Coffey" is an unusual foreign film—it's about a man who loves his wife . . . A group of Myron Cohen's fans arrived at Basin St. E. in a bus that served champagne en route from N.J. . . . John Wayne, top Republican booster in H'wood, has a speech defending FDR in "Harm's Way."

DOROTHY LAMOUR, playing a salesgirl in "Pajama Party," has to tell a customer, "Sorry, we don't stock sarongs any more" . . . Henry Fonda invested in an oil well, his first, with part of his "Fail Safe" loot . . . Dean Martin will add guitar playing to his cafe act . . . Jack Benny, visiting the Chrysler exhibit at the Fair, was asked to toss coins in the lagoon. He agreed, adding jokingly, "First give me a receipt for income tax purposes" . . . Jazz singer Chuck Berry is showing a fan letter—from Ringo Starr.

Several studios are after Jules Dassin's son Joe, who makes his film debut in "Topkapi"; he got the role when another actor was in an auto accident . . .

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Most of the actors in "Fiddler on the Roof" are bearded, and one of them complained, "Finally I'm in a hit—and nobody can tell who I am!"

Oh Dad, Poor Dad --Double Trouble

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad," you still hung up between Long Beach theater—the Magnolia this time—and your natural earthly home?

Oh, you had to wait around to see how the Battle of the Corpses — Off-Broadway's vs. Magnolia's—turned out.

Well, without saying anything which would make Eleanor Shibley and Pat Brown turn a critic into a corpse, I think you can now leave in peace, or pickle, daddy-baby. Your corpse is done, done-in, and jes' plain DON.

First of all, director Clay X. Foster showed that he's through with you for cemetery keeps by taking up the more congenial company of Dracula — his next starring profile role in Morgan Hall. (Keep out of there, dad. They got corpses in there, dad, with muscles you and your skinny kind never seen!)

* * * *

SECONDLY, Pat Brown who would throttle a corpse which tried to upstage her, has put you away real swell.

Better than you deserve—in my book.

Your creator, playwright Arthur Kopit might fool the unthinking into believing he is a sharp satirist with a superior window slanted on Tennessee Williams' eloquent words. Actually, Kopit, "king-of-the-sicks" (humor, that is) thinks the world's his oyster simply because he swallowed a goldfish. At best he parodies himself and offers us a Harvard Hasty Pudding humor which can be quite funny if kept in its place. Mom's nocturnal routing of lovers she catches on the beach is genuinely funny. (Mom kicks sand into their faces.)

Director Pat Brown will make many give a hang about seeing her production because she exercises brilliant control over the sick humor and has cast her production so well.

* * * *

IRENE TEDROW is as right-as-mom — for Madame Rosepettle—in age and grand dame acting style, using her rich stock experience expertly. She's better in the six furlongs "bits" or spurts than in the mile and an eight stretch. There her light acting years with that "Child Hazard", Dennis the Menace begin to show. In the overlong "bedtime story" monologue to Commodore Roseabove about dear, dead dad Miss Tedrow was rather uneven, even a bit too cute, but stormed home with Johnny Longden flourish at the finish. She may never make it at Hollypark, but would be a wonderful mother in "The Glass Menagerie." All pro, Irene!

For Nathan Adler's Commodore Roseabove, there is only one word.

Excellent.

He plays the foppish lover with such grace and well-placed humor that some tenderness even attends the scene with Miss Tedrow.

* * * *

NORM FRIED makes a Jonathan who embarrasses us little with the form of sexual retardation — stammering — the author thrusts on him. Young Fried was in top form in the tragicomic bedroom scene where he covers the Rosalie's throttled body with his coin and stamp collection after repulsing her seductive demands. The fact that the important role of Rosalie goes to a young charmer named Randi Cohen is one of the big reasons this production is not a dull dramatic corpse or its weird sex "overballooned."

Randi with the bangs could conceivably have forced Dad to return for real to get that last fling. Her promise seems the real article.

Rick Doyle showed his professional elegance as Dad's corpse and as one of the Bellboys. Is there a better young supporting player anywhere?

Better mention Bennie Steveson as the other bellboy and the cuckoo clock as ITSELF, Rosalinda the Fish as HERSELF and Two Venus-Flytraps in the Havana hotel as THEMSELVES.

It is a good show which undoubtedly benefitted from seeing the Off-Broadway production and Pat Brown's (as Herself) professional "savvy."

Cleric Assails 'Un-Christian' U.S. for Racism

DETROIT (AP)—Citing race prejudice as one element to be overcome, a churchman said Saturday the United States has yet to become a Christian nation.

The Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster of New York, president of the United Church of Christ, deplored "pagan ideas" in a talk at the 115th Assembly of the international convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) being attended by 7,000 persons.

Dr. Herbster denounced people who "put property rights before human rights" and who "think the color of a man's skin makes the difference in how much God loves him."

Mormons Hear Appeal to Hold Fast to Belief

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Leaders of the Mormon Church called on their members Saturday to reaffirm their faith and resist the pressures of doubt and disbelief.

They sounded the theme of faith and fidelity on the second day of the 134th Semi-annual General Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

A capacity crowd of more than 8,000 jammed the Mormon Tabernacle and heard N. Eldon Tanner, second counselor in the church's First Presidency, warn that "great doubt exists throughout the world . . . regarding the real existence of God and His son, Jesus Christ."

TYPICAL of services shared by United Way and Red Cross is concern for small patients at Children's Hospital and Orthopaedic Hospital in Los Angeles who are as dependent on life saving Red Cross blood for transfusions as they are on United Way funds.

Old Friends Get Together on Finances

For years there has been constant communication and cooperation between United Way agencies and Red Cross in services.

STARTING WEDNESDAY volunteers will open a door-to-door solicitation that will, for the first time, combine fund raising for United Way and Red Cross in one campaign to be called United Crusade.

The joint appeal will eliminate the expense of separate campaigns and long hours of work for the volunteers.

As a special salute to United Crusade's residential division, radio station KGER will present a half hour kick-off program at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Among the services United Way and Red Cross give together are:

Hundreds of pints of blood secured, processed and delivered by Red Cross have gone to Children's Hospital and Orthopaedic Hospital where United Way funds are used to care for patients from all of Los Angeles County who are unable to pay for specialized treatment.

Red Cross first aid, water safety and home care courses are taught in United Way supported agencies such as Girl and Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and Salvation Army youth groups.

STANDARD Red Cross life saving courses are included in the programs offered at YMCA, YWCA, and Scout pools and at United Way mountain camps.

Both Red Cross and United Way will continue to give the many services which they have so notably given in the past.

There's only one thing new, combined fund raising . . . United Crusade.

TWO-TIME MEDALLION WINNER

She's the Fireball Behind It All

By JEAN SANDERS

She's had no training in group leadership.
Yet, her flock's devotion is touching.
She never trained to be a writer.
Yet, her report of her group's activities have twice merited national attention.

Perhaps Ruth Walsh's secret is her heart that enfolds children. Or brown eyes that can listen gravely or sparkle with fun. Or contagious enthusiasm.

* * *

WHATEVER THE SECRET, the dedicated leader of Camp Fire Girls has again won a Silver Medallion, highest award that national council bestows on a leader.

Ruth and only 13 other leaders in the

Mrs. William Walsh

United States won the coveted medallion this year. She proudly wears them on a charm bracelet.

Genuinely modest, she credits her flock of eager girls, splendid cooperation of Birney School and within the Camp Fire organization, and, in fact, the whole city of Long Beach.

"I get the recognition," she explains, "but I couldn't do it alone."

SHE EMPHASIZES other qualifications leading to her award. In order:

A patient and understanding husband.

An appreciation of children.

Good health.

Limiting her consuming interest to the Camp Fire program.

Genial Bill Walsh never complains when handicraft inspirations take precedence over dusting, or when the family garage bulges at its seams with cases of canned peanuts for the Camp Fire Girls annual sale.

In fact, it is he who quietly works behind the scenes, loading cases of peanuts into cars and wagons at sale time, helping with barbecues, and when the two younger Walsh girls were toddlers he took them sight seeing on his day off so that Ruth could have undisturbed meetings in their home at 3224 Golden Ave.

RUTH'S INTEREST in the movement began when their eldest daughter, Mara, became a Blue Bird in first grade. With few changes of faces, Ruth has watched her group from those early years become junior high school misses.

She rose above disadvantages that would frighten off less enthusiastic mothers. First, the two active pre-schoolers. The Walsh home was small for a meeting of up to 20 girls. They had no car (still don't—remember that stuffed garage!) She was older than most of the other leaders.

But wishing to become part of what her children were doing prompted her to take on the program, and she's never stopped because she might miss out on some of the fun and the joy of watching the girls develop wholesome interests and self reliance.

She reflects, "Sometimes I feel guilty that I am the one, instead of their mothers, who sees their first wonder at discovering some skill."

* * *

COMMON SENSE psychology with a generous pinch of imagination gets amazing results from her group.

She does not ask, "Do you want to stuff envelopes for the United Crusade?" Instead: "The United Crusade needs us. Would you like to help?"

Doing the usual in an unusual way makes a hit with the girls. Some, who couldn't imagine getting anywhere unless driven in the family car, objected to hiking to Rancho Los Cerritos until Ruth came up with the idea of walking part way to the rancho down the then-incompleted freeway.

"You can brag that once you hiked down the middle of the freeway" she suggested. It worked fine.

WALKING some distance from Birney School to a Camp Fire meeting in a home became fun when Ruth called it a litter bug hike, with the girls scooping up papers and leaves along the streets as their part in the Keep America Beautiful campaign.

"Give Service," the Camp Fire slogan, is broken down further by each group in its symbolgram or slogan. "Busy Hands and Thoughtful Hearts" is the way Ruth's group expresses itself.

Here are some of the ways they live up to it: buying and presenting American flags to new groups; baby sitting during PTA meetings, leading flag salute at PTA meets, working a school carnival candy booth, making Christmas gifts for geriatrics ward at Long Beach General Hospital, helping teachers of lower grades after school hours prepare bulletin boards and decorating classrooms, contributing money they earn to a fund to start other Camp Fire groups throughout the country, not to mention myriad helpful tasks for Blue Birds and activities in the Camp Fire program.

NOT SIMPLY do-gooders, the girls like to have fun themselves. It took three years of saving papers for drives and part of their peanut sale proceeds to spend a day at Disneyland, but when they achieved their goal, they had enough money to pay the chaperone's way too.

Less expensive projects mainly occupy the girls. This was the third summer that Ruth spent four days a week at Camp Suanga in North Long Beach as assistant to the camp director and craft coordinator.

A most successful project for pennies at the day camp was making beach bags by cutting plastic bleach bottles in half and decorating them with Indian signs. The top became a sand scoop or funnel for beach fun.

A coordinating craft was making dimensional plaques of shells and other sea life inserted in clay on a foil plate.

From corn husks, the girls make small dolls, painting the expression and dressing them from scraps of material.

THE WALSH garage contains a fascinating array of materials for craft projects contributed by the girls, their families and interested friends.

An avid reader, Ruth gleans handcraft ideas from books and magazines and often as not improvises ideas of her own for simple projects.

As her girls grow and learn, so does the leader, Ruth feels. She will extend the learning process for some time, because following in their sister's Camp Fire footsteps are Nora, 9, a Camp Fire Girl, and Erin, 7, a Blue Bird.

So Ruth's enthusiasm will hardly diminish. This year, in addition to twice-monthly Camp Fire meetings in her home, she will welcome the little Blue Birds each Monday afternoon.

There's space on that bracelet. A third Silver Medallion coming up, maybe?

DEEPENING INTERESTS of her girls makes all time devoted to Camp Fire program worth while for Ruth Walsh. In ceremonial dress, Mary Boden, 12, displays strip of completed bead work, while Mara Walsh, 12, in Camp Fire service uniform, concentrates on small loom holding her beading design.

Assistance League Fashion Show

Best of Paris, Italy Come to Long Beach

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Have you seen any $2,500 Paris originals lately? Or one of those elegant pants costumes turned out by Italian couturier Antonelli?

You'll have an opportunity Wednesday when the Assistance League stages its first-of-a-kind style show and luncheon at the Edgewater Marina Inn.

And there'll be line-for-line copies of the best from Paris and Italian fall collections reproduced with unbelievable authenticity by May Co. fashion scouts.

Commentator for the unique showing will be Mrs. Emma Karford, forecast buyer for the store chain, who —from her perch on narrow white chairs in crowded showrooms of Europe'c most elegant salons—personally selected the originals for May Co. reproduction.

So graphic are her descriptions of clothes, couturiers and the crystal-chandeliered salons that she takes her audience with her through the hallowed walls of Europe's ivory towers of haute couture.

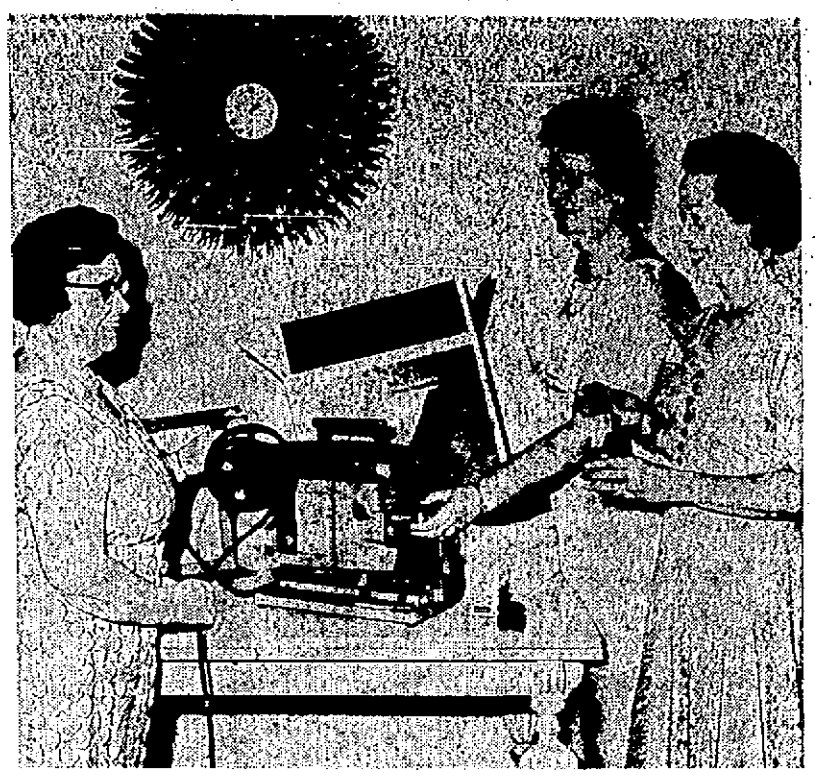

THE PARIS and Italian copies—along with some of the originals from which they were reproduced—will be paraded by 12 of Southern California's most glamorous professional mannequins.

The copies, just put on store racks last week, are available to Southern Californians even before the world's best-dressed can pick up originals in the European salons where they originated.

THE ASSISTANCE LEAGUE'S benefit showing is open to the public. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. William Woodard or are available in the Forecast Room at the May Co.'s Lakewood store.

To be held in the Empire Room at the Edgewater, the social hour will be at 11:30 a.m., the luncheon at 12:30.

Proceeds from the fashion show-luncheon will go for Assistance League philanthrophies.

THREE FOR THE SHOW
Admiring the new motion picture film projector recently purchased by Ebell Club of Long Beach are (from left) Mmes. Russell M. Brougher, president; Guy Hodson, program chairman; and Joseph M. Striegel, chairman of finance.

Film Will Open Year for Ebell

A travel film is scheduled for each month of their club year by Ebell Club of Long Beach as a result of the purchase of a new motion picture film projector, screen and amplifier.

Members will view the new purchases at the first general meeting of the year Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Ebell Club Clubhouse.

Mrs. Russell M. Brougher, president, will present the board of directors, and the First Operetta Group will be introduced by Mrs. Guy Hobson, program chairman. The program will feature "An Hour with Youmans and Friml," with costumed singers.

* * * *

AN AUTUMN theme has been chosen for the tea following. Sally Weinberger, Irma Aiken and Helen Ward will entertain with musical selections. Mrs. Harold E. Perlmutter will be assisted by her hospitality committee in the arrangements.

Matrons of Ebell will meet Wednesday at noon for luncheon followed by cards.

Plastic Art Reaps Profits

By MARGARET McKEAN

A San Pedro brother and sister inadvertently opened a "think factory." Their raw materials, ideas, imagination, creativity, were always with them. Boon to what they were born with was liquid plastic.

Delores Dahlquist Garren and Clifford Dahlquist fashion exquisite home accessories using the new media and their own creativity.

Liquid plastic is not brand-new — the colorless Karo-syrup thick discovery has been around for awhile. It needed a "new wrinkle" for its transformation into the lamps, table-tops, trivets, vases, and objects d'true art which the duo devises locally.

IT BEGAN when Delores asked her brother to do a demonstration of his industrial arts know-how for Crestwood Schools art festival. He chose to work with liquid plastic.. His sister helped and from this experience came well-loved echoes of "the days when we were children, with freedom to explore and the right to mess up the house with crafts, collections and hobbies."

They found time to work together again turning out things of loveliness for their homes, their friends. Soon they found themselves teaching classes, assembling ingredients, dashing to keep up with the popularity of their "baby." From his name and hers they incorporated as Dalgren Plastics and the two Long Beach State College graduates are on their way to national production of what was once a kitchen-table hobby.

* * * *

THERE ARE really more than two people involved in the story — their mother, noted educator Lillian Dahlquist Meyers, encourages creativity; Delores' husband, Jim, who teaches at Marshall Junior High, Long Beach, encourages the family enterprise; Clifford's wife, Joyce, encourages the pair by relieving them of the clerical work.

"We were bewildered over the hobby's popularity until we realized that it suits every age group, from Cub Scout to grandpop; it takes such a little investment; it gives people pride in an accomplishment; and if you tire of it you don't have hundreds of dollars of equipment to list in the classifieds," Mrs. Garren mused.

She listed the ingredients for a most lovely lampshade —an inexpensive tube, the plastic, crushed glass made from her recipe, pigment, a catalyst and plastic paste.

With gift giving time approaching, Delores and Clifford plan workshops in October and November to teach in three lessons the basics of their trade.

* * * *

STILL THE instructive loves of hteir lives are their positions with school systems — she is a substitute teacher for Los Angeles City Schools; he teaches full time at North High School, Torrance, and adult craft classes at night.

Their plea, for people who couldn't care less about plastics, is "give children some guidance in exploring, encourage a toddler's interest in mudpies, a youngster's awakening to art and music. Must all the stress be on academics? Praise the child who proudly says "Look what I made with my hands!" ".

NIMBLE FINGERS, vivid imagination and liquid plastic add up to objects of art for Dolores Garren, whose hobby has become a business.

Lights! Music! Follies Under Way!

Junior League Stars in Sparkling Show

Members of the Junior League and their husbands turned out Tuesday night for an evening of fun and hilarious entertainment at the Pacific Coast Club. The occasion was a "Talent Party," precursor of the League's forthcoming gala Follies production.

A cocktail buffet supper was followed by a witty original skit which starred a number of the organization's more talented members and husbands. Purpose of the party was to introduce the Follies' director, Peter Thomas of Jerome H. Cargill Productions in New York, as well as to generate enthusiasm among members for participation in the Follies.

EVERYONE WAS URGED to sign up for roles and parts were assigned for anything from spear carriers to solo dance numbers or the chorus line.

Party-goers were greeted by "Mabel and Myrtle," official Follies symbols in the persons of Mmes. Franklin Waters and Thomas Jordan. They also served as mistresses of ceremonies for the entertaining skit written by Sandra Beebe, league member.

Featured were a rousing men's chorus composed of Robert Leebrick, Everett Harlan Miller Jr., Mottell D. Peek, Donald Wells, William Snowden and Bernard A. Bailey; a vocal duet by Mmes. Everett H. Miller Jr. (league president) and William W. Jenney Jr.

There were dance routines by William A. Graham and Mrs. Robert E. Ivey and also by Mmes. John F. Tylicki, William C. Snowden and Walter Landis Jr.; a vocal solo by Mrs. James E. Carroll; and a women's chorus comprised of Mmes. Marsie Ellestad, William D. Carroll Jr., Mottell D. Peek, Francis Hertzog Jr. and Stephen T. Conley.

Musical accompaniment was provided by Mrs. Harry D. Baker III, piano; Richard Collins, trumpet; and William H. Winston Jr., on his "leasebreaker."

THREE WEEKS OF day and evening rehearsals began the next day for the nearly 150 League active and sustaining members and their husbands who will appear in the Follies on Oct. 23 and 24 at Lakewood High School Auditorium.

Tickets may be purchased from league members. Proceeds will go toward support of the Long Beach Junior League's numerous community projects and philanthropies.

"PUT SHOW ON ROAD, LUV!" carols one of the Junior League Follies' fairest, "Mabel" (Mrs. Franklin Waters) on right, to "Myrtle" (Mrs. Thomas Jordan) in roles as official greeters as they enthusiastically "escort" leaguers and their husbands to buffet line at recent Talent Party at Pacific Coast Club for forthcoming event Oct. 23 and 24 at Lakewood High Aud.

Emblem Welcomes Initiates

New members will be initiated when Long Beach Emblem Club 106 meets Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St. The meeting time has been moved to the second Wednesday because of conflicting lodge activities.

Charter members and past presidents will be honored also, with charter officers filling stations.

Supreme Emblem Convention is slated for Oct. 19 to 24 in Chicago, and will be attended by Mrs. Lester Barnett, president, and Mrs. Bert Norman, past president and supreme chairman of the drill teams. Mrs. Sam Beck, past president, was elected recently to the office of state chaplain at a quarterly meeting in Las Vegas.

* * * *

SECOND EVENT on the local club calendar is a pot-luck social on Friday at Post 496 American Legion Hall, 5938 Parkcrest Ave., Lakewood. Chairman for the dinner are Mmes. Robert Hall, W. Q. Ball, Al Webster and Mary Wallin. Dancing and games are planned.

Alumna on Committee of Function

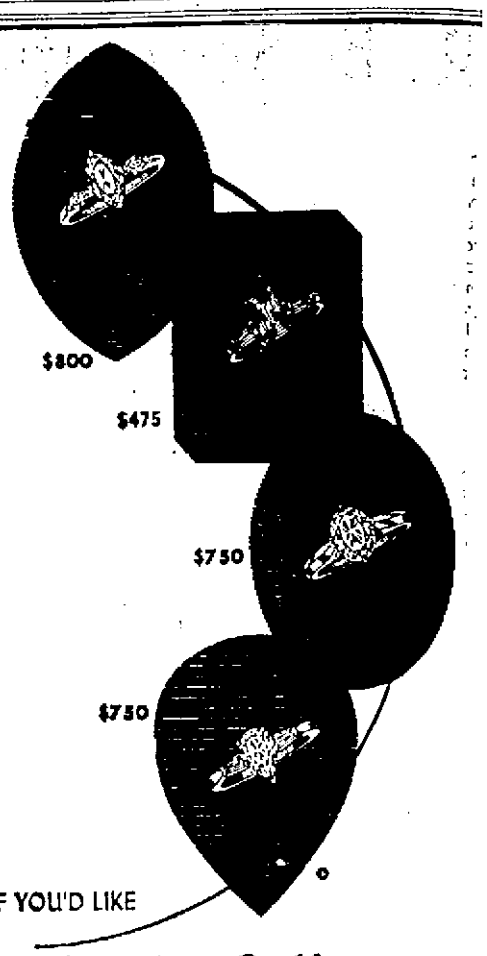

Involved in plans for the 10th annual Immaculate Heart College Alumnae Association fashion show and luncheon next Saturday is Mrs. Richard Hoefer of Los Alamitos, patron committee chairman.

The event will take place in the Embassy Room of the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, when a presentation of a fall collection of French and Italian couturier designs will be shown.

* * * *

PROCEEDS will benefit the college's scholarship-endowment fund.

Tickets for residents of this area may be obtained from Mrs. Hoefer, 3491 Yellowtail Drive, Los Alamitos.

Math Play Sure to Win

An expert does not always follow strict mathematics in his play of dummy. Sometimes he will have a reason to go against probabilities, but never when the mathematical play is a sure winner.

A diamond opening and a club return would have beaten South's six-spade contract, but West made his normal opening lead of the king of hearts.

South wasted no time in study because the hand looked like a cinch. He took his ace of hearts and immediately laid down the ace of trumps. East showed out and South saw there was a slight problem.

He ruffed a heart, led a spade back to his jack, ruffed his last heart with dummy's last trump and led a club to his queen. West ruffed and there went the slam.

* * * *

SOUTH had been mightly unlucky. It took a 3-0 trump break and a 7-0 club break to defeat him, but the point is there was no need for him to take any chance whatsoever with his contract.

The trump lead at trick two was a luxury he could not afford. All he had to do to make the hand against any combination of cards was to have ruffed a heart with the king of spades at trick two. A spade lead would put him back in his hand and he would ruff his last heart with dummy's ten.

There would still be a trump in dummy. Now he would be able to draw trumps and eventually concede one diamond trick.

Johnson Girls Plug for Dad

EDITOR'S NOTE—Lynda and Luci are out nearly every week-end, eating Texas barbecue from coast to coast, raising campaign money and rooting for LBJ. In the history of campaign politicking there's never been anything quite like this sister team. The crowds love it and the act is booked solid through election day.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — It reads like a road-show itinerary — Milwaukee, Louisville, Minneapolis, Beverly Hills, Indianapolis.

The Johnson girls are on the circuit, the campaign circuit that is, eating their way across country through mountains of Texas spareribs, corn on the cob and hot fried pies.

Lynda and Luci are out on the hustings nearly every weekend, campaigning like mad (and raising big money) to keep dad in his Washington home, at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

They'll be at it right up to election day, and there's never been anything like it. The girls, Lynda, 20, and Luci, 17, are turning out to be their father's best campaigners.

Barnstorming by the President's children is virtually unprecedented. Margaret Truman joined her father in 1948 on a whistle-stop tour, but the Johnson girls go out on their own, hitting the stops singly under the banner of the Young Citizens for Johnson as the feature attraction of week-end barbecues. Their booking is solid and they're a hit.

* * * *

ON A TYPICAL summer weekend, Lynda was charming the guests at a little ole Texas barbecue for 1,900 people on a Long Island estate, Luci was having a ball at the Wisconsin State Fair and their mother was shooting the rapids in the breath-taking Snake River country of the Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming.

Miss Charlotte Ford, 22, daughter of Henry Ford II, was hostess as Lynda opened her barbecue swing (Luci had already been on three of them), and actor Paul Newman was host. All afternoon the guests (at $15 each or $25 a couple) streamed onto the grounds of Fordune, the oceanfront estate near Southampton, L. I. Among the crowd were Mr. and Mrs. John Steinbeck and Huntington Hartford. Long before they arrived, portly Walter Jetton of Fort Worth, Tex., the President's favorite caterer, had set up with his motorized "chuck wagon" of three refrigerator trucks and a crew of 15. They cooked up 400 pounds of pork ribs, 700 pounds of barbecued briskets and 200 large frying chickens, not to mention corn, baked beans, potato salad, baking-soda biscuits and those "hot fried pies" (apple turnovers from the reefer trucks, dropped into bubbling fat and cooked). Everyone had a marvelous time, and the gross was $22,000. When it was over, Jetton packed up his Texas gear and headed for the next roundup. The show was rolling full swing.

* * * *

THE JOHNSON girls — Luci, gay and ready to dance the watusi, Lynda somewhat more serious but still quick to quip—are getting a national following on their rally circuit.

There's even bold talk of sending them into Goldwater territory for a gala windup of the barbecue trail in Phoenix, Ariz., hometown of their father's presidential opponent.

In between barbecues, the girls may hop aboard Mrs. Johnson's Oct. 6 to 9 whistle stop train to tour Southern states.

The President's daughters "typify the enthusiasm, energy and interest in critical national and international problems that exist in the hearts and minds of young America today," says 36-year-old Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the YCJ, launched in June to work for Johnson's re-election.

Some 20,000 young Democrats and Young Citizens for Johnson, including Lynda and Luci, whooped it up at the Democratic Convention in Atlantic City.

* * * *

COMBINING Lynda and Luci and the Texas trademark barbecue seemed a natural gimmick to the organizers of YCJ. And the White House okayed this brand of politicking.

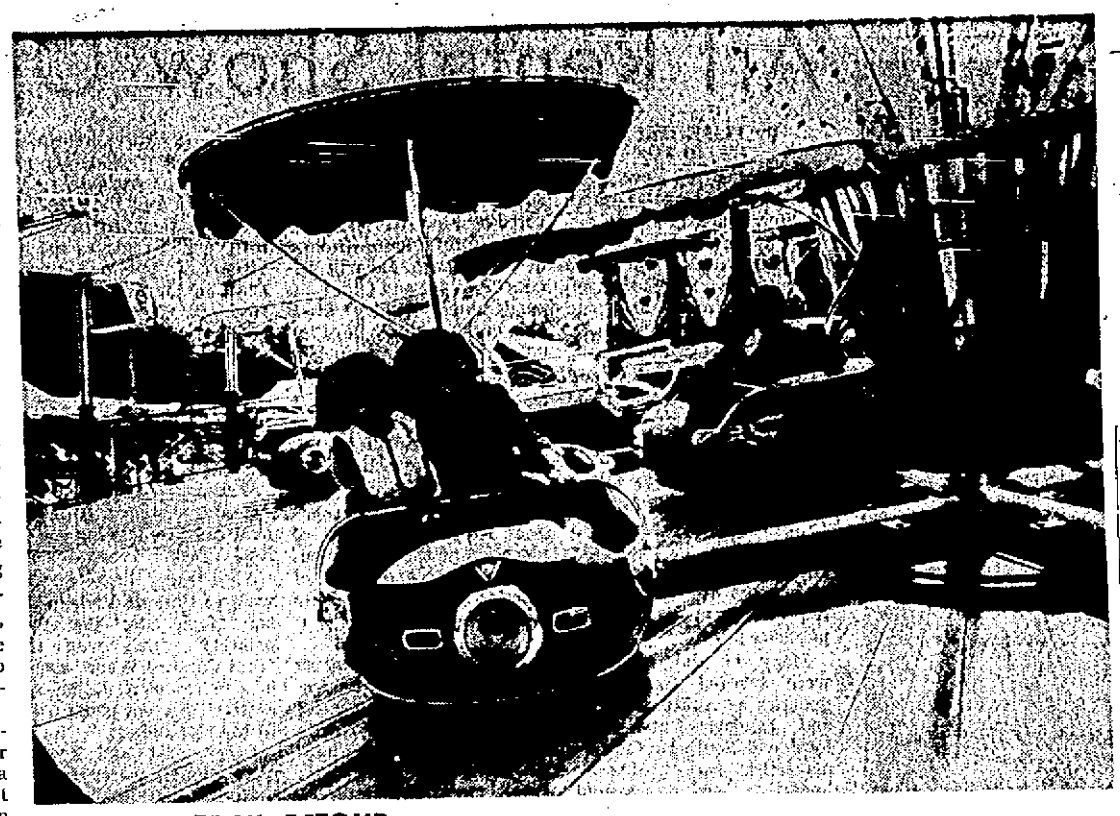

Raised on their daddy's LBJ ranch, amid the live oak trees and the white faced Hereford cattle, Luci and Lynda love barbecues and have gallantly eaten their way through ribs, chicken, chili, hot dogs and corn on the cob in their father's interest from California to New York.

They usually manage to find some time to sprint away from campaign chores to try out breath-taking rides at nearby state fairs or visit historic sites along the route.

Socially and politically prominent figures have lent their elegant homes for the outdoor events — including the Ford Estate, Mayor Robert Wagner's Gracie Mansion in New York, and a sportswear maker's estate amid the Hollywood set in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Among the YCJ promoters is James FitzPatrick, 31-year-old native of Bluffton, Ind., who took a four-month leave from his Washington law firm to become the young citizens' executive secretary.

FitzPatrick, who often travels with one of the Johnson girls, says the Young Citizens for Johnson seeks to recruit members from 18 to 40, to overcome what he calls a "surprising apathy" among young voters. In the 21 to 29 age group, he says, only 38% go to the polls.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL DETOUR

Lynda, making her rounds, laments that she's only 20 and can't vote for daddy.

Down in Kentucky, where people can vote when they're only 18, she declared, "I envy you. I hope you vote the way I would if I could."

And, she urges, "get your hands and your heart to work" for LBJ.

The local campaigners find they can keep on using their signs for any of the Johnsons who come to town. "Welcome LBJ" said one along the route, with the added note, "Lynda, that is."

Everything from singing "Happy Birthday" to "Hello, Lyndon" seems to fit the occasion and folk singers have contributed their talents, too.

* * * *

AT ONE barbecue, Paul Newman commented "it's kind of silly for me, with my 40th birthday next January, to be a young Democrat."

And Lynda quipped, "it's not the age, it's the mileage . . . as long as you're all young in heart."

El Dorado Club Schedules Luau

Sense of Mystery in Barooshian's Graphics

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

A significant and interesting showing of graphics by Martin Barooshian continues at Atelier 7, 3316 E. Seventh St., through Oct. 17. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. the following morning, except Sunday, when the gallery opens at 1 p.m.

Barooshian, who feels that "the surrealist school has had its greatest effect on my pictorial imagery," works in a vein quite different from the directions taken by any printmaker in this area. An Armenian-American, his work has the flavor of Byzantine and Early Christian mosaics. He explores Biblical themes with Armenian symbolism.

* * * *

THE ARTIST was accorded high honors from the Boston School of Fine Arts where he received his Master of Fine Arts degree. He has been the recipient of traveling fellowships and studied with Stanley William Hayter, Atelier 17, in Paris. His travels have taken him through the Near East as well as Europe.

Barooshian works in all graphic media except silk screen and with great skill. He is specific rather than suggestive; his color is strong—deep reds, intense yellow, sooty black. His forms are sinuous and calligraphic. He realizes on paper a world of demons and angels, medieval kings of Armenia, Greek myths, passages from Faust, visions of God's throne, and of the Last Trumpet. The works have a primitive quality achieved by consummate sophistication.

* * * *

ON THE OTHER hand, there are subjects like "Sunflower With Dogs" in which the flower is conventionalized, the dogs are jackal-like. "Frightened Bird" works in stippled orange and reds, a complex, contained composition.

This is a major show which requires careful appraisal. Barooshian appeals to the sense of mystery in the subconscious, to the child-like fear of the dimly-known. These works were done in the early '50s, but their style is virtually timeless.

'Used to Sing, Not Scream'

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

Major and Minor Notes

On Feb. 9, 1963, I wrote a review which begins like this: "It was like Old Home Week at the Philharmonic Auditorium Friday night when a vast audience greeted the celebrated Italian tenor, Tito Schipa, in the 13th and final concert of a farewell tour of the United States. Schipa's voice was full of lustre and brillance, but he never bellowed. Now in his 73rd year, he still sings with refined artistry and discretion. Ever the artist, he kept well within his vocal powers and did not give unwisely."

In the September issue of Musical America there is an article on Schipa by John Ardoin, parts of which might be of interest to my readers.

"We used to sing, not scream," Tito Schipa said.

* * * *

THE VETERAN tenor, who has recently moved to New York from Beverly Hills, continued his comments on today's singers:

"Del Monaco has a good voice but is not careful how he uses it. But who is today? Look at Callas. She is not very wise. She wants to sing all the roles and no one can do this. I always sang only what I could sing without forcing my voice. You take Di Stefano—this was a wonderful voice! But now his top is very bad because he was a lyric tenor and sang Aida! Schipa would have been finished 20 years ago if he had done this.

* * * *

"THEN, TOO, singers should stay put; not travel all over the place where changes in climate and weather can hurt their voices. I studied for six years in the studio before my teacher would let me open my mouth in public. Today everybody is in a rush. They take one or two lessons and want to sing at the Met, and in five or six years they have nothing to sing with! Singers today cannot command the facility and breath needed for bel canto singing because they do not take the time to learn it.

"I have seen many, many changes in opera. Prior to Puccini, emphasis was purely on singing and we made beautiful sounds and tried always to be conscious of line and phrases. Then the verismo (realistic) school changed all this. People wanted drama instead of just beautiful singing, so not only was opera changed, but the entire style of singing.

* * * *

"I THINK another thing that changed acting on the operatic stage so much was the movies. After people saw beautiful women on the screen, they would no longer accept a Tetrazzini on the stage.

"I want to find young singers to whom I can give a complete technical background from the beginning on. After my studio is established, I want my wife and son to join me here to make America our home."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

There Are Many Choices

DEAR ABBY: I was born six months and two days after my parents were married. When I first figured this out I was 16. I mentioned it to my mother and she became flustered and close to tears, so I never mentioned it again. Mother is from a good family and she and my father have been completely faithful to each other. They are tops as parents to me and my three brothers. I want to tell her that I don't care if she did have to get married, I love her just the same. Abby, you could help a lot of people who had to get married if you would tell them how to handle it when their children bring it up. Should they take refuge in silence? Should they lie about the date of their marriage? Or shoud they insist that the first baby was premature? What's the best answer?—UNENLIGHTENED.

ABBY

DEAR UNENLIGHTENED: The truth, while sometimes embarrassing, is always the best answer. But no couple HAS to get married. The man can deny paternity. He can also run off and leave the girl to face the problem alone. The girl can foolishly submit to an illegal operation and do away with the baby. Or she can have the child and either give it up for adoption or keep it and defy society. The couple who marries when a baby is on the way—and makes a success of that marriage (and there are many) deserves the respect of all.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: For goodness sakes, don't print my name or say where this is from—just give me an answer before I go out of my mind. Is if possible for a woman who is 56 years of age to have a baby? I would ask my doctor but I am afraid he would laugh at me.—FOOLISH.

DEAR FOOLISH: Yes, it is possible. But see your doctor. I promise you he will not even crack a smile.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Can I sue a woman who is trying desperately to break up my home? A year ago she called me and told me in detail about the affair she had with my husband. I talked to him about it and he said it was all over and done with. Then she accused him of fathering her child. She took him to court and won, so now he has to give her support money for the baby. She told someone that the baby wasn't even his, she just wanted him to get stuck for support money so his wife (me) and his family would have less. She swore that she was going to make me suffer in every way possible for not giving him a divorce so he could marry her. My husband tells me that he is through with her and I believe him. Have I grounds to sue?—HURT BADLY.

DEAR HURT: If this woman actually "stuck" your husband for child support money for a child he did not father, you should see a lawyer. She sounds like the lowest kind of human being. Be careful. He who gets into a wrestling match with a skunk rarely comes out smelling like a rose.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Cooking Ducky But K.P. No Fun

(NOTE: While Mildred Flanary is attending the Food Editors' Conference in New York, there will be two guest columnists writing the Chef of the Week.)

By Bernard J. Ridder Jr.
I. P-T Business Manager

Good food is a delight!

Such an obvious fact leads most men to the supposition — it's fun to cook, or, more correctly, — fun for men to cook. Support is lent by the fact, and the women can't deny it, that the best cooks in the world are men, the highly trained French and Swiss culinary experts.

The clinchers are the vast quantity of cook books out today, each with a host of full color photographs, depicting gourmet spreads, resplendent as the crown jewels; and the do-it-yourself craze of the last decade. "Why can't I do spreads like that myself?" is the resulting brain wave.

All this is myth! Now for the truth . . . at least as I see it.

Sure it's fun to cook and the results are sometimes fairly good. But, what have we forgotten that puts the test to it's fun to cook"? In the first place there is K. P. to be done, always more than anticipated. Women just seem to have the knack of cleaning up as they go along, or so it seems. There may be a misstatement there somewhere.

* * * *

SECONDLY, like anything else, to cook well takes practice. Most men expect to simply step into the kitchen and assume the talents of an Escoffier. It doesn't work. Here's the myth: a touch of this, a pinch of that, a stir here, and a smell there, and it's ready for a king. Here's the truth: measure carefully here, get out another pot to be cleaned there. What's the use, it won't be right anyway.

It's not that I don't enjoy cooking or that I really don't do such a bad job, it's that I cannot see overdoing the whole thing. Quit while you're ahead. Say, hit the hot stove once a month, possibly twice in a moment of madness. The last statement should have sufficiently antagonized every woman who has been foolish enough to read this far. The male reader is probably thinking I just can't boil a hot dog, and am a discredit to my birthday gift chef's set (including the big white hat).

But there is a way out, I hope, to please each and everyone.

The women should be in the kitchen doing the cooking (and incidently the cleaning); the men love them much more because of it. And every so often the man should play hard working chef with a couple of steaks and corn on the cob out in the back yard on the charcoal grill. Well, at least the better half will be pleased.

EDITOR'S NOTE: We're not sure who "did up" the pots 'n pans he used in executing this recipe. But, anyway, here it is:

CANARD AU GRAND MARNIER

1 4- to 5-pound duck
1½ teaspoons Bon Appetit
1 teaspoon Orange Peel
⅛ teaspoon rubbed sage
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon onion powder
¼ teaspoon black pepper
3 tablespoons Grand Marnier

Thoroughly clean and dry duck. Remove giblets, neck and wing tips to first joint; reserve for sauce. Combine all seasonings, except Grand Marnier, and rub inside cavity and outside of duck. Tie legs together and fasten wings to body of bird. Place on rack in pan, breast side up, and roast in 450 degrees F. oven 30 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees F. and turn duck on its side. Roast 30 minutes; turn duck on other side and roast 30 minutes. Turn duck breast side up. During the last 30 minutes of cooking time, baste with Grand Marnier. Total cooking time is 2 hours or about 30 minutes per pound. Garnish with spiced figs or orange sections. Serves 4.

SAUCE:

Wing tips, neck and giblets
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped instant onions
1 tablespoon vegetable flakes
3 teaspoons chicken seasoned stock base
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1 bay leaf
3 cups water
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon orange peel
½ teaspoon Bon Appetit
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup port wine
3 tablespoons Grand Marnier

While duck is roasting, brown wing tips; neck and giblets in 2 tablespoons of the butter. Add onions and vegetable flakes; cook until lightly browned. Add seasoned stock base, parsley flakes, bay leaf and water; simmer 1 hour. Strain and reduce to 2 cups of stock by boiling over high heat. Combine sugar and vinegar and cook until sugar carmelizes to dark brown. Add stock, orange peel and Bon Appetit. Combine cornstarch and ¼ cup of the wine; stir into sauce and cook, stirring, until slightly thickened. Set aside. Pour off fat from roasting pan, leaving the browned particles and rich juices from duck. Add the ½ cup wine to roasting pan and cook until about 3 tablespoons liquid remains, scraping bottom of pan to remove browned particles. Add to sauce. Stir in Grand Marnier and the remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Serve hot over slices of duck.

Teen Years--a Time of Trial and Trauma

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My boy friend absolutely refuses to cut his hair! It is about two or three inches below the ear. He fixes it like a girl would and even uses hair spray. His theory is that if his favorite singers wear their hair long, he can, too! He also thinks men with short hair get bald quicker.

I don't expect a crew-cut but I suggested he get an inch or two cut off. He hit the roof! Next thing you know, he came to the house with a white streak. That was too much!

What can I do? I wouldn't break up over a thing like this because I love him, but when we kiss, I get a mouthful of hair spray—his, that is! —SHADES OF THE BEATLES

DEAR SHADES:

I guess some gals will put up with almost anything just to stake out claim on some guy. Personally, I'd call your claim not worth the staking-out—and I'd waste no more time with such a dimwit.

How's that for being frank? —M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am a teen-age girl and my parents treat me like a baby.

When I'm in my room with the door closed, they burst right in without knocking. When I get a phone call, they want to know who it was and what they said. After every date, they want to know everything that happened.

How can I stop them from treating me this way?
—DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED:

Your parents are just interested in what you do. They may be overdoing it a bit but bear with them; they love you—what some teenagers wouldn't give to have such parents! If they didn't show some concern about your activities, you would soon feel they didn't care what you did or where you went.

Unless you have something to hide, I should think it would be nice to have such concern shown so openly. It makes for a nice relationship if you let it.

I do think they should knock before entering your room. Everyone is entitled to and should have a little privacy. You might say, "Mom, how come you don't knock before coming into my room? I don't go into your room without knocking" (providing you don't). I'm sure some little hint or suggestion would get your point across without hurting anyone's feelings. —M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My sisters and I are always quarreling. We were "grounded" for a week for fighting at the supper table.

My older sister is 16 and my twin is 12—we don't get along at all!

Please tell me how we can stop this constant arguing?
—R.K.D.

DEAR R.K.D.:

I'm not sure how to stop three people from quarreling but I do know how to stop two—one of you keep quiet! It takes at least two to quarrel and if one of you keeps mum—no quarreling!

If you girls insist on being at each other's throats, why not confine your battles to places where Mamma and Papa can't hear you? I should think being "grounded" for a week would make all of you think twice before making a scene.

Maybe you're slow learners??? —M.M.

THE SWING TO FALL

FALL FASHION ISSUE
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 4TH, 1964
MARY ELLIS CARLTON
FASHION EDITOR

THE LOOKS WE LIKE

A Motion Picture Fall Fashion:

White Swishes at Night

A flurry of fringe gives frenetic motion to fall. Here daringly demure, the little crepe dress departs from discotheque darkness to make dazzling entry in white. Designed to swing, swish and swirl chicly to best of the Frug, the Swim, the Pony. At Buffums', Broadway at Pine Avenue.

By Mary Ellis Carlton
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Shades of Jimmy Walker, Jean Harlow, the Lemon Drop Kid, speakeasy girls and race track touts of the 20s and 30s—these are the looks coming into sharp focus for American clothes horses this fall.

Clothes have a swingy yesteryear way to them—like costumes right out of a Lombard movie. But they have all the modern touches to make them as this-minute as cinemascope.

Yep, it almost seems those "gamorous" long-legged gals of speakeasy days, puffing on lengthy cigarette holders, have flounced back on the scene.

Staging a fashion rerun of the glamorous siren days, designers have thrown the spotlight on tiers of black net with cock feather borders and audaciously short black French tunics for milady's evening finery.

Some are hip swivelers in long torsoed costumes with tunic skirts fluttering over straight short ones . . . and there are black bias gowns, the kind in which celluloid queens Harlow and Lombard did so well—with decolletage as low in front as in back.

ALSO THIS FALL fashionable femmes will keep warm in Jimmy Walker-style cutaway jackets with racy high-peaked lapels. They look especially elegant when done in shimmering silk gabardine and sparkling diamond buttons —much more elegant, in fact, than anything the New York mayor's tailor ever made.

Flashy broad checks favored by the track tipsters (the horses, too) are racing back into fashion significance, sometimes in trim suits that skim or voluminous wraps that give swish to a surly day.

Blouson costumes—easily recalled by any woman past 45—have all the verve of the Roaring 20s, but are flattened down, 1964-fashion, and are sometimes belted or girdled with sparkle for the contemporary fashion plate.

IT'S THE PERFECT season to play the role of fashion individualist, to achieve today's avante garde put-together look with individual discretion.

The basic 1964 ingredents: short swinging skirts with pleats, panels and flares; skinny dresses with low fullness . . . new side-button coats and suits reminiscent of the 30s . . . tumultuous tweeds in bold brush strokes of color . . . stripes in smashing, crashing colors . . . sculptured surfaces that crinkle and bubble . . . also new flat-surfaced twills and coverts that look as-of-now.

The accessory touches: swinging pendant jewelry swinging shoulder bags, new short-vamped shoes with broader, rounder toes, low-cut boots and exciting new colors in textured and patterned leg fashions.

HAIR IS getting into the swing, too, with a more natural, feminine look. Gone are the days of beehives, haystacks and other teased bouffant dos. Hair this season is supposed to move; curls should be allowed to ruffle in a breeze.

It's all part of the new fashion motion.

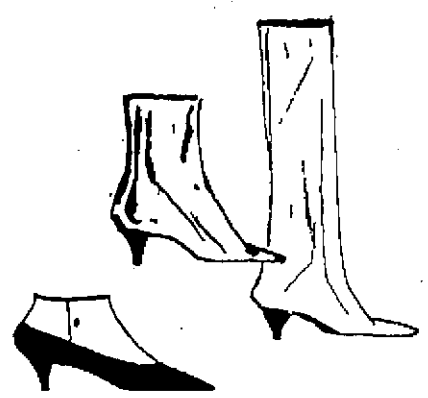

Hems are shorter, skirts are wider and the over-all fit is eased. The A-line, the "trumpet skirt" (flaring out at about mid-thigh) and swinging gores give freedom to dresses and skirts.

Waistlines have a freedom of their own: they're moving up to empire heights, down as far as the hips, or are subtly removing themselves in favor of a gently fitted curve at the natural waist.

Shoes set the pace too for the new free look: the very pointed toes have been modified, and lower heels, even for dressy wear, allow the American woman to move through her busy life with freedom and verve.

Italy Comes to U.S.

Line-for-line copy of Balestra's souffle mohair suit—here in a melange of greens and tawny tones. Go-with, go-able skirt is paired with wool jersey blouse; coat's deep slit sides allow snappy strides. From "Best of Italy" collection at May Co., Lakewood Center.

A Watch 'n Chain Reaction

This fall, Dame Fashion has time on her hands—also around her neck, in her pocket and chained to her belt.

If designers of watches have their way, no girl will have an excuse for being late or making her date wait.

For watches have been styled to go with every silhouette—skinny, raffine or ye ye ye.

* * * *

THE BOLDER, larger versions for women are much in evidence in many different shapes and sizes.

And following the skinny look, there are watches with straight lined silhouettes. They come jewel-decorated or plain, covered or uncovered.

In This Section

Fashions pictured in this special section all are available in local stores.

Posing for many of the photographs were Wilma Hastings models Pamela Finley, Roz Chew, Dorothy Campbell, Sherry Johnson, Kathy Couch, Silvia Soukup, Darlene Hood and Jenny Parazette — also free-lance fashion model, Ruth Johnson.

The issue was produced by Mary Ellis Carlton, I, P-T fashion editor, and Mary Neth, with photographs by Perry Griffith and cover page design by artist Jackie Wood.

RACY LOOKS SET THE PACE

It's Swingy Season--Spots Snap, Checks Crackle 'n Plaids Pop

Checks—on the Double!

Double-breasted suit with detachable scarf collar checks handsomely into fall. Jacket with jewel buttons has slightly longer line, tops easy slim skirt. By Larry Aldrich in pink and gray. Loopy beret, one of fall's most popular millinery silhouettes, is by Michael Terri. At Parisienne, 539 E. Ocean Blvd.

It's Spotted Style

For warm and slinky walking—it's a walking coat of spotted jungle cat. Finger-tip topper of natural Argentine pelts is bordered in dark brown mink—features stand-up collar and deep, deep hem. At Harris Furs, 4260 Atlantic Ave.

Checked for Chic

Checkers anyone? They're fun for a threesome. Here, slim straight skirt and overblouse of white checkerboard design move into cooler days with matching jacket, checker-trimmed. In black, green, brown and blue. At Mode o' Day, 517 Pine Ave.

Go 'Gamorous'--Get Mileage Out of Hose

With fashion going so 'gamorous', it's time to think of how to get the most mileage out of hosiery.

These new racy, lacy stockings (too pretty to throw away after only an evening's wear) do need care.

* * * *

WITH A LITTLE footwork, we've come up with a few simple rules that will help you make those flimsy beauties last longer.

- First sit when you fasten your front and side garters, but stand to fasten the back ones. This gives more knee action and adds up to less strain on the threads.
- Be sure your hose fit closely around your legs. If too loose, they will catch on any object and snag.
- Wear shoes with snugly fitted heels or the rough lining will rub your stocking heel and break it.
- Make certain that you choose the correct foot length. If it's too short, your toe will go through. If it's too long, the toes will fold over and cause damage above the toe reinforcement.
- Hot ashes are a real hazard. So watch out. Even if you've stopped smoking—others still do.
- If you drive one of the new compact cars, learn how to get into it properly or you may have to add the price of new stockings to your gas bill. Sit down on the seat with your legs outside the car and then turn your body slowly into the driver's seat.

Get Set to Glow

The Year of the Dancing Hairdo

Both fashion and feet are on the move this fall. Whether dancing hairstyles and discotheque dresses came before or after the "Watusi" and the "Frug" is hard to tell—but there's no doubt that one complements the other.

Shoes are lower, sleeker and look like they're mean to "Hully Gully" across the floor.

Dresses for dancing are sleeveless, full at the hem, and accented with ruffles to breeze along with the "Surf."

* * * *

HAIRSTYLES are based on movement, with a sweep of curl moving forward on the face, the return of low cut bangs, and wispy cork-screws adding a dash over the ear.

Coiffures have more twists and turns this year than ever before, and are set to stay in place, no matter how bouncy the music.

Dancing coiffures do away with the unlayered straight look, because nothing moves with less grace than limp hair. Whether you call the new styles curly, or simply soft, they need a careful cut, usually with the front just a touch longer than the back.

* * * *

NEXT COMES a permanent to coax curls in the right direction. But no dry look, please. Hair is supposed to dance with lights, even if it's not in the midst of a "Watusi." For a combination of body and luster, a soft permanent is suggested.

The trick to the dancing set is use the front-sides to make the coiffure look completely different, depending on whether the hair is worn up or down.

But whether high or low, hair is lifted for the light, airy look this season, it isn't teased. The new dances, the new fashions, and the new hairstyles have sweep, dash and individuality. Above all, they emphasize curvy femininity from head (with new face-front curls) to hemlines (with scallops and swirly ruffles).

Hairdo With Change of Pace

New hairstyles have sweep, dash and individuality . . . they dance, swirl, change their pace. Here, two dancing hairstyles . . . both based on the same cut and a soft permanent, one worn casually down, the other swept upward. Softness and curl in ends of hair match femininity of new fall fashions. From Crowning Glory, 251 E. Fifth St.

Hair Sets Own Course--- So Do as the Hairdo

If a new do doesn't look right on you, maybe it's because your hair's all wrong for the part, the curl, the swirl—or whatever.

Hair type has a lot to do with hair styling.

Stylists advise different treatment for thick, fine, straight or curly locks.

Thick hair that is coarse in texture needs a hairdo with simple lines. Avoid thinning, which can make this type of hair hard to manage. Instead use cream rinses and extra-hold hair spray. Start with a professional shaping and cut (tapered for best results, trimmed regularly).

* * * *

FINE HAIR needs special sculpturing. Start with a one-length cut (blunt) and keep limp hair on the short side to hold its set. Bolster it with a soft body permanent for shapekeeping. Use extra-hold setting lotions and hair sprays.

Straight hair is no problem (if it isn't unruly or fly-away-fine). It can be striking with little more attention than a really good haircut, regular shampoos and brushing.

Curly hair looks best in short, head-hugging styles. Start with a good cut (avoid too much thinning) and have the hair trimmed regularly. Use extra-hold setting lotion and end papers to keep it smooth. For a sleeker look, "uncurl" it on jumbo rollers.

Cotton Hats Tops for Young Set

If you're anywhere between 15 and 19, cotton is slated to go to your head this fall.

When you see the smart corduroy rollers, cotton-suede deerstalkers and pixie hats with their peaked silhouettes, you won't need any urging to get into the hat act.

* * * *

THESE STYLES are young and gay, designed in wide-wale patterned corduroy, cotton suede, poplin and often in combinations of two of these fabrics.

When you try on the new fall clothes—the body-free suit jackets that indicate your slim figure without defining it, the straight-line rain-and-shine coats, the swaggering capes — you'll see how much smarter they will look when you add the finishing touch: a perky hat.

* * * *

THE ROLLER is the shape that best complements this year's suits and the high-crowned visors will top off dresses and coats. Sherlock's deerstalker, naturally, adds a dash of bravado to capes.

Now that elaborate hairdos are out for all except last year's die-hards, hats can be a welcome addition to a young gal's wardrobe.

Fashion Gets A Boot

Start high or low or in the middle—you've still got it made if it's a boot. Three styles here, all in the heighth of fashion—of soft black glove leather, slender mid-heels. At Mandel's, 301 Pine Ave., also Lakewood and Del Amo Centers.

Handbags -- Like Gals -- Are All Shapes 'n Sizes

Style-hunting fashion designers have (hand) bagged a menagerie of styles — all shapes and sizes—for fall.

There will be satchels, boxbags, totes, envelopes, musette bags and beaded box bags.

They'll come in needlepoint, petit point, sequins, rug fabric and grained, smooth, sueded, antiqued, brushed and embossed leathers.

Their true colors will show up in such hues as berry red, jungle green, brown velvet, iris plum and ice blue as well as jet, alabaster and icy crystal.

* * * *

LONG ON POPULARITY will be the short shoulder-strapped bag: for day, a casual carry-all that leaves busy hands free; for evening, a dainty bejeweled creation that swings free on the dance floor.

The free-swinging shoulder-strapped evening bag keeps pace with the new discotheque styles.

It features a "mobile" look, an air of movement captured in fringe and beading or sparkling teardrop spills.

Meant to wear with the most formal of dancing dresses, it borrows its shape from a daytime bag, ends up with an entirely different concept.

* * * *

YOU'LL SEE the small beaded square suspended from a beaded strap and the bracelet bag—twin pouches of shining satin mounted over a textured golden bracelet handle.

And you'll see beads, beads, beads.

After-five fashion definitely features the renaissance of the beaded box: oblong, little oval and round boxes that could double as jewel cases on the most fastidious of dressing tables.

* * * *

CLASSIC BUT elegant for day-time wear are vary-sized clutches, some opening on facile frames, others handsomely framed in Florentine textured gilt — some topped with slim little handles, some with chains.

In leather, bags for day wear will have intricate feminine detailing: scallops, drapes and overlays with burnished golden closings or other golden trim.

All in all, fall's prettiest purses will be rich but trimly styled—elegant and soft.

ON WITH THE BOOTS

Get a Kick Out of Fall

Boots are still on the march, taking even bigger strides in fashion than last year.

There are high boots, low boots, knee boots, skinny boots, trouser boots, shopping boots, ski boots, rain boots, evening boots and boots for just curling up in a quiet corner.

There are fur-trimmed boots, swashy little buckled boots, dainty high-heeled boots, way-out gladiator boots, boots reptilian, boots cerulean—boots, boots, bootsl

Not since Madame de Pompadour trimmed her little courtly boots with silken roses and lace, has fashion got such a boot out of boots.

* * * *

IT STARTED a few years back with the Robinhood sports boot. Boots have been climbing ever since. First they stole past the ankle with the Western boot, then reached the calf with the high-heeled boot. Now they've soared to the knee and above in skinny shaping.

But, boots of about mid calf standing have, perhaps, the broadest fashion potential. With heels of any height, in brushed or saddle leathers, canvas or heavy knitted wool, they can go for a sallie to the supermarket or a walk in the deepest country. City types are apt to be of petal-soft suede, reptile or patent.

The latest look in bootery is the slim silhouette. Secret of this skinny shaping: stretch fabrics, side lacings, elastic gorings and back zippers.

One of the slimmest side-laced and climbing above the knee, is strictly for the long-legged and very young.

* * * *

FOR A REALLY way-out way-up look, there's the stretch pants boot, a soaring, clinging spat with matching shoe.

The low boot, is no slouch at making high fashion marks, however. Here bootery beauty lies in decorative little touches: buckles, fur (real or fake), elegant finishes.

One little-heeled whimsy is toed in black patent and shaped of quilted canvas with metal rain slicker closings. Textured hose top the fashion picture here.

* * * *

THE HEIGHT of your boots is a personal matter. Choose on the basis of what's becoming to your leg—your figure.

However, smooth leather mid-calfs in bone, beige and tan colors are considered the thing to wear with hipbone jacket suits.

Ankle high boots go well with tight pants, slacks and casual skirts.

Hostesses will get a boot out of low, gold kid ones. Wonderful with skimmer dresses or party pants, they are not to be scorned in the ballroom either.

MOTION IS BUY-WORD

Skirts Swing Wide, Slim

The swing to fall is the swing to suits—and this season suits are the swingingest!

Motion is the buy-word . . . in pleated skirts, particularly.

There are cluster pleats, box-pleats, pleats all around, pleats combined with panels—pleats to please any fashionable women.

* * * *

SLIM SKIRTS accompany many a new suit, too—easy enough for comfort, slender enough for flattery (especially for the reed-slim young elegant).

Suits often are asymmetrical: buttons are placed diagonally (excellent, especially, on the very tall figure).

Pockets have emphasis, but to a lesser degree.

The cutaway jacket is big news.

* * * *

IN FACT, jackets of all shapes and lengths make fashion news this season.

There are unconfined jackets . . . decorous, conservative jackets, some pared at the waist with a satin bow nestled at the center neck closing . . . side-buttoned jackets, often belted lightly at the hipline . . . peplum jackets with rounded collars that serve as perfect foils for the antique look of golden bar-pins with star-set brilliants.

* * * *

CAPE SUITS shape up in bulky tweeds and handsome town suits are lean with wrist-long jackets.

Evening suits, the newest way to dress after dark, are of ribbed wool or soft wool crepe.

Mid-day to midnight, suits are a wardrobe "must" for going high fashion this fall.

The Flip-Top Jacket

The saucy skirt, flippant with pleats . . . looking slender and stem-like in repose, then flaring but unexpectedly, all motion, with every stride. About it, the new flip-top jacket, just waist-length and buttoned thrice. By Paul Parnes; at Schick's, 701 Pine Ave.

Smashingly Fall, 1964

Natural ranch mink is up-to-the-minute addition to luxurious town suit of finest mohair woven in France. The color: lovely muted gold. Matching silk bow flies from neckline of jacket. From Chrysteen's, 4518 Atlantic Ave., in Bixby Knolls.

Turtle-Necks Turning Heads

The tall, turtle-neck sweaters are setting a new pace in fall's fashion race. Wear it deep ribbed and high-rising above jackets in pale, heathery colors; in fabrics that are soft and deep. Cap off the look with a jaunty beret or visor cap. Underline the look with cabled or textured hose.

Sweaters Going Skinny, Too---

Even some sweaters are skinnying down to come up to style. A far cry from the Sleepy Joe, the newest evening sweater, the 'poor' little sweater, pares down to almost nothing.

Look for the little thin-strapped camisole—the brief knit number that bares the midriff. They are hot little style numbers that need wraps to keep warm.

Black Dresses Whirl at Night

The nights soon will be awhirl with little twirling black dance dresses. Saucily sexy, the lines are free and easy, the fabric elegant, the length leggy.

Some come in all-over shirring, some in sequin-embroidered black lace, some in scrolls or ribbon. Right for night, too, are cut-out slippers and lacy black hose. It's daringly and darlingly discothequex.

1964's New Racy, Lacy Look to Legs

There's a new racy, lacy look to legs.

Short living skirts that swish, swing, ripple and whirl above the knees have given fashion leggiest of leggy looks.

And the legs—stretched-out lithly and sheathed blithly in everything from jeweled lace to herringone—are worth the watching.

Textured stockings, madcap and marvelously flattering will be seen everywhere, in every color, in every type of fabric—with boots, hootees, pumps, lacy sandles and little walking heels.

* * * *

THE SECRET is to pick hose that DON'T match but DO harmonize OR shock—firmly textured ones for day; sheer, lacy ones for night.

In sheers there's a lot of exciting color, with lights and darks as important as the perennial neutrals.

Paled and frosty lights gay poster colors (reds and oranges) coordinate with all of fall and winter's now-firmly established pastels, the white coats and dresses, the paled suits in shades of pink.

Look for stockings in shades of browns, greens, purple and deep blue to wear tweeds in all those colors.

FOR TOWN and country, there are heavier textured stockings in a myraid of patterns. Wear color - clashing red ribbed, over-the-knee stockings with a purple tweed or a bright pink stocking with a bold black and white check suit.

And don't think knee socks are relegated only to the campus. They're smartly skipping into town. One of Seventh Avenue's most talented designers showed a trio of suits in blue, green and pink with matching knee stockings.

OTHER DAYTIME styles stop at the knee and are narrow-ribbed and cuffed, copied from the English school-boy look.

They give real snap to vested suits, so popular for casual wear. Colors run the gamut: silvery gray to cranberry.

Knee highs are a perfect complement to leather and suede, too. With a leather pleated skirt or a tortoise shell 'A' line shirt, wear a pair of heavily textured camel's hair ones.

FOR AFTER FIVE—here comes the discotheque dress! —go wild in lacy hosiery, stockings, tights and sassy over-the-knees.

Pick your colors: sharp blacks, cool whites or upbeat pinks, mochas and beiges. Evening sheers, patterned in acorns, medallions or fleur de lis, are perfect mates for beautiful brocades and matelasses in French blue, shimmery gold or delicate leafy green.

With all this color, don't forget that gams also are going glamorous in cool sophisticated white. Wear a white open-weave with a leg-revealing white crepe evening dress, for example.

Watch that Waist - The Belt Is Back!

Pretty in the City

The soft feminine look takes on city aires in gray wool tweed in diagonal weave. Jacket, trimmed neat and narrow, tops slim, trim skirt. At Desmonds, Broadway at Locust.

Fashion is being belted out in a big way this fall, especially in coat collections.

Coats for town and country are featuring belts of every imaginable kind. There are martingale belts, tie belts, buckled belts and belts that go around the back and stop at either side of a double-breasted closing.

They are found on all types of coats, from carefree sport models to elegant fur-trimmed styles.

* * * *

ONE HANDSOME go-anywhere hooded clutch style, tailored of vinyl suede, has a rich pile lining that makes an attractive contrasting collar when the hood isn't being used. And the coat is belted with a tie of matching fabric.

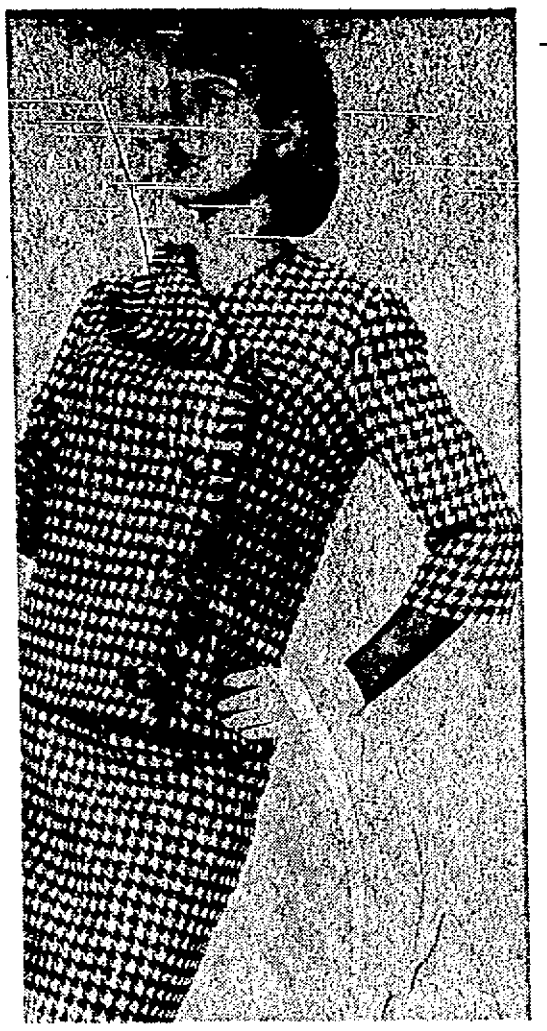

The trench coat is with us again this season and feminine spies will enjoy all its "foreign intrigue"—epaulets, sleeve tabs, brass buttons and, of course, the brass buckled belt. Many have zip-in pile linings.

* * * *

EVEN DRESSY coats with long-hair fur collars, such as fox and lynx, are provided with tie belts to be worn or not, depending on your mood.

And the very popular new shortie coats are frequently belted half-way around the back.

After an absence of a few years from the fashion scene, the belt is back to lend flair as well as practicality to fall coat styles — no matter whether for day or evening wear.

Suit With Fringe on Top

Little suit, big verve—it's hep, neat, bold and ready to go, go, go. Fringe-trimmed jacket closes flippantly off-center. In gray and white of feather-light looped wool, it's jaunty as a jockey's cap—equally right for casual or cosmopolitan jaunting. At Mullen & Bluett, Lakewood Center.

FUREVER AND EVER

From Rugs to Riches

It all began, it's said, way back in 800 B.C., when Assyria's Queen Samaramis put a fur rug around her shoulders.

The ladies of the court thought it looked terribly elegant—quite exclusive, in fact.

Women all over the world have been thinking the same thing about furs ever since.

And when it comes to the one most women dream of—it's usually a mink. Now more than a whispering campaign guarantees its long reign as king of the fashion jungle.

* * *

THIS FALL, women in pursuit of the finest will be alerted to a new mink status symbol.

The Emba Mink Breeders Association, world's largest producers of mutation mink, has put the spy glass to its sleek pelts and determined a new "Rare" quality line.

Emba's "Royal" line conforms to high standards of fur density, lustre, depth, uniformity of color, durability and length of guard hairs.

The new "Rare" line must do all this and more: have a high gloss, beautiful colors, etc. Each Emba fur will be marked "Rare" or "Royal."

Kerchief Is Tops

Among the newest head coverings for fall and winter are little shaped kerchiefs of wool, fake fur and even the luxurious real thing—mink. The fabric ones are sometimes string or ball fringed.

Beauty is yours for the Asking!

The long and short of it is: You will adore the hair style we create to flatter you!

All That 'To-Leatherness'-- It's the Total Look for Fall

Suits, skirts, jackets and pants go to-leather for fall.

The togetherness of leather and whatever—leather and knit, leather and fur, leather and fabric—is one of the biggest fashion stories of the season.

Smarties are taking advantage of new finishes and better dry-cleaning methods to make the look of leather, the look of chic.

* * * *

UNDERLINING "to-leatherness" is the shift into the jumper.

Soloing, it goes out for cocktails, dinner or the theater. Coupled with a sweater or a thin woolen blouse, it's in for endless daytime use.

But topping this year's new leathery crop is the suede coat, often collared in fur, for example, rich tones of ranch, autumn haze, tourmaline or lutitia mink.

For those who admire turncoats, there's a black leather three-quarter affair, lined in big, bold tweed with its own leather-lined skirt —both reversible.

* * * *

LEATHER also goes to blazers, to suits, to capes, to skirts; perfect foil for the country look of boots, textured stockings and tweed accessories.

Spicing-up its stylishness are coat and jacket closings of wood and horn and big, borrowed-from-the-boys buckles. New pocket treatments include double ones—cunningly placed at fingertip level and trimmed in raccoon or beaver or lynx or mink.

* * * *

IN TERMS of silhouette, leather's going lithe and easy. Coat lines are either plumb straight or gently flowing. Sometimes the natural waist is accentuated with a pull-through belt or raglan sleeves.

Color is subtle but clear: cranberry red, chestnut, chocolate brown, darkened ink blue, beige, chamois, cactus green.

Matching pile linings, many of which are removable (cleverly concealed zippers do the trick), make three-quarter jackets three seasonal.

Most important, yesterday's stiff look is gone for good. The finest, smooth-grained, hand-cut and hand-matched leathers are being worked just like fabrics—shaping up into butter-soft, zesty, high styles.

* * * *

AND FAR from being the exclusive property of the outdoor crowd, leather is getting dressed-up with real feminine finesse.

There are two-piece leather cocktail dresses (curvacious tunics shaped over slim skirts with perhaps a knit collar curling the neck).

And evening dresses of the smoothest of leathers are going all a glitter with jewels.

One show-stopper is a narrow knit evening dress, topped with floor-length leather evening coat carved under the bust for a look of Empire opulence.

The Lean Look of Knits

Italian Bravura

Here the knit leans to slim Italian styling. Vertical striped, three-piece ensemble has sleeveless three-quarter jacket, and matching skirt; striped overblouse, is collared and shirt sleeved. In bone with brown and turquoise or black with grey and red stripes. By Sebastian; at Harris Aire, 4260 Atlantic Ave.

In Slim 3 Dimension

A knit newcomer — lean and luxurious in 3-D tweed. Vee-neck jacket is trimmed with imported Heeksuede. Matching slim skirt has elastispan waistband. Another dimension: the cap-sleeve shell in luscious 3-D colors: rose/purple, brown/camel. At Town & Country, 4129 Long Beach Blvd.

A Purl of an Idea To Stretch Wardrobe

Tend to your knitting if you're making socks or mufflers, but if fashion is your passion, let the experts knit you the freshest wardrobe this side of Italy.

Included in the nifty knit line-up: pants and dresses, skirts and suits — in the smoothest of stretch nylon and the fluffiest of mohair and orlon blends.

For country or city, smooth, ribbed nylon stretch pants really s-t-r-e-t-c-h your wardrobe. Topped with a vivid blazer, they go to town for smart shopping. Worn with boots and one of the new suede, furtrimmed jackets, they take on casual, countrified airs.

* * * *

SOME OF THE prettiest new dresses are two-part costumes of lustrous stretch nylon knit. Styled with easy overblouses that fall straight to the hip, they need only the simplest of detailing to be sparked into extra alert smartness: a little bow; a touch of leather; some seaming or piping.

Knit suits, in two and three parts, are running the gamut this fall from sleek matte finishes to waffled knits to puffy mohair mixes.

* * * *

IN TERMS of '64, knits have taken on new motion. Pleats give skirts a frisky on-the-go.

Box pleats, knife pleats, inverted pleats and kick pleats each contribute to the razzle-dazzle look of fall.

Watch for knit jump suits next. The suits, in sleek stretch nylon double-knit, will cling to the body from turtle-neckline to ankle bone. You'll also be seeing knit turtle-neck tube dresses of stretch nylon.

Shetland Back With New Pace

Among the newsier flat wools is shetland, newly revived in both herringbone and twill weaves. It takes on a lovely fragile quality in pale tones and looks just as great in navy—to be brass-buttoned, of course.

Style Narrows to a 'Skimp'

Fashion's newest love is the skinny coat.

Designers pare fall and winter coverings right down to the slenderness of coat dresses. Collars mostly are small, sleeves are narrowed and the closings often are off center with side pleats to give walking room.

One designer calls his coat silhouette the "modulated" cut (definitely contoured to the body at front or back, or both) . . . another has produced the "dinky, slinky skimp coat" made in many ways to give a slender look.

* * * *

THERE ARE many double-duty coats, with the fabrics treated so they can repel rain or snow. Some are of flat-surfaced woolens, so treated, and look very fall-1964 pared with soft jersey dresses and jersey stockings to match.

Many of the coats come with quilted linings.

Belts are very much on the coat scene, looped at the waist, some half belts of the same fabric. Showing everywhere: the narrow string of leather, like a thong, tied low on the hipbone.

FABRICS for fall look newest when ribbed or carved. Surfaces are either heavily textured, such as the new rope tweeds (look hand-crocheted), or the very opposite, flat.

Twills, whipcords, coverts and herringbones star, too. Tweeds are good, but the texture is smoother and colors merge exquisitely.

Fashion also endorses checks, cashing in on black and white or oatmeal and white.

Pockets on the March

Pocketed in the military manner, slim belted, vented in back. A Brittany twill, styled narrow—a look that's striding high in fashions this fall. Topping its snappy continental manner: a saucy alligator hat by Adolfo with pert push-back brim. At Buffums', Broadway at Pine.

Gone Foxy—Movie Fashion

Reminiscent of Harlow and Lombard, the coat that wraps you in luxury.
Detachable fox collar is perfect accent for fur-like virgin wool.
V-necked, bracelet sleeved.
Comes in pink, blue, green, beige and white: collar dyed to match.
At Zukor's Downtown, 235 Pine Ave.

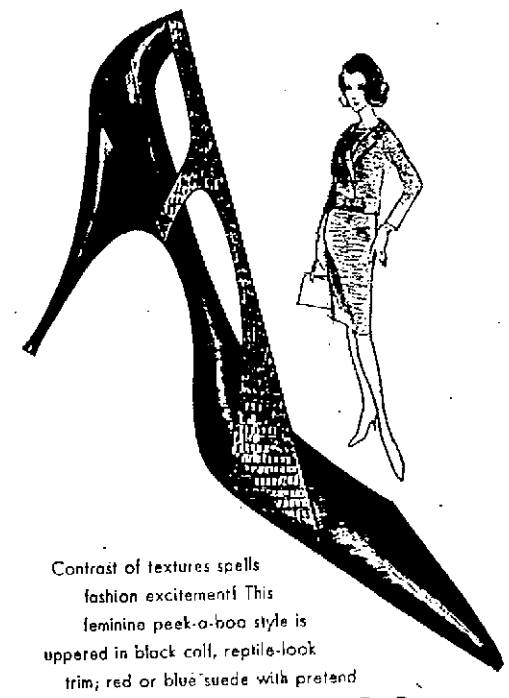

The Crackle of Checks

'The' looks add up to good looks in one exciting ensemble. Black and white double-breasted reefer tops slim skirt, redoubling the check. Completing costume: a sleeveless shell jersey; black, stitched-in-white cloche; lacy racy hose and shiny high-heeled boots. At Sears Fashion Shop, 450 Long Beach Blvd.

A Touch of Mink

Swinging full, wide and handsome, the mink-collared coat . . . three-buttoned against breezes. Comes in rich black, blue and apple blossom. Wedding band collar of glistening long-haired ranch mink. At Foreman & Clark, 144 Pine Ave., and Lakewood Center.

Yes, It's Heaven-Scent

When laundering lingerie, use some of your favorite scent in the rinse water, and spray it on the ironing board before pressing blouses or lingerie.

Spray the insides of boudoir drawers to give their contents a delicate fragrance. Lightly spray the inside of your purse, as well as your handkerchief and glove boxes.

* * * *

GARMENT bags may be sprayed so that clothing will be scented without any chance of discoloration. Containers where blankets are stored can be sprayed, too.

When entertaining, scent can give a festive air to your whole house. Sprayed lamp bulbs, when turned on, diffuse fragrance throughout the room, so will a few drops of cologne in the humidifier or on the grill of your air conditioner.

Coats, Suits Pre-Furred

Fur wraps up fall fashion with more luxury than seen in many a season.

There are fur-trimmed styles for all occasions—furred street dresses and furred raincoats, furred boots and furred chapeaux.

Fur-lined coats and suits, too, are a major fashion influence that's gaining distinction through new semi-fitted shaping and the use of long-haired furs as linings.

Forecast: White Flurries of Fur

Stepping elegantly into the spotlight is white fur for both late day and evening wear.

White mink and ermine will be seen in softly draped capelets and small stoles.

* * * *

STYLED in fluid wrap-around lines are natural white broadtail lamb jackets with push-up sleeves and a cowl collar that can be worn as a hood for cooler occasions.

White fox, in one or more tiers, in capelets and stole styles, is a perennial favorite.

Fashion: the Great American Movement

Everywhere there is motion in fashion—skirts that swirl, pleats that dance, scarves that fly, jewelry that dangles and dazzles.

Entering a favorite bistro in a soft flourish of pleats seems in keeping with the gay mood.

For daytime, the new "tummy" banded skirt highlights a cluster of fine pleats to give a moving action.

* * * *

FLUID SKIRTS cut on the bias have the feminine look of beauty. Eased skirts—low godets and gores bring to mind the flambuoyant 30's.

Chanel startles the fashion world by introducing the tiered skirt with one of her tailored suits, retaining the mood of the gentlewoman.

We see the tiered skirt for fall in wool, crepe and dressy fabrics, including lace.

* * * *

NECKLINES are consistently important. For day time they are gently set-away and often bowed, framing the face.

Turtlenecks in classic and newly widened versions complement the open-faced suit jackets, for casual wear.

For evening, necklines are often decollate, yet with decorum. Some rise high for late-day with a back utterly bare.

* * * *

THE "SNOOTY" little blacks, an elite group of dinner dresses, move from dining to dancing at your favorite discotheque.

For the fluid dress, soft wool crepes, shadow-checks, pebbly and ribbed surfaces are good.

The news in dresses begins at the neckline, wanders to the waist, swings gracefully at hem, and heralds a delightfully feminine season.

Smooth Curves Ahead

Afternoon-into-evening elegance in light wool crepe. Subtle soft colors (acorn with beige inset waist) and soft styling (bracelet-length sleeves, draped bodice) add up to lady like sophistication. At Vinsons, 4500 Atlantic Ave. in Bixby Knolls.

Checks Are Going Racy

Chelsea-collared overblouse with snappy dickey (it snaps in or out) is Sue Brett's newest look in racy oversized hound's-tooth checks. Flat-surfaced, versatile wool fabric is perfect foil for slim skirt. In black and white or brown and white. At Greta's Ladies Ready-to-Wear, 5012 E. Second St.

Color Me Bright

If you have a blue dress that was new last fall, you can give it a current fashion twist with addition of a decorative green scarf. Blue with green is a favorite and a striking color combination for fall.

No Type-Casting on Style Scene

There's no type-casting in fashion this season, at least as far as fabrics are concerned.

Any woman can have her own personal preference — choose between flat surfaced, plain fabrics and the boldly dimensional . . . between supple, gently manipulated woolens and crisp worsteds with strict tailoring.

IN 60s—GOING LIKE 30s

Re-Runs of Movie Siren Ways

Shades of Harlow, Lombard and other movie-queens of the Thirties! The fluid, figure-enhancing look is slinking back into the fashion spotlight this fall.

The supple, feminine look is executed in bias-cut crepes, flowing chiffons, velvets, cloques, sculptured laces and delicately patterned brocades —rich, elegant, designed to be seen, and be seen in.

Now make your dramatic entrance and stop the show . . . you owe it to your audience to invest in this very-New Look of the 30's!

* * * *

OTHER LATE-DAY notes:

- Restaurant suits enter the fall scene with skinny, shaped body lines.
- The long dress with its own jacket, a wardrobe in itself, creates a stir in smart circles.
- The decollete crepe with its bias-cut skirt—what an elegant way to go formal!

* * * *

- THE NIGHT-TIME look of a column — classic and Grecian in inspiration—softly draped to accentuate feminine curves in a strapless gown.

Yes, soft, pretty lines take the lead for fall, and never more dramatically than in fashions for evening.

Hats on for 'My Fair Lady'

Chapeaux Steal the Show

Back in the days when 'Enry 'Iggins made a silk purse out of such raw materials as Liza Doolittle, ladies dressed like ladies and nary a bare feminine head saw the light of day.

This year, when short, sleek hairstyles make it possible for a gal to wear a hat again, the millinery industry has taken as its inspiration that glorious era of "My Fair Lady."

Gone are the bits of whimsy perched precariously at the back of the head. Today hats are unmistakably, joyously and elegantly HATS.

* * * *

BRIMS COME in a wide variety of shapes. There are small tailored fedoras and swagger hats, large winged and sloping cloche brims, huge bretons and rollers and floppy double-faced stitched brims.

Berets aren't even kissin' cousins to the beret we once knew. They are much fuller and more mobile.

Some cover the hair completely, others can be worn on the back of the head or tilted to the side for a profile effect.

* * * *

THERE ARE helmet caps, curved to fit the head and worn perfectly flat on the hair.

Other caps are trimmed with a flat bow or feather pompom and some tie with chin ties.

Turbans this season have back interest — snoods, domes, large bows, jewels and feathers.

It Swings, Swishes and Shimmers

Jewelry Goes Into Action for Fall

There's a new swing and swish to the shimmer of jewelry.

It moves.

Earrings dangle.

Chains drape and loop—sometimes dropping to the hemline and pendants plunge low.

The fashion feeling for fall is movement and jewelry is doing just that.

* * * *

EVEN PINS, bracelets, rings and watches seem to be on the go—dazzling and daring, they look mobile even when they're not.

The necklace story is captured in the phrase, "the long and short of it." Short choker lengths always will be worn, but today the rage is for 30 to 60-inch chains and beads that can be draped, twisted and wrapped at will.

Pearls are definitely popular—strands of jumbo ones. Complementing the soft ruffles, gently shaped suits and drop waistlines that mark many of the 1964 collections, they come in long, long ropes — some even touching the hemline.

* * * *

PENDANTS, very much in the spotlight, range from bejeweled lockets, cameos, creme perfume caches and other such cavaliers to big watches on grandfather's chain and enormous caged jewel drops.

The chains, top fashion news by themselves, run the gamut from bold multi-strands to delicate rhinestone links.

The ornaments often double as pins with easy versatility. Here, heirloom colorings and antiqued finishes are finding favor among fashion-wise women.

The bejeweled look heightens the glamour of night-life with the popularity of jewel-laden cashmere sweaters, beaded gowns, jackets and sweeping evening coats.

* * * *

THERE'S AURORA borealis glitter everywhere.

Shimmering stones and beads which simulate the gem colors of emeralds, sapphires and rubies—as well as aquamarine, topaz and amethyst—are favored with rust and olive-green tones creating interest with their novelty.

And of course, there's gold—lots of gold!

Pins will be perking up many a costume with glowing impudence—brightening a hat, a lapel cuff or waistline.

Earrings not only accessorize necklaces, pins, bracelets and rings for the ensemble look but star in their own right.

They're big, bold and dangling with living motion that characterizes all fall collections.

* * * *

AS TO THE shape of jewlery for fall—there's a galaxy of free forms plus loads of Baroque. Look for opulence and dimension everywhere.

Perhaps the "sleeper" for the fashion year will be the two-finger ring.

Popular centuries ago, but not seen in modern times, these double-in-one rings are usually designed for third and little finger wear.

Comfortable and not at all confining in movement, they bloom from finger to finger.

In summation, the new jeweled look is total; name an accessory and you'll find it bejeweled—whether it's a hat or pair of shoes, stockings or veiling.

The Fine Art of Tweedery!

What has happened to tweeds? Plenty!

They are boldly dimensional, wonderfully varied. They have enormous character, yet look sleek and bulkless.

Remarkably versatile, this season they're adaptable to formal or casual styling, as right for winter suits as for coats and evening attire.

Clothes With Knee-Action

Look for Built-in Walking, Sitting Room in New Skirts

If you're a hip wrinkle smoother, a hemline tugger, or a shirt hitcher, you can expect to break those nervous habits this fall.

Not just short skirts are to blame for this fidgeting.

It happens when they're short AND tight, when they ride up and crease unbecomingly while you sit, slide dangerously above your knees when you cross your legs and thwart graceful stair ascension unless you lift them a little.

Now—Dame Fashion has changed all that! This season there'll be plenty of built-in walking and sitting comfort for suits, dresses and what-have-you.

* * * *

ONE SUCH shift to comfort is the apron front wrap skirt with a deep center pleat for real kicks.

But your silhouette is taken into consideration, too, and the possibility of a row of pleats broadening your beam is solved with happily smoother stitched pleats most of the way down the skirt, from which they burst loose for knee action.

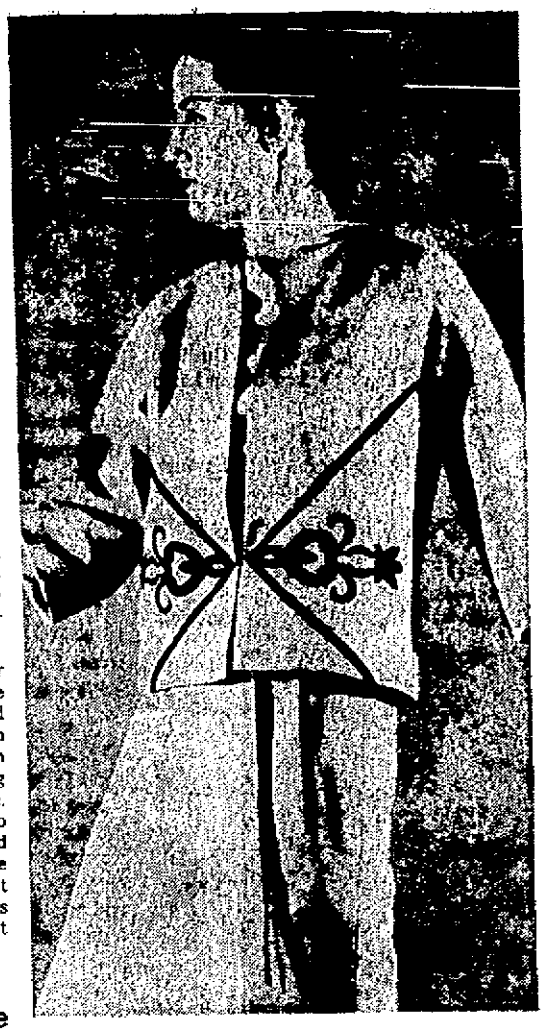

Most fall clothes concentrate on hiding or disguising excess avoirdupois. Among these are slim princess bodices, pencil slim coat dresses and, for evening, long drinks of black wool with draw string necklines and some flounce at the ankles for stride room.

* * * *

MANY COAT designers give a skinny look and walking room—rain or shine, day or night—with their cover stories.

Latest contribution to your fashion vocabulary is the skim coat, a double-breasted raglan sleeved creation stitched high under the arm to let the silhouette brag about a dieted-down figure.

The proper chapeau to wear with these is shaped like those worn by the Northwest Mounties, that valiant group that always gets its man. Can't beat that for a combination!

Eyesome Threesome

Double-breasted cardigan dips low with vested interest. Underneath, long-sleeved, long necktied blouse in stripes; slim solid skirt; a threesome with no little fall snap. It's Cannably Creation of Zeskrome knit. Comes in red, black and olive with matching striped blouse. At Wonder Shops, 221 Pine Ave.; 5033 Hazelbrook, Lakewood; 6517 Bellflower, Blvd., Bellflower.

Weed Wardrobe

It's getting close to the time when fashion-wise women should go through their fall wardrobes and weed out anything that can't be worn this year, no matter how fond of the items they have become.

Scrolled in Suede

Suede takes to knit, goes anywhere. Double knit, all wool costume features decorative suede-ing in diagonals and flower styling. By Fashionette, 3500 E. Fourth St.

Curls, Swirls 'n Bangs Get Set for Fall

Curly locks are news in new dos.

While the rest of the fashion world is creating a stir with plunging necklines, hair stylists have taken the plunge for curlier, shorter hair—hair that plunges, too. In this case, discreetly down the nape of the neck.

Teased 'n tormented locks are out—so are Beatle-like thick fringed bangs. Bangs now take a mere wisp of a shape.

* * * *

MOST IMPORTANT, hairstyles are based on movement, with a sweep of curl moving forward on the face and a cork-screw adding a dash over the ear.

Today's curly locks, however, bear no resemblance to those of by-gone days. You might better call the new look the "soft look."

Worn high or low, the new teased dos, have sweep and dash and individuality.

Above all, they emphasize curvy femininity.

* * * *

BEST OF ALL, they are flattering for all. The swirling layers of soft waves in the newest styles look well on women of any age. Flowing dos (often including a flirt curl at the nape) are easy to look at, easy to wear.

Though there are more twists and turns this year than ever before, styles are set to stay in place, no matter how bouncy the discotheque.

* * * *

DANCING coiffures developed by some stylists do away with the unlayered straight look because, the stylists say, nothing moves with less grace than limp hair.

Whether you call the new styles curly or simply soft, they need a careful cut, usually with the front just a touch longer than the back.

For Dos— Don't Tease

Fall feminity goes breezy—without a touch of a tease. Guiches comb forward over cheeks and temple—meet feathered bangs. Top hair is soft, curly and slightly heightened. By Stabers for Beauty, Eighth and Locust.

Fashion Has Language All Its Own

There'll always be phrase-makers in the wonderful world of fashion!

Some of the new terms to define new fall creations include "the escord coat," a new way of describing long evening cloaks to go with evening dresses . . . "caleche," a way of distinguishing dresses with matching hoods . . .

And then there's "M.O.B." That's the garment industry's term for dresses appropriate for the mother of the bride!

On the Scene: Gray Flannel

Don't underestimate the importance of gray flannel, both plain and striped.

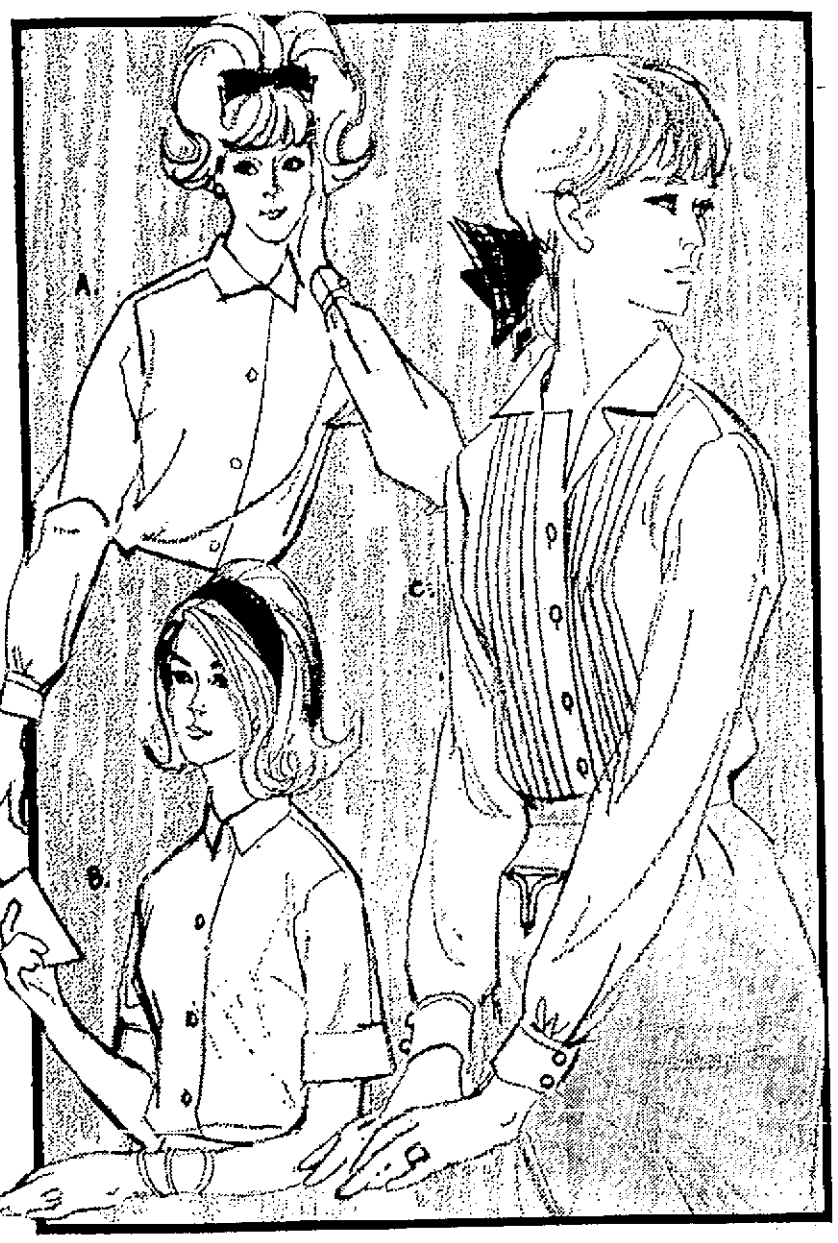

It's everywhere — in the most important town suits and dresses and in versatile separates that go 'round the clock.

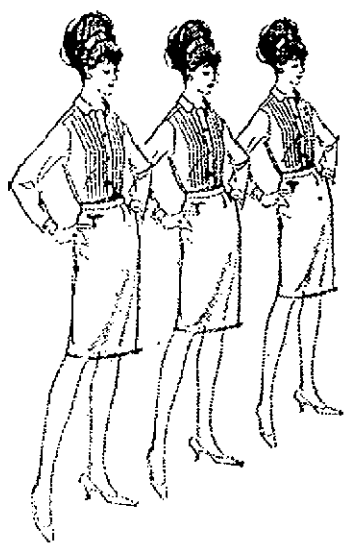

And there's an ever-growing interest in pin-striped flannel, the fabric manufacturers report. The innovation of stock-dyed gray suiting flannel with built-in comfort stretch is another trend worth watching, they point out.

Belt Tricks

Belts don't waste space when it comes to nipping the waist in style. They're skinny, slender and stunning. Try these belt tricks: a little red cobra, a double rope of brilliants, a band of embroidered black satin.

...mink, seal, beaver, jungle cat all furs go fashionating

Stroll in Style

A shimmering star of minkdom—morning light mink stroller is enough to make any woman want to go strolling. In Emba mink, luxury cuddles close via large notched collar of circular skins. By Lockwood Furs, 711 Pine Ave.

Do you have a hankering for a little Maragay Cat coat, or one of Guanaco or Kangaroo or perhaps an Indian Lamb or Unplucked Nutria?

Just ask your furrier.

This is the year of alphabetic furs. There are 26 letters to choose from: Buffalo, Australian Opposum, Jaguar, Tiger, Raccoon and Fitch—to name a few more.

And styling, it's as imaginative as the furs themselves. In coats, you'll find the curve — action at the top, shoulders shaped to arch . . . the tent—figure-molding in the upper, then flared downward and outward . . . the wrapped—adjustable to your moods or midrift . . . the asymmetrical—newest way to close a coat, off-center and feminine . . . and the slim—chic in every sense of the word.

* * * *

FURS ALSO are going to every length to please: from absolute floor-length to street length to ⅞s, ¾s, fingertip, hip and waist length.

Your size is no longer a challenge. Your furrier has your number and in the right proportion.

And when it comes to jackets, furs are destined to take their place as elegant wardrobe s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-r-s . . . there are cutaways, high risers, long liners, curved and tapered and skinny ones—each with a personality its own.

* * * *

ALL YOUR FURS must fit you, your personality, and of course your pocketbook.

Many women buy their first fur as they emerge into womanhood—in working years before marriage when their financial strings aren't as tight as they may later become.

This fur has to satisfy many requirements—it has to be utilitarian (since it is a major wardrobe item), it also has to have a feeling of elegance and luxury.

Although she may not be able to afford the really expensive furs, the working girl doesn't want—and rightly—to "settle" for substitutes. This fur, therefore, should usually be a full-length coat of such fashionable (when well-cut and designed)—but not extremely expensive skins as nutria, beaver, and so on.

It should be glamorous enough for the theater, but not too fussy to be wrong for an after-five date—and its warmth and durability should certainly be considered before paying the amount that it will cost.

Wrapt in Mink

The luxury every woman wants—to be wrapped in mink. Here it's a style steal in natural Emba tourmaline mink stole. By El Dorado, fashioned from 18, fully let-out male, top quality skins; luxurious wide turn-back collar. At Furs by David, 203 E. Third St.

Double Furbishing

Never has a fur stroller looked so smart. Two-toned for twice the fashion, it's of silken, supple modern Persian lamb, collared and bordered in mink. At Frank A. Hill & Son, 3316 E. Broadway.

ONLY HER FURDRESSER KNOWS

Make Mine Mink--Pink, Please!

Ever think of owning a green mink, a purple persian, a pink fox?

This is the season. Name any color, any fur and you'll undoubtedly find it—and have the time of your life wearing it.

And why not?

With everyone else going around in those browns and grays and blacks, you'll be a sensation. Mink, for instance, isn't cheap and if you wear a green one, it'll be obvious to everyone that you have ALL the other colors at home.

In the opinion of one master furrier, Jack Estreich, president of American Beauty Furs, women are a bit timid about clading themselves in fad furry fashion. They don't get as much fun out of fur as they should.

When they think mink — they think single mink, one to wear with everything.

* * * *

SAYS ESTREICH: "There's no mink that goes with everything. A fur wardrobe should be well balanced, it should include color."

This year will be the most colorful of all in American furmanship. Best news is which furs dyed their hair. The rabbits, the moleskins, the moutons, the beavers are among those changing their natural colors.

What's the advantage of a colored fur?

Well, think of reaching for a red broadtail coat on a gray winter's morning. More exciting than reaching for a dull gray, don't you agree?

Femininity Takes a Foothold

There's new soft gentleness to afternoon dresses, smart city suits. QualiCraft's town pump with slender set-back three-quarter heel has this lady-like toe. Uppers of rich black calf are strapped at throat, gently rounded at toe. At Leed's, 257 Pine Ave.

Whether It's Pants or Party . . . the Trend's to Femininity

Pantemonium Reigns . . .

This may well be remembered as the year women started wearing the pants in the family—in earnest.

But, men need have no fear. The pants the girls are putting on are definitely not masculine — they're ultra feminine and, impeccably tailored.

In fact, the newest look in trousers for milady is the smartly suited look—slacks narrow or bell-bottomed, topped with jackets long and elegantly fitted.

They're designed for at-home, to go to town, out to dine or to the theater—and they're being seen everywhere: Paris, Rome, all over the U.S.A.

* * * *

OUT OF 15 top Parisian designers, 12 included pants in their fall fashion line-ups.

Gabrielle Chanel re-introduced 1930-style slacks: in wool jersey, loose and wide at the bottom like sailors' trousers. It was the first time the Grand Dame of fashion had put pants on her models since she began designing back in 1914.

Courreges, another designing Frenchman, who teamed jackets with slacks, says "it's a reconversion of the classic suit — probably will be the current fashion in the year 2000."

* * * *

FROM THE WAY things look, he could be off a few 100 years. American designers seem to be panting it up, too, in '64.

Hostess pants, theater pants, knee pants and ski pants—there's pure "pantemonium" in the fashion world.

Some go classic, are topped with tunics and belted with sable . . . others leaning toward the casual are suited for shopping or travel.

Discotheque Swings . . .

American fashion has borrowed another word from the French. It's "discotheque," rhymes with check, which is what you'll probably be writing once you've seen the new discotheque dresses.

Actually the word started out with the meaning of a place where records are kept —a record library.

Then it gradually became associated with nightclubs that play records instead of live music.

* * * *

WEALTHY young Parisians took to the idea of dancing to canned music as opposed to live orchestras and started frequenting places catering exclusively to the discotheque theme.

* * *

BECAUSE of the frenetic gymnastics involved in discotheque dancing, the sleeveless shift with swinging skirt has evolved as "the" design. It's short, fluid and comes in black or prints. Wool is a popular fabric as well as silk.

Footwear appears in elegant little heeled sandals with plenty of open cutting for design and venting.

Other non-lacy patterns for evening include: a beautiful delicate point d'esprit, diamonds, snowflakes, acorns and medallion patterns.

There are ribbed stockings in non-sporty colors such as vivid French blue or brilliant emerald green.

The Look: Bold and Bulky

Casual as a tangle of tall country grass: the bulky knit, worn easily with smart stretch pants; ankle-top boots. Vee-necked sweater is mohair, imported from Italy—comes in all fall shades. Pants of nylon-rayon stretch fabric (fit stirrup neatly into boots) in black, blue, green and red. Total price, less than $18; at all Woolworth Stores.

A Twisty Twosome

For twisting or discotheque discing, a double date of a dress. Short overblouse goes long with fringe over slim sheath. By Jay Herbert in black or winter white crepe. At GiGi's, 5251 E. Second St., Belmont Shore.

Hey, Tiger---or Are You?

Frankly fake furs are making more than just wild-life conservationists happy.

They're being greeted with open arms by countesses and career girls alike. With such a variety of styles and prices so reasonable, no one can afford to be without one.

Big on the copy-cat list are "Chita" (a cheetah-like fabric), "Brazotta," (imitates fur of the Brazilian river otter) and a leopard-like cloth called "Somali" that proves a leopard needn't change his spots to go inexpensively elegant.

Garbo Influence Flikkers Again

The Garbo influence is staging another re-run in the unpredictable world of fashion.

Flickering once again across the style scene are hoods with costumes, coats, suits. And there are many slouch hats with big brims that disguise a damsel so much that even her hubby wouldn't know her in a crowd.

More Fashion Mileage

When commuting, globe-trotting or just flitting from luncheon to dinner, a variety of scarves and jewelry can make one basic dress go a long way . . . anywhere, anytime. Separates, also, give added fashion mileage to on-the-go wardrobes.

Now---Bangs Give Bows the Brush

France has decreed that bows are bowing out and that it's the girly with a fringe of bangs on top who's in.

Last spring, Coco Chanel's coiffure with a bow in back became the rage of Paris. Every shop girl, white collar worker and lady street vendor had to have one.

* * * *

TO RENE GOUJEAN, Paris hair stylist (he started the whole thing in the first place), popular and passe have the same meaning.

SO — he's banned bows and brought in false bangs!

Attached to a wide head band, the bang attachments are well on their way to creating a bang-up style note for evening wear.

Half Topless!

In a season when topless swimsuits and plunging necklines make news in fashions, watch also for another bare trend—the completely strapless formal is back in full strength.

Designers show them often with accompanying stoles of matching fabric. For opulence, the stoles often are bordered in mink or sable.

In Step With the Times

Patent Goes Satin

Satin patent in season's newest jewel tones—it's a gem of a shoe. Features two heel heights (mid and high) and three colors: bronze gleam, blue glaze and quick silver. At Jacobs Quality Footwear, 5016 E. Second St.

Suede Persuasion

Fashion takes you miles in light suede pumps—one beau catcher with satin bows and slightly rounded toe; the other elegantly pointy. Both in bewitching black, minton blue and gold veneto. Handbags to match. At I. Miller Guild House, 507 E. Ocean Blvd.

IT'S THE LEGGY LOOK

Shoes Lightfoot It Into Fall

It's all buckles and bows and strapping good looks for fall's leggy shoes.

Straps buckle at the throat of an opened shoe, band the instep of an almost-boot, are found in narrow trios across deeply V'd vamps.

The T strap (it has never looked better) is seen in every design from broad buccaneer to open-backed afternoon striplings.

* * * *

AS TO buckles 'n bows, they're moving in big and bold, plain and fancy, rounded and squared.

Some of the newest buckled beauties look like they just stepped off the Mayflower. Others have more of a Florentine flair.

And everywhere there's a big step toward ultra feminity with light-in-weight footnotes.

Sides scoop into curvy shapings called canoe shells (shallowed only toward the front) or plunge into deep decolletages that bare beginnings of the toes.

* * * *

THE HIGH FRONT is a new favorite—liked for its contrast with skimmy sides and lowered, rangy backs. Sometimes the throat is choked, narrowed and quite high.

The sling back is back in step with fashion. Other favorite openings include prim ghillies, widely faced to reveal the instep . . . dainty cut-outs with surprise laces at the sides of the heel . . . and evening slippers with skimpy T-strings.

* * * *

TOES SHAPES include a crop of crescents. What's up front has been widened and somewhat shortened for more natural outline. Look for further shortening and softening of the toe, coupled with an elongation of the rest of the shoe.

As to heels, therein lies the big story (except they're more often small, there's no single style shape. Heels are curved, stacked or skinny. They may be spools, gauchos, cowboys, pyramids or pared-down kegs. They may be broad based. They may even be the rediscovered wedge.

Off-beat but very harmonic pairings: a cowboy heel on a brocade cocktail shell, a narrow high heel on a pilgrim-buckled suede ghillie.

Rather high heels, (bewitching to legs and ankles) are considered the prettiest way to step out after dark. These may be styled in hourglass or narrow set-back or straightened cone fashion.

* * * *

ALSO FOR EVENING: night light feminine styling in opulent fabrics. There are satins, velvets, brocades, silks and glittery metallics. Weaves have deeper dimension, colors are newly dynamic and decorations range from folded flowers to enormous vertical buckles . . . from narrow ankle straps blazing with brilliants to fine pleatings of re-embroidered lace.

When it comes to walkers—these shoes are stepping high in shapely, medium-heeled fashion. No longer sensible, dull or heavy, they're skipping along with more snap and verve and outright good looks than ever before.

* * * *

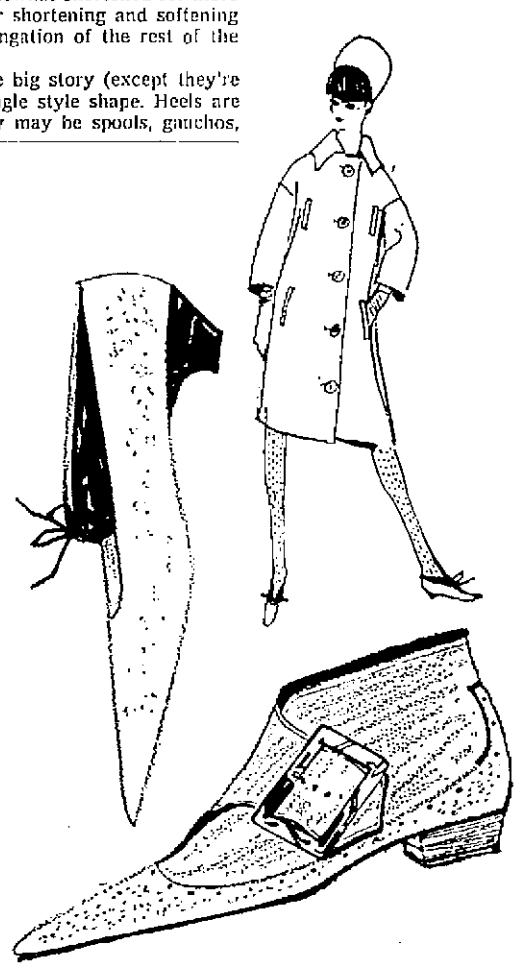

THIS SEASON, inspiration comes from the classics, the pinked and perforated oxfords, the little girl softies, the fringed tongues, the tailored ties.

High-buttoned shoes are on the rise, but the tied types (once the only proper shoe for walking) are still good fashion footing.

As to color, it can be pale or passionate, coolingly elegant or immensely exciting.

Greens are on the go, climbing from the deep jungle shadings through the clear malachites and jades to the hot, savage tones.

Trends to watch: New textures, in grainy, brushed and unbashed furry, finishes . . . suedes supremely silky . . . the newly discovered matte patents, and an interest in printed patents.

Fall's Newest Booty

Get a chic kick out of fashion by keeping in step with zingy ankle-high buckled booties by Van Elli—snappy gay patent topped shoes by Miss Jo. Both in newest fall shades. At Joseph Salon Shoes, 209 Pine.

The 'Little' Things That Mean a Lot

Little things mean a lot this fall to achieve fashion's total look.

There are, for instance, those shoe strings of leather that look so new on coats and suits.

Inexpensive (as well as expensive) furs form scarves or stoles which reverse to the wool fabric side. Feathers are turned into capes and dresses, as well as into hats.

* * * *

JEWEL-STUDDED "bandit" scarves are tops for covering coifs in the evening . . . and half-bikini scarves (those little triangles) look this-minute with casual clothes and swingy skirts.

Remember, it's the individual touches that make the difference of being a fashionable individualist or a not-so-fashionable nondescript.

Chemise Slips Back in Style

The chemise slip, last seen peeking out from under a flapper's flapping skirt, has slipped back into style. New models come to top of your stockings — have shaped bodice. You'll see them in reptile prints, flowers — everything.

Arm of Fashion

On the cuff styling is the thing in the new big bangle bracelets. As wide as a cuff, these fashionable wristlets are being fashioned of every thing from wood to feathers and worn everywhere from backyard barbeque to gala balls.

Something New (You!) In Home Decoration

Great occasion at-home dresses make the hostess a fashion plate when entertaining via dinner or cocktail party.

Designers, recognizing the fashion fact that not all damsels like pants suits for at-home events, have put together tremendously flowing gowns—especially appealing to the hostess whose enthusiasm for slacks has slackened.

Fall's home-base costumes are the most oppulent in many a season.

* * * *

SOME ARE of velvet, accented by satin. Others are made of lace and include bow treatments for accent at neckline, backline, waist or bosom.

The favorite silhouette: a full, long skirt topped by a bosom-accenting bodice with slim to wide sleeves, ranging from below-the-elbow to bracelet length.

* * * *

BEAUTIFUL brocades figure in many at-home costumes. Example: a long brocade skirt, ankle length, topped by a bodice with scooped neckline, featuring long sleeves and lots of sparkle.

The sparkle may come from long bugle beads stitched to the bodice. Or it may come from a blaze of jewelry dangling fore or aft over a plain jersey top.

Robe in Leafy Luxury

Gold buttons march down front of quilted robe with leafy figured stripe . . . little half belt goes front or back . . . cuffs turn up, rounded collar turns down. Gal on Toes---Has Shoes for Wherever She Goes

Used to be a gal was on her toes if she owned just two pair of shoes: everyday's and dress-ups.

Not so in '64.

The modern woman keeps on the move with changing feet. She needs a shoe wardrobe that matches her dress wardrobe—her tempo of living — her activities. She needs everything from casuals and slippers to boots and broccades.

And she needs to know how to get the most mileage out of every pair and how to select the right styles.

* * * *

FIRST OF ALL, it's important to own shoes that not only fit the occasion but fit the feet.

It makes sense, too, to have enough to keep you in good health.

It's said that a woman should vary her heel heights, three times each day if possible. If this is not practical for you, work out some regular basis for rotation.

* * * *

REST YOUR SHOES. Give them three days off between wearings, if possible. Don't wear damp shoes — remember it takes two days, at least, for a pair to dry.

In general, American women require more shoes than women of other lands, because they are more active and find it necessary to fit more shoes to more special occasions and activities.

Dame Fashion Banks on Black

It promises to be a prosperous fashion year, with many styles in the black.

Perennially a favorite, black this season makes news in the puffed textures, those with a quilted dimension.

And for interesting departures there are extravagant beadings in tapestry effects. Brocaded ribbons and satins also are very much on the fashion scene.

New Short Story for Evening

The short formal, over shadowed the past two seasons by long gowns, emerges again for fall and winter evenings.

It's dressier than the conventional cocktail dress, comes in fabrics just as luxurious as those which go to the floor and is cut equally low at the top.

Its added advantage: greater maneuverability getting in and out of car or cab.

* * * *

THERE'S a return to the strapless top for evening to compete with daringly plunged necklines which have to have strings across the shoulders, anyway, to hold them on.

Among the sexiest of the short dance dresses is the silhouette that starts with a form-fitting base in black silk or crepe and is covered with several layers of net or lace. Some call it the cage dress.

New-Type Wall Covering Used at Bullock's Store

New Type of Plaster Used on Big Store

By LEE BROWN

People who follow the advice of the now famous "knock-on-the-wall" advertisement may be hearing a different sound before too much more plaster has passed under the trowel.

Several major lath and plaster manufacturers are now producing a new kind of plaster which has been termed a remarkable advance in the construction field.

Called by some "veneer plaster" and by others "high density" or "one-coat" plaster, the new system combines advances in technique and materials.

IF IT PROVES to be as successful as manufacturers claim, the material may become one of the homeowner's best friends.

The extremely hard, high-density plaster is reputed to be up to 25% harder than most concrete used in street paving, is "childproof" because it can't be scratched or gouged, and is flexible enough to be crack-resistant.

Although its relative newness has precluded its use in new housing tracts, the "veneer plaster" system is being used in the Bullock's store now under construction in Lakewood Shopping Center.

AN ESTIMATED 540,000 square feet of walls and partitions are being lathed by A. R. Amos Lathing Co. of Long Beach in the four-story, ultra-modern structure being covered by the veneer plastic, applied only 1/16th of an inch thick.

The thin veneer of plaster is applied to large sheets of gypsum lath by trowel or spray gun. It is reputed to be completely dry within minutes, and "cured" enough for painting within 24 hours. The gypsum lath sheets, covered by catalyst-treated paper, are first attached to the studs, then all cracks and joints are covered by strips of fiberglass tape to ensure a smooth surface.

ONE OF THE SEVERAL manufacturers advertises that the thin coat will stand up to 2,500 pounds pressure per square inch without breaking or cracking, this in spite of its thinness.

Because the amount of plaster required for a wall or building is much less with the "thin coat," the new plaster is reported able to cut three to nine days off a building schedule, saving time and money for builders.

According to Clyde Whitlow, architect with Welton Becket and Associates, the company that designed the Bullock's job:

"The new plaster looks good. I think it's going to be very durable. It is very hard, and I think even the paint finish is going to look excellent."

E. M. RATLIFF, president of the Los Angeles Plaster Contracters Association and vice president of C. F. Bolster Corp., said of the Bullock's construction job:

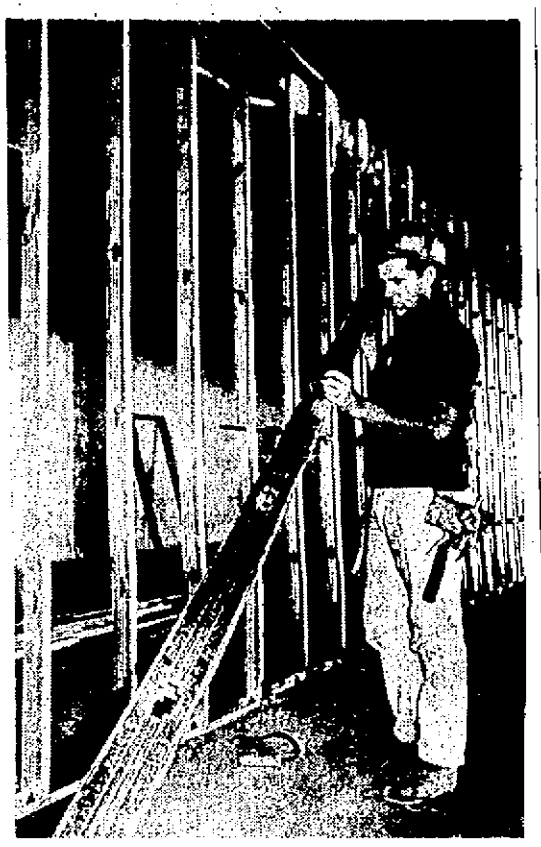

"This is one of the first jobs using veneer plaster in Los Angeles County. It can be applied with a minimum of mess and the hand application we are using is very clean. It should save owners money by saving time and, consequently, interest charges."

And in the opinion of lathing contractor Amos:

"It could eventually replace drywall, from all current indications. In addition to being advantageous to contractors, it will also be a boon to the public because thin coat plaster incorporates the ability of plaster to wear well with the smooth finish of drywall."

SMOOTHING IT ON
Plasterer Ray Darrow trowels thin layer of so-called "veneer plaster" onto wall at Bullock's in Lakewood.

METAL STUDS USED
Ken Ahmmons, one of workers on Bullock's project, examines one of metal studs used in walls. Lathing strips are attached by screws.

El Segundo Firm Gets UCI Work

C. H. Leavell & Co., El Segundo, has been awarded a $1,473,000 contract for construction of eight residence cottages at the University of California, Irvine, it was announced last week by L. E. Cox, vice chancellor — business and finance.

The Leavell firm was low bidder among four general contractors who submitted bids.

Designed to accommodate 50 unmarried students each—for a total of 400 men and women students — the two-story cottages are slated for completion prior to the September 1965, opening of the new UCI campus which is under construction three miles inland from the Pacific Ocean in Orange County.

The residence cottages will be financed by a loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, and will be repaid from student rental fees.

In addition to the eight cottages, the contract also includes a small storage structure.

L.B. Man First in State Contest

By VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

Silver tongued Bernie Jones, representing the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, won first place honors in the Hometown Speech Contest in state finals held last week at San Francisco during the California Real Estate Association convention.

Jones, associated with Melvin L. Mould Realty, had been chosen Long Beach winner in competition last August, and vied at the Bay City with winners from other boards throughout the state.

* * * *

HIS VICTORY won high praise at the convention and from Long Beach board spokesmen.

Jones is a Long Beach native, so found it easy to write his speech on the subject "My Home Town."

In 1952, he married Doris Mayes whom he met at St. Anthony's High School. He worked with Monsanto Chemical Co. seven years before joining the Mould realty firm for which he now is sales manager.

The new champ is a member of Long Beach Elks Lodge 888. In 1963, he served on the Public Relations and Education committees, and this year on the board of directors as an associate director.

Garden Grove Scores State Realty Honors

Garden Grove Board of Realtors placed third in state competition with its Achievement Book entry at the California Real Estate Convention in San Francisco last week.

The board also won a distinguished special award for all-around board service, according to Ann Benjamine executive secretary, who was with the Garden Grove delegation at San Francisco.

Honors in the Achievement Book competition are highly prized by realty boards. Committee chairman for preparation of the Garden Grove book was Roberta Weber.

* * * *

THE WHITTIER district board was winner of the "Winged Victory" G. D. Robertson sweepstakes trophy for outstanding and best all-around service to the public, community and board members.

The award was presented at the convention by Art S. Leitch of San Diego, president of the 45,000-member association, and Reba Claytor of Richmond, chairman of the Achievement Committee.

Work Progresses on 5-Story Condominium in Palos Verdes

Palos Verdes peninsula's tallest condominium apartment project is now one-third completed and is due to be ready for occupancy early in 1965.

The five-story high $3 million "Verdes West" is located at Western Avenue and Summerland Avenue in the Eastview section of the Palos Verdes hills overlooking 76-acre Peck Park, Los Angeles Harbor, and Catalina Channel.

* * * *

A TOTAL of 70 apartment homes ranging in size from 1,300 to 2,000 square feet will be contained in "Verdes West," centered around a courtyard with heated swimming pool and putting green.

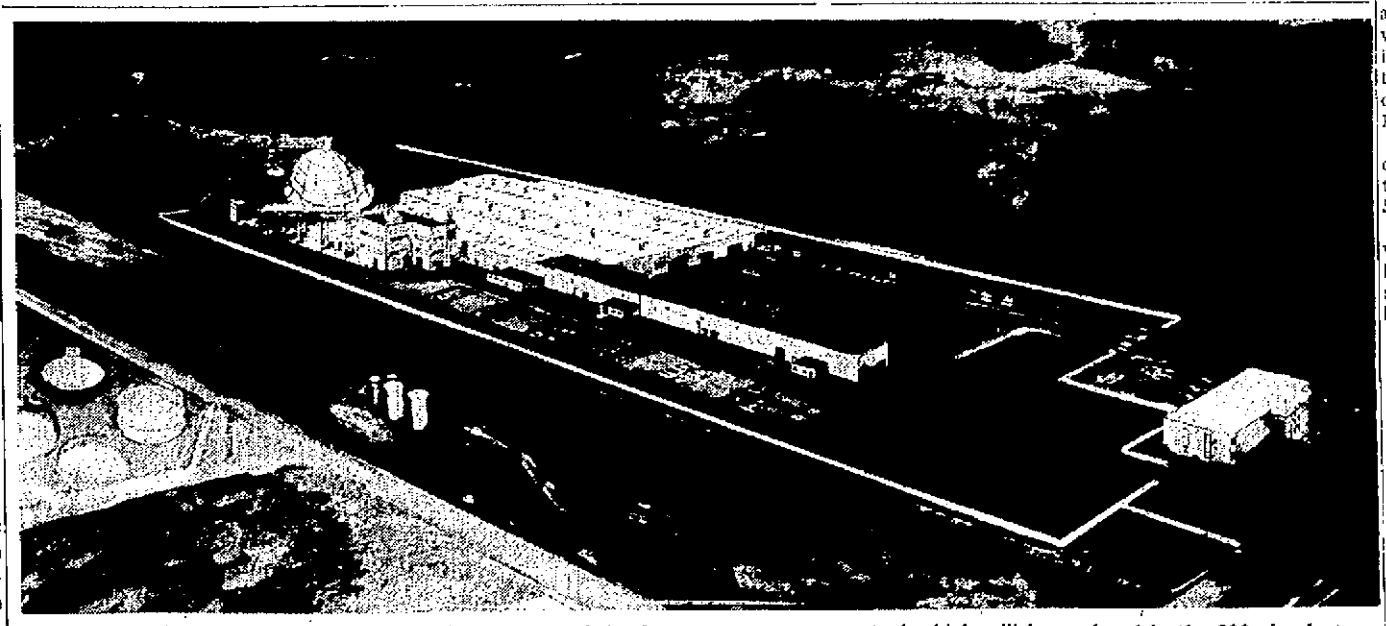

Since groundbreaking on April 3 of this year some 40,000 cubic yards of earth have been moved from the two-acre construction site. The earth-moving included extension of Summerland Avenue as an access road and raising the level of the site so first-floor apartments will be at third-story height above Western Avenue.

* * * *

FOUNDATIONS have been laid, structural steel erected, and above-ground concrete work is now under way. Within a matter of several weeks the building will be taking definite shape against the Palos Verdes hills.

"Verdes West" will be one of the most modern residential structures ever built in Southern California.

Closed - circuit television will enable "Verdes West" homeowners to see any persons wishing to enter the building.

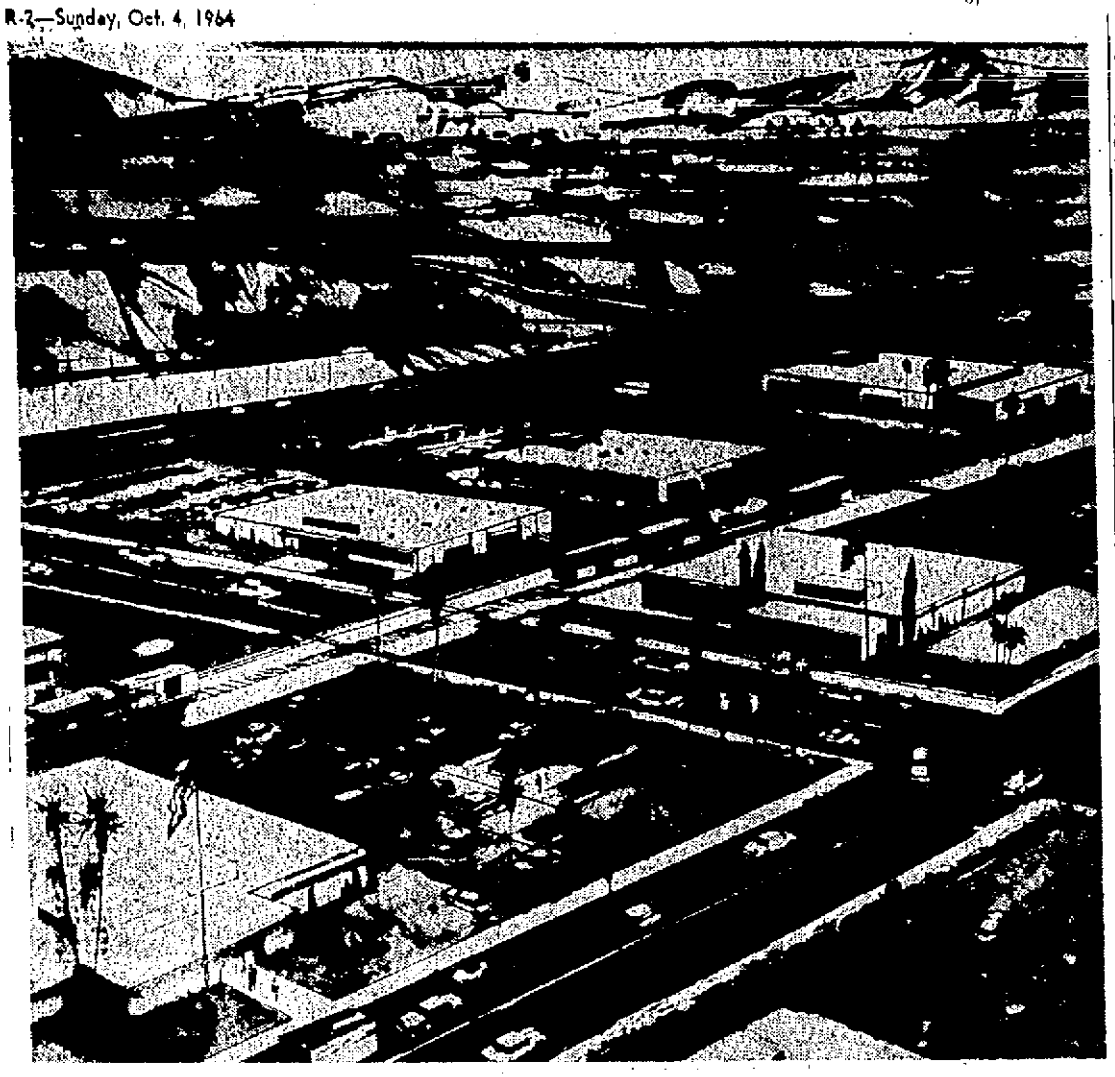

WHAT NATIONAL GYPSUM CO. plans for Long Beach in the 1850 W. 8th St. area is shown in this rendering of how the plant will look when completed next year. The warehouse (center) already is finished, encompassing 85,000 square feet. Producing gypsum wallboard, lath, plaster, joint compound and related products, the plant will utilize gypsum ore mined and shipped by water from Baja California. The ore will be conveyed from ships to a huge aluminum-skinned storage dome (left center), and from there into the manufacturing processes, part of which will be enclosed in the 800-plus-foot-long wallboard plant (right center). National Gypsum will move its Western Region office from Los Angeles into its new office building (right) to be constructed at the 8th Street (north) end of the 23-acre site. This new plant, the 72nd in National Gypsum's nationwide complex, will be the second of three to go up on the West Coast to provide better, faster service to the mushrooming construction industry. One plant is in Richmond, Calif., another will be built at Tacoma, Wash.

Small Business Seminar Opens

Small businesses constitute the great majority—96%—of U.S. enterprises, yet nearly seven out of every 10 new businesses started in the last five years have failed or withdrawn from operation.

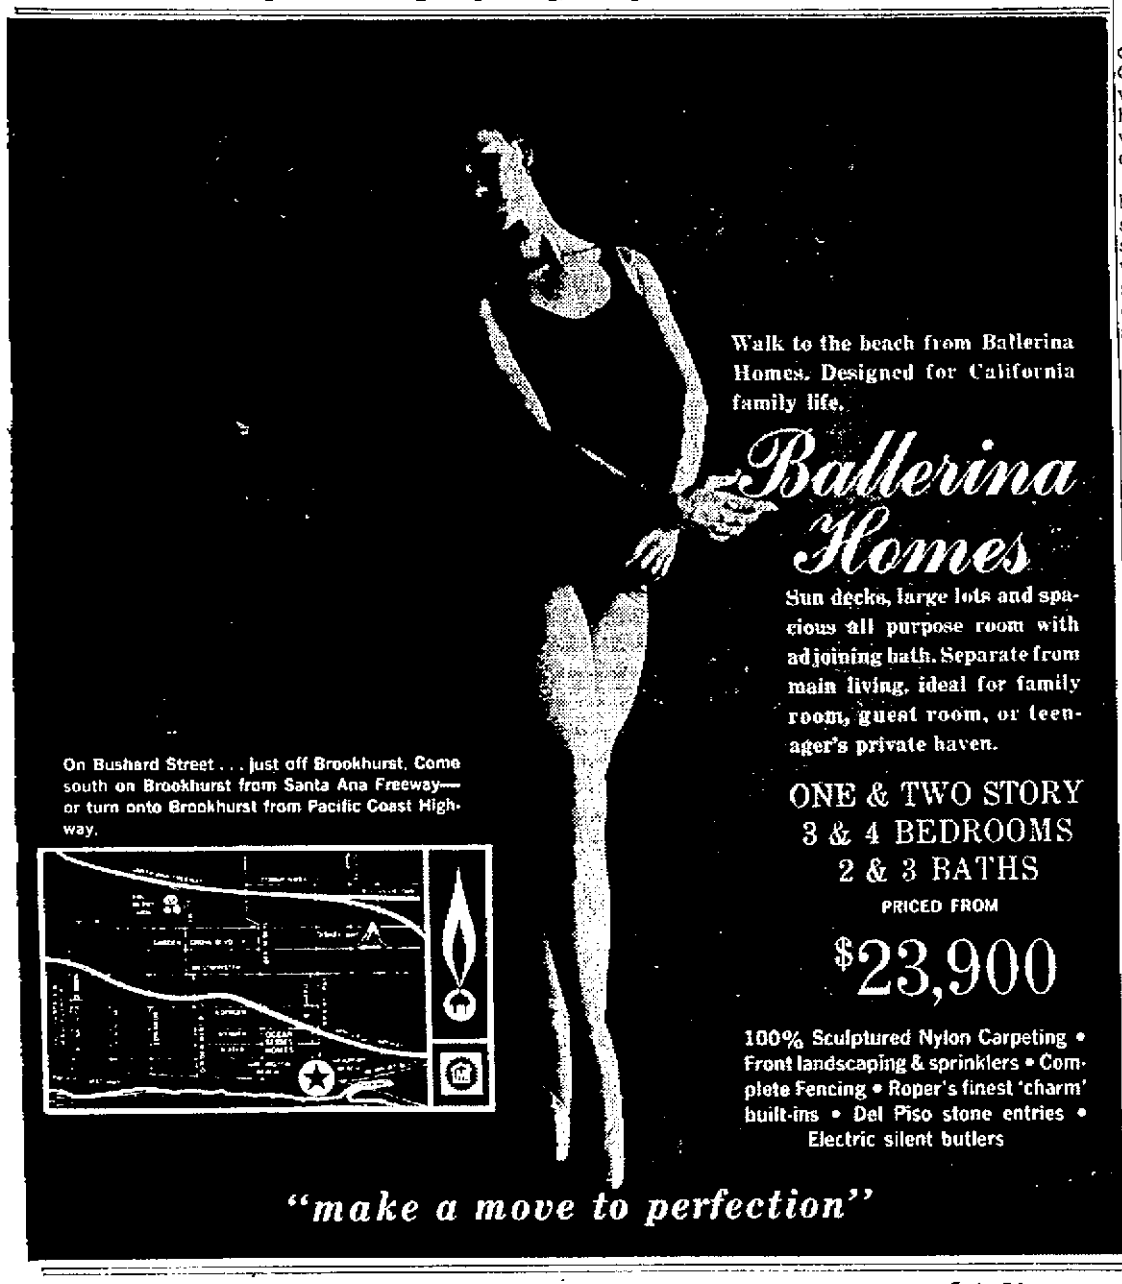

The Division of Business Administration at California State College at Long Beach hopes to do something about this mortality rate by sponsoring a seven-week evening seminar for owners and managers of small businesses. The seminar meets Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9:30.

Dr. Robert T. Holmes, CSCLB faculty member, is coordinator of the seminar.

PREVIEW OF PLANNED DEVELOPMENT NEAR LONG BEACH

Future development of the 600-acre, $150 million Watson Industrial Center just west of Long Beach is shown in this artist's conception. Plans call for a 15-year development program with the construction of more than 100 light, medium and heavy industrial plants — "a multimillion-dollar boon to the local economy in payrolls, trade and property taxes," predicts the Watson Company. The new center is bisected by the San Diego Freeway, and is one and one-half miles between the Harbor and Long Beach Freeways and three miles from the Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors. The William J. Moran Co. of Los Angeles is in charge of planning, development and sales.

Investment Firm Shows Off New L.B. Offices

Things are getting back to normal at the new divisional offices of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., and Investors Syndicate Life Insurance and Annuity Co., 4220 Long Beach Blvd., following three days of open house festivities.

Hundreds of customers and other visitors were recent guests of the firm, according to Ernest W. Schmidt, manager of the Long Beach sales division.

He and Mrs. Schmidt were assisted by Mrs. Margaret Fowler, 6313 Seaside Walk, co-hostess. Mrs. Fowler is divisional First Lady, an honor she won by producing the largest volume of sales in the division during the 1964 May sales campaign.

* * * *

THE DIVISION'S three district sales managers and 26 representatives and their wives participated in receiving guests.

J. E. Wilde, general sales manager, western region, headquartered in Los Altos, was an honor guest.

"The need for more office space is due to constantly increasing business in this area, where there is expanding interest in the investment securities and life insurance offered by Investors," Schmidt said.

Schmidt has been with the IDS sales force since August 1956, rising through the ranks to his present position. On June 1, 1959, he was promoted to district sales manager in Long Beach, then only a district in the Los Angeles sales division. When Long Beach was created a sales division in February 1963, he was appointed divisional sales manager and has won many honors.

* * * *

HIS WIFE, Hermina, was crowned divisional May Queen in 1958, an honor he won for her by producing the highest sales record in his division during the May sales campaign for that year.

The Long Beach division has grown rapidly. This year's sales to date of mutual fund shares and life insurance were up 100% over similar sales in the comparable period of 1963. The division services approximately 5,000 customer accounts located in and around 13 cities in the Harbor area.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and their two children live at 2740 Rutgers Ave.

* * * *

FOUNDED in 1894, Investors Diversified Services, Inc., now is the largest financial institution of its kind in the world. The company currently has assets under management in excess of $5.3 billion.

IDS heads the Investors Group of companies, which includes, besides a life insurance subsidiary, five mutual funds with varying objectives.

Through its national sales organization of 3,500 representatives working out of 166 divisional sales offices across the nation, IDS services an aggregate of more than 1,341,000 customer accounts.

Larger Bedrooms Home Trend Now

By MARGERY McELHENY
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Home builders are reversing a trend of many years — that of the Bedrooms, especially master bedrooms, are bigger than they were five years ago. The reason is that bedrooms are now a combination living room, office, sewing room or den. There also is a trend toward oversize beds.

Building authorities and interior designers say the modern family wants to use every room completely, including the bedroom. To accommodate these wishes, the bedroom size must be enlarged.

Some modern bedrooms now are as large as the home's living room — 14x18 feet is not uncommon.

THE EQUALIZING of size of the living room and the bedroom has transformed the living room into more of a parlor, and the bedroom into a multi-purpose room.

This is especially applicable to homes in the $19,000-25,000 range, according to the National Assn. of Home Builders. Buyers of these homes usually need and want family rooms, and also big master bedrooms to which the parents can escape and use as a private living area.

The bigger master bedroom almost always has an adjoining private bath. Here, too, in higher-priced homes, adults have taken steps to add comfort and convenience.

The second, third and fourth bedrooms are becoming larger and the once-common 9x10-foot bedroom most often is a fourth bedroom, or den.

Town Center Industrial Plant Begun

Signal Oil & Gas Co. has broken ground for a new $200,000 building for Eastman, Inc., the first industrial building in a master plan for a 130 acre "Town Center" in Signal Hill.

The new headquarters for the Long Beach printing, stationery and office equipment firm will be situated immediately south of the Long Beach Municipal Airport and the San Diego Freeway at 2301 E. Willow Street. There will be 30,000 square feet of floor space.

The structure, designed by Long Beach architects Jess J. Jones and Richard L. Poper, will contain a showroom, offices, printing and storage areas.

Eastman, Inc., will occupy the building under a long term lease calling for occupancy early next year. Russell S. Best, also of Long Beach, is general contractor on the project.

Executive Shifts Made in Harris & Frank Staff

Major executive appointments to the staff of Harris & Frank, Inc., pioneer clothing firm founded in 1856, were announced last week by Michael Daroff, president of Botany Industries.

Michael Feinman has been appointed executive vice president and general manager of Harris & Frank. He heads up all operations of the 22 store Southern California chain.

Feinman steps up from merchanising manager and clothing buyer to his present position. He came to Harris & Frank in 1963 from Broadstreets, another store group forming part of the Retail Division of Botany Industries with which he has been identified for 15 years.

* * * *

APPOINTED vice president, Operations, is Lou Mitchell. He has been an executive of Harris & Frank for the past two years, coming from Lit Brothers, Philadelphia, where he was merchandise manager.

Isidore N. Haskell has been appointed vice president, Store Planning and Development. He was with Harris & Frank until 1947, when he left to open his own clothing business, returning to Harris & Frank in 1955.

Carl L. White, secretary and assistant treasurer, and controller continues in the same position. He formerly was with Harris & Frank, returning as controller in 1962, after serving with Walker Scott, San Diego, where he held the same position. He is chairman of the Retail Controllers Association of Southern California.

TREASURER
Edith S. Gaylord, owner of Gaylord Employment Agency and Nurses' Registry in Long Beach, is new treasurer of the California Employment Agencies Association, which held its state convention in Long Beach recently.

Records Set by Realtors

"The real estate business, along with the rest of California's booming economy, is setting new records in sales throughout the state," said Art Leitch, San Diego, president of the California Real Estate Association, at a news conference held in San Francisco last week during the association's 60th annual convention.

More than 5,000 realtors from 173 real estate boards in California attended the five-day meeting.

Leitch told of booming sales being made through the Multiple Listing Service of real estate boards.

"In the month of July, 1964, total sales through 49 Multiple Listing Services of CREA totaled $180,150,202, compared with July, 1963, sales of $167,497,983. The average sales price of houses sold through the 49 Multiple Listing Services in July, 1964, was $23,250, compared to the average sales price of $22,500 in 1963.

One Multiple Listing Service located in the San Fernando Valley sold real estate valued at $34,240,516 in July of 1964.

The California Real Estate Association was founded May 27, 1905, and has served the real estate industry through the years.

Alcoa-Pacific Exec to Lecture

How to plan a subdivision will be described by Lester Goodman, director of marketing for Alco-Pacific Construction Co., Inc., Westminster, in a lecture, "Master Planning a Subdivision," at the Tuesday night session of the home building and subdividing course at 7 p.m. in room 2250, Chemistry Building, UCLA Westwood Campus.

This lecture is one of 15 by leaders in the home building industry each Tuesday night at UCLA through December.

Realtors Get Certificates and 'Status'

Long Beach area realtors were among the group of 40, plus three real estate salesmen, who last week were awarded Real Estate Education Certificates and newly authorized professional designations.

Awards were given during the California Real Estate Association convention in San Francisco.

Certified Member Broker, CMB, is the new designation given the 40 realtors who were the first to complete the educational and experience requirements for the certificate and designation.

* * * *

CERTIFIED Member Salesman, CMS, is the new designation given the three real estate salesmen who completed the educational and experience requirements for this designation.

The new CREA education program was put into effect in January of 1963 although the association had been conducting educational courses throughout the state for its members for more than 25 years.

The designations were adopted by the association to give recognition to realtors and real estate salesmen who successfully complete a specified series of educational courses in order to increase their technical knowledge and thus be better qualified to give professional real estate service to the public.

* * * *

BURT SMITH of Bellflower, 1963 chairman of the CREA Education Committee and currently member of the association's executive committee, was awarded certificate No. 1. All certificates are numbered and in addition to the certificate each CMB and CMS holder will receive a key.

Other realtors receiving the awards included:

E. Tennyson Moore, Long Beach; Milt Miller, Westminster; Yvonne Nasch and Donald F. Lawson, Downey; Harold F. Goettsch, Norwalk; Burdette M. Maher, Redondo Beach; Clint Callaway, El Segundo, and Don C. Roberts, Whittier.

The 1960 Census reported 32.8 million dwelling units occupied by owners — up 39 per cent from 1950. Some 62 per cent of American families live in their own homes; the highest figure in history.

Donald L. Schwenn, Realtor, has been appointed by John T. Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, to head the organization for a "Yes" vote on Proposition 14 in the November election.

Proposition 14 is a proposed constitutional amendment which will nullify the Rumford Forced Housing Act and give back to the property owner the right to sell, lease or rent his property to whomever he chooses.

Schwenn urged that anyone who would like a speaker to appear before a group call him.

Two Changes Made

The Keystone Company of Boston, principal underwriter of Keystone Custodian Funds, has announced two changes in its California territory under the direction of Vice President Louis A. Vachon, Jr.

Robert A. Wilderness has joined the organization as a regional representative in the Los Angeles area, and Warren A. Rohrer has moved from Los Angeles to San Francisco as regional representative in the Bay area and Northern California.

Read Opens New Office at Cypress

John Read Realty, 4137 Norse Way, Long Beach, opened its third office last week, at 4431 Cerritos Ave., Cypress. This is the firm's second Orange County office, the other being at 8514 Katella Ave., Anaheim.

This is evidence of the firm's rapid growth of the past two years, observed owner John Read.

He said sales volume to date in 1964 had topped $5½ million. He now has a staff of 45 sales persons, 12 of whom are real estate brokers.

* * * *

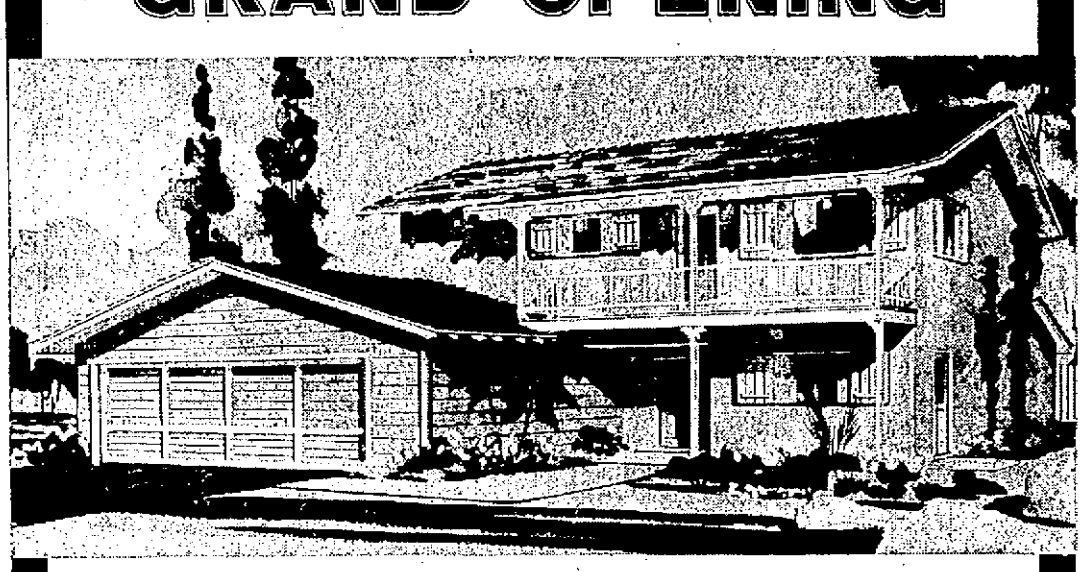

MANAGER of the new office is Alta Newman. Bert Smith manages the Anaheim branch.

Read has plans for at least one more office soon in the Long Beach area, he said.

Read holds two Distinguished Flying Cross awards and four air medals. He saw service in World War II and the Korean War and holds rank of major, Marine Corps Reserves. He entered the real estate business in 1953, opening his own office two years later.

Read is a Realtor member of the Long Beach and Garden Grove realty boards; past president of the Lakewood Optimist Club; and past president of the Lakewood-Los Altos Association.

Coast Bank Starts $500,000 Garden Grove Blvd. Building

SKETCH SHOWS HOW NEW COAST BANK WILL LOOK

Ground has been broken for construction of a half-million-dollar branch office at 8132 Garden Grove Blvd., Garden Grove, by Coast Bank.

Completion of the 5,000 square foot, two-story structure is slated in February.

Home office of Coast Bank, founded in 1953, is at 5354 E. 2nd St., Long Beach, where it first was known as the Bank of Belmont Shore.

Board chairman is Frank Wade, well known in the area.

* * * *

THE BRANCH presently located at 9836 Garden Grove Blvd. will be moved into the new structure. V. B. Youmans is vice president-manager.

Coast, it is said, will be the only independent bank in Orange County to use electronic data processing; and the only bank in the county to have television drive-in service. Customer and teller will see one another only on the TV screen. This will be an added safeguard against bank holdups.

The bank is giving all teachers in the area free checking accounts and is promoting all types of loans, it was stated by E. J. White Jr., assistant vice president-business development.

She is appearing under the sponsorship of Coast Federal Savings Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau.

Program chairman for October is H. Herschel Hart, Realtor and past president of the board.

Builders in Future May Offer Buyer Fully Furnished Home

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The home of the future may come from the builder to the buyer completely furinshed down to the blankets on the bed.

Backers of the idea see it growing in easy stages, starting with the sale of completely furnished vacation houses.

According to government officials, the idea is not only feasible, but already a reality on a small scale. One builder on Long Island, New York, is selling furnished houses with his furniture loans running for 30 years—the same as the Federal Housing Administration-insured financing on the houses.

Some government housing officials favor amending the housing law to permit FHA to cover major furniture items under its long-term mortgages as it now does most of the equipment that goes into houses such as ranges, refrigerators and clothes washers.

* * * *

ONE OF the advantages of this type of furnishing and financing is that it could be done to the benefit of the buyer.

Housing officials said large-scale builders should be able to cut both the purchasing and the transportation costs for furniture in vacation houses. But there are drawbacks.

The biggest one is selectivity. If the choice range is limited the buyer may reject the entire idea in favor of personal selectivity.

But a point-of-sale furnished house is just one of the innovations that could become commonplace in the housing industry.

AT A ROUNDTABLE discussion sponsored by the Menninger Foundation and the United States Savings and Loan League, builders met with psychologists to discuss ways to keep a family in a community, no matter how the family may expand.

Dr. Lois B. Murphy said the problem centered around young married couples who can't afford to buy now the house they will need when their family is complete. She pointed out, however, that there is a trend in home building to design houses that can be added to, or subtracted from, as the family space need changes.

Norman Strunk, vice president of the Savings and Loan League, said builders may design communities that contain both the home for the small family and the large family.

This, Strunk said, would allow the family to move to larger quarters as its numbers grow, but remain in the same community.

A kitchen desk is a convenient place for the housewife to plan her daily schedule, write letters or telephone with one eye on the simmering stew.

BIG INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX PLANNED
Artist's rendering shows scope of Santa Fe Springs complex, central refrigeration and steam plant to be built in Santa Fe Springs by Central Plants, Inc., M. A. Nishkian & Co. of Long Beach and Sydney Genser of Modern Meat Packing Co. Plant is designed to provide natural gas-energized services for broad range of food processors and other industrial applications.

L.B. Firm Participating in Santa Fe Springs Gas Energy Service Project

Central Plants, Inc., recently formed subsidiary of Pacific Lighting Corp., will provide a broad range of gas-fueled energy services to a major industrial development planned for Santa Fe Springs in 1966.

C. T. Dierker, manager of operations for the new subsidiary, announced that agreement has been reached with the developers of the project to supply low temperature refrigeration, high pressure steam, compressed air and hot gas for defrost—all from a single, central plant on the edge of the 50-acre development.

* * * *

JOINTLY OWNED and operated by Central Plants, Inc., M. A. Nishkian Co. of Long Beach and Sydney Genser of Modern Meat Packing Co., the development is planned to attract customers primarily in the food processing industry.

The new facility is designed to provide large volumes of steam and refrigeration to meat packers, the egg and dairy industry and public cold storage warehouses. The developers will build facilities to meet customers' requirements and lease to the customer on a long-term basis.

* * * *

TO BE KNOWN as the Santa Fe Spring Complex, the gas-fired service center will be located just south of the Santa Ana Freeway in Santa Fe Springs.

Nishkian engineers will design the buildings; Central Plants, Inc., will provide such services as high pressure steam for food cooking, cleaning and processing as well as refrigeration and blast freezing of foods at temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero.

Dierker explained that Central Plant services will be delivered by pipeline to each customer in the complex. Heating and refrigeration energy will be metered in British Thermal Units and customers will be billed only for service and energy provided.

Final Leisure World Unit Now Half Sold

'YOU PRONOUNCE IT 'BU-AY-NA''

The Orange Coast College instructor in beginning Spanish tutors student-residents of Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach where there are adult education courses given in many subjects. The Ross W. Cortese pilot "people-over-52" community has nearly 11,000 residents.

Steady progress in sales for Unit 15 of Ross W. Cortese's pilot "people-over-52" community Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach is reported by Robert Moon, vice-president of New Horizons, Inc., national Leisure World sales corporation.

This final mutual unit of 502 manors is over half sold, Moon said. This month brings a new segment of the San Diego Freeway to the site, and with it, prospective buyers who are now only minutes away from Long Beach and Los Angeles.

First residents of Unit 15 already have moved into their luxury manors which are larger in size than those in the complete portion of the bustling community of nearly 11,000 persons.

* * * *

ANOTHER REASON for the successful reception by the public is the unique Seal Beach weather. Leisure World is located just the "right" distance from the ocean and the boating marinas.

All recreational facilities at Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, are completed and are in use.

One-bedroom membership-ownership manors are priced from $12,595 to $12,995. Two-bedroom Unit 15 manors are priced from $14,395 to $16,495. The average monthly payment is $145, subject to modification. All loans are insured FHA at 5¼ percent interest.

Here is what Seal Beach Leisure World residents enjoy for their monthly payments, in addition to principal, interest, taxes and insurance:

* * * *

USE OF THREE large, luxury clubhouses, which contain private dining room facilities for large family parties, card rooms, class rooms for adult education courses conducted by instructors from Orange Coast and Long Beach State Colleges, a lawn bowling green, shuffleboard and roque courts; cards and billiards rooms, large dancing areas; wood-working, sewing and art rooms.

The monthly payment also includes the use, free, of the fine new golf course, the heated swimming and therapeutic pools, the intra-community transportation system, a 24-hour security guard; exterior maintenance for all manors, maintenance of streets, gardens and community buildings.

Also included in the nominal monthly payment is 80 percent of the retail value of medical costs, including in-home nurse calls, calls to the doctor's office at the community's Medical Center, complete diagnostic facilities, minor surgery at the Medical Center and services of all specialist, ambulance service and prescription drugs.

No physical examination is required prior to purchase.

Leisure World's western boundary is the Long Beach city line at Los Alamitos Blvd. and Garden Grove Blvd.

Decor Outstanding in Ballerina

The artistic use of sculptured room dividers and the handsome stone and brick fireplaces are features commented on frequently by visitors to Ballerina Homes, according to builder-partner, Ted Hudson of Oka Brothers and Buchanan-Hudson Development Co.

Other outstanding decor items in these three and four-bedroom, one and two-story homes include luxurious 100% sculptured nylon carpeting in living rooms, halls, and master bedroom suites and one extra bedroom (carpeting in all bedrooms in some models) as well as appointments in the formal dining rooms and charming breakfast areas.

Decor in this 64 home community is continued in kitchens and bathrooms. Baths sparkle with chrome fixtures, ceramic tile, double pullmans, full width plate glass mirrors, and safety glass shower enclosures.

* * * *

IN THE KITCHENS, furniture finished ash paneled cabinets of highest custom built quality add a touch of decor.

Even the exterior has been considered as a place to display taste in decor, with stone and sculptured wood artistically and skillfully blended, presenting a custom crafted appearance.

The designer, L. C. Major, successfully used decor and spacious floor plan features to combine western informality with traditional grace.

Available in three floor plans and 13 distinctive exteriors, Ballerina Homes feature kitchen built-ins and luxury extras such as fencing and landscaping included in the price. Prices begin at $23,900.

"Persons interested in traditional decor in a casual beach residence are particularly invited to inspect Ballerina Homes," Hudson said. Ballerina Homes are located on Bushard St., just off Brookhurst in Huntington Beach.

FOR PRESTIGE LIVING

The newest Prestige Home plan, a two-story, four-bedroom, three-bathroom, 2,300-square-foot home with formal dining area, family room with fireplace and many walk-in closets, is priced under $30,000. The development has seven model homes open daily from 10 to 8.

Four-Bedroom, Three-Bath Home Priced Under $30,000

The newest Prestige Home model, a two-story, four-bedroom, three-bathroom, 2,300-square-foot home — priced under $30,000 — is proving to be more than popular with the homebuying public, reports Dan Mytinger, marketing director for the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., builders.

"Families fall in love with it at first sight," Mytinger continued. "The formal dining area; the large family room with fireplace; the wife-saving kitchen; more cubic feet of closet space than any other comparable home in Southern California; all of its many features have appealed to the public to an amazing extent!"

"The new home is one of seven different center hall plans and 28 attractive exteriors offered by Prestige Homes," the executive pointed out, "with the seven plans encompassing one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom, two and three-bath homes priced from $22,950. Conventional, Cal-Vet and FHA financing are available."

* * * *

MYTINGER also pointed out that the community in Huntington Beach enjoys "the best location in the Southland." It is a matter of five minues, or less, to golf courses, marinas, beaches, the San Diego Freeway, the new Douglas Space Center and many shopping centers including the new Broadway Department Store complex just starting construction. A new grade school is surrounded by Prestige Homes, a new high school is within walking distance; a college is to be constructed within a mile.

Seven Prestige Home models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. From the Long Beach area drive east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica, then right to Edinger Ave., then left to Springdale St. and right to the homes.

Distinctive Somerset Homes Surrounded by Rural Charm

A SOMERSET HOME

The outdoors comes indoors in Somerset Homes through extensive use of glass and ingenious floor plans. Here an "atrium" actually projects a garden into living room and hall. Somerset Homes, in Cypress, western Orange County, are priced from $27,500 with up to 1,652 square feet of living area.

The last "island of rural charm" in the metropolitan Los Angeles-Long Beach area is the location of Somerset Homes, distinctive family residences priced from $27,500 for up to 1652 square feet of living area, stresses a spokesman.

Cypress is the rural area with a skyline formed by Long Beach, Lakewood and Los Angeles. It is only minutes from major work centers, and Somerset is handy to fast boulevards and the freeway system.

One of the Southland's major heavy construction builders is responsible for Somerset homes. The Twaits-Wittenberg Co., has applied "know how" gained in raising such structures as Los Angeles' Biltmore Hotel, the mammouth underground Pershing Square garage, and the Los Angeles County Hall of Records.

* * * *

THUS, THEIR Somerset homes have such features as huge stone fireplaces, built-in fire safety systems and remarkable attention to building detail. Spaciousness is a rule in every Somerset home.

Newest model in the Somerset series is The Chestnut with three bedrooms, two and a half baths, a spacious laundry room and attached two-car garage. There is a den and a family room.

In Somerset kitchens, built-ins are located so that housewives take only minimum steps during their cooking chores. There is gas range and oven and automatic dishwasher.

Each home has luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting.

To visit the homes with their landscaping, ornamental street lights and other conveniences, take Lakewood boulevard to Carson, turn right to Moody and right again to the models.

Golf Course Near Homes

El Dorado Park Estates in Long Beach offer "one-step away" golfing at the adjacent El Dorado City Park and Golf Course.

Located on Spring St. at Claremore, the community is also convenient to all services retained outside the home, in addition to many nearby recreational facilities.

Plans call for the expansion of the existing park and residents of El Dorado Park Estates will enjoy many additional facilities. "Here, youngsters can play in a safe environment while their parents practice their golfing skills," a spokesman said.

* * * *

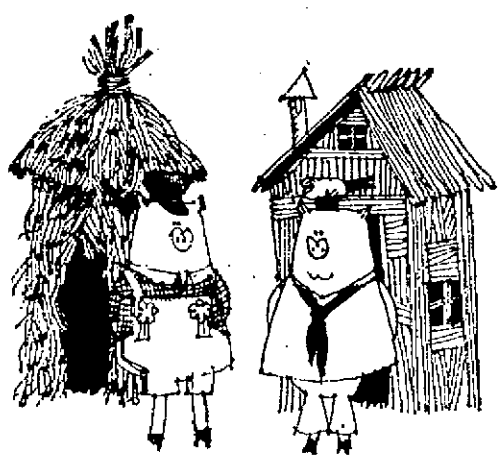

THE HOMES are for the discerning buyer and include designs with three, four and five bedrooms and are available in one-story, two-story, split-level and tri-level.

A model display is open daily. Drive east on Spring St. across the San Gabriel River to El Dorado Park Estates at Claremont, just east of the park.

Land Cost

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cost of land on which to build a house in this country has almost tripled in the past 13 years, according to Realty Equities Corp. In 1950 the price of a developed plot for a typical FHA home was $1,035 and in 1963 it was $2,972.

telephones where and when you want them

The better homes...

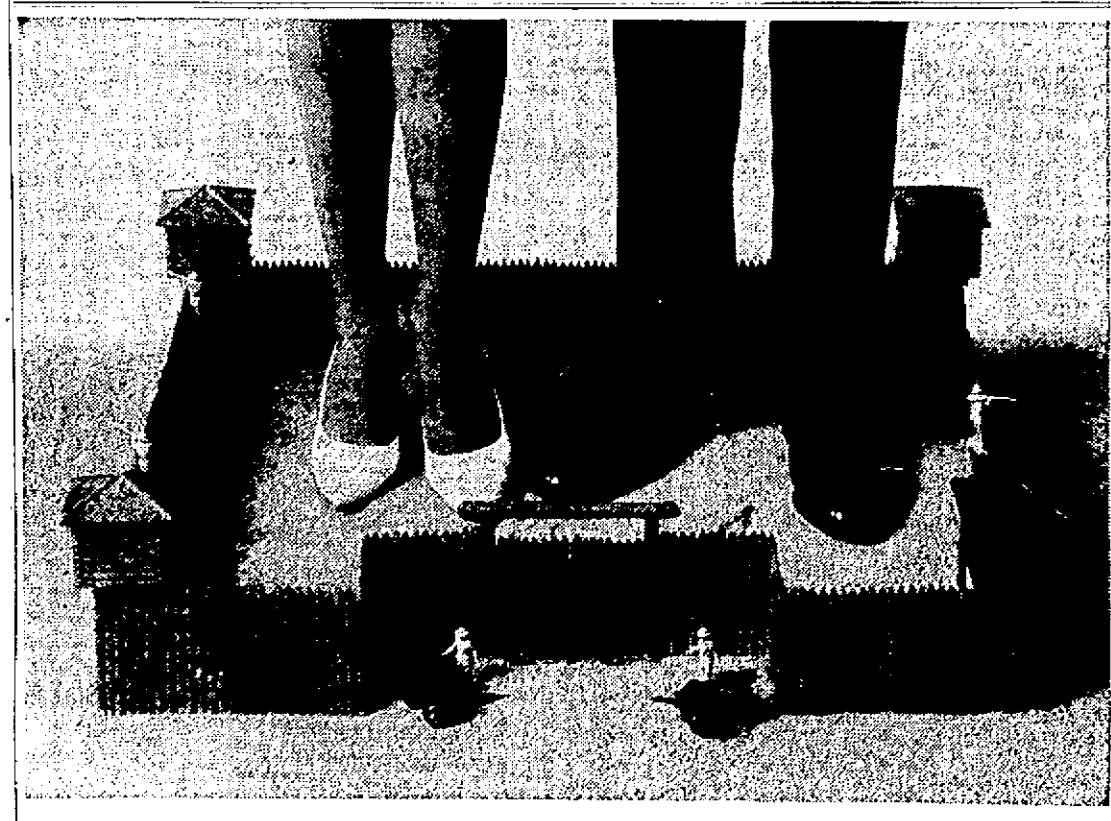

...are telephone planned.

Better for anyone who doesn't enjoy huffing and puffing to answer a distant phone. And a "must" for people who don't want holes drilled in—and wires strung along—walls and baseboards. Telephone planning locates the outlets and hides the wires during construction. Service can start on move-in day. Convenience now, extra value if you sell—reasons enough why you should look for this symbol in choosing a place for "living happily ever after." You can be sure you're not getting a pig-in-a-poke!

YOU'RE ON SAFE GROUND

When You Specify T. I. Title Protection

When you buy property, whether it's a home site or a high-rise apartment, you want to be sure that your investment is well protected. A stockade won't do it. But a title insurance policy from T.I. will. Should anyone make a claim against the title of your property, T.I. assures you the finest title protection available. You know you're on safe ground.

There are good reasons why most property buyers, real estate brokers, escrow officers, builders, developers and lending institutions choose T.I. over other title companies. For one thing, they know T.I. has America's largest and best-trained staff of title specialists—a team that knows California real estate from the ground up. They know that T.I. has the finest title facilities in the industry. And that T.I.'s experience dates all the way back to 1893.

They know, too, that T.I. (and only T.I.) has complete and up-to-date land records available in 40 California counties, plus fast service statewide with just one phone call.

Most important, they know T.I.'s matchless reputation for fast, dependable and impartial title service. So why don't you do as the real estate experts do? Specify T.I., the number one brand of title protection. It costs you no more—and you can be sure you're on safe ground.

EXPLAINS 'FOUR WAYS BETTER' HOMES

Premier Homes are four ways better," says Frank H. McFarland (left) of McFarland and Mattocks, Inc., sales agents for the new homes in Huntington Beach, as he checks off the feaures with builder William Rousey. Premier Homes begins a special preview showing today to unveil its "four-ways-better" formula for homebuyers. Prices start at $23,400.

Premier Homes Holding Special Preview Today

Premier Homes in Huntington Beach is holding a special preview showing beginning today.

Announcing the preview, Frank H. McFarland of McFarland and Mattocks, sales agents, said the homes had been designed and built on a "Four Ways Better" approach.

McFarland said the "Four Ways Better" applied to kitchen design and equipment, custom extras, FHA construction and an "under-market" price structure.

The Realtor pointed out that Premier Homes kitchens were called "Total Convenience" kitchens because of their completeness in terms of built-in equipment, efficiency of layout and luxury of appointments. Electric appliances are used throughout.

* * * *

KITCHENS include Independently - controlled double ovens, range, disposer, dishwasher, mixing valve over the sink, a dispenser for kitchen foil and paper, and a built-in electric food center featuring high-speed blender, mixer and knife sharpener. Custom-finished cabinets and ceramic tile counters complete the kitchen package.

Among custom extras cited by McFarland as the second part of the "Four Ways Better" format at Premium Homes were tiled, atrium-type entryways, wall paneling, a complete landscaping and fencing package, roof guttering all around, and a fully-finished premium area. The premium area has plumbing roughed in for a future bath if desired.

* * * *

PREMIER HOMES are built to FHA requirements. McFarland said that these were generally recognized as the most exacting quality standards in America.

Premier Homes price structure is called "extremely realistic." Three and four-bedroom, two-bath models are priced from $$23,400. VA no down and FHA minimum down financing are available, with no 2nd Trust Deeds.

Take the San Diego Freeway to its present terminus at Bolsa Chica Road, and drive south to Warner Ave., then turn left to Premier Homes in Huntington Beach.

PSYCHOLOGY IN INVESTMENTS

Asking 'Why' Before Buying Is Investing Scientifically

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of articles on the subject of investments by G. L. Davenport, consulting psychologist and president of the Scientific Property Investment, Inc.)

By G. L. DAVENPORT

Apparently our readers are a very sensitive and sophisticated audience.

We are being criticized by them for spending so much effort on the analysis of HOW people behave and not nearly enough on the reasons WHY they act as they do.

To begin with, let me point out that the HOW and the WHY of behavior, whether in the psychological, physical, sociological or any other aspect, are inextricably interconnected.

Imbedded in every HOW is the WHY, and vice versa.

The most striking primary effect of our readers' letters, however, is the impression that they fall into two distinct categories: (1) that of the "HOW" person who asks for more information on the way people behave, and, too, more technical information on how to invest and (2) that of the "WHY" person who is not content to hear how people act and how investments are made but must know also WHY they behave the way they do.

If I may be allowed a personal bias, I shall start this discussion with the latter category.

* * * *

THE READERS interested in the "WHY" of things—all of them, of course, prospective investors—show the greatest promise of being the most successful investors, because they ask WHY.

Any person who insists upon knowing causes, who demands of himself a clear understanding of the "WHYS" of things, is bound ultimately to be the more prosperous investor. "WHY" men will not indulge in the impossible attempt of mimicking someone else's million dollar investment success. They do want to know the principles, the "WHYS" behind his investment concepts, but they also know, perhaps intuitively, that mechanical learning of investment skills, procedures of formulas, that puré imitations, are not effective enough or the assessment of varying situations. They study and analyze as many "WHYS" as is humanly possible to induce from them the unique "WHY" or reason for their particular undertaking.

The "WHY" investor thinks scientifically, because induction is the way and the method of science.

* * * *

BEHIND THIS method is the desire and the necessity to predict and control future development.

To take an example from the science we feel closest to; psychologists agree that knowing HOW their clients act is only the first step in the process of understanding why they act the way they do, a process which eventually leads to modifications, cures, to predicting and controlling future behavior.

An investor must know that, typically, certain tangible assets and potentialities must be present in a property investment; he must know what they are; and he must also know why they predictably combine to increase the value of that property in the future. He will also look for the latent possibilities to accelerate the value increase.

Offer Trial Period in Sun City's Units

An opportunity to try "activity as a way of life" at Del Webb's Sun City is being offered over-50 people who are retired, semi-retired or planning retirement.

An unusual vacation opportunity has been announced by James K. Leishman, project sales manager for the Del E. Webb. Corp., in which retirees who try Sun City apartment life for 30 days and decide to purchase either a co-operative plan apartment or home during that time will receive full refund of the $165 apartment rental for the period.

* * * *

"APARTMENT LIVING in Sun City," said the sales executive, "allows the over-50 resident to concentrate on recreation without the worry of either yard upkeep or outside maintenance and provides a home base for those who enjoy trips that were impossible during the pre-retirement days when the press of job or family prevented taking off."

The sales manager pointed out the security of cooperative plan apartment living, with the care of yard and home provided through a board of managers made up of members elected from within each individual apartment complex.

"This trial period," said Leishman, "provides a real opportunity for those who seek an active retirement but who are undecided about how or where they wish to enjoy it."

* * * *

THE TRIAL OFFER in one of the completely furnished rental apartments includes the full use of the community facilities which have elaborately equipped shops for the enjoyment of photography, painting, wondworking, ceramics, mosaics, leathercraft, sewing, gem cutting and polishing and such outdoor recreation facilities as lawn bowling, croquet, horseshoes and shuffleboard.

Although the trial of active retirement, as it was made famous by the Del E. Webb Corporation, takes place in apartments, Sun City purchasers have 12 model homes from which to select, if they desire.

Homes and apartments in Sun City range in price from $10,950 to $22,550. Three elevations of each floor plan are available.

More than 4,500 independent home-owning residents now inhabit Sun City, 22 miles south of Riverside on U.S. Highway 395, where slightly more than two years ago waving grain was harvested.

Large Showcase Homes Proving Big Attraction

Sales have totaled $2,400,000 since the opening a few weeks ago at Showcase Homes, third series, located at 8401 Kingsley St., in the city of Anaheim, according to William Krueger, builder and developer.

This new series are splendid examples of architectural design and symbols of quality and the ultimate in modern living and construction, according to McFarland & Mattocks, sales manager. Functional floor plans are stylishly blended with luxury features to bring the homeowners complete comfort. Pride of ownership is instant and lasting value is apparent because of advanced designing and careful planning of the growing room space for future needs.

Rarely is the homeowner offered such a feature as the growing room to accomodate his present and growing family. Plans are supplied by the builder so that each purchaser may finish his growing room to his own satisfaction, or if desired the builder will finish the growing room into one, two or three rooms complete with bath at a pre-established price. In addition to the growing rooms the new series includes models with covered patios that may also be converted into additional rooms.

* * * *

AMONG the features of the new Showcase Homes are a choice of 15 elevations that reflect Mediterranean and tropical influence, underground utilities; shake, shingle and rock roofing; front yard landscaping with sprinklers; preparation of each home for air conditioning; forced-air heat with summer ventilation fan; slate entry halls; custom light fixtures and architecturally designed fireplaces.

Choices are offered of gas or electric range, draperies, and carpeting. Other quality items found are glass lined water heaters, Waste King Hush disposers.

Showcase Homes, ideally located in Orange County are close to shopping centers, excellent schools of all ages, and churches of every denomination.

Furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

HAS 'GROWING ROOM'

Shown is one of the new third series Showcase Homes which features the "growing room" now on display at 8401 Kingsley St., Anaheim, by builder and developer William Krueger.

Sets Records in Spot Loans

Bradley Mortgage Co., Los Angeles, has set a second quarter record in the placement of VA and FHA spot loans in Southern California with an increase of over 70% of the previous period's recordings, it has been announced by Albert Yarbow, president.

The report noted that the uptrend in loan production of government-insured mortgages was continuing, with an increasing number of originations coming from the Long Beach area.

HISTORIC Plaza de la Independencia, dedicated to Ecador's war heroes, is a rare tourist attraction in the heart of Quito.

BEAUTY EVERYWHERE

Quito a Jewel Set in Andes

Recently Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways) inaugurated twice-weekly DC-8 jet service from Miami to Quito, Ecuador, cutting travel time between the two cities from 12½ hours to less than 5 hours. A group of American magazine and newspaper people went along. This is Travel Editor Kraft's fourth report on the South American trip.

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

QUITO, ECUADOR — They call this enchanting South American capital "the City of Eternal Spring."

That's because its 9,300-foot altitude is equalized by its location astride the equator. Result: temperatures from June to October (the ideal time to visit here) vary only from 50 to 65 degrees.

You could call Quito's a year-around climate because there are actually four seasons in each day: spring in the morning, summer at noon, fall in the late afternoon, and mild winter at night. The sun rises about 6 o'clock every morning and sets at 6 each evening 365 days in the year.

* * * *

PERHAPS another claim, that of being "the Jewel of the Andes," is a more valid one. Quito, located in a lofty Andean valley, is surrounded by towering mountains with a nearby snow-capped volcano. Its rows of myriad white buildings with red-tiled roofs that follow narrow cobblestone streets up formidable hills is a sight out of the past not easy to forget.

There's a breath-taking view from 800-foot Panecillo (Little Bread Loaf Hill) near the heart of the city, where Incas worshipped their Sun God. There you may look down on the old Spanish Colonial section of La Ronda, which somehow still preserves its air of mystery, romance and intrigue; the spires of 60 churches and cathedrals; the fashionable residential suburb of Mariscal Sucre, and the quaint souvenir and handicraft shops in the center of town.

* * * *

ANOTHER unforgettable experience is an early morning or late afternoon stroll through historic Plaza de la Independencia, dedicated to heroes of Ecuador's Wars for Independence. Dominated by an impressive torch-topped monument, the Plaza is surrounded by such fine examples of Spanish Colonial architecture as the Presidential Palace, city hall, Archbishop's Palace and Renaissance Cathedral, in which lies the tomb of the nation's liberator, Marshal Antonio Jose de Sucre.

But travelers do not come to Quito just to admire its physical charms. Many flock here expressly to see its wonderful Colonial architecture and art which is declared to be the most outstanding in the Southern Hemisphere.

During Colonial times Quito was, indeed, the art center of South America and even today its magnificent churches and famous museums hold masterpieces of painting and sculpture dating back four centuries.

* * * *

THE CHURCHES like La Compania, San Francisco, La Merced and San Agustin house priceless old paintings and works of sculpture. Their altars are carved like delicate lace. Galleries such as the Museum of Colonial Art, Franciscan Museum and Museum of Santo Domingo Monastery offer more masterpieces in art, Colonial religious paintings and sacred old objets d'art.

Quito is a pleasantly gay city by night. There are few night clubs but native music and dancing are popular in the cabarets. There is a weekly national lottery and, in the elegant new Hotel Quito, a gambling casino.

Fifty percent of the Ecuadorans are farmers. Another 100,000 make Panama hats which, oddly, have always been made here and not in Panama. There is little hunger and want, yet 27% of the population is illiterate.

* * * *

ECUADOR'S government has been run for 14 months by a four-man junta headed by Rear Adm. Ramon Castro Jijon, with its constitution suspended. However, the press and radio tell us they have absolute freedom of expression. Any other way would peril the climate of confidence which exists.

The junta promises to hold free elections—perhaps within a year—to restore Ecuador's democracy with a president.

Time alone will tell . . .

TRAVEL and RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"We will be taking a Matson cruise to Hawaii and would like to know if there is some custom about throwing your flower lei in the water."

THAT'S when you LEAVE the islands. If it drifts to shore you will return—when you save enough money.

"Any special arrangements we should make aboard the ship?"

IF THERE are two dinner sittings, the livelier cocktail people are on the second. And make an appointment with the hair dresser IMMEDIATELY for the day of the Captain's dinner. (The last minute ladies will be doing their own.)

"While we are in Honolulu, where would we shop for South Pacific presents?"

AT WAIKIKI, a compound of shops called International Settlement. Everything from Tahiti shell hats, band (the best) to imitation of the Leeteg paintings on black velvet (not so good).

Take one of the tours that go to the Polynesian Cultural Center at Laie, on the windward side of the island. This has villages and crafts of all these islands. The souvenir shop probably has the most authentic things. And the Center's well worth seeing, with a 25-course South Pacific dinner and show. About $2.50.

"Would you recommend Tahiti for an adventurous single girl?"

THINGS may have changed on Tahiti since they moved in a thousand French Foreign Legionaires. The local vahine competition is pretty stiff—there are a lot of pretty girls. It seems all right for popaa (white) boys to go out with local vahines. But not for popaa vahines to go out with local boys. However, with Foreign Legion in town . . .

" . . . or would you think more of Samoa?"

AMERICAN SAMOA didn't impress me much. Western Samoa is what the South Seas should look like. Samoans are architects of the Pacific and have wonderful villages.

Apia is a pretty little town. With absolutely nothing to do but wear a lava-lava wraparound, a hibiscus behind the ear and drink Scottish beer. There isn't the Boy-Meets-Girl action of Tahiti. A very strict island. Many churches. And entirely converted by the Mormons or the London Missionary Society.

"Is there a custom in the Pacific about wearing flowers behind the left or right ear?"

SO THEY SAY in Tahiti. And so they do. Behind the right ear, "one is taken." Behind the left, "one is searching." (By 10 and night, EVERYBODY has the flower on the port side car. Or so it seemed to me.)

"We are thinking of flying and then taking the boat to Australia but wonder if we should go to the Fiji Islands."

SUVA is a pleasant South Pacific town with a dressy sort of stiffness you find in British Crown Colonies. Starched whites and 4 o'clock tea. Nice breezy verandas and beer. (Many Australians.) Couple of very nice beach resorts. But bring along your own company.

"On shipboard, do we dress each night for dinner? Or how often?"

EVERY NIGHT is coat-and-tie, and about two-thirds of the men will be in dinner jackets. But if you are going to fly part of the time weight is a problem. So I do this with a dark suit. Or dark trousers, linen jacket and bow tie.

"Is it hard to get to the island of Bora Bora from Tahiti?"

ABOUT ONE HOUR flight time to Bora Bora, the prettiest of all islands in the South Pacific. But be sure you have your air ticket from the U. S. written with Bora Bora included. This costs no more than the ticket to Tahiti. But if Bora Bora is not written in when you buy the ticket, you must buy a separate ticket in Tahiti $40 more.

"Are there presents you should take to the Pacific Islands?"

FISH HOOKS don't score like they did in the days of Captain Cook. A pocketful of Mickey Mouse balloons will make you a hero with kids. For the maids, go down to the Chinese stores and get brightest print you can find.

P&O Steps Up Service

More than 4,000 additional berths will be available next year on P & O Orient Lines passenger ships sailing to and from Europe via the Panama Canal.

Part of the lines' round-world service, the Panama segment runs from the West Coast of North America to Europe via the Panama Canal, the Caribbean and the Atlantic.

The dramatic increase in Panama service was announced by George M. Turner, vice president-marketing, P & O-Orient, who said it was the result of a demand for Panama voyages "that far exceeded our supply both last year and this year."

Ports on route from Los Angeles include Acapulco, Balboa and Cristobal. From there the liners take one of two routes through the Caribbean — either by way of Nassau, Port Everglades (Florida), Nassau and Bermuda or by way of Cartegena (Colombia) and Trinidad. They then sail to Le Havre and London with some calls at Lisbon.

The line's 1965 program shows an increase in both eastbound and westbound voyages through Panama. The big British steamship company will have five voyages through the Canal to Europe next year, an increase of two voyages over 1964. Westbound from Europe through Panama, P & O-Orient plans five voyages in 1965 as compared with three this year.

Float and Eat

Stuttgart has a new floating restaurant. The "Lucullus," a former excursion steamer, seats 510 in its principal dining room on Main Deck. There is also a tavern decorated with nautical motifs, and the Upper Deck cafe seating 110; the covered decks can accommodate an additional 200 "passengers."

He's Hawaii's Big Kisser

"Nice work if you can get it," as the song goes, aptly describes the occupation of Peter Frithian, president of "Lei Greeters of Hawaii." Frithian, a six-foot, blond bachelor, kisses some 7,000 ladies a year at Hawaii International Airport, according to Pan American Airways.

The traditional kiss and flower lei greeting can be arranged through travel agents, hotels and friends of arriving guests. While Frithian handles the ladies himself, he has a staff of Hawaiian beauties who greet male visitors in similar fashion.

Like to Gad Weekends?

If you like weekend gadding, several Southland events to be held during the next week should interest you.

The zany Pioneer Pass Golf Challenge and World's Only 19th Hole starts Friday with nine holes of golf on the desert floor at Yucca Valley, then a 19th hole stretching 28 miles up historic Pioneer Pass to mile-high Big Bear Lake resort for nine more holes on Moonridge course. Golfers motor between shots up the pass. A bathing beauty is chosen "Miss Pioneer Pass."

Wednesday through Saturday: Stage Coach Days at Banning, with a barbecue Friday and the big parade on Sunday.

Wednesday through next Sunday: County Fair time at Ventura.

Friday through Sunday: For the 19th year, Delano celebrates the rich harvest of Kern County with a kids' costume parade, Grand Parade, outdoor Hootenanny, livestock show, RCA rodeo and coin show and sale.

Saturday and Sunday: Expert surfers compete at San Clemente in the fourth annual Surf Capades. There will be swimming races for adults and children in addition to men's, women's junior and tandem (two on a surfboard) wave riding contests.

Tourists Swarm to Acapulco

Acapulco, the plush "Riviera" on Mexico's Pacific Coast, is having the biggest tourist influx in its history.

And with the present occupancy rate of Acapulco's hotels and motels at the highest on record, Aeronaves de Mexico has increased its Mexico City-to-Acapulco flights from five to seven daily to meet the demand for seats.

Also, beginning Dec. 15, Los Angeles-Acapulco cruises start aboard the trans-Atlantic luxury liner SS Theodor Herzl.

(The number of persons who requested tourist cards to visit Mexico for the first six months of 1964 was 45% higher than a year ago, according to the Mexican National Tourist Council.)

IF YOU PLAN to drive to San Diego on a Monday or Tuesday to visit Sea World, don't. The $4.5 million sea life park is now closed on those days through the fall and winter, but will continue to operate Wednesdays through Sundays, 10 a.m. to dusk.

However, the park will remain available to large groups that wish to meet in the park on Mondays, Tuesdays, or any evening.

New Year's Eve in HAWAII

RANDOM TOURS has planned a seven-day vacation that will be long remembered—climaxed by a gala New Year's Eve dinner party in the world-famous Royal Hawaiian Hotel on the beach at Waikiki. Everyone will enjoy hotel accommodations in the beautiful Moana, home of radio's famous "Hawaii Calls." There will be "must" sightseeing trips, including the Pearl Harbor cruise, the Mt. Tantalus excursion, and the fun-packed night club tour. Lots of leisure time, too. Tour departs from Los Angeles via jet on December 26. Complete price is only $339. 'Janet Leigh Week'

She'll Dance on Monday With Andy Williams Then on Friday Try Her Hand at Drama

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Janet Leigh makes her dramatic television debut this week and also appears in a variety special.

In the past, Miss Leigh has confined her acting talents to movies, appearing on television only in a couple of variety shows. She will dance again at 9 p.m. Monday during "The Andy Williams Show" on channel 4.

Miss Leigh does her first television dramatic part in a segment of Bob Hope's anthology series at 8:30 p.m. Friday, channel 4. She plays a role opposite Bobby Darin, who makes one of his rare dramatic appearances on television.

* * * *

JANET describes her part as "a very interesting role," that of a housewife who meets another man and "because they met, tragedy happens."

"The executive producer, Dick Berg, has been talking to me for about a year and a half about doing something on the show," Janet said. "He's come up with a lot of good scripts, fine scripts for other people but they just didn't appeal to me. This time he came up with one that hits the jackpot, a Stirling Silliphant script. And there is a good combination of people."

Part of the reason for Miss Leigh's reluctance to try television acting was rooted in her fears about not having enough time to do the job properly. In movies she would work for days on a scene that television directors must film in a few hours.

* * * *

"A DRAMATIC television show is like doing a movie, only you do it in less time," she said. "So I was leery, wondering how you can do as good a job.

"But I found on this show that we take as much time on the scenes as we need to. And we don't have much time between scenes.

"If I'm going to get up

Some Lovable TV Types Who Love Publicity

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — With the television season open full blast, video executives are dispatching some of their biggest celebrities to the hinderland to form lasting friendships with the public. Fortunately, we were able to collar some of these celebrities for exclusive statements before they left. Remember, you read them here first.

Gary Crewcut, the handsome young leading man: "A scoop for you, baby. I'm forming my own production company. I'm 23 already, and if Frank Sinatra had my assurance he could be another me. Maybe you saw my last series, 'The Ensign.' It was great, but they didn't know what to do with me. The girls worship me, and I like some of them. The press releases describe me as rugged, which is about right."

Harry Middleground, the famous producer: "Well, look, it's true that this season I have a situation comedy, but I'm bidding for the rights to James Joyce's 'Ulysses,' Thomas Mann's 'The Magic Mountain' and Marcel Proust's 'Remembrance of Things Past,' as well as for all of D. H. Lawrence's works which look adaptable to television. Maybe you've seen my movies along these lines. I want to be identified with great things. Desperately."

* * * *

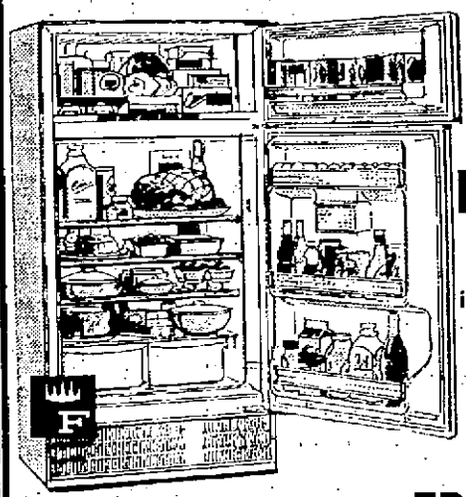

MAY MARKER, the legendary leading lady: "No matter how much one has achieved, one must be willing to gamble in experimental shows if one wants to mature in one's profession. That is why next season I will have a special entitled 'May Marker presents Labor Day with Bob Hope and a cast of thousands from the Hollywood Bowl.'"

Joe Golightly, the witty and successful writer: "I wish all scripts could be as easy as this first one for the series. Joy Bullocks, a great, truly great, comedienne is my favorite actress, and I had her in mind as I wrote. She reminds me of Carole Lombard and Shirley MacLaine, but she has something different. I don't know what it is, but it's star quality, and I can't figure out why she doesn't work more often. We didn't hire her either, but she's a fun girl."

LUCILLE BALL, in the role of Lucy Carmichael, takes skiing instructions from her bank manager, Mr. Mooney (Gale Gordon) on "The Lucy Show" Monday at 9 p. m. on channel 2.

The laughs are on Lucille Ball and Bob Hope when they star in the comedy "The Facts of Life" on "Sunday Night Movie" Sunday at 9 p. m. on channel 7.

HER NEW 'GAB' CAREER IS 'FUN'

Lucy Loves Her Recorder

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The inventor of television—little need to identify her as Lucille Ball— has discovered a broadcasting ancestor named radio and, naturally, taken it into camp by the simple expedient of batting those big blue eyes.

The reason that Miss Ball did not invent radio should be obvious. She doesn't go back that far.

In any event, the dynamic redhead is working both sides of the broadcasting street this season, and she is happy about it.

"CBS didn't have to twist my arm when it was suggested that I might want to take over the radio spot Garry Moore vacated along with his television program," she said. "I love radio.

* * * *

"I DID SOME radio work before television, but it was situation comedy stuff. I've never done this sort of thing before."

"This sort of thing" is a five-a-week, Monday-through-Friday morning "talk program."

"I find people wherever I can, and we gab," Miss Ball said. "We talk about everything and everybody. It's fun, not work."

For the purpose of taping the radio programs, the star takes a portable recording machine with her wherever she goes. It was with her here; it is on the set when she does her television rehearsals and filmings in Hollywood.

* * * *

"YOU NEVER know when you'll run into someone interesting," she explained. "Some of the interviews are planned, others are right off the cuff."

As for her TV series, "The Lucy Show," Miss Ball said: "I'll make 28 episodes altogether, and after we wind up in February or March, I'd like to make another movie. I've got the script. What I need is to get Fred MacMurray available at the right time."

Instead of the 8:30-9 p.m. Monday spot the video show had last season, Lucy is back at her former 9-9:30 period, and this pleases her.

"I've got 'To Tell the Truth,' 'I've Got a Secret' and 'The Andy Griffith Show' as lead-ins," she said, "and that isn't bad. Maybe I won't get as many of the younger kids as I would at 8:30, but I don't think that matters too much."

* * * *

MISS BALL is more at ease than she was a year ago when the responsibilities of Desilu Studios rested squarely on her shoulders. Oscar Katz, a former CBS program executive, has taken over the major chores.

"All I have to do now is to attend directors' meetings, policy sessions and approve or disapprove potential programs," she said. "So far as the studio is concerned, I can, sort of, relax. Oh, but we're busy! We may not have much on the air this season, but we have more than a dozen programs at one stage of development or another for the 1965-66 season—or beyond that even. You really have to work well ahead in this business these days."

The inevitable question—will she be back for a fourth season with "The Lucy Show"?

And the inevitable answer—"I don't know. Two or three times, I didn't think I'd be back this season. I lost my longtime writers; the network suggested a one-hour weekly show, with which I'm not about to kill myself; I wanted to do a series of specials which the network didn't want. So, here I am, back at the old stand. Who can tell about next season? All I know is that I'm not tired of working. I love it."

SHE PLANS A 'BROADSIDE' ATTACK ON EUROPE

Kathy Nolan Sets Her Sights Afar

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kathy Nolan, an effervescent, green-eyed redhead who has risen to the top of her bracket in television, is looking for new worlds to conquer.

"I've never been to Europe," Miss Nolan said. "Now, I think I'm about ready to go—but not quite.

"I'd like to read up on the history first, so I'll know where I am when I get there. Then I'd like to work somewhere over there for a while, really get to know the place.

"I don't want just to pan past the scene. I want to dolly right in and find out what it's like close up."

* * * *

THIS FALL, Miss Nolan achieved the stardom she has been seeking for—well, never mind how many years. It's enough to say that she made her dramatic debut at the age of 13 months, and she is now over 21.

She is best known as a television actress, and it is in that medium she is starring as Lt. Anne Morgan in "Broadside," an ABC situation comedy series originating in Hollywood's Universal City studios.

Miss Nolan was a mainstay of "The Real McCoys" for five years, and she has worked in a number of other television shows both in Hollywood and in New York.

* * * *

SHE ALSO has had considerable stage experience, including an award-winning Broadway performance as Wendy in the Mary Martin version of "Peter Pan." She still likes to perform for a live audience when the opportunity offers.

Just before starting work on "Broadside," she toured the Middle West in a production of the play, "Sunday in New York."

"Broadside" is the story of a small WAVE detachment assigned to operate the motor pool at a Navy base on a small island during World War II, or a reasonable approximation thereof.

KATHY NOLAN

The series is being produced without the slightest assistance from the U.S. Navy.

* * * *

"THERE'S a big WAVE in Washington who doesn't like the title, although she doesn't know much about the show," Miss Nolan said. "I don't know whether she saw the first episode."

"I went to a luncheon recently where there were three admirals. They told me 'McHale's Navy' is a terrible show—and then they proceeded to tell me everything McHale has ever done. They may hate the show just as much as they say they do, but they certainly do watch it!"

JOAN STALEY and Lois Roberts meet the problem of too much Navy chow face to face with a crash diet program that includes sweat suits borrowed from frogmen on "Broadside" Sunday at 8:30 p. m. on channel 7.

Filmdom Nervously Watches A Potential Giant: Pay-TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Here in Hollywood, a great many movie actors and other film workers keep waiting for signs of a clear, positive breakthrough of pay-TV and its implicit, immense promise of added employment.

That is why the obstacle course faced by the fledgling Los Angeles-San Francisco pay-TV operation, Subscription Television Inc. (STV), with its national implications, is of increasing interest each day. It is a course that sometimes seems as ominous as a mile-wide logjam.

Well known by now is the fierce fight being waged by supporting of the so-called "free-TV" movement against pay-TV. They have, in fact, succeeded in getting on the November ballot the question of whether pay-TV should be banned in the state. If the vote count goes against pay-TV, then STV's very existence will be threatened.

* * * *

THUS STV has had to spend a small fortune, right at its start, fighting back. Against the opposition of movie theater exhibitors, with their weight at the major studios, the pay-TV firm has also had to scramble to get new motion pictures — and even these are not quite first-run, but rather about nine months old, at least. And new movies are a prime backbone of pay-TV.

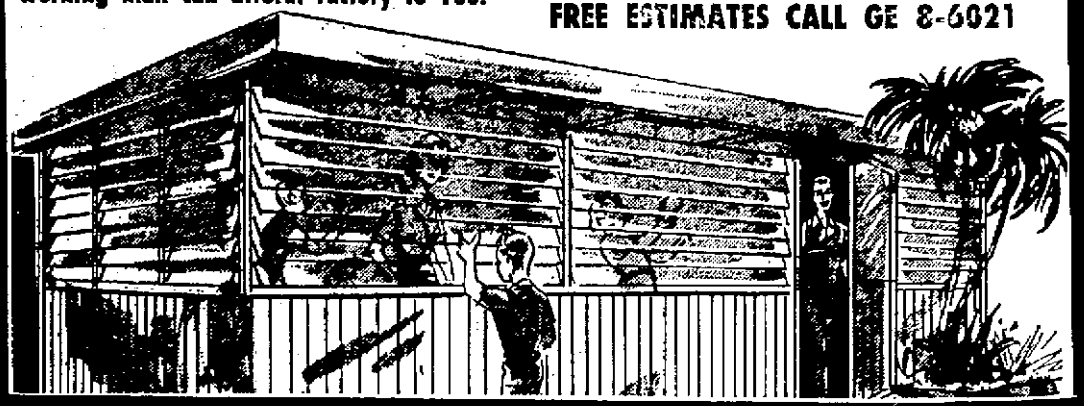

FURTHERMORE, the networks are doing their best to sign up for long-term contracts the major sports events which are probably as essential as new movies to pay-TV. In addition, CBS not long ago bought the New York Yankees, which some observers consider strong protection for network television against a possible pay-TV invasion of the nation's biggest city.

* * * *

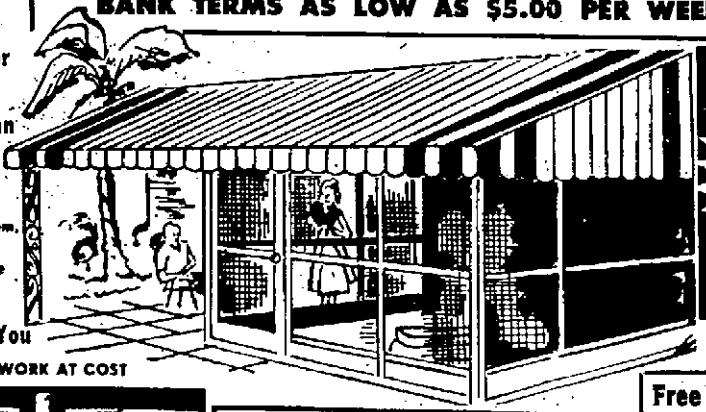

EARLY tabulating at STV have illustrated the obvious: That movies and sports get most of the big audiences. It is no surprise that the so-called cultural attractions have not done as well numerically. But in any case, it is no secret that STV officials have been taking a sharp look very recently at the entire production setup, and at viewer habits. In the "culture" area, more competition will be faced by STV from the new Los Angeles educational television channel, which has a huge backlog of shows from other educational stations around the country.

The Screen Actors Guild has signed a contract with STV. But once again the movie studios—which might have controlled television in the first place if they had not been blind to its potential—may blow the chance to be dominant in a major new entertainment field which could be theirs because of their prime product.

"MARGOT! CALL THE TV REPAIRMAN — OUR SET'S STUTTERING VISUALLY!"

You don't need glasses...

You need a new WINEGARD COLORTRON ANTENNA

You need a more-powerful TV antenna to clear up that picture. One that takes more of the signal from the airwaves, and amplifies it before it reaches your set. When your set receives a strong, clean signal from the antenna, your picture becomes sharp, clear, bright... more enjoyable.

Model for model, Winegard's new electronic Colortrons are the world's most powerful antennas. Distant stations come in clearer and sharper. Snow and interference are reduced or eliminated.

For color or black & white, you can't own a finer antenna for best reception. Priced from $64.90. Antenna without electronic amplifier $24.95 up.

FOR DENNIS WEAVER—A NEW STRIDE

Chester Limps No Longer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It was the first day of shooting on the "Kentucky Jones" television series — a pressure-packed moment.

Director Buzz Kulik called, "All right, this is a take."

The cameras whirred.

Dennis Weaver, star of the show, was walking onto the scene when unaccountably his right knee locked. Stiffly, he limped into the familiar figure of Chester Goode, the dim-witted deputy marshal of "Gunsmoke!"

* * * *

NINE YEARS in the role had so conditioned Weaver to the beloved character of Chester that his reflexes took over. His slip was enough to amuse cast and crew. It also marked the end of Chester in Weaver's subconscious. From now on he's Kenneth Yarborough Jones.

"I'm doing everything possible to make a clear distinction between Kentucky Jones and Chester Goode," he said.

"Obviously, because I can't change my face, the characters will look alike. But I'm watching my carriage, speech, rhythm and mannerisms to make them different as I can.

"I've also changed my hair style, clothes and environment. Kentucky Jones lives in a contemporary setting and drives a sports car."

IN ADDITION to shaking the dust of the Old West, Weaver is faced with the responsibility of carrying the weight of a leading character. In his years with "Gunsmoke!" Jim Arness shouldered the leading role, leaving Weaver with the goodies that fall to character parts.

Living with the ghost of Chester has made Weaver uneasy. There is a possibility viewers may resent his new NBC-TV character for putting an end to whining, inept but lovable Chester.

"People are pretty fair," he said, "I don't think they'll reject Kentucky before he has a chance to prove himself.

* * * *

Weaver, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, appears younger and brighter in his new role; certainly his I.Q. will be higher.

Weaver, who owns four racing thoroughbreds, used to take a few days off from time to time and spend them at the track. A supporting player has that sort of freedom.

"NOW THERE'S no letup," he said. "Almost every free moment is spent studying lines and working on scripts.

"The responsibility of playing the lead has given me a new view of the various elements and departments that go into a series—the direction, camera work, publicity, all of it.

"I want to see it come out with a good rating and as a quality product. The two can be combined, and we're determined to see that it's done."

Good old Chester Goode wouldn't have known what in heck he was talking about.

When Kentucky (Dennis Weaver) acts depressed his adopted son decides to arrange for a mail-order bride, played by June Kim, in "Kentucky Jones" Saturday at 8:30 p. m. on channel 4.

SPECIAL

YOUNG MARRIEDS — Premiere. Pleased with the success of its "General Hospital," ABC launches another daytime serial at 3:30 p.m., ch. 7, replacing "Queen for a Day." Peggy McCay, Paul Picerni, Lee Meriwether, Scott Graham, Floy Dean and Mike Mikler star as three young couples in the suburb of a city.

CAPTURE! — Premiere. Cameraman-narrator Arthur Jones takes viewers on weekly safaris with wild game hunters. Opener, at 7 p.m. in color, ch. 13, hunts mountain lion in a Mexican jungle, with the yellow-billed toucan the in-studio animal "guest" of the week.

MURPHY-SALINGER Debate — The two candidates for U.S. Senator from California meet in a face-to-face debate at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2, live from the KNXT studios. Grant Holcomb is moderator, spelling out the ground rules for hour which also will air on radio stations KNX and KLAC.

90 BRISTOL COURT — Premiere. Three new, separate but related half-hour family comedies debut at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4. Linked by a common theme and setting, stories concern three families in a Southland apartment court—centering around a swinging teenager (7:30), a man battling the "system" (8) and a young intern (8:30). Guy Raymond, playing a handyman, is the only character common to all three.

ANDY WILLIAMS — 3rd season premiere. The Emmy - nominated musical hour more than doubles its schedule for an almost-weekly stand at 9 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Jack Benny, Janet Leigh, Jonathan Winters, the Osmond Brothers and the Good Time Singers help out on the opener. (Winters, incidentally, is set to star in six NBC specials which will preempt Andy about each fifth week.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK — 10th season premiere. The master of suspense, seen in half-hour format on NBC in 1960-62, switches back to ch. 4 at 10 p.m. Opening hour stars Peter Fonda and Robert Emhardt in the story of a poor southern farm boy who patiently learns a trade that will enable him to get revenge on the crooked political boss who murdered his father.

BUT THIS TIME, NEWHART ISN'T GOING IT ALONE

The Button-Down Mind Snaps Back

BOB NEWHART

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those television viewers who felt a loss when Bob Newhart's program went off the air a while back can smile again. The comedian with the "Button-Down Mind" trademark is back in business on a regular basis.

And it's under conditions that probably are better for his career. He no longer has to "carry" a whole show by himself.

Newhart is not a bold, boisterous comic who can survive season after season out of sheer momentum and impact. He is a deft operator, who uses finesse and attacks the visible target with a rapier instead of a bludgeon.

* * * *

NEWHART, Carol Burnett and Caterina Valente are the stars of the new one-hour variety series "The Entertainers" that airs Friday nights at 8:30. They are supported by some outstanding featured performers and singing and dancing choruses in a show that the network hopes will be a little different than the usual program of this type.

"My weekly contribution," Newhart said, "will be a six-minute-or-so monologue and participation in various sketches with the others. Actually, it won't quite be weekly. The three of us are scheduled to appear on an average of three out of every four shows."

The comedian was interviewed between rehearsals for, of all things, the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs.

* * * *

"WE GET those out of the way now, taping them, so we'll all have a little free holiday time," Newhart explained. The first shows were taped live before an audience just a couple of hours before air time.

"That is the plan that will be followed from now on," Newhart said. "We couldn't do the show really live because Carol, you know, is starring on Broadway in the musical 'Fade Out — Fade In,' and the times are in direct conflict."

Newhart hasn't suffered any from being off the air as a regular performer for the past two seasons. His own half-hour show on NBC was in the 1961-62 season. He still makes the humorous recordings that first brought him fame, and he has been in constant demand for television guest star appearances.

* * * *

"I GOT INTO this program because I have confidence in producer Bob Banner, with whom I've had the pleasure of working a number of times as a guest star on the old Garry Moore program, which he produced," the comedian said. "I think this is a refreshing departure in the variety field, and I don't have to carry the whole load."

As usual, Newhart is functioning as his own writer, with assistance in this case from experienced comedy writer Phil Green.

"Of course, there are half a dozen other writers for the program as a whole," Newhart said. "We have an entire floor as an office in the Park Sheraton Hotel. I've found I can't write at home. I go to the office and write — you know, it's Jackie Gleason's old production center—and then fall right into the rehearsal hall on the floor below and try out the material. Very convenient."

Less '20th Century'

There will be six fewer "Twentieth Century" programs this season because of CBS-TV's innovation of Sunday doubleheaders of National Football League games.

'Reporter': a Blend of Fact and Fancy

NEW YORK (UPI)—In real-life, a reporter has a ringside seat at history but he is rarely involved personally in the stories he covers. But on television, the journalist is usually a handsome fellow with the power to make or break Presidents, solve murders, settle international crisis and—at the same time—win the girl.

HARRY GUARDINO

Some months ago, CBS chief James Aubrey wondered whether it was possible to reconcile truth and fiction so that a reporter would emerge who would be recognizable to the men who ply the craft and at the same time retain the dramatic magnetism with which Hollywood and TV films have invested the Fourth Estate.

His executives were dubious. But Aubrey had an idea. He called in one of the most expert and successful authors of the day, Jerome Weidman, and asked him to try to embody his conception in a script. The name of the new one-hour series that flowed from Weidman's gifted pen in "The Reporter."

* * * *

WEIDMAN, a best-seller from the first of his 15 novels—"I Can Get It for You Wholesale"—and writer of the Pulitzer Prize-winning musical "Fiorello," said he was just as uncertain as the CBS executives when he first considered Aubrey's suggestion.

"But then Aubrey mentioned that he was thinking of someone like the late John Garfield, and that brought it right into focus for me. What we wanted was an intestinal character, not an intellectual one, and the role of the reporter, Danny Taylor, began to build up immediately in my mind.

"He would have worked his way up to the staff from copy boy—a man with a low boiling point for injustice and a highly developed sense of news. We cast Harry Guardino for the role. Danny would have a city editor who would be his conscience, his mentor and at times his tormenter. Gary Merrill plays him and his name is Lou Sheldon."

"We're just waiting for some critics to complain about the lack of physical authenticity," he said at lunch the other day. "We filmed the pilot—with guest stars Walter Pidgeon and Anne Francis—right in the old office of the now defunct New York Mirror. Then we had the city room of the tabloid reproduced exactly in the studio. You can't get much more authentic than that."

* * * *

"I KNOW how newspapermen feel about reporters who are physically and emotionally involved in all their stories on television," he said. "So Danny is not always directly in the story. Sometimes he is on the rim of the story watching it happen and the audience is with him as he assembles the information he will need for his paper. But in most cases, Danny is a vital part of what happens on the screen. Something gets him angry and being a good newspaperman, he digs into the story."

SPECIAL

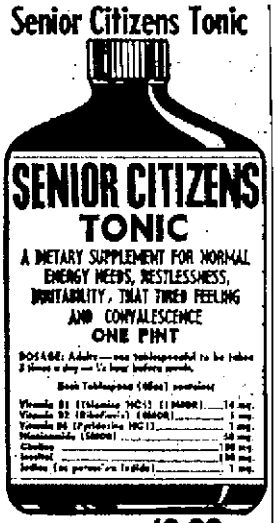

DEATH VALLEY DAYS—13th season premiere. Ronald Reagan takes over as host for TV's only dramatic series owned and distributed by its sponsor, as show goes 100% color at 7 p.m., ch. 4. Opener stars Tom Skerritt and Don Haggerty as a trooper and his pet one-eyed mule save a cavalry fort from the Indians.

CBS REPORTS—6th season premiere. Martin Agronsky is reporter for the remarkable story of an obscure Florida convict who changed the structure of the American legal system when his hand-written petition to the Supreme Court paved the way to a 1963 ruling that a man has an absolute right to counsel in a felony case. Based on Anthony Lewis' best-seller, 7:30 p.m. ch. 2 hour interviews principals in the triumph of Clarence Earl Gideon, including the director of the Florida prison system who tells what happened to the 1,000 prisuners released as a direct result of the decision. Justice Arthur J. Goldberg comments on the case's ramifications.

SHINDIG—The Beatles introduce their newest song as one of four they offer at 8:30 p.m., ch. 7. Series producer Jack Good returned to his native England to tape the all-British show, which includes Sounds, Inc., Tommy Quickly, Karl Denver, The Carefrees, Sandie Shaw and American-born P. J. Proby.

PROJECT 120—John Forsythe, Senta Berger, Jane Wyatt, Franchot Tone, Leslie Nielsen, Pamela Franklin and George Kennedy star in a 2-hour dramatization of Michael Blankfort's novel of intrigue, "The Widow Makers," first of two NBC dramas to be distributed abroad as movies after their teleshowing. Ch. 4, 9 p.m. color special tells of 3 orphaned children who unwittingly become the targets of an international revolutionary syndicate.

Aldo Rey Returns to the Fold

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Aldo Ray, a star a few years ago until he bumped into career trouble, is back in Hollywood making a movie for the first time since 1958.

For much of the past six years, Aldo has been in Europe where he worked in pictures. He returned to Hollywood some time ago, but his film roles have been few. Occasionally he worked on television.

He described his career as one which "telescoped down" to the point where it was almost nonexistent.

• • • •

"FORTUNATELY, when I made those five pictures in Italy, my money was invested," he said. "So I had no financial problems."

Aldo, a onetime constable in a Northern California town, watched the jobs go by. He watched them go by him to other actors.

ALDO RAY

"So I started thinking," he said. "I used to be hotter than heck."

What happened, and what to do about it? He thought.

"I started to break it down," he explained. "And I broke it down this way. When I was at Columbia Studio I had 60 people at the studio working for me and my career. And when I left the studio I had nobody."

• • • •

ALDO DECIDED to build an organization which would revitalize his career.

"I want to grab the bull by the horns," he said. "I'm doing that by getting myself into condition. I had let myself get fat. When I got back from Italy I weighed 286 pounds."

The coarse-voiced Aldo has trimmed himself down to 207 pounds, a frame he wears much better than his fat-man image.

"I went on a diet, cut out drinking and put myself under a doctor's care for 70 days."

• • • •

ALDO'S self-discipline has paid off. The word gets around Hollywood fast when an actor is trying to overcome his problems and rejoin the fold of working performers.

Apparently producers have been hearing about Aldo's self-improvement program. He was recently hired to appear in the "Sylvia" movie.

"I've also got a Bob Hope show and a Bonanza coming out," he said.

As an indication of his new regimen, Aldo left the luncheon table to return to the "Sylvia" set at Paramount Studio fifteen minutes before the noon break was over.

The old Aldo would have hung around for a few more courses of spaghetti.

early and go to work, I want to work. You know how everybody says, 'Wait until you do a television show, you work from eight o'clock in the morning until eight at night with no time off.' I like it that way. My interest is kept up."

Miss Leigh said that her reluctance to appear on television has made her presence now "very desirable" for producers seeking faces that haven't had too much exposure on the medium.

"By not making myself too available I've become very desirable somehow, only because television can never have enough people," she said. "It's a marvelous monster, it devours people. They're always in need of people who've not been exposed very often."

There's a possibility that Janet might do a regular series. She's discussing the idea with a major film producer. Miss Leigh said she also has commitments to do six pictures.

Efficient Lint Filter
Zinc-coated Steel Cabinet with Safety Door
The Maytag Halo of Heat Gas Dryer has the big difference in automatic dryers — a gentle circle of even heat and safe, low temperatures. There are no "hot spots" in a Maytag Dryer so you can dry your most delicate fabrics without worry. Yet the Maytag Gas Dryer is so fast it can dry a load of 32 diapers in 32 minutes. And its full, family-size capacity lets you dry as much as you can wash at one time. Maytag's efficient lint filter eliminates lint problems too. Maytag Halo of Heat Gas Dryers also have an "air fluff" setting that provides tumbling and air flow without heat. Wonderful for fluffing shag rugs and chenille bedspreads.

Video Awakens to the Sound of Music

NEW YORK (UPI) — The lights went up in the television preview room and the producer said, somewhat apologetically:

"It will be much better, of course, with the music."

What he meant was that the love scene, which seemed so lethargic in the preliminary version, would be lifted into the tender episode envisaged in the script when the background music was added.

Considering that Hollywood discovered the importance of music with the birth of sound more than 35 years ago and that composers have played an honored and integral role in film-making ever since, it seems odd that television should only recently have reached the same realization.

* * * *

BUT THE current season is really the first in which TV producers have sought out the best modern composers with the aim of getting the strongest possible help from music for their programs — and possibly a hit parade song or instrumental as well. The best-selling "Peter Gunn Theme," to name only one, was a powerful advertisement for the series every time it was played by disc jockeys — a fact not lost on other producers.

One of the men most responsible for this new awareness of the ability of the right music to enhance the value of a program is Judge Robert Burton, president of Broadcast Music, Inc., who has been campaigning for years to attract the finest writing talent to the medium.

* * * *

BURTON, as head of one of the two great American agencies devoted to collecting royalties for composers and lyricists, has used the power of his position to make it financially attractive for men such as Dave Brubeck, Pete Candoli, Nelson Riddle and Pete Rugolo to move into television from the recording field.

"Not so many years ago," he said, "a producer would simply rent a tape of mood music recorded anonymously in Europe and use it for background. The cowboys always seemed to be riding into town to the same clip-clop. The argument seemed to be that the public would not know the difference. But they were wrong. Americans are sensitive to music. We listen to and buy more of it than any nation on earth.

"I remember talking to the late Dick Powell some 10 years ago about what could be done to give background music more individuality. We at BMI then decided that one way to do it was to persuade our top writing talent that the medium was worthwhile artistically — and financially."

* * * *

BURTON, a chunky crewcut legal wizard credited with helping make Nashville the country music capital of the United States, said that almost all of the 39 new prime time series of the 1964-65 season have notable scores, many of them written by composers affiliated with his group.

Among the writers who hope to have you whistling their tunes this season are:

Paul Anka, who has written a new theme for the NBC-TV Johnny Carson "Tonight" show.

Jack Heller and Howard Greenfield, who have composed a theme song for the new ABC-TV "Bewitched" series.

Greenfield and Helen Miller, who have written a new theme for the "Hazel" series and Barry Mann and Cynthia Weill, who have turned out a theme song for the "Farmer's Daughter" series.

Dave Brubeck, who has written the theme for the new Craig Stevens CBS-TV series, "Mr. Broadway."

In the theme and background music department, Lionel Newman has taken on three new shows—"Peyton Place," "Valentine's Day" and "Daniel Boone." Riddle is writing two new shows — "The Rogues" and "Profiles in Courage," the NBC-TV adaptation of President Kennedy's book.

Sports Today

J. C. FOOTBALL, 8 p.m., ch. 13, has Bill Brundidge and Don Paul at the Rose Bowl for the Compton-Pasadena clash.

SPECIAL

CHRYSLER THEATER — Third musical star this week to make a dramatic TV debut (following Bobby Rydell on "Combat" and Robert Goulet of "Kraft") is Janet Leigh, who follows up her Monday guestint with Andy Williams by co-starring with singer-turned-actor Bobby Darin in Stirling Silliphant's probing story of a killing and its consequences at 8:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Janet plays a suburban sexpot who strays from hearth and home once too often, to become a victim of a strangler who could go unpunished because of a legal technicality. Lloyd Bochner, Eduard Franz and Ivan Dixon are featured.

OLYMPICS OPENING — Traditional opening ceremonies of the 1964 games in Tokyo, beamed across the Pacific by the new Syncom III satellite, are seen at 1 a.m., ch. 4. You'll see the entrance of Emperor Hirohito, parade of athletes, address by Avery Brundage asking the Emperor to proclaim open the games, raising of the Olympic flag, arrival of Olympic flame and athletes taking the Olympic oath. Satellite coverage is seen here by 3-hour delay from the east, which is ridiculous! Let New Yorkers stay up; we could see it earlier.

Monster With a Martyr's Smile

THE TWO FACES OF FRED GWYNNE

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Fred Gwynne, the horse-faced cop in the defunct "Car 54, Where Are You?" series, now plays a horse-faced monster in a new show titled "The Munsters."

Even under layers of makeup, Gwynne's pleasant equine features shine through the Frankenstein's monster facade.

But his smile hides a martyr's disposition.

In the old series Gwynne donned a policeman's uniform and he was ready to go. Now he must spend two hours in the makeup chair every morning while scars, bulging brow and wig are applied. In the evening it requires an hour to take it off.

* * * *

AS IF THAT weren't bad enough, the 6-foot, 6-inch Gwynne is the cynosure of the Universal lot whenever he leaves the set. Children tag after him, adults make unfunny jokes and everybody stares.

The result is a noticeable and furtive darting of the eyes on Gwynne's part. He's jumpy.

Seated in the Universal commissary for a quick lunch, Gwynne was accosted by a joker who asked: "You working today, Fred?"

A weak grin flashed under the gruesome makeup: "Yeah, I'm working," he answered. "This isn't my real face."

* * * *

ANOTHER visitor stopped to ask, "It must be hot in there."

"Yeah, it's hot in here," Gwynne answered mechanically.

Gwynne is an unusual actor. He is splendidly educated (Groton and Harvard), a former advertising copywriter, an accomplished painter and the author of two books. But acting is where the big money lies, and Fred is picking it up with both hands.

Wryly he says, "Someday I hope to become a leading man in romantic movies. That'll be about five years from now when long, horse-faced men come into vogue. The Joe E. Ross type (his co-star in "Car 54") will come into fashion about five years after that."

* * * *

LIKE MANY a New Yorker, Gwynne is chary about moving permanently to Hollywood. He's renting a home atop Mulholland Drive, but leaves the engine running in his car in the event the CBS-TV comedy bombs.

"I hope to gravitate back to New York when this show is over," Gwynne said. "I'd like to do a musical or a play on Broadway. I just feel more at home on the East Coast."

Another visitor stopped by the table to scrutinize Gwynne's makeup. Apparently satisfied that the green, yellow, red and blue greasepaint did not represent Gwynne's true colors, he departed without a word.

* * * *

GWYNNE sighed. "I get all kinds of reactions," he said. "One day an actress looked in while I was being made up, and just for the heck of it I chased her down the hall for laughs. But she went into hysterics and it took hours to calm her down."

A woman diner at a nearby table took one look at the actor and turned her head; her face was a mask of revulsion.

"See what I mean?" Gwynne concluded, his eyes darting furtively.

IF YOU ARE LOSING YOUR HAIR...

CONSIDER THIS REMARKABLE RECORD

TUROFF OFFICES IN 10 CALIFORNIA CITIES HAVE GIVEN OVER 1¼ MILLION SUCCESSFUL TREATMENTS. CLIENT SATISFACTION IS CAUSING US TO GROW—AND GROW. JOIN US!

IT HAPPENS every day now. A young man realizes that he's losing more hair than he should. A middle-aged woman discovers that the softness of her hair is caused by its thinning away. Young women who have "tried everything" decide that what they need is professional attention. And middle-aged men see the first signs of the baldness they dread and wonder what is to be done.

NOWADAYS QUITE A LOT CAN BE DONE

Much more than most people think. Nowadays success comes to many people who, not long ago, would have been told that their cases were hopeless.

JUST AS TEETH are destroyed by our "soft" civilized diet, it is conceivable that our hair suffers from our "soft" civilized way of living. Physical inaction, lack of fresh air, inadequate hair and hygiene habits, and nervous stress of modern living may all reflect unfavorably on man's hair growth. From their years of experience in successfully treating hair and scalp disorders, the specialists in the Turoff System have proven that modern men can avoid baldness by counteracting the effects of "soft" civilized living with a "hard" vigorous system of scalp hygiene. THE UNUSUAL SUCCESS of the Turoff System in administering over 1¼ million treatments supports this theory strongly. The inescapable truth is . . . premature thinning of the hair, or actual baldness, is inevitable for many men and women . . . UNLESS CORRECT SCALP HYGIENE IS BEGUN EARLY.

PREPARATION

Much must be done, before the actual Turoff treatment, to condition the scalp properly. First your scalp is thoroughly examined. Every individual is thoroughly examined in complete privacy and an individual course of treatments is determined. No two cases are ever identical, neither are the treatments.

COMPLETE PRIVACY

COMPLETE PRIVACY—No one but you and the Turoff consultant know of your visit. For those finding difficulty in attending Turoff's, a specially prepared Home Treatment Kit can be prepared for your particular requirements (after office consultation).

S. I. Turoff, Director, Turoff Hair and Scalp Experts, now demonstrates remarkable new methods. No appointment needed, for free examination and 30-minute trial treatment.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM S. I. TUROFF

Our new methods are exciting! There is a number of people who wait, till hopeless baldness develops. If you have a hair-loss problem, you should act NOW! I'll make it EASY! Take this pleasant, remarkable 30-minute treatment on a TRIAL basis. PAY NOTHING unless you decide to continue. Don't miss this!

Sincerely,
S. I. TUROFF

NEW WAY TO THICKER, HEALTHIER HAIR

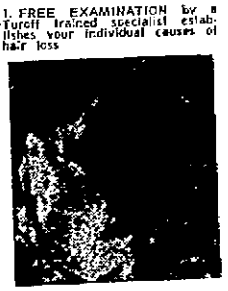

Only Turoff offers exclusive laboratory created formulas and scientific electro-therapy perfected by Turoff technicians to produce these amazing results. You owe it to yourself and your hair future to provide the best—the unique Turoff treatment!

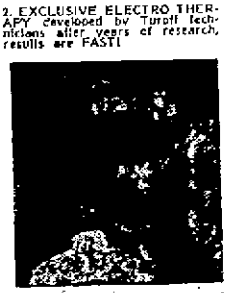

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss

2. EXCLUSIVE ELECTRO THERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research, results are FAST!

3. EXCLUSIVE MEDICATION. Turoff formulas, laboratory produced, another step on the road to a strong healthy hair-bed.

4. PROFESSIONAL MASSAGE. A skilled and trained assistant revitalizes, tones and loosens scalp so tissues can grow.

"I'll START LATER"

We have seen more people get hopelessly bald with this attitude than for any other reason. Baldness does not wait! you must have hair for us to help you.

GROWTH CYCLE

Every 4-5 years, every hair is replaced by a new hair. If the hair is weak and colorless, at this point, it may denote approaching baldness—although the hair root is still alive. Turoff's exclusive treatment can promote the growth of hair at this crucial point

TUROFF HAS A NEW SCIENTIFIC METHOD

Turoff treats the problem of premature baldness scientifically with their own exclusive chemical, physical and electro therapy. Turoff clinics alone provide this remarkably successful therapy. Exact formulas and therapy are known only to Turoff. No imitations can equal its power. So astounding have been the results that Turoff has grown from one clinic to ten clinics and become California's leading hair specialists. Prove this scientific thoroughness for yourself.

FREE EXAMINATION

Step into Turoff Hair Treatment Clinic for an absolutely FREE consultation and examination—without obligation! Let him tell you frankly, whether your hair or scalp problem is under Turoff's scope of treatment—and if not—he will refer you to the proper medical or other treatment you require. Your FREE examination and consultation is conducted in private.

OUR COVER

Green-gowned to reduce glare, today's surgical team indulges not only in conventional operating-room talk (i. e., "Kocher," "mosquito," "sponge," "Kelly") but also uses new terms such as "Start the pump" (for heart-lung machines), "Cryoprobe" (the cold knife of brain surgery) or simply, "Tape" (in lieu of "suture"). Staff photographer Roger Coar "scrubbed in" at St. Mary's Long Beach Hospital for this view of a modern-day operating room. For medical-science writer Ben Zinser's report of the explosion of medical advances that has occurred in the past 25 years, turn to Page 8.

NEXT WEEK

It has been called a pescatorial Pageant of the Masters and a seagoing Tournament of Roses. Call it what you will, the Fishermen's Fiesta of Los Angeles Harbor is gay, ribald, solemn—and spectacular. This year's event, scheduled Oct. 23-25, will be no exception. Next week, Southland tells you about the 1964 event, which should be one of the best yet.

ONCE EVERY YEAR IT HAPPENS . . .

The Madness That Is the World Series

By Hoyt McAfee

WITH another World Series coming up this week, those of us who love baseball should remember that, in the beginning, it was modeled after two English pastimes — cricket and rounders. In early colonial days those who tried to play this "wild and dangerous" new sport — it was called "basteball" back then—usually got the bum's rush.

In 1786, as an illustration, two rag-tag teams started a game on an open field outside Princeton, N. J. Barely had the umpire signaled "batter up" than the boom was lowered on them. Out came a procession of irate village officials to announce that "basteball" had been banned and that those caught playing it thereafter would be subject to arrest!

But all attempts to suppress it proved futile, much like trying to extinguish a spreading forest fire with a broom. "Bootleg" teams practiced and played in hideaway places, with sentries posted at strategic points to sound the alarm — just in case snoopy officials should venture that way.

THIS HIDE-AND-SEEK version of "basteball" flourished till 1820. By then frowns of disapproval had softened considerably or disappeared altogether, so that games could be played openly. This applied in particular to such cities as New York, Philadelphia, Boston. These contests were — it should be added—informal, spur-of-the-moment affairs, strictly of the sandlot variety.

On June 19, 1846, hundreds of eager and curious fans in Hoboken, N. J., witnessed the first professional baseball game on record. A slow-poke invitation was sent to James Knox Polk, the first "dark horse" candidate ever to win the presidential election, to attend it. He received the free pass at the White House too late to use it.

It would appear, however, that Polk missed little, or no, excitement. As proof of that, a club named the New York Nine took on and trounced their opponents, The Knickerbockers. After 4 innings of play, the score stood 23 to 1 in favor of the New York Nine! At that point someone with authority mercifully called off the runaway game.

From that dipsy-doodle, shake-rattle-and-roll start, baseball slowly and painfully evolved into the pastime we know today. When World Series' time arrives each year, a "feverish" condition grips the devotees of this sport throughout the nation.

AS A ONE-TIME baseball reporter, it strikes me that World Series' competition almost invariably produces a hero, a goat, one supercharged dramatic moment, and—of course—two, three, or more surprises.

An example was the tension and the feeling of electric excitement that built up on Oct. 8, 1956, in the game between the New York Yankees and the old Brooklyn Dodgers. Inning after inning rolled by with big Don Larsen moving closer with each pitch to a perfect no-hit game.

He had the whole nation hanging on each toss of the ball. By the ninth inning, when the "perfecto" was almost in the bag, even the most rabid Dodger fan had forgotten to root for his favorite team. When Don Larsen finally scaled the Mt. Everest of the baseball world with his flawless gem, the most dedicated of Yankee haters, secretly if not openly, cheered for him.

Only last year, in that opening World Series' game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Bronx Bombers, Yankee pinch-hitter Harry Bright suddenly became a villain to spectators and TV watchers alike. That was the tense moment when Sandy Koufax needed only one more strikeout to set a new Worlds Series' record of 15. It proved the single most dramatic incident of the series as Sandy carefully worked on the batter -- finally uncorking a swift one to make Bright his 15th whiff victim.

Sandy Koufax became the strikeout king of the World Series when he whiffed 15 in 1963.

Don Larson got this kind of embrace from Yogi Berra when he pitched perfect game.

THERE WAS ALSO a nerve-tingling instance in the seventh game between the San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees in 1962. Massive-shouldered William McCovey swung away with all his power and the crack of the bat fleetingly ignited the hopes of Giant rooters. Then—whoosh—the cannonball shot was hauled down by second-sacker Bobby Richardson. It was perhaps the most resounding finale to a World Series in recent baseball history.

But, for my money, the most thrilling moment in any fall classic came when the New York Yankees of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, and other mighty sluggers tangled with the St. Louis Cards. Grover Cleveland Alexander —who established a National League record with 16 shutouts in one season — mowed down the Yanks' famed "murderers' row" with admirable skill.

At the most crucial moment of the series, the big Cardinal right-hander was suddenly summoned from the bullpen to try to snuff out a late-inning Yank rally. He had had very little rest when he entered the game. With Yankee runners on the base paths and dangerous "Push-Em-Up" Tony Lazerri at bat, Alexander faced the toughest challenge

Romantic and holding secret treasures, this paper castle is right for a children's party.

By Lorena Fleissig

ROMANTIC and mysterious, according to fiction enjoyed by children, a castle is supposed to hold many secrets.

The castle centerpiece (see illustration) is no exception. It is designed to hide gifts within its walls for all those gathered for the fun.

Simple to make, the materials are probably right at hand, at home. Save a clean firm detergent box from the discards and scrape out the grains of material from the inside. If this is difficult, paste some panels of paper over the area—construction paper or even the classified portion of the newspaper.

Cut out one of the narrow side panels of the box. This will be the open top of the castle. If the lid of the box is open, tape it shut. Now cover the box with wallpaper of a simple block type of pattern resembling rows of stone. Or use gift wrap, contact paper or even cloth.

IN USING PAPER like that illustrated, pencil around the four panels of the box on the back of the wallpaper. Cut out the separate panels and dampen slightly with a sponge or wet paper towel before applying the white liquid paste. Smooth carefully with a cloth. When the paper is thoroughly dry, cut away areas from the top of the castle as pictured.

For the side keeps of the castle, save two paper tubes from rolls of towels. Cover with similar paper and glue them to each end of the castle proper. The cone roofs at the tops of the tubes are made of circles, one fourth cut away, pie shape. The edges are brought together and glued with white liquid glue, held with clothes pins or bobby pins while drying. Glue them to the tops of tubes. The pennants that wave from the tops are cut from plain index cards, or use the plain back of a fourfold gift card and glued to colored round toothpicks. You might color the picks with cake color or felt marking pens.

Finally, the details that make a castle authentic. Two small (raisin) boxes are pasted to either side of the big doorway which is black paper mounted by golden doors. For substitution, use purple construction paper with sand or yellow paper for doors. Small strips of dark paper indicate windows, etc. If you wish to buy gold paper, it is available at paper supply stores. Otherwise, check with the discards for cosmetic or shampoo boxes that have the gold side panels.

THE FINISHED castle is glued upon the lid of a long plain box. A wide strip of gray paper is covered with darker irregular spots to resemble cobblestones, or they can be drawn on the path.

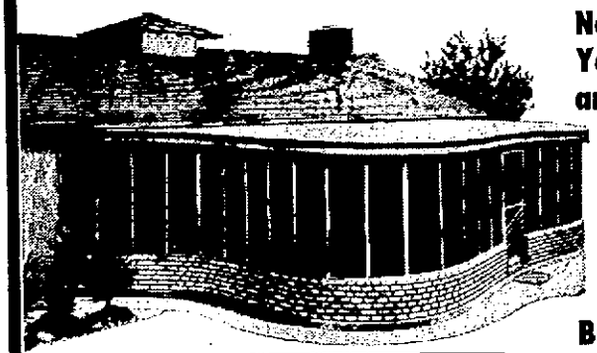

Now to plan the sort of presents that will be hidden within the castle. For boys there are small toys, yoyos, marbles and similar trinkets to be found in 10-cent stores. These may be hidden in small bags or boxes tied with ribbon and with streamers left long enough to reach the place card or else long enough to lift the package out.

Southland residents Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Collo recently had this 28x50-foot aluminum covering built over their swimming pool. It is one of the largest of its type ever designed and constructed in the nation. LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give genealogy on CASEY, CASSY.—J.C., F.E., E.S., Long Beach.

J.C., F.E., E.S.: CASEY and CASSEY had their old Irish inception as O'Cathasaigh. This Gaelic clan title deciphers as "sons of the watchful one," used as a complimentary term for an exceptional lineage of guardians of public safety. Phonetic re-spelling of the old Gaelic name resulted in O'Cahessy and O'Casey in the late Middle Ages. The Caseys were anciently recorded in Limerick, Cork, Mayo, Fermanagh and Meath. Their armorial shield is silver, decorated with a red chevron between three red eagle heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on BRANDENBURG.—L.R., Long Beach.

L.R.: BRANDENBURG was taken by the ancestor from his home city of Brandenburg in Prussia. This place-origin name, formulated from "Branden-burg" means "city of Swords" or "city of Firebrands." The Brandenburg family shield has a wide gold border. The center within the border is divided into four sections. The upper left and lower right sections are silver, emblazoned with a black eagle with spread wings; the remaining sections are decorated with a gold crown on a blue backing.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have the genealogy on VAN VALKENBURG.—C.V., Seal Beach.

C.V.: VAN VALKENBURG, a Dutch name, commemorates the famed ancestral fortress owned by this lineage. Van Valkenburg translates as "from Falcon Castle." The family shield was granted at Haarlem near Amsterdam. The background is gold, emblazoned with a large red castle surrounded by three small red castle towers, each with a symbolic black falcon above it.

DEAR MISS RULE: Is AGUILAR Mexican, Spanish or Filipino? — J.L., Long Beach.

J.L.: AGUILAR originated in Spain, although descendants live in every country that Spain colonized, including Mexico and the Phillipines. Aguilar refers to an ancestor with the strength and endurance of an eagle. The family shield from Catalonia, Spain is silver, emblazoned with a red eagle with half-spread wings.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze NORMAN—S.N., D.S., G.S., Long Beach.

S.N., D.S., G.S.: NORMAN is from the archaic French term "Norman" designating a "northman" or "man from Norway." The Viking Northmen of Norway invaded and conquered northwest France in the 9th century. In 1066 their descendants conquered England. Several of these invaders were surnamed Norman by their English subjects. One Norman became Lord Mayor of London in 1250. The family shield is silver, decorated with three gold leopard heads on a black stripe across the top. John Norman, an American forefather, was born in Massachusetts in 1637.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish data on POND. — J.P., Mrs. W.P., Long Beach.

J.P., W.P.: POND, despite its obvious origin from a dweller by a pond, actually began in England as "Pound" referring to an enclosed pasture for keeping livestock. Bartholomew de la Ponde was a Buckingham tax payer in 1272. The Pond shield is silver, crossed by a red stripe. Above the stripe are two black bear heads; below it a red cross. The will of Robert Pond, a founding New England settler, was filed at Dorchester, Mass. in 1637.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DE BENEDETTI.—J.D., Long Beach.

J.D.: DE BENEDITTI indicates "son of Benedict" in old Italian. The ancestor was baptized in honor of St. Benedict whose name meant "blessed one." The De Benedetti shield is gold, emblazoned with a red rampant lion.

MEET YOKKAICHI CITY:

Long Beach's Oriental Sister

Like Long Beach, sister city Yokkaichi loves a parade. Bamboo and streamers decorate August "Star Festival" and marchers move along in Mummer type costumes. Yokkaichi and Long Beach have much alike in history.

By LOU JOBST

LONG BEACH has a Japanese "sister," an Oriental beauty tied to a storied past, but all eyes for a bright tomorrow.

The city's Far East kin is 650-year-old Yokkaichi City, a booming, bustling international port and industrial center located at the north end of fabled Ise Bay on the southern shore of Honshu.

Yokkaichi (pronounced Yoh Kigh Chee), home of 250,000 persons, Japan's sixth largest harbor and its most important petrochemical center, became the California community's "sister city" after an exchange of good-will missions in 1962 and 1963.

Unike U. S. government-sponsored overseas-domestic municipal affiliations (Long Beach's official "people-to-people" program "sister" is Valparaiso, Chile), the Yokkaichi relationship was the result of mutual admiration and was the handiwork of their respective hometown leaders.

ALTHOUGH half a world apart, the East-West cities share some striking similarities and common interests. Both are situated in storied and historic regions of the world, both are fast-growing cities with modern and expanding ports, both are major world petroleum centers, both have subsidence problems.

Both face the Pacific Ocean and are shipping points for rich agricultural regions. Both are situated on a plain which is flanked by mountains.

And both live in the shadow of much larger, older and more powerful neighbors.

Yokkaichi, the most important market place in 2,225-square-mile* Mie Prefecture, is a suburb of giant Nagoya. Nagoya is the sister city of Los Angeles, Long Beach's oversized neighbor. *Los Angeles County encompasses 4,060 square miles.

And like Long Beach, Yokkaichi is the gateway to one of the country's most scenic regions and several of the world's most spectacular tourist attractions.

IN MIE PREFECTURE, which is sandwiched between Nagoya and Osaka areas, is Ise Grand Shrine, the traditional center of Japanese Shintoism.

Millions come each year to view and worship at the Geku and Naiku shrines which were first erected in the fourth century and rebuilt every 20 years. Famed for its simple architectural beauty, the great shrine center is situated in a compound covered with centuries-old cedar trees and through which flows the holy Isuzu River.

It was near Yokkaichi that the late nonagenarian pearl king Kokichi Mikimoto originated his ingenious pearl culture in the late 19th century. This bay area, scene today of some 800,000 "Tanpo" pearl rafts, produces more than 70% of the world's cultured pearls.

The gathering of these pearls by white linen-garbed Ama, women divers, is viewed by thousands of visitors each month.

THE RIVERS near the city are also famed as the locale of concormorant fishing, a technique in which birds (pelicans) are used to catch fish.

Also nearby are the renowned Yuoyama Hot Springs, and the Suzuka Circuit Auto Track where the Japanese Grand Prix road race is held.

Yokkaichi City, which is said to have been founded in the 14th century by the feudal chieftain Tadahide Tawara, is the home of the Ropeway, a celebrated Orient version of American trams. (It was not incorporated until 1897, 10 years after L. B.)

With 602 miles of shoreline, Mie and Yokkaichi share with Southern California and Long Beach the reputation of being one of the earth's great combination commercial and sport fisheries. The catches at both spots range from shellfish to anchovies and sardines to game fish.

THE JAPANESE region is also famed for its seaweed and kelp harvests.

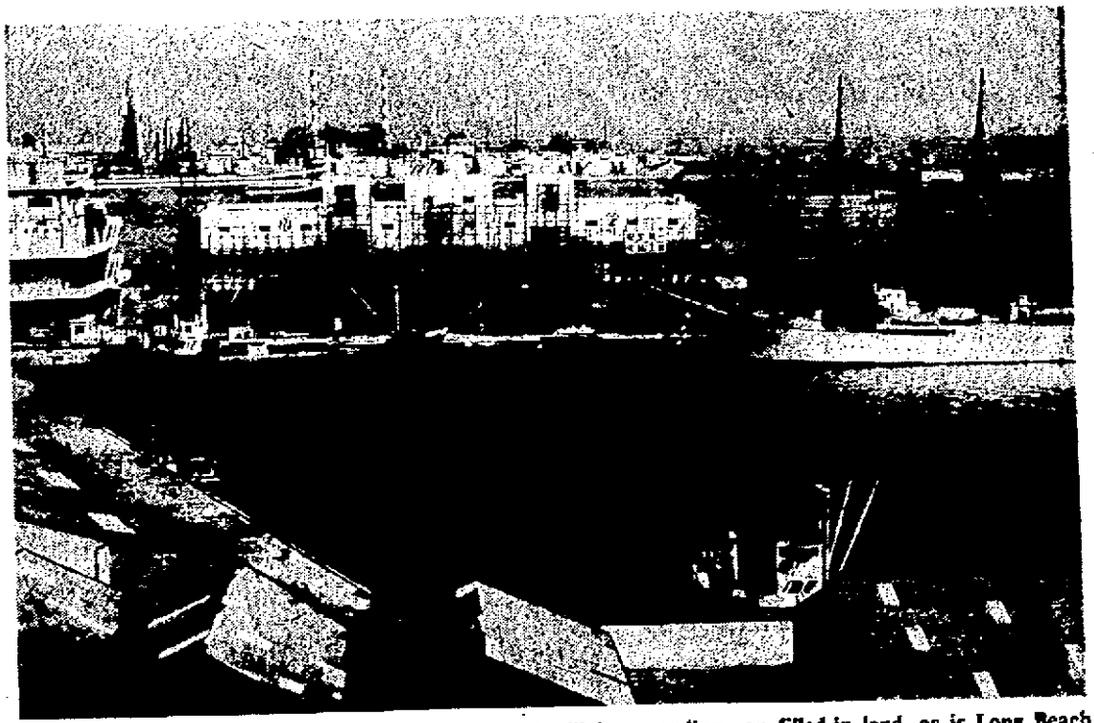

Across the modern docks of Yokkaichi Harbor pour great quantities of native farm goods, including tea, sweet potatoes, rice (Mie produces 7.1 million bushels a year, largely for sake production) and wheat.

Yokkaichi Harbor, much of which has been built on artificial land, can draw some other close parallels with its Yankee relation.

Both ports handled about the same business last year, little more than 12 million tons. Both are locations of great petroleum storage areas and each has supertanker terminals.

While the port of Yokkaichi was first opened in 1873, it was not designated an open port until 1899. Long Beach

Yokkaichi also is a busy port that has expanded—and still is expanding—on filled-in land, as is Long Beach Harbor. Other points of similarity include importance as fishing ports, the handling and storing of petroleum.

Medicine on the March

Device that employs nuclear medicine is examined by Sister M. Stephen and a student technician, Mary Sullivan, in laboratory.

Latest medical products to join disposable instrument ranks include the items pictured above.

By Ben Zinser

AN "EXPLOSION" of medical advances has occurred in the past 25 years, reports the American Medical Association's Commission on the Cost of Medical Care.

The Commission just recently outlined the advances as part of a four-volume report that required 3½ years to compile.

Questionnaires were sent to 20 physicians in each of the 22 specialties and in general practice to determine the most significant items of medical and surgical progress. Item most mentioned: antibiotics.

Here's a quick rundown on the advances:

General Practice: Antibiotics, especially the penicillins and the tetracyclines. Acceptance of widespread immunization programs for polio, measles, influenza and tetanus.

Anesthesiology: Muscle relaxant drugs. Recognition of the value and standard use of the postoperative recovery room.

Dermatology: The anti-inflammatory cortisone drugs and ACTH. Antibiotics, especially penicillins, tetracyclines, erythromycin and streptomycin.

Chest Diseases: Antibiotics, particularly penicillins. Antituberculosis drugs, notably isoniazid, para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS) and streptomycin.

Gastroenterology, Proctology: Antibiotics such as chloramphenicol. Drugs for intestinal tract sterilization. X-ray studies of the gall bladder and bile ducts.

Internal Medicine: Antibiotics. Exploration of the heart with a catheter for diagnostic purposes.

Neurological Surgery: Development of X-ray procedures for study of the brain area. Development of new brain-surgery procedures involving use of ultrasound, chemical coagulation and the "cold knife."

Nuclear Medicine: Radioisotopes for diagnostic purposes. Development of Geiger-counter-like scanning equipment for use in diagnosis.

Obstetrics and Gynecology: The Papanicolaou test (Pap smear) as a means of finding cancer of the neck of the womb. Penicillins.

Ophthalmology: Discovery of the role of excessive oxygen as a cause of retrolental fibroplasia (a condition that blinds) in premature infants. Use of antibiotics and sulfa drugs in the treatment of eye infections.

Orthopedic Surgery: Antibiotics. Anti-TB drugs.

Otolaryngology: Antibiotics. New surgery (stapes operations) to restore hearing.

Pathology: Development of blood banks with subsequent improvements in collection, processing, storage and administration of blood and its derivatives. Pap smear for the detection of cervical cancer.

Pediatrics: Penicillin and antibiotics that combat a wide range of micro-organisms. Development of exchange blood transfusions to save babies afflicted with a blood disorder.

Physical Medicine, Rehabilitation: Electrodiagnostic techniques such as electromyography (study of muscle activity). Improvements in prosthetic devices.

Plastic Surgery: Improved treatment of burns. Development of dermatomes, surgical instruments which cut thin sheets of skin for use as grafts.

Preventive Medicine: Development for more general use of vaccines for influenza, polio, smallpox, tetanus, whooping cough, diphtheria and yellow fever. Increased emphasis on health of employes.

Psychiatry, Neurology: Developments of brain-wave diagnostic techniques. Changing attitudes toward mental disease as demonstrated by teaching of emotional problems in medical schools, use of the halfway house, open-door policies of large mental hospitals and psychiatric units in general hospitals.

Antibiotics have been the greatest advance in medicine in past quarter century, survey shows. Symbolic array is pictured above.

Radiology: X-ray studies of the heart and arteries. New dyes (radiopaque media) of low toxicity. Development of rapid-film sequencing equipment for diagnostic studies. Improvements in fluoroscopy.

Surgery: Improved pre and postoperative care, including blood banks, controlled or assisted respiration, early ambulation, anti-clotting drugs, plasma. Also: antibiotics.

Thoracic Surgery: Antibiotics. Use of heart-lung machines.

Urology: Improvements in diagnostic studies. Discovery of the relationship of cancer of the prostate and certain other tumors to hormone balance. Use of hormonal therapy as control measure.

The Commission took special note of five medical areas which it termed especially "significant":

Polio: Vaccines may lead to virtual elimination of this disease. From 1955 through 1961 an estimated $6.7 billion in lifetime income loss and medical-care costs have been avoided through use of antipolio vaccine.

Diagnostic Cell Studies: Thanks to these studies, an increasing number of cases of uterine cancer are being detected at an early stage, and years are added to women's lives.

Heart Surgery: Surgical correction of congenital heart defects is saving lives which otherwise would be lost or crippled in youth.

Tuberculosis: Thanks to introduction of anti-TB drugs and development of X-ray screening programs, the TB death rate has dropped from 55.1 per 100,000 population in 1935 to 5.9 per 100,000 in 1962.

Disposable Products: Trend toward use of these has been responsible for a considerable saving in hospital costs.

Luxurious lobby of the old Hotel Virginia. At desk two Long Beach men who were bellmen there in young manhood, Harry Jones, left, Curly Morris.

The Magnificent Years Of the Old Hotel Virginia

By Maymie R. Krythe

Virginia Hotel—scene of many exciting, significant and lavish events.

IF YOU'RE a Long Beach old-timer, you remember Hotel Virginia, demolished in February 1933, not long before the earthquake of March 10, 1933. It stood on the south side of Ocean Boulevard, just east of Magnolia Avenue. Today, two tall palms stand, sad reminders that they were in front of the entrance where so many distinguished guests entered the hospitable portals.

Completed in 1908 and closed in 1932, the Virginia was advertised as "the most magnificent and luxurious hotel in the world." During its splendid career, the hostelry entertained celebrities from all over the United States as well as many internationally known personages. It was the headquarters of high-ranking naval officers, and the brilliant Navy balls there were long the talk of the town.

Today, two Long Beach men, Edward Hannah and Calvin (Curly) Morris, have vivid memories of events at the hotel, where they both worked in their youth.

Hannah was on hand when the cornerstone of the Bixby Hotel—later changed to Hotel Virginia—was laid, on July 20, 1906.

In November 1906, young Hannah missed his usual birthday cake at his mother's boarding house, just across the street from the construction. That morning the central part gave way; and several workmen were caught in the debris. Reporters crowded into Mrs. Hannah's establishment because she had the closest telephone, to send their stories to their papers.

At Central School that day, the principal, Stanley Howland, advised the pupils of the accident and asked them not to go there at their lunch hour. However, Ed Hannah had to go home to eat and recalls the scene of disaster.

In spite of the catastrophe, the work of building continued and the hotel with its magnificent furnishings was completed at a total outlay of $1,240,000.

Hannah says several things distinguished this institution as "upper class." In addition to the fine furniture, curtains, and other fittings, the silver and linen were of the best. The official crest was embossed on the stationery; menus were distinctive; cuisine outstanding; and telegrams and letters were always handed to guests on silver trays.

The opening dinner with 700 guests took place on March 21, 1908. The place was a mass of flowers; lights blazed from top to bottom; beautifully dressed women, many with escorts in uniform, were present; and the battleship North Dakota was anchored offshore from the hotel.

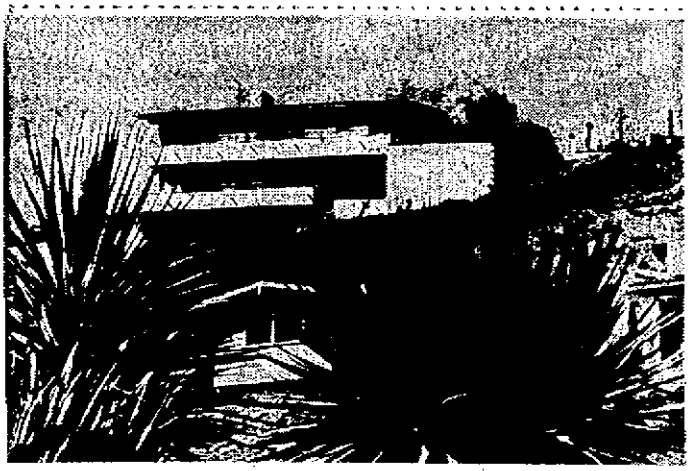

Morris was one of the bellboys who often replaced the telephone operators at night.

As a bellboy, Morris, who worked there from 1909 to 1916, received his meals, uniforms, a locker and $15 per month, with extra money from tips. Hannah, as elevator operator, received $25 per month, but at busy seasons, made more than his wages from his tips.

Hannah remembers the business training he got there, and how impressed he was by Col. Drake, a Kentuckian and long a president of the hotel company. Always immaculately dressed, he wore a white carnation in his lapel and carried a gold-headed cane.

Since golf was becoming a popular game, some hotel residents organized the Virginia Country Club. At first they played at what is now Recreation Park, and Morris often drove the players to and from there.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Spectacular Is a Word for It

By Stella George

SPECTACULAR is a one-word description of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Kahlo, 1101 Via Goleta, Palos Verdes, the home is built against the hillside above Lunada Bay. Glass walls and outside decks on both levels provide an expansive view of the countryside and ocean in the distance.

The home was designed by Young and Remington, AIA. The color coordination was executed by Louis De Haven Shaw, AID, but Mrs. Kahlo did her own decorating.

Palos Verdes stone found on the site was used for the front wall and firepaces and a hillside wall for a swimming pool.

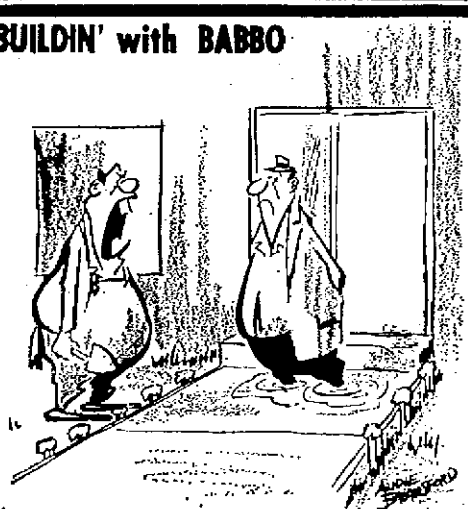

Nesting high on a Palos Verdes bluff, the home of the Jack Kahlo family is spectacular in location, as views at right and above reveal.

—Staff Photos by ROGER COAR

An additional idea of the aerie qualities of the Kahlo home can be gathered from the view at the left, looking to the sea in the distance.

View is everywhere in this delightful residence. Above, a glimpse of living room, done in blues and lavenders to match the Pacific beyond.

Mrs. Kahlo felt that a home which commanded such a panoramic view of the sea should be decorated to blend with the living picture beyond the glass walls. Thus, the blue and lavender of the Pacific are highlighted colors in every room. Carpeting throughout (with the exception of the rumpus room on the lower level) is white.

THE ENTRANCE HALL leads to the kitchen at the left, the dining room, and the living room at the far end. Rooms on the street level, in addition to those mentioned, include the master bedroom with a private balcony, bath with a sunken tub, daughter Debbie's room and bath, and the garage which adjoins the home. On the lower level, rooms include a rumpus room, all-purpose room which doubles as a guest bedroom, and daughter Pam's bedroom and bath. Steps lead from the rumpus room to the third level where the spacious swimming pool has a sweeping view through wrought iron balustrades.

The sofa in the living room backs against a glass wall, and is done in shades of blues and lavenders. Occasional chairs are in similar hues, one, near the fireplace, upholstered in orchid velvet. Paintings on the wall including one above the spinet piano which looks like a peninsula scene, have blue tones predominating.

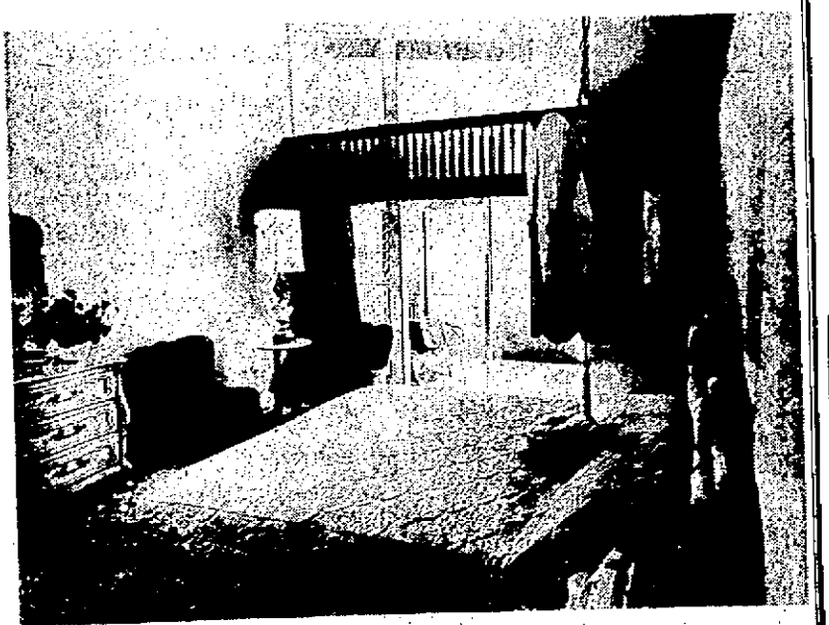

Furniture is Italian Provincial. The dining room set is low, continental height with chairs upholstered in powder blue velvet. A small matching sofa is against one wall, buffet on the other.

A STONE FIREPLACE serves both rooms. On the dining room side a small barbecue unit is used almost every day. Golden cherub accessories and crystal chandeliers impart their own elegance.

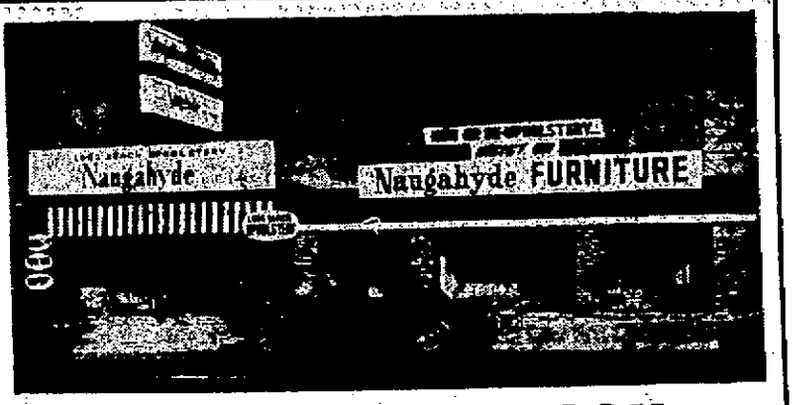

In the large master bedroom the bed is covered with a pink spread, quilted. A sunken tub of marble has a private garden.

The downstairs rumpus room is an unexpected and attractive contrast to the sophistication of the other rooms. The decor is Early American, warm, homey, and inviting. This is where the family lives and plays.

The home might be described as a year-round vacation spot. Every feature is keyed to luxurious living conditions. With the aid of binoculars, the family may view a football game on the field which adjoins the high school in the valley below. The Kahlos may swim nearly all year. They can dine formally in the dining room or informally on the glass-top table in the dinette which adjoins an immaculate kitchen. Or they may eat hamburgers cooked on a circular rock barbecue near the pool. Even the Siamese cats that recline luxuriously on the front doorstep seem to reflect the serenity and happiness which prevails in this home.

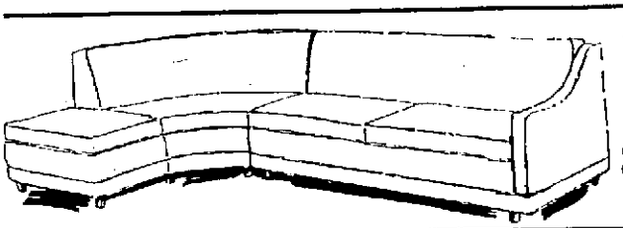

Richly comfortable, this bedroom also has view as a keynote, looking out across a balcony. Appointments are typical of luxurious interior.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. When is the best season for eating oysters? H.P.

A. The Department of Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries says that oysters are best in May and June in spite of the myth that oysters should be eaten only in months containing the letter "R." Oysters are fatter and taste better in spring because at that time they have begun to store glycogen, an animal starch, in preparation for the summer spawning season. Oysters become thinner and less tasty in summer and early fall; they start to fatten again in October and November. Oyster harvesting, however, is begun in early fall because of the seasonal demand, perhaps resulting from the R-month myth. Prices are also highest then. The R-month myth may result from experience with European oysters. During the R-months, the presence of small gritty shells makes the European oyster undesirable eating.

Q. When was the United States Capitol burned? R.E.

A. During the War of 1812, Rear Admiral Sir George Cockburn pushed through American forces at Bladensburg, Maryland and invaded Washington, D. C. on August 24, 1814. After setting fire to most of the public buildings, Cockburn and his troops entered the Capitol and ignited all flammable materials. The Capitol was saved from total devastation by a rainstorm that swept the city that night. A violent windstorm the next day caused several disasters and the British soldiers fled.

Q. How are cooking fats hydrogenated? W.D.

A. Liquid vegetable oils such as cottonseed oil are turned into a solid vegetable fat by a process called hydrogeneration. The essential difference between the liquid and the solid forms is a shortage of hydrogen atoms in the oil molecules. By treating the oil with hydrogen gas under certain conditions of temperature and pressure, and in the presence of a catalyst, hydrogen is added to the oil molecules and the oil is thereby solidified and made more convenient to use.

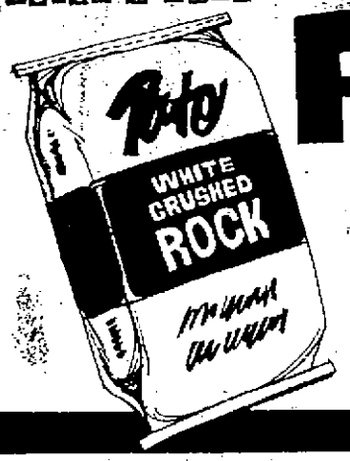

Q. Is the earth's axis ever at right angles to the sun? K.N.

A. This occurs on about March 21 and September 22, the vernal and autumnal equinoxes. At these two times, the sun appears directly above the equator.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Discipline Harder

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Are today's school children more difficult to discipline than those of former times?

ANSWER: Apparently they are. The research division of the National Education Association recently conducted a teacher-opinion poll on the subject.

The poll revealed that "a substantial proportion of experienced teachers feel that their problems of maintaining discipline have increased since they began teaching."

Sixty-two per cent of the teachers with 20 or more years of experience found their job getting more difficult.

QUESTION: Are facts the most important things a student gets from school?

ANSWER: They are the least important.

Mere facts fade from the memory if not frequently reviewed or used. More lasting are the general techniques and principles a student learns.

For example, a student is assigned to do research on India. The teacher explains how to gather notes, where to look for information, how to outline the material gathered. The important lesson in this project is not India but how to do research —a lesson which the student will find invaluable later in school and afterwards in his career.

QUESTION: Do children remember their unpleasant school experiences the longest?

ANSWER: Oddly, no. There is a mechanism in the brains of most human beings which mercifully submerges the more unpleasant memories (not all of them, of course) and makes the pleasant ones memorable.

The wise educator uses this principle in the classroom by associating learning with pleasant experiences.

"My Fair Lady"

From Cockney flower girl to British lady: Such is the transformation of Audry Hepburn for the lead role in "My Fair Lady," tremendous stage hit, soon to have West Coast film premiere.

"My Fair Lady," the most lavish and costly production ever filmed by Warner Brothers, will have its West Coast premiere Oct. 28 at the Egyptian Theater, 6712 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood.

From its creation by George Bernard Shaw in the play "Pygmalion" in 1912, through its international success as a comedy with music by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, "My Fair Lady" has set records.

Warner Brothers paid $5½ million for the screen rights.

Audrey Hepburn was chosen for the role of Eliza Doolittle, and Rex Harrison plays Henry Higgins. Supporting the stars are Stanley Holloway, Wilfrid Hyde-White, Gladys Cooper, Jeremy Brett, Isobel Elsom and Mona Washbourne.

"My Fair Lady" is being produced by Jack L. Warner, company president; directed by George Cukor, whose Hollywood career embraces hit pictures from Garbo's "Camille" to Judy Garland's "A Star is Born."

CECIL BEATON, designer and photographer, is production designer. Berlin-born Andre Previn is musical director, and Hermes Pan, late of the "Cleopatra" choreography, is dance director.

"My Fair Lady" conjoins the two most appealing and durable themes in storytelling — Cinderella and Svengali. It is the story of a crisply irascible professor of phonetics who takes a guttersnipe of a flower girl from the London streets and in a wager sets himself to train her so that she will pass muster as a duchess. Shaw conceived his work as one "in which Professor Higgins shall be a West End gentleman and Eliza an East End dona in an apron, three oranges and red ostrich feathers—a rapscallionly flower girl."

Eliza herself points out one of the amusing morals of the story when she says "The difference between a lady and a flower girl is not how she behaves but how she is treated."

"PYGMALION" was pretty well established when it opened in Berlin and Vienna in 1913. Its enduring possibilities were realized April 11, 1914, when it bowed at His Majesty's Theater, London, with Mrs. Patrick Campbell as Eliza and Sir Herbert Tree as Professor Higgins.

Set to the graceful music of Frederick Loewe and the infectious lyrics of Alan Lerner, it became "My Fair Lady" for its New York opening in March, 1956, Six and one-half years and 2,717 performances later, it closed its record New York engagement in September 1962.

The London engagement of "My Fair Lady" ran to 2,000 performances and it has played in most cities of the United States and many countries of the world. There probably is not an hour of the day in which "My Fair Lady" is not being performed somewhere. The stage production has grossed close to $60 million; the record album has sold in excess of 6 million copies.

On Warners' gigantic Stage 7 was constructed the portico of St. Paul's Church, the Covent Garden flower and vegetable markets. Twenty-five hundred gallons of water per minute were pumped to the stage to drench Miss Hepburn, Harrison and other performers in the opening sequences of the film. Here, too, Harrison performs the first musical number, "Why Can't the English?" and Miss Hepburn performs her first musical number, "Wouldn't It Be Loverly?", winding up amidst the cabbage and lettuce leaves on the back of a garbage truck.

FOR THE ASCOT races, Beaton designed a stylized setting of huge striped tents, the scene animated by hundreds of fashionably gowned women and trimly tailored men. Other primary sets include the Embassy ballroom the opera house, Mrs. Higgins' home and the Wimpole Street exteriors.

A battery of 93 seamstresses, drapes and milliners achieved a total of 1,086 costumes at an estimated cost of half a million dollars.

Harrison had a good background for the motion picture. He performed "My Fair Lady" 1,006 times in New York and London.

Wine Cookery, the Easy Way

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

COOKING with wine has become a matter of kitchen arithmetic, these busy days. Subtract the mystery, add some convenience foods, multiply their flavors with wine, and divide into the best servings ever set before family and friends. That's the word the California wine industry gave food editors attending the first day of the Newspaper Food Editors Conference in New York.

Wine industry displays illustrated just how easy this shortcut wine cookery can be. Set up in the form of a culinary equation was the recipe for a chicken liver curry that could become the main dish of either a simple or elaborate dinner. It requires just three ingredients: a package of frozen chicken livers, plus a package of curry-seasoned rice plus a measure of California white dinner wine. Editors tasted the results and found them excellent.

Country Club Beef Stew is readily made and will serve six diners with a festive mood.

OTHER QUICK recipes illustrated included a cherry cobbler made with canned cherry pie filling topped with packaged, refrigerated cinnamon rolls. California port is the ingredient that lends distinction to this easy dessert; its flavor is especially good with the fruit and the spicy topping.

For a luncheon main dish, a can of corned beef hash was topped with a slice of pineapple then covered with a cheese sauce made from an envelope of dry mix to which sauterne or another California white dinner wine is added as part of the usual liquid. Another luncheon or supper dish illustrated was made from packages of mixed frozen vegetables, the kind frozen in an onion cream sauce. To this is added a can of shrimp or other sea food, a can of chow mein noodles and the essential flavor ingredient — a white dinner wine.

MORE THAN 50 other easy recipes, combining convenience foods with wine, are included in a new little booklet, "Wine Cookery, the Easy Way," available for the asking. To get a copy write the title of the booklet and your name and address on a postcard and send to: Wine Institute, Home Advisory Service, 717 Market St., San Francisco, Calif. 94103. Almost immediately you can be producing wine-flavored foods with very little effort.

If you pour glasses of the same dry red wine as the dinner beverage, you'll understand why this mixture of prepared foods is called Country Club Beef Stew. There'll be a festive air to both the food and the service, and plenty of leisure to enjoy it.

Country Club Beef Stew

- 2 (1½-lb.) cans beef stew
- 1 (8¼-oz.) can mixed vegetables, drained
- ½ tsp. dried dill or chili powder
- ½ cup California burgundy or other red dinner wine

Savory Potato Crust

Combine beef stew, vegetables, dill or chili powder and wine. Turn into individual casseroles. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 20 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Spoon or press through pastry tube the potato crust topping around outer edge of each casserole. Place under broiler a few minutes to heat and brown. Makes 6 servings.

Savory Potato Crust: Combine in a preheated bowl 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup cold milk, 1 tablespoon butter and ½ teaspoon salt. Add 1½ cups dehydrated mashed potato flakes and ⅓ cup California white dinner wine. Stir to blend; let stand a few minutes to thicken. Add ½ cup grated cheddar cheese.

Recipe of the Week

FILLING FOR a hot bun snack at home or a sandwich for school is the $5 prizewinning recipe this week, submitted by Mrs. M. E. Fleming, 1739 Appleton St., Apt. 5, Long Beach 90802. The recipe:

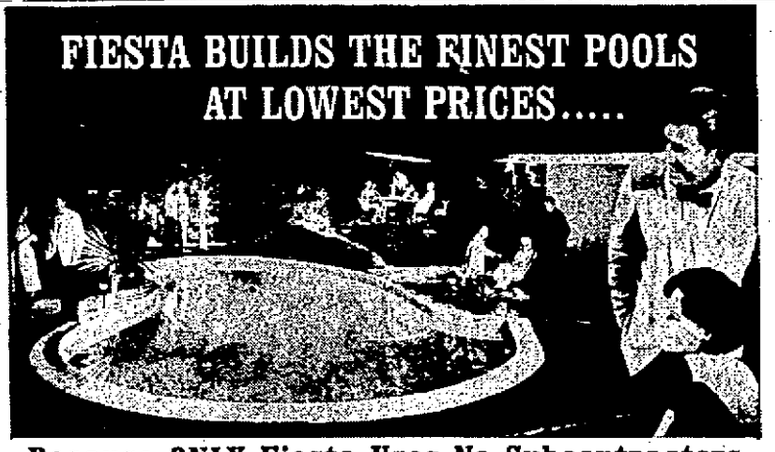

DeLuxe Bun Filling

1 lb. bulk bologna
½ lb. sharp cheddar cheese
2 tblsp. prepared mustard
1 tblsp. mayonnaise
⅓ cup sweet pickle relish

Grind together cheese and bologna. Stir in other ingredients. Spread generously on hotdog buns. Wrap in foil and heat a half hour before serving, in a 300° oven. This is also a good filling for school sandwich lunches.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 5, Calif. 90812.

Frank Lo Vecchio is a man of 5 facets—and is not Frank Lo Vecchio at all—he's Frankie Laine, a top favorite singer.

MAN OF MANY FACETS

Frankie Laine Is Five Men

By Ev Hosking

FRANK LO VECCHIO is five men surrounded by a body—

And the body, from its Downey automobile agency headquarters, maintains a tight control over its five individualists.

Just keeping track of one life is enough for most people, but for five-sided Frank Lo Vecchio maintaining a number of separate, individualistic entities seems to be child's play.

One of the five is among the most popular singers in the world.

Still another owns four music companies.

Another writes songs.

The fourth owns two of the largest coin selling businesses in the west and maintains a private coin collection worth $235,000.

THE FIFTH, and last, owns a new car agency that distributes Ramblers throughout the Long Beach area.

And to further complicate the picture, Frank Lo Vecchio really isn't Frank Lo Vecchio.

He's really Frankie Laine, the tall, rangy singer who has sold millions of records, and whose hits include such all-time best sellers as "Mule Train," "High Noon," "I Believe," and a lot of others.

Frankie isn't at all hesitant in giving his views on why he has stretched himself out in so many different directions. The answer, he says, is simple.

"When you lay out a concert or a night club action," Frankie says, "one of the first things you learn is to 'mix 'em up.' You counterpoint, doing a fast-paced tune, then a ballad to give the audience variety. In business they call it diversification. Well, I believe when you have a one-man business, which is what singing is, it's important to diversify so that if anything ever happens, your family's taken care of."

IN THE CASE of Frankie's Rambler agency in Downey, he just happened to be in the right place at the right time. Luck, some people call it.

Laine was sitting in his attorney's office last year, when the lawyer received a call from another client who owned the car agency but wanted to sell it and retire. Frankie, always interested in cars, jumped at the chance and bought the agency. Since then whenever he is not on the road singing, he spends a half a day or more every day on the showroom floor.

The coin business started in a completely different way. Some years back Laine was in Denver for a concert and after morning rehearsal had the afternoon to himself.

"Nan (his wife) reminded me that Denver is one of the places where they mint U.S. coins," he said. "We checked and found that, at that time, you couldn't tour the mint, but we were interested anyway, so we got the name of the leading coin dealer in the city, went to his shop and we've been hooked since."

AT FIRST, Frankie and his wife started collecting coins as a hobby, but later, when the opportunity arose to buy a going coin business in Reno, where he was singing at the time, he took it. A similar development took place in Sacramento and while neither of the companies bear Laine's name he is now developing plans for a nation-wide chain of Frankie Laine coin shops.

Frankie was born in Chicago of Sicilian parents and did his first singing as a choir boy. He had an assortment of jobs as a high school student—office boy, bookkeeper, marathon dancer, shipping clerk, car salesman, machinist, song writer and waiter. He worked at a Chicago dance hall for a year singing—but he was a flop and returned to his odd jobs.

Depressed and almost broke, he came to Hollywood looking for a job. Instead he was robbed of his entire fortune—$40.

There, he wandered into a Vine Street bar where he knew he could sing for his dinner.

He did just that.

"I STILL REMEMBER the tune I sang," he says. "It was 'Rocking Chair.' When I finished, one man in the audience kept calling for more. It turned out my big booster was Hoagy Carmichael. Hoagy, of course, wrote 'Rocking Chair,' but more important to me was that he got the owner of the club to put me to work."

Laine's luck changed.

A few nights after he'd gone to work at the night club he introduced a new number, "That's My Desire." In the audience that night was a record company executive.

Frankie got a $50 advance for recording the tune. His first royalty check more than made up for the small advance, it was for $36,000. Since then Laine has sold close to 100,000,000 records, ranking him with such all time champs as Bing Crosby, Gene Austin, and Frank Sinatra. He has also appeared in six movies as well as recording the themes for many other films and TV programs, most notably "Rawhide."

Laine takes particular delight in combining his various interests. He writes songs for the music publishing companies he owns; meets his fans at his auto agency and turns his night club appearances to advantage for his coin business. Thus, whenever he plays Reno, Lake Tahoe or Las Vegas, he insists on being paid partially in silver dollars. It takes a lot of silver dollars, but it's worth it to Laine.

"Last time I played Vegas," Frankie says, "Nan and I spent about five hours a day going through the silver dollars. We found 1,800 that were worth more than a dollar, six that were worth $20 each and four that were worth $40 each. Too bad they don't use silver dollars in other parts of the country."

Laine, an avid coin collector, and his wife, Nan, search for dollars that have extra value.

Sister City

came into being only 12 years later, in 1911.

BOTH HARBORS have massive landfill and dredging operations presently under way.

Yokkaichi can now berth 35 oceangoing ships; Long Beach can accommodate 45.

By 1974 Yokkaichi plans to triple its cargo handling capacity and by the same decade Long Beach will have expanded to about 70 berths.

Both Long Beach and Yokkaichi are backed up by booming industrial regions.

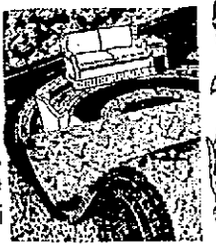

The Japanese city is without a peer in Japan as a petrochemical producing center.

THE REGION is covered with oil storage dumps and refineries and one plant alone, Showa Yokkaichi Petroleum Co., now disposes of 40,000 barrels of crude oil per day.

The Prefecture, which has nearly 9,000 industrial plants, is also a major producer of rubber products (a new plant producing 45,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually was opened in 1960 at Yokkaichi).

Among the city-district's traditionally famous products is banko pottery and dishware which is produced in about 140 potteries along the Akura River, and fish nets, of which Yokkaichi makes and sells 5.6 million pounds a year.

'Old Hickory' and the 'Hitching Post'

By Hoyt McAfee

RECENT southland visitors to Washington are thoroughly convinced that President Johnson has given the White House "a friendly, informal atmosphere." It astonished them when LBJ came out of his office and invited groups of sightseers from various states and foreign lands to tour the White House grounds with him.

They watched with interest and amusement when, on other occasions, the President gave reporters and newsreel cameramen a "brisk workout" across the White House "parade route." Some who've seen LBJ make himself so agreeably available to the press and public go so far as to remark: "Never before, we feel, has the White House been so open and informal."

Naturally, such a conclusion invites comparison with what has gone before.

Despite the "down-home-in-Texas" hospitality President Johnson dispenses at the White House nowadays, he still has a long, long way to go to match one other U.S. President in informality. An abundance of historical evidence makes it clear that OHJ (Old Hickory Jackson) was the all-time champ in converting the White House into a combination "Hitching Post" and "Good Neighbor Haven."

Andrew Jackson's White House term was the most informal and hospitable of any President.

SOME OF THE true incidents which occurred during Andrew Jackson's White House years seem almost incredible to the researcher—even today. For instance, when he started for Washington to assume his duties as President, he urged his friends, neighbors, and former battlefield comrades: "Drop in on me at the White House—all of you—often!"

Authentic accounts stress one point—that thousands of them, wild frontiersmen, ex-soldiers, farmers, and everyday working people—took Andy at his word. On inauguration night—to cite just one example—hordes of visitors (friends of the new President and strangers alike) poured into the White House like an invading army.

They pressed in close to shake Andy's hand, to whoop, shout, and sing. At one stage the convivial old frontier warrior (Jackson) became caught up in the swirl and crush of this huge, unruly throng. For a moment he was in actual danger of being jostled to the floor and trampled!

Several of his close friends thereupon linked arms and pushed their way to Andy Jackson's side. Determinedly they rescued him from his boisterous well-wishers. It was a night to remember, in that bootblacks, soldiers, farmers, cattlemen, and swarms of everyday citizens literally took over the White House and made its rafters ring with merriment.

NEXT MORNING the place was near shambles—with the furniture, drapery, paintings, and rugs much the worse from rip and tear!

But—hang on—that was only the beginning of Andy Jackson's "informal touch!" Historians are all agreed that no President in American history has so fully and richly deserved the title—"Man of the People"—as Old Hickory.

He spread the word that "my friends and fellow citizens are welcome to call on me at the White House." They did, too, in an unending daily stream. No guards turned them back at the White House gate. There were no Secret Service agents at that time to protect Andy Jackson's life.

Simply, the caller — he might be a total stranger with a pistol hidden in his pocket — gave his name to a clerk or porter inside the White House. That assistant then ushered the visitor into President Jackson's office. That was it—essence of simplicity, informality, and down-to-earth democracy.

TAKE THE CASE of the "Jovial little old lady from Virginia" who sold apples on a Washington street corner. One day some sneak thief stole her baskets of apples while she was having a bite to eat in a nearby cafe. Distressed over her loss (which deprived her of coach fare back to her home), she responded to a sudden inspiration.

It was to "drop in on Andy Jackson" over at the White House and tell him her troubles! Unhesitatingly the apple peddler was escorted by a White House aid into the President's study. There, Andy not only commiserated with her—he dug into his pockets and handed her the fare to her northern Virginia home!

Another unexpected visitor to the White House was a happy-go-lucky printer's devil from Nashville, Tenn. While bumming his way north to look for a better job, he thought it would prove "interesting" to stop in for a chat with Jackson. In their brief confab the printer complimented Andy on how he'd conducted himself as President and remarked: "You have given me a treat—seeing me like this on my birthday."

NOTICING THAT the printer was wearing shabby clothes, Old Hickory gave him $25 with this proviso: "Buy yourself a new suit. Repay me when you're earning again on your next job!"

Jackson's acts of generosity in dealing with "little people"—and deserving ones among them—revealed his warmth and greatness as a man. But he could be plenty rough on those who bore him ill will or tried to harm him in some fashion.

A Navy lieutenant named Robert Randolph learned that the hard way. Jackson had ordered him dismissed as "one unworthy of the naval service." Seething with fury over that, Randolph approached Jackson during a dedication ceremony at Fredericksburg, Va.

Jackson was seated on a bench at the moment. With a swift movement, Randolph stepped forward and clouted Andy with a smash to the head! Enraged over the assault, Jackson sprang to his feet, his fists clenched. Randolph, evidently well aware of President Jackson's reputation as a fighter—pistol, knives or fists—took to his heels in fright!

Jackson admonished close friends standing beside him: "Don't bother chasing the miserable coward!"

ANOTHER MAN named Richard Lawrence—a native of England who had moved to Washington in his youth—felt more than resentment toward Jackson. Mentally deranged, he suffered all manner of delusions: with President Jackson as the villian of all of them.

Having purchased two single-shot, brass pistols (which he concealed in his overcoat pockets), he presented himself at the White House in the hope of seeing the President. Fortunately, Jackson was tied up that day in conferences with foreign diplomats.

Lawrence returned on a later occasion, but to his irritation he discovered that he had forgotten to bring his pistols with him. Lawrence saw, upon being ushered into Jackson's office, that the President was chatting with Congressman Joel Barlow Sutherland. Andy broke off the conversation and, turning to the visitor, inquired: "May I do something for you?"

LAWRENCE blurted out that he needed $1,000 desperately—"a check on the Bank of the United States, please"—for a quick trip to England! Smiling, Andy Jackson replied that he was so hard pressed for cash that he couldn't spare $10, let alone $1,000.

On Jan. 30, 1835, Lawrence waited in the rotunda under the Capitol dome for President Jackson to emerge from a memorial service in honor of Congressman Davis. When Andy and the members of his cabinet drew near, the deranged man sud-

When a Negro Becomes President

By Vera Williams
Scuthland Magazine Book Editor.

WHAT WOULD happen if a Negro congressman, by a sudden accident and the law of succession, should become president of the United States?

On this premise, Irving Wallace has constructed his new big novel, "THE MAN" (Simon and Schuster, $4.95.)

At the beginning of the novel, the vice president is dead, and when the president and speaker of the house are killed, the Presidential Succession Act of 1947 is invoked and the fourth in line of succession, the president pro tempore of the Senate becomes the chief executive. While the eight American presidents who died or were assassinated in office were succeeded by their running mates, men of their own race and color, approved of by the electorate, Douglas S. Dilman, temporary chairman of the Senate who becomes president, is a Negro, a veteran party man who has been used as a liberal promotional front man.

Characters, almost as important in the book, are white extremists, black extremists, a terrified plain girl who is a stenographer, a celebrated and troubled Midwestern attorney, a beautiful young Southern socialite, an ambitious secretary of state, an embittered Secret Service agent.

Wallace, who heretofore has written best-sellers concerned with the inner workings of the Nobel prizes and the inside stories of sociologists who undertake sex surveys, in this book goes behind the scenes of political activity nad social life in the White House, dramatizing what it is like to sit in that big chair in the Oval Office, sleep in that big bed in the Lincoln bedroom, negotiate over dinner in the State dining room, meet with a cabinet, deliver a crucial speech to a hostile university audience, bargain with the premier of Russia in a Versailles garden, discuss outer space with an astronaut in Cape Kennedy. This controversial novel is sure to hit the best seller lists .

AS WITH specialists in professional fields, the sportsman has his specialized books—his "bibles"—of his chosen activity; and so it is with fishermen. In this field, however, the choice is narrow when it comes to applying the "technical" touch. "HOW TO FISH THE PACIFIC COAST" by Ray Cannon (Lane Book Co. $5.95), brought out in a second and revised edition, is a true salt water fishing manual written by a man who not only has fished but has made a study of fishing. Cannon has ranged up and down the coast and into the Gulf of California and also who has established a wide acquaintance among fishermen, learning and heeding their best ideas. His work does a bit of preaching on conservation (a widely debated subject) but essentially he confines himself to tackle, bait, and how to fish in general and in specifics from surf to rocks to pier to barge to deepsea. Included is a fine section on fish identification with illustrative plates. It's probably a trite expression, but here's a book that belongs in every salt water angler's library, veteran or beginner.

"DEEP IS THE BLUE" by Max Ehrlich (Doubleday, $4.95) is the story of a man, Matt Donovan, captain of the blue crew of the nuclear submarine, USS Cody. He is a giant who drives himself and others to the breaking point, with a magnetic personality that attracts but also repels the wives of the men who serve under him. The men whisper that the Cody is a "hot ship," accident prone and their fears are substantiated when the Cody sets out for a 60-day patrol beneath the icy waters off Siberia.

VARRIER ELWIN knew Gonds and Baigas as well as you know (or ought to know) your next door neighbors. This English scholar and administrator of the highest type spent a good deal of his life among the hill peoples of central India. He chose to regard himself as a "philanthropist" (his own word) and taught the wild tribesmen much, gave them such things as leper homes, and received in return a trust which wild men rarely give outsiders.

"THE TRIBAL WORLD OF VERRIER ELWIN" (Oxford $7.50) is Elwin's story of his life among the Indian hill people. A bishop's son, he abandoned the security of a clerical don's life at Oxford in 1927 and went to India with a missionary group. Elwin came to know Ghandi and has much to tell of him. In a few years Elwin was in the interior of India, living with hill tribes who were to become his friends for the rest of his life.

He tells of his establishment of "settlements for welfare and research along humanitarian lines." He communicates the black tragedy of life among the half-starved natives as few have done it; as adviser for tribal affairs for 10 years in the North East Frontier Agency he did much to relieve that tragedy. He was a man of unlimited capacity to love his fellow man.

"IN THE revolutionary transformation of Puerto Rico from a destitute agrarian society to a thriving industrial complex, we learned that the essential force that powered our effort was hope ... Hope is the spiritual fuel that moves people who live in misery."

So speaks the man behind the "new" Puerto Rico: Luis Munoz Marin, founder and first elected governor of the Free Associated State of Puerto Rico, the first and only commonwealth of the United States of America.

The story of Munoz Marin, poet, practical idealist, is told by Thomas Aitken Jr. in "POET IN THE FORTRESS" (New American, $6.50). The book follows Munoz Marin through battle, exile, defeat and triumph, and it tells how Operation Bootstrap, development program conceived by the governor changed the economy of Puerto Rico.

CHRISTINE ANTHONY is the author of a new novel, "THE CAPTIVE CARDINAL" (Doubleday, $4.50). Action takes place in Budapest in 1976. Born in Hungary, Miss Anthony is the author of "I Am Fifteen and I Do Not Want to Die" and other books.

ONE OF the giants of the pioneer West was the Jesuit Father Pierre-Jean DeSmet. In the mid-19th century his influence with the Indians was so great that he dominated the Western wilderness. The Indians accepted him as their blood-brother and even during the bloodiest Indian wars he moved among the Indians uninjured. "BLACK ROBE: The Life of Piere-Jean DeSmet, Missionary, Explorer and Pioneer" (Doubleday, $4.95.)

Days of the Old Hotel Virginia

Hannah recalls early aviator Cal Rodgers' completion of a transcontinental flight with a landing on the beach near the Virginia. Glenn Martin is said to have made the first landing in Long Beach, bringing his parents from San Diego for dinner and setting down on the hotel lawn. Frank Champion, an early barnstormer, is said to have built a small plane in the hotel basement, getting the help of the bellboys.

The Herkimer Brothers, who operated the Balboa Studios and made motion pictures with a number of old-time stars, lived at the Virginia and one of them made the first transcontinental telephone call. The initial West Coast wireless message—from Catalina Island—was received at the hotel.

Long-staying guests who are remembered by Hannah and Morris include Mrs. Mary Abbott, a woman in her 80s who dressed and dined "in the grand manner each evening. She was a patron of the weekly dances, leading the grand march.

Another was Mrs. Fanny Preston, a hotel guest for 16 years, dining at the same table and, for 10 years, having the same waitress.

A wealthy Mexican guest once lost a wallet containing $250,000 in Mexican currency. Morris found and returned it.

An event that some political observers say helped change the course of U.S. history occurred at the Virginia Hotel on a Sunday in August 1916. Gov. Hiram Johnson of California, running for the U.S. Senate on the Republican ticket, and Charles Evans Hughes, GOP candidate for president, both checked into the Virginia on this day—neither purportedly aware of the other's presence. Hughes checked out a short time later and, to his surprise and only after he had arrived in Los Angeles, learned of Johnson's presence at the hostelry.

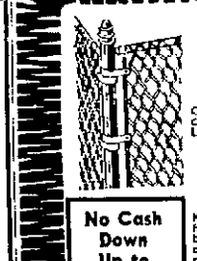

Johnson and his followers remained in their quarters until after Hughes had left and considered that Hughes had snubbed them when they learned of his leaving. This is said to have turned their support to the Democrat presidential candidate, Woodrow Wilson, who won California's electoral vote by a slim 3,000 ballots. Johnson as senatorial candidate, out-polled Hughes in his presidential bid by about 300,000 votes.

Easily constructed from scrap lumber, this stylish bookstand is a definite study aid.

By Bill Meyerricks

SCHOOL DAYS—and the homework for children of the house are here again. Sketchbook this week presents a very simple-to-build, but highly efficient homework aid in the form of a desk bookstand. It can be built by Dad from scrap pieces of lumber in an hour or two. Then it serves wonderfully as a stylish, comfortable stand where the student can secure the book currently being studied.

The plan shows in full size pattern how to make the modern and attractive angles of the stand's bases, how to set the front shelf and top bar together with a metal tab so that the top bar moves up and away. This makes it convenient to hold the book securely. Then with a quick flip backward of the top bar, turn the page and replace the bar again. The plan, as usual, provides full details on construction and assembly as well as complete parts and materials lists.

THE BOOKSTAND sits firmly on the deck because of its wide, but graceful base. Overall it takes up but little room, approximately 18 inches wide by 8 inches high and a 9-inch base. It can be placed to the left or right of the student according to lighting and reading habits and become a valuable prop for the many hours ahead of studying, research and note taking.

This plan, incidentally, strikes us as one that would make a fine woodworking project for a school shop as well as Dad's woodworking in the basement. It takes so little material and time to make it, it can be a very interesting project from a design standpoint and the end result is one that goes hand-in-hand with school. Anything that aids in getting better marks is worth a bit of effort.

TO OBTAIN the Desk Bookstand Sketchbook Plan S-179 send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Furniture for a Doll

By Steve Ellingson

IT WOULD be entirely possible to trace the history of fashion almost as far back as Adam by examining the dolls that have come along in each century since that time.

Modern children are no different from those who lived in Colonial times, or any other period for that matter. They all wanted and got dolls dressed as their parents were.

Today, the fashion conscious teen-ager demands a very sophisticated doll, one that not only resembles the perfect adult human model, but the clothes have to be meticulous miniatures in every respect as well. So too, with the other accessories such as doll furniture and doll houses.

THE POPULARITY of the teen-age fashion model doll is a phenomenon of this decade, so much so that it has almost become a national cult among young and old alike.

To add to the further enjoyment of this cult we want to offer correctly scaled and executed pieces of doll furniture (see illustration). All of the pieces are in correct proportion for all 11½-inch fashion model dolls. The set consists of patio, living room and bedroom furniture. Also included is a tote-about wardrobe and the backdrop which adds further realism to the entire furniture collection.

The pattern parts for each furniture piece are full size. Just trace them on wood, saw out the parts and put them together.

TO OBTAIN the full size pattern No. 361 for building the doll furniture shown, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Earning Their Biscuits

By Eleanor Avery Price

Baronessa Constanza . . . Meritorious Retriever.

AT ONE TIME nearly all dogs were actively employed in some sort of work. Today, in these United States, not a great many dogs do more than bid for points at dog shows, prove their desire to please at obedience trials, or loll around the home as lovable companions.

For example, one does not see the Afghan hound, long tresses flying, galloping after deer or guarding the flocks and herds in the fields even though he was designed for these duties in his native home of Afghanistan and really enjoys activity. (A few are used in the U. S. for hound racing for the fun of it.) The Keeshond is not seen riding barges and serving as "radar" in the fogs of U. S. waterways, but he was great protection originally in Holland. And who has heard of a huge St. Bernard in America having his tranquil life interrupted to carry a cask of rum through a blizzard, or a dachshund leaving home base to go dig up a badger?

In fact, only a handful of dogs have a real trade of any kind. German shepherds, Doberman pinschers and a few retrievers are still useful as guide dogs for the blind. The great all-American shepherd, with no AKC registrations, some collies and a few Australian shepherds serve daily on farms. And some snow dogs such as Siberian huskies, Alaskan malemutes and Samoyeds are laboriously pulling sleds over icy terrain in northern sections. I believe the breeding program of the Canadian Mounties is favoring the Siberian husky.

PROBABLY the biggest group of dogs really earning their dog biscuits is the sporting group made up of the great pointers, retrievers, setters, spaniels and the little beagle from the hound group.

The first field trial in this country was held in October 1874 at Memphis, Tenn. Today more than 500 field trials are held each year, and there are several hundred recorded field trial champions. The earlier field trial dogs were trained solely on foot, but more recently many dogs have been trained with handlers on horseback. Cover-dog trials in grouse country, of course, are carried out on foot.

Although sports devotees regard field trials as a great pastime, with each dog required to be staunch, steady, intelligent, speedy and rugged, but "classy," the trials are also instrumental in helping improve the breeding and bloodlines of bird dogs toward greater value as companions in the fields.

The Monster That Eats Old Autos

By Jerome Hall

ON A DUSTY street not far away, behind high walls and steel-helmeted guards, a monster swallows automobiles at the rate of one a minute. All day long and sometimes into the night the monster gobbles cars, but still the traffic problem gets worse.

Though tight security is in force to hide the monster from prying eyes and the guards are there to keep anyone from taking pictures of it, nothing sinister is going on.

It is merely a business operation that converts worn-out automobiles into reusable scrap metal. But the methods in this operation at the Luria Bros. scrap yards in Vernon, the industrial city between Long Beach and Los Angeles, are unique.

Scrap metal is big business. All day long through the week trucks piled high with junked autos roll down the freeways toward Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor. Terminal Island is a major exporting depot. Freighters head across the Pacific, laden with the crushed shells that once were the two-door and four-door prides of Southland families. But they'll be back—in the form of toys or transistor radios marked "Made in Japan."

Maw of monster that chews up beaten and worn autos. The junk cars move up conveyor to true "end of the road" where machine deals coup de grace.

EACH YEAR in the Southland one-half million automobiles are thrown away. How do you throw away something as large as an auto? In many parts of the nation it's often done by rolling the old rattle-trap to the side of the street and leaving it, a practice that has become a problem in metropolitan centers of the East and Midwest.

It is less a problem in Southern California because there still is a market—though a weakened one—for junk cars. Most wrecking yards will pay $10 to $25 for them, which isn't much, but better than a fistful of overparking tickets they collect when abandoned.

The junk dealers strip the cars of resalable parts and ship them to Terminal Island for overseas shipment or to Los Angeles yards for sale to domestic steel furnaces. One million net tons of scrap metal will be exported through Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor this year, it's estimated.

The Luria Co. in Vernon is attempting to revive the domestic market with its super-secret new machine, which is as tall as a six-story building and as long as a football field—rather hard to hide in spite of its guards.

THE GIANT machine, called a "fragmentizer," turns the scrapped cars into shredded metal that, the firm claims, is high-quality reusable steel. As the cars move up the long conveyor belt at the rate of 60 per hour and fall into the monster's mouth, giant high-speed hammers pummel them. As the hammers smash the autos into smaller and smaller pieces, the non-steel particles are separated. Glass, cloth, rubber and even paint chips are separated for discard and chunks of metal pour out of the machine into railroad cars ready for shipment.

Junk men think this might be the answer to the slump in the scrap metal business. Who knows, if enough of these giant auto gobblers are built, maybe it will be the answer to the traffic problem, too.

Smashed to bits, old automobiles are spewed from giant machine as scrap for steel mills.

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authorative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation.

Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hida-Sweep automatic pool cleaner – it is never removed from the pool – and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low.

Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

ACTUAL dimensions of your yard may not permit large trees or bushes. Then try espaliers. Even this evergreen magnolia, certainly one of the largest of trees, can be contained very easily. Most other plants and trees are suitable for this treatment, but check with your local nurseryman first. He should be able to tell you which type would be best for you and even let you begin on started espaliers now at his nursery.

Ranunculus Is a Garden Favorite

For ease of culture and flower production, ranunculus is one of the top bulb plants.

RANUNCULUS is easy to grow and yields heavy crops of flowers, good for cutting as well as beauty in the garden. Nurserymen have the bulbs to be set out now. Plants already sprouted are also available.

Feeding with a mild solution of liquid fish fertilizer several times while plants are growing is beneficial.

October is a busy planting month, what with setting out annuals, bulbs, sowing sweet pea seeds, and reduing lawns.

SWEET PEAS grow best if gardeners are stingy in frequency of watering them. Water them often, keep soil wet, and nearly half of them will rot off. Water them deeply, don't water them again till soil dries, and they'll grow. Frequency of watering depends upon texture of soil and amount of organic matter in the soil that retains the moisture.

Plant snapdragons, stocks, pansies, violas, delphiniums, calendulas, in sunny garden areas. Brighten those dark shady sections by planting outdoor cyclamen from small pots or plant bands, obconica and malacoides primroses and cinerarias, but protect cinerarias from frost, and don't let aphids get a toehold on underside of cineraria foliage.

Plant bulbs in masses, and sow low spreading winter annuals over the planted bulb bed area. One showy combination is Dutch iris with pansies. Baby blue eyes in daffodil bed is another. Purpose of the low blooming plant covers is to add contrast of colors for added interest, but primarily to keep the garden area attractive as the foliage of the bulbs gradually dies down.

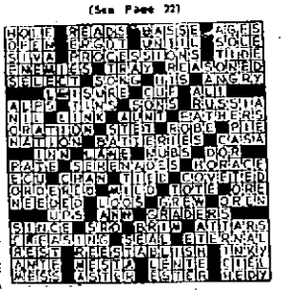

FEEDING LAWNS with a good turf fertilizer containing insecticide to keep them plush looking and to control lawn moth worms in grass lawn, and cutworms in dichondra lawn is an excellent idea, but the insecticide control mixed with the fertilizer doesn't last forever. Gardeners still must spray between lawn feedings to control such pests.

Don't plant iceland poppies in too much shade and keep them wet, or keep them moist in sunny flower bed areas either. Plants rot off if kept continually moist.

If you cut chrysanthemum flower branches close to the base of plant as you cut the blossoms, you are less likely to get good vigorous new growth for next year. Occasionally, a very fine flowered but weak variety may even die off! Leave several sets of mature leaves on remainder of branches.

Garden Tips

Garden tips for the week. . . . Shop now for spring blooming bulbs, especially ranunculus and anemone, while the supply is good. You can set them out at your leisure, but buy while all varieties are available.

Disbud camellias which have set too many buds. It's best to do it now before the shrubs channel any more energy into excessive buds.

Plant blooming chrysanthemums to make up for lack of fall flower color in your garden.

Fall is an ideal time to plant native evergreens since the early winter rains will help get them established.

The persimmon tree provides fruit for some of fall's most decorative table centerpieces. At the same time, the tree itself provides a bonus of big brilliant autumn foliage that turns to bronze and red. Gardeners who have not discovered this fine garden tree should get acquainted at their local C.A.N. nursery. The persimmon fits neatly into small gardens and has few demands other than sufficient and good, rich soil.

of his brilliant pitching career.

A hit in that situation would have spelled disaster for the Cards.

WE WHO WATCHED him pitch to Lazerri that historic afternoon literally held our breaths. But as seen through binoculars, Alexander appeared to be far and away the calmest person in the ball park. Slowly, deliberately, he served "Push-Em-Up Tony" one sharp-breaking curve after another — and struck him out!

To list some other noteworthy "firsts:"

Babe Ruth, the celebrated Sultan of Swat, established the highest batting average of any World Series' hitter. In 1928, he combed opposition pitching for a glittering .625 average! His hits included three home-run-smashes (the same number he drove out of the park in the 1926 series). Several years before that (1916), Ruth—then a southpaw for the Boston Red Sox—won a 16-inning pitchers' duel in the autumn classic.

Only one big league hurler has remained undefeated in World Series' competition—Lefty Gomez of the New York Yankees. His record: 6 victories and no defeats. To Christy Mathewson of the old New York Giants belongs the all-time shutout record. He doled out goose eggs three times in the 1905 series and again in 1913—a total of four.

NO OTHER American League team has enjoyed as much success in the baseball classic as the Yankees. They've triumphed 20 times and suffered seven defeats. In the National circuit, the St. Louis Cards have played in the World Series most often with a record of 6 triumphs and 3 setbacks.

Jackson

denly lunged forward, yanked one pistol from his coat pocket, and pulled the trigger.

It misfired! In terrified haste, he transferred the second pistol to his right hand and pressed the trigger —with President Jackson's chest only inches away from the gun barrel. It also misfired!

Cabinet members and Congressmen leaped forward and seized Lawrence. Others had to grab an infuriated Jackson and pin his arms to his side. He bellowed at them: "Let me alone! I'll deal with this cowardly scum in my own way!" But Jackson's friends continued to restrain him till his assailant was whisked away to jail.

In the trial which followed soon thereafter, Lawrence was adjudged insane by the jury. Committed to a mental hospital (now St. Elizabeth's in Washington) for life, he died there many years later.

Modern U.S. Presidents are protected—while they're in the White House—by 40 Secret Service agents and 36 policemen of the White House detail. By contrast, Andrew Jackson required none!

Even after the assassination attempt on him, he kept the White House door wide open to spontaneous unofficial callers! That explains why respected historians have called Jackson "the most courageous two-fisted President in U.S. history."

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them—burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive perianal (rectal and genital) area.

What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and repeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new, foamy aerosol medication called ANULL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANULL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser—soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itch-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANULL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANULL. It relieves itch-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANULL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANULL is an effective deodorant foam because of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Completely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANULL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANULL in your pharmacy.

GOURMET'S GUIDE

Southland Dining at Its Finest in the Long Beach and Orange County Area

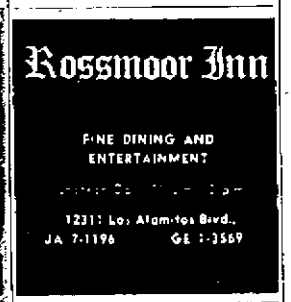

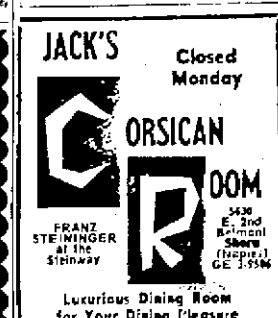

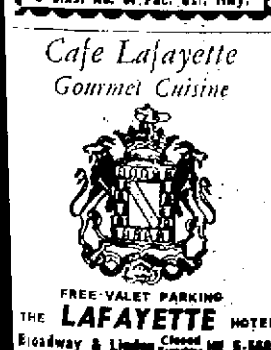

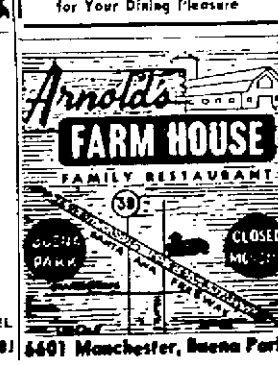

IT IS NOT necessarily true that gourmets are immaculate, fastidious eaters who wouldn't dare drop a crumb on the snowy tablecloth spread before them.

Gourmets are human. They have been known to spill a drop or two of chablis or perhaps a squish of consomme on their tuxedos or gold lame gowns. Gourmets are so human, in fact, that the worldly Cafe Lafayette — one of Long Beach's most epicurean dining establishments — supplies bibs for guests indulging in a new house specialty.

This delightful concoction, introduced by Lafayette Hotel manager John McKennon and executive chef Alphonse J G Thomas, is known as ecrevisses. That's French for crayfish. The dish includes two dozen tender, sweet, baby cryafish cooked in a rich, creamy Bordelaise sauce. The crayfish, which are like bite-sized lobsters, are imported from New Orleans. Since they are cooked in the shell, which must be removed by the gourmet, they are a bit messy to eat, which is why the Cafe Lafayette equips its ecrevisses' diners with spacious bibs. The diners don't mind the inconvenience of the shells; the morsels within are so delectable that the gourmets find the reward well worth the minor labor involved.

The beautifully designed Cafe Lafayette serves its ecrevisses a la carte (for $5.50). They are enjoyed as an appetizer, often shared by two guests, or as a dinner entree. The Cafe (closed Sundays) serves glamorous dinners from 6 to 11 p.m. and luncheons from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The restaurant features complete continental dinners from $3.95, including such fine entrees as poached brook trout, tournedos Rossini and veal escallopini cordon bleu, in addition to steaks, including chateaubriand. The continental entrees are varied daily.

SUNDAY TREAT — The high art of Japanese dining can now be enjoyed by couples on Sundays at the quaint, cute Teahouse Restaurant, 5120 E. 2nd St. The Teahouse normally caters only to groups of 6 to 30 who enjoy lavish banquets for $4.75 or $5.75. On Sundays, however, from 5 to 10 p.m. the restaurant serves six-course dinners for $2.75 each to groups up to five persons. Reservations are necessary, since the Teahouse is not open for casual drop-ins. The food is enchanting, served by pretty Japanese waitresses in native costumes. Banquet groups hear intriguing lectures on Japanese customs, including the art of sake drinking.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BEATLES AND GIRLS. Last month when the Beatles toured this country, taking home with them another million dollars, America's teenage females, largely in the 13 to 17 age bracket, behaved wildly. They hid in air ducts, freight elevators, men's rooms, bribed bellboys and ticket-sellers, did almost anything to get a glimpse of their favorite longhairs. Their lack of restraint, caution and courtesy was shocking. Most shocking of all, however, was the failure of their parents to guide them, believing the children's antics to be clean, wholesome, innocent, youthful fun without realizing how far such teenage worship of entertainers can go.

In Las Vegas, Nev., one mother learned the hard way. When the Beatles were playing there a few weeks ago, an unidentified member of their entourage came to this mother's hotel suite. He invited her 14-year-old daughter and the daughter's friend, also 14, to a Beatle party. Without asking for details, the mother gave her consent, and the two 14-year-olds took off for the Beatles' suite.

At 1 A.M. the mother phoned the suite and asked where the two girls were. She was told not to worry, her youngsters were enjoying themselves. An hour later she phoned again, ordered the girls to return to their rooms. She was assured they would. They didn't. At 7:30 A.M., after the two 14-year-olds had spent the night in the Beatles' quarters, the mother finally phoned the police. She asked for help in getting the two underage children out of the Beatles' rooms.

Sgt. Robert Runkle of the Clark County Sheriff's Office drove to the Sahara Hotel, banged on the Beatles' door, told the parties inside that if they didn't open the door he would get the manager's passkey or break the door down. Ten minutes later the door was opened. Runkle barged in. He found one of the girls, fully clothed, in bed with a Beatle representative. The other youngster, also fully clothed, sat with her feet on Beatle John Lennon's bed. Lennon was fast asleep or feigning so. Said Runkle to the girls: "What are you girls trying to do, get these guys arrested?" He then escorted the pair to their rooms, handed them over to the mother in question. She declined to press any charges against the Beatles, telling Sgt. Runkle she would discipline the girls herself. A few hours later she and the two 14-year-olds checked out of the hotel and returned to Los Angeles.

BECAUSE OF THE VOLUME OF MAIL, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

QUIET HELP. British economists are quietly helping Khrushchev. The Soviet government, without informing its people, has hired a British firm of economists, Urwick, Orr and Co., to explore means of improving the Soviet economy, primarily from the managerial standpoint. Thus far Urwick has made two trips to Moscow, has strongly recommended to Russian officials that they decrease the influence of party commissars and establish a training school for potential executives.

CROWNING ACHIEVEMENT. Outstanding dramatic performance of our time, according to many drama critics, is Sir Laurence Olivier's portrayal of Othello. Staged in London and later at the Chichester Festival in England, Olivier's Othello has been sold out for every performance. There is now an excellent chance that the crowning achievement of this great actor's theatrical career will be preserved on film. Electronovision, the same outfit which filmed Richard Burton's Hamlet on stage in New York, plans to do the same with Olivier's Othello. The film will then be booked in motion picture theaters throughout the world, and Olivier will end his days at long last a millionaire.

RECORDINGS. Nazi war tunes are played all over West Germany these days, and no legal proceeding can stop them. This past month the Dusseldorf record company, Hocheder and Co., has been selling albums of Nazi and Wehrmacht songs at $5 per album. Thinly disguised as documentary sound tracks put together from original wartime waxings, the records are sold without any critical commentary, have become increasingly popular.

TV COMPLAINTS. Complaints concerning the number of commercial intermissions on the telecasting of old movies have become so numerous that many TV stations throughout this country are now proudly advertising that they will show an entire movie with only 4, 6 or 8 interruptions for commercials.

INSTANT GLAMOUR. Quickest way for any female to become glamorous is to wear sunglasses. The cult of the sunglass is old hat to Hollywood, but now it's spreading throughout the rest of the country as a fashion item, not an eye protector. William B. Randall of Renauld, which distributes the most expensive line of sunglasses ($12.95 to $22.50), reports that sunglasses not only mask fatigue, hangovers, boredom and facial blemishes, "but they evoke an air of glamour and mystery for the woman who wears them. In America," Randall contends, "more females wear sunglasses than males--the ratio is 6 to 4, and the major factor in the growth of the sunglass business--in 4 years the market has jumped from 70 million to 140 million--is the fact that the sunglass season no longer ranges from May to October but now encompasses the entire year. Women like to look glamorous the whole year round."

Judy Garland's Sister

Virginia Garland Thompson is contented Texas housewife.

The Happy One in the Family

by LLOYD SHEARER

DALLAS, TEX.

Unless their lawyers settle it out of court, the Judy Garland child custody case will soon come to trial.

Certainly it will develop into one of the most nasty, messy, recriminatory trials of our day.

Lawsuits involving the custody of children are characteristically notorious for bringing out the worst in plaintiff and defendant. The husband tries to prove his wife an unfit mother, and the wife offers refuting evidence depicting her husband as a louse of the first water whose slightest touch would contaminate their children beyond redemption.

In the forthcoming case of Luft vs. Luft we have two Hollywood protagonists, both capable of washing in public the most soiled of their private linen, both capable of the most savage in-fighting, both capable of making charges which in the widely publicized end are very likely to damage both of them.

Judy Garland's estranged husband, Sid Luft, 46, is her former personal manager and a man not unknown at the gaming tables of Las Vegas and the race tracks of the nation. In her petition to restrain Luft from visiting their two children, Lorna, 11, and Joe, 8, Judy has charged: "He takes their allowance from them and does not return it."

Luft, in turn, accuses Judy of being "mentally unbalanced and emotionally disturbed," points out: "On at least 3 occasions during 1963 and no less than 20 occasions in previous years, she [Miss Garland] has taken overdoses of barbiturates.

"On six occasions," he continues, "she has attempted suicide by slashing herself on her wrists, elbows or throat."

The above is a typical sample of what will be dredged up from the sewer of scandal.

At this writing, Judy, down to 90 pounds—at one time she hit 150—is located somewhere in London with Mark Herron, 28, an apprentice actor who wears tight trousers and in all probability will never be offered the role of Tarzan in any film.

Luft's lawyers have made a complete study of Herron's background, his friendship with Judy, exactly who is paying for what, and the resultant information could very well make headlines.

Because she doesn't want to see Judy's children used as pawns to satisfy the personal bitterness of two scrapping adults, Virginia Garland Thompson, 47—Judy's only surviving sister—prays devoutly each day that the case of Luft vs. Luft will be settled peaceably behind closed doors.

"Judy has had more than her share of troubles in this life," her sister asserts, "and while we've broken away from each other, I still wish her something I've known for years and she hasn't since childhood—peace of mind."

Virginia Thompson, happily married to John Thompson, a special delivery clerk in the U.S. Post Office, lives in Pleasant Grove, Tex., a restful little suburb of Dallas. On a budget of $500 a month she and her husband live in a modern two-bedroom house (with swimming pool) on one green acre of land, far removed from the Hollywood jungle in which Judy Garland lost her way and seemingly a million miles from Las Vegas, where a third Garland sister, Sue, recently took her life via the sleeping pill route.

A few weeks ago, sitting beside her on a sofa in her living room, I asked Virginia Thompson: "How come out of the three Garland sisters, you're the only one who's found happiness? Is it because you got out of Hollywood and show business?"

This attractive, blond Texas housewife ruminated for several moments. "I don't really know," she answered. "I think a woman's happiness depends largely upon her choice of a husband. Judy and Sue were always poor judges of men. I was, too, at the beginning, but luckily I improved.

"I don't know that people in show business are more or less happy than those who are not. I do know that show business throws you into contact with exciting, frequently talented and handsome men who don't make particularly good husbands. Actors, musicians, producers, directors—they are almost too creative to be stable."

She then went on to explain how men had influenced the lives of the three Garland sisters.

"We were all born," she began, "in a very small Midwestern town, Grand Rapids, Minn.— not Michigan, but Minnesota. Sue, the oldest, was born in 1915, I was born in 1917, and Judy in 1922.

"My dad was a vaudevillian. His name was Frank Gumm. My mother, Ethel, was playing piano in the pit of a theater in Marquette, Mich., when she met Dad. They formed a vaudeville act called Jack and Virginia Lee— Sweet Southern Singers.

"When they got married, and mother got pregnant with Sue, my dad, who was a very wonderful and enterprising man, decided that they had better stop traveling. His one big financial asset in life was a large diamond ring. That's all he really had to his name.

"One evening when he and mother hit Grand Rapids, Minn., he gave his diamond ring as a down payment on a small movie theater. This was back in the days of silent movies, and Mama used to play the piano in the pit while Daddy projected the films.

"When we three girls were born, we used to sit in the front row, and that's how we really learned to read, because of the titles. Mama wanted the three of us to sit in the front row so that she could keep an eye on us while she was playing the piano.

"On Saturdays Sue and I would go on stage as an extra added attraction and sing duets. Then when Judy was 3, Dad let her sing 'Jingle Bells.' She was such a ham she wouldn't get off. Dad had to come from the wings and carry her off.

"We lived a terribly normal existence—none of the born-in-a-trunk bit. We lived in a real nice two-story house in Grand Rapids, right on the corner across the street from the grade school. We were one happy family. Dad taught us to be grateful for what we had."

When Virginia was 8 her parents found the winters in Minnesota too rigorous and just for a change took a trip to southern California. "All of us went," Virginia recalls, "and we were so taken by the climate that Dad drove back to Grand Rapids, sold the theater and moved us to Los Angeles—with no prospects of any kind.

"When we got to Los Angeles, we lived first in a house in Glendale. Then somebody told my father about a little theater for sale in Lancaster, a city north of Los Angeles in the Mojave Desert. The man who owned the theater ran it himself. He sold the tickets, collected the tickets, then ran back and started the film. Dad bought the theater, and we lived in Lancaster for seven years. Mama played the piano and taught us girls how to sing. She let us sing in the theater on weekends and then on one other day, she would drive us 60 miles to Los Angeles where we appeared on a kiddie program over Station KFWB.

"The guy who emceed the program was later fired for saying into the microphone when he thought he was off the air, 'Well, that should hold the little so-and-sos!'

"Judy, Sue and I earned our first money, $10 a week, singing at Loew's State during Christmas. They would only let us sing in the chorus. They didn't think we were good enough for anything else.

"Gradually we got better and started working around Los Angeles and Long Beach, which we all loved because we got to go to the beach and take the rides on the amusement pier. In 1934, just as a lark, Mother took us to Chicago, where we worked the World's Fair. We worked at a place called Old Mexico and were billed as the Gumm Sisters.

STINT AT OLD MEXICO

"We worked, not because we needed the money, but because we wanted to. I remember Dad didn't want us to go to Chicago. He was against it, but when Mother said okay, he gave her $500 worth of traveler's checks, but she was determined not to use them. Anyway, Old Mexico folded, and we got a job at the Oriental Theater in Chicago. The M.C. was George Jessel. Somehow he thought we were a comedy act. 'I can't introduce you as the Gumm Sisters,' he told us. 'It sounds too ridiculous.' Mama asked him what we should change it to. Jessel said he didn't know but would think of something before the second show. We were standing in the wings waiting to go on, when he motioned and introduced us as the Garland Sisters. Sue was then 19. I was 17, and Judy was 12 and perfectly normal.

"Until then the only man in our lives was our father. We loved and respected him. He was a kind man, a responsible man, an enterprising man. He showed us love and affection, and whatever happened to us afterward—no one can blame him. He died of a heart attack when he was 49."

One summer when the Garland Sisters were playing Lake Tahoe, Sue fell in love with a musician named Lee Cahn. Her parents tried to dissuade her from marriage, but at 20 Sue felt entitled to make her own decision. The marriage lasted six years. It was childless. Two years later Sue Garland married another musician, a trumpet player in the Artie Shaw Band, Jack Cathcart, now musical director at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas.

This past May, after she had obtained a divorce so that her bandleader husband might marry a younger girl, Sue Garland, 49, was found dead in her Las Vegas home. She had previously attempted suicide by taking near-fatal doses of Nembutal. This time the dose was fatal.

Of this tragedy, all Virginia Thompson will say is: 'It was a sordid domestic mess. Living in Las Vegas, that's not a particularly tranquil atmosphere—the gambling, the girls, the temptations. When Jack and Sue obtained a divorce—that was the end for her. She went the sleeping pill routine. Somehow the Garland females can't stand the loss of love.

"After Daddy died and Judy turned against her, Mama also tried suicide. Judy has tried it over and over again. I'm the only one who hasn't. I think it's because I'm happily married.

"What loused Judy up, I'm convinced, is psychiatry. She was the most happy, normal, lively, laughing girl you ever met until she began going to a psychiatrist. This was when she was a teenager at MGM after they'd signed her at $125 a week to begin with. Of course when she began going to the head-shrinker she was earning big money. The first time she went into analysis, she stayed for 3 years, at $20 an hour, 5 days a week.

"How she started the psychiatrist bit is absolutely fantastic. As I remember, she was very much in love at the time with a writer-director. One day the three of us were sitting in a restaurant and Judy concocted a story about going up in a parachute ride with Mickey Rooney at an amusement park and getting stuck. The story was pure fiction—Judy liked to concoct these stories—she was always imaginative and creative—but the writer-director told her she was a pathological liar and he recommended she go to a psychiatrist.

"Judy was so much in love with him, his every word was a command. Well, after the psychiatrist got through with Judy, he convinced her that her family was no good for her. Mother used to handle Judy's finances. She bought her some wonderful annuity insurance—it was expensive—but Judy could have retired at age 30 independently wealthy. When she got through with the psychiatrist, she canned Mama and got a business manager who cashed in the policies, and after that it was one financial mess after another for her.

"Mama never took a dime from Judy. After Judy got divorced from David Rose and then married Vincent Minnelli, we all broke apart. Mama came to live in Dallas and managed a theater for a time, but then Judy tried to cut her throat and Mama raced back to Hollywood to help. She never did come back to Dallas. Sad—she could've had a nice life here. Instead, she stayed out there, and Ida Koverman, she was L. B. Mayer's secretary, got her a job working in an aircraft factory. One day when Mama was broke, Ida said to her, 'Now, listen, this is just ridiculous. You've spent a fortune on Judy. She owes you something.' By then Judy was married to Sid Luft. She and Sid were down at the Philharmonic. So Mama went down to see Judy backstage. But Judy wouldn't see her. She sent Sid out to talk to her, but the conversation ended in nothing. Mama just left and she never took a penny from Judy.

BLAMES THE MEN IN HER LIFE

"Later, Mama tried suicide and several years later, she died. But I don't blame Judy, I blame the men in her life, men she's been unable to cope with, ambitious men, complex men, driving men. Judy is no beauty. She was never any beauty. I guess in a theatrical world of great beauty, she felt inferior. She has always demanded love for reassurance, and I guess she's had to buy it.

"If only she had married a doctor, a lawyer, someone not in show business, someone who was not dependent on her for money, someone with integrity and achievement who could love her for herself and not her fame, she might have been all right. But now I'm afraid she's lost.

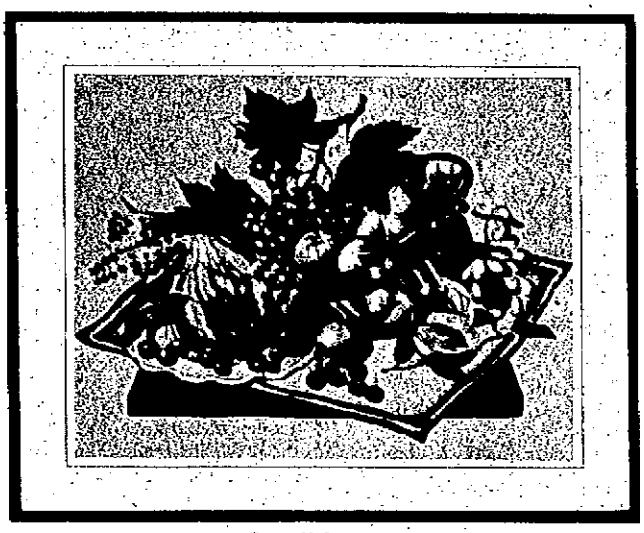

"I was a singer with bands. I worked with Kay Thompson and her group. I worked at MGM. I played all the large cities. But I was not infected by the so-called big time. I was able to move to Dallas, to adjust, to lower the tempo of my life, to sit and think and develop a sensible set of values. I know what's important and what is not.

"I pray to God that it's not too late for Judy, that somehow, somewhere, some day she can settle down with a plain, decent, self-respecting man. Money cannot buy her love, friendship, health or happiness. She still has her voice, and she still has her children. I pray she keeps them, because once they're gone—I'm just afraid to say what I think. Oh, I'm so afraid."

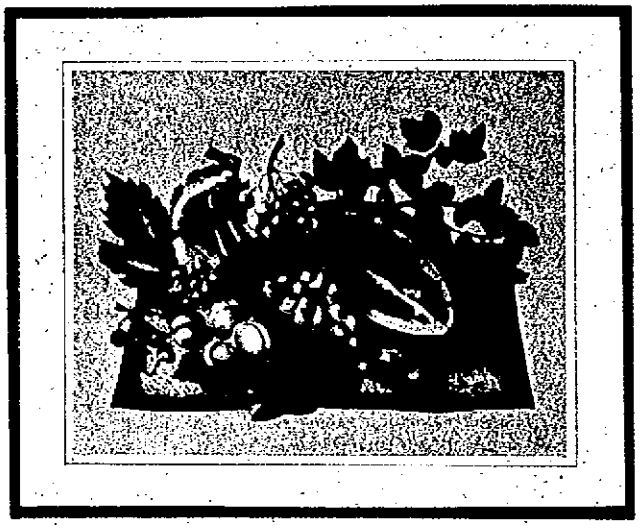

The three Garland sisters, Sue, Virginia and Judy, smile prettily for the camera in much younger—and happier—days.

A NATIONAL PROBLEM

A NEW PARADE OFFER TO HELP YOU DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT

by CARL BERNARD SMITH
Author of Linguistics: A Modern Concept for Reading

Disabled readers have become a national educational and social problem. Congressional committees on education and delinquency have found that poor reading is the recurring factor in delinquency, school failures, dropouts, unemployment.

Every day harrassed businessmen try to retrain workers who cannot read.

Teachers search for quicker and better methods to teach word recognition, analysis and meaning.

Parents worry about their children's chances for success in school. And about 50 per cent have cause to worry. According to a University of Illinois study, 48 per cent of American high school students are seriously handicapped by poor reading.

Drs. Mary Austin and Coleman Morrison of the Harvard-Carnegie Reading Study conclude in their book, The First R, that "present-day reading programs are mediocre at best and not currently designed to produce a future society of mature readers."

More children are hurt by poor reading than any crippling disease you can name. In the early grades, it causes almost 100 per cent of school failures.

STARTLING STATISTICS

Recent studies show the following:

- As many as 16 million Americans are functional illiterates. They cannot read above the 4th-grade level.
- 8 million adults over the age of 25 cannot read the equivalent of a daily newspaper.
- 27 per cent of army draftees fail the mental examination because they are disabled readers.
- 15 per cent of our high school graduates are seriously handicapped readers.
- 25 per cent of the students in the elementary grades cannot read.

These functional illiterates could populate a state the size of New York.

The National Education Association urges parents to take an active part in helping their children learn to read. PTA groups are focusing their attention on reading. Professional groups like the Reading Reform Foundation stress the need for improving reading instruction in schools and encourage adults to learn the new techniques of better reading. Some adults have turned to reading clinics, where specialized personnel and equipment help solve their problems.

Despite these efforts, it will take years to revise textbooks and get new reading programs into effective operation.

Yet, there is a solution to this problem for individuals at all levels—and PARADE's new guide, How to Read and Succeed, (see next page) spells it out. Parents who want their children to get reading fundamentals, teachers who

what makes an eager eater?

Many things. Plenty of fresh air to tune up an appetite. The smiling atmosphere that surrounds your baby's mealtimes. The colors and flavors of the foods you offer. (Gerber Baby Foods are famous for exceptional eye-and-flavor-appeal.) Variety to stimulate appetite interest; develop good eating habits. (Gerber offers over 50 delicious strained foods for continued meal-appeal.)

Easy does it

Forcing never made a baby a bigger or better eater... a happy association with mealtimes often has. Your baby is bound to relish his food more if left to eat, not made to eat. No one food is a "must." Certainly your cherub needs essential nutrients such as protein, certain fats and a variety of vitamins and minerals but he can get these nutrients from many different foods. If baby takes a temporary dislike to a food—a vegetable, say, there are several Gerber alternates with similar food values to substitute.

Accepted with pleasure

That's how babies usually react to the savory goodness of Gerber Strained Meats. True-meat flavors and a wonderfully smooth, moist texture account for their happy acceptance by wee ones.

Made from special cuts selected by Armour, they're specially processed to "lock in" natural flavors and assure that extra-nice texture. There are 10 very nice ways to give your baby the protein he needs for growth and strength.

Pertinent P.S.

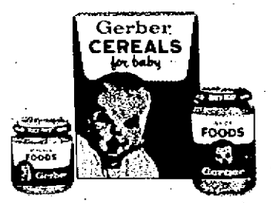

It should be reassuring to know that Gerber Meats are the doubly-reliable products of two great names—Gerber, famous for fine baby foods, and Armour, famous for fine meats. ARMOUR

Feeding footnote

One at a time is a good introductory "rule of thumb" for new foods. Let baby try each new food a few times before tackling another. Too many new tastes at one time may confuse him; cut down appreciation of any single food.

Variety review

Not less than two daily servings of vegetables, at least one of them green or yellow, is a good dietary pattern for babies. Gerber offers 10 vegetables, designed with your baby's eating pleasure in mind. Like all Gerber Baby Foods, they're "custom-cooked" according to their own requirements to preserve naturally good colors and flavors... the utmost in precious food values.

They're all Gerber-great: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods —infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

Read for meaning, not word by word

need language patterns to guide their pupils, businessmen who have to retrain workers, individuals who want to become better readers — all, with the guide, have help within their grasp.

The PARADE guide summarizes new research in language and reading which has given the ordinary person a simple means of solving most of his reading problems. Many people, even teachers, think that learning to read is so difficult that a large number of poor readers is to be expected. Actually, the reverse is true. Linguists have demonstrated that English is regular and logical and that there is no reason why every normal person cannot read well.

Some think they have to read fast to be good readers. But the real problem is meaning. Most of us simply have not been taught how to read for understanding. Most of the dropouts, failures and functional illiterates could have learned to read if only someone had shown them how to sound out words, how to get sentence meaning and how to understand what they read.

Whatever your age or ability, plan now to read better. Read— to know; and know how to read well. You can read well if you know your own needs, build the right skills and apply them regularly.

As the first step in your reading improvement program, you must know where you stand as a reader. Here is a check list. Answer the following questions and evaluate yourself:

1 When you read, do you concentrate on words ☐ or on thoughts ☐ ?
2 Where will better reading help you most? school ☐ business ☐ social ☐
3 Do you read for information ☐ or for pleasure ☐ ?
4 When you think of improving your reading, do you have specific skills in mind, like speed, word recognition, vocabulary, concentration, comprehension? yes ☐ no ☐
5 Are you willing to spend 15 minutes a day for a 2- or 3-week period to improve your reading? yes ☐ no ☐

WHAT YOUR ANSWERS MEAN

Answer number 1 tells you what kind of reader you are. Number 2 indicates your motivation for better reading. Number 3 tells you how you have used reading in the past. Number 4 identifies some of the skills you need. Number 5 is your key to success. If you answered Yes to 4 and 5, you're on your way to better reading.

To read well you need many skills: some to grasp words, some to understand phrases and sentences, some to capture the meaning of an entire selection. And like all skills, reading requires understanding, effort and constant practice.

In building skills for yourself or someone else, use the logic that is already built into the language. Contrary to what many people think, English has regular language patterns. There is a planned relationship between the sound and the spelling of words. Linguists call this the alphabetic principle. About 90 per cent of the words in the language follow this principle.

The majority of words follow two sound-spelling patterns. The word mad represents the simplest and most useful pattern — consonant-vowel-consonant. There is a distinguishable sound for the letter "m," one for the letter "a" and one for the letter "d." The second pattern— consonant-vowel-consonant-vowel — is identified by a word like made.

I	II
c-v-c	c-v-c-v
mad	made
pet	Pete
bit	bite
hop	hope
cut	cute

The words in the first pattern have the short sound of the vowel, like the "a" in mad. The words in the second pattern have the long sound of the vowel, as in made. In other words, there is logic and system in English, and reading can be learned easily through the regular sound-spelling patterns.

Some reading psychologists say that a 2-year-old can be taught to read if he can distinguish speech sounds well. That's how easy the sound-spelling patterns make it. The following five sound rules will enable you to identify most of the words:

1 When there is only one vowel in a word or syllable, that vowel usually has a short sound—for example, at, hut.

2 When a word or syllable has two vowels, one a final, silent "e," the first vowel usually has a long sound—for example, made, babe.

3 When there is a double vowel in a word or syllable, the first vowel usually has a long sound, and the second vowel is silent—for example, maid, beat.

4 When a vowel is followed by an "r," it has a modified sound that is neither long nor short—for example, car, hurt.

5 Certain double vowels (diphthongs) have linked sounds that make use of both vowels—for example, "au" in the word cause, "ou" in house, "oi" in oil.

TRY THIS EXPERIMENT

Besides the sound patterns, there are others that help you in understanding what you read. Once you know the patterns, you can read for meaning.

Make this little experiment. Take the sentence below and first read it word by word, making a complete stop after each word. Then read it straight through, trying to get the over-all picture of the sentence.

> Twenty thousand leagues under the sea lies a chest on the bottom of which is a treasure map.

Reading the sentence word by word makes it rather difficult to grasp the meaning, doesn't it? But when you aim for its total meaning, it becomes clear that the important thing is a treasure map (on a chest at the bottom of the sea).

What is true of a single sentence is also true of an entire selection. If reading word by word makes a single sentence obscure, the meaning of an article or a book could also be lost if you did not relate each sentence and each paragraph to the entire work.

By learning one structure pattern and by increasing your eyespan, you could read that sample sentence with a quick glance.

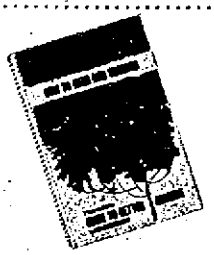

This summary tells you quickly how you can improve your reading ability— or that of another person. Start now to improve your reading habits. Keep in mind the following steps:

1 Learn the regular patterns of the language.
2 Practice the patterns regularly.
3 Have a purpose when you read.
4 Read to recognize and understand.
5 Remember: He who reads, succeeds.

Above all, practice, practice.

The PARADE guide tells you in detail the steps to follow in your reading improvement program. It provides additional techniques and exercises, plus tests to evaluate your progress. It tells you tricks to use and methods to employ to define the meaning and understand the purpose of reading materials. And it shows you ways you can help your children, or drill yourself in better reading.

Remember, now is the time to set out to improve your reading. It is important to the future of yourself, your children and the nation. ■

Surprise your friends with these new snack treats. They'll love the way mellow Muenster, corned beef, tomatoes and waffles blend in a harmony of flavors.

CHEESE 'N WAFFLE WINNERS

Baking sheet Yield: 24 Preheated 400° oven
Preheated broiler

6 (½ package) frozen waffles
Butter
Sliced, cooked corned beef
Cherry tomatoes
6 slices Muenster cheese, 3 x 3-inches

Place waffles on baking sheet; heat in oven 7-9 minutes. Butter, cover each waffle with slice of corned beef. Top with four tomato slices. (Each waffle will be cut in quarters for serving; therefore arrange tomatoes so that a slice will be in each quarter). Place slice of Muenster cheese over all. Broil 1-2 minutes or until cheese is melted. Cut into quarters and serve immediately.

Muenster Appetizers: Butter toasted bread rounds; place on baking sheet. Cover each round with slice of Muenster cheese, 1¾ x 1¾-inches; top with a small onion ring. Place a slice of cherry tomato in center of ring. Place under broiler for 1 minute or until cheese starts to melt. Serve immediately.

Here's a simple way to prepare a large variety of tasty snacks. Your guests will marvel at your ingenuity.

CHEDDAR TOASTIES

Baking sheet Yield: 24 Preheated broiler

1¾ lb. loaf unsliced, day-old bread
Butter, softened
3 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
4 cherry tomatoes, halved
8 cooked shrimp
Pimiento-stuffed olives, sliced

Place 16 x 12-inch foil piece on baking sheet. Trim crusts from bread; cut loaf into 4 lengthwise slices. Toast one side of bread under broiler; turn. (If a thinner bread is desired, flatten lightly on the untoasted side.) Toast second side and butter. Place side by side on foil; sprinkle cheese over all. When broiled, cheese will melt slices into one large piece. This will be divided into 24 small appetizers by cutting 8 strips on the long side, making cuts where bread slices touch and also in the center of each slice of bread, and cutting into thirds on the narrow side. Tomatoes, shrimp and olives should be arranged so each will be in the center of an appetizer. Broil until cheese is melted. Cut; carefully slide foil with appetizers to serving tray. Note: Can be made ahead, refrigerated and broiled for serving.

HOW WILL CANADA GREET THE QUEEN?

QUEBEC'S SEPARATISTS THREATEN "INCIDENTS"

by NEAL ASHBY

MONTREAL, QUEBEC.

The threat of angry incidents hangs over Queen Elizabeth's official visit to Canada this week.

Radical forces advocating independence for this big, French-speaking province of Quebec may make her stay less than the joyous return of a monarch of the British Commonwealth after a five-year absence.

Individuals, French-language newspapers and independence-seeking political parties in Quebec have denounced the visit. And they've threatened to make it unpleasant for Her Majesty.

Quebec's 4½ million French Canadians feel themselves dominated by the English Canadians of the rest of this vast country of 19 million. To them, Queen Elizabeth is the symbol of what they regard as their "oppressors."

Separatist leader Marcel Chaput has declared: "Some of my people are ready to let her know—and brutally—that she's not welcome in French Canada."

The Army of Liberation of Quebec, a terrorist independence group, has warned her to stay away.

And the largest, most significant independence force, the RIN party (Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale), has admittedly made secret plans to be carried out while Elizabeth is here.

"We have made known our opposition to the visit," asserts intense, handsome André d'Allemagne, executive committee member and guiding force of the RIN —Nationalist Independence Rally in English. "We have made plans, yes. Of course, I cannot reveal them. But the RIN will make itself felt. Do I plan to be in Quebec City when the Queen is there? I cannot say."

What form separatist incidents or violence might take is unknown at this writing. Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by Prince Philip, is scheduled to be in Quebec City on Oct. 10 during her Canadian stay. Her visit commemorates the beginnings, 100 years ago, of the organization of Canada's government.

Little noticed in the U.S., a French Revolution has been brewing in Canada. Quebec's French Canadians feel their language often shuts them out of jobs and that their Gallic culture might die.

The discontent in Quebec is making itself felt in the capital in the adjacent province of Ontario, where cabinet ministers and legislators uneasily eye their volatile French Canadian neighbors.

THE CONSEQUENCES

The drastic intent of the most extreme elements of the movement—creation of an independent nation of Quebec—would split Canada in two, making Quebec a barrier between the eastern and western provinces.

Acts of rebellion and antigovernment activity have occurred repeatedly over the last two years.

There have been bombings of mailboxes—one of which caused a serious injury and another a fatality—and thefts of guns from armories in Quebec. Almost daily in this city of 1,200,000, a sign in English is daubed with red paint, a British Union Jack torn down or "Freedom for Quebec" chalked on a wall. This summer, police battled mobs of youths demanding separation.

But not all the revolutionary stirrings take destructive form. Political planning and organizing also advance the cause of "Québec Libre."

The number of those involved appears to be relatively small, but the feeling is fervent. One of the most dedicated of the radical leaders is university-educated André d'Allemagne, 34, who is working night and day to free his fellow French Canadians.

D'Allemagne says his means are peaceful. He believes that separatists may someday hold the majority of seats in Quebec's Legislative Assembly (they do not as yet hold any), or that the major political parties themselves may decide to advocate separation.

But if necessary he is prepared to take up arms and fight to free his beloved Quebec.

André d'Allemagne, RIN party leader, and his wife, Lysiane, carry placards urging independence for Quebec.

French Canadians make up 80 per cent of the population of this bounteously endowed province, which stretches northwestward from the Maine border for 1,000 miles. Not all of them want to slash the ties to Canada's confederation of 10 provinces as does d'Allemagne. But virtually all are determined that French Canadians shall have a fair share of better jobs, a greater degree of local autonomy and preservation of their language and culture.

Though it does not call for secession, the Liberal Party of Quebec is hammering at the national government for increased powers. The Ottawa regime has made conciliatory gestures—and removed guns from Quebec armories so that hotheads can't get at them.

Just ahead of the current unrest, in the fall of 1960, came the birth of the RIN, which has its headquarters here. It is small (d'Allemagne, one of its founders, claims 5,000 to 6,000 members), and it professes to be peaceful. But d'Allemagne says with a foreboding scowl:

"If we are not left free to run candidates, or if we win power and the Canadian government resists our desire for independence, we will not abandon our cause. Fighting will break out in the streets.

"We want the approval of the people, in a democratic way. But if there is too little progress, the people will get fed up. Then they will take guns."

A French-language copywriter for an advertising agency here, d'Allemagne makes pro-independence speeches all over Quebec. Often RIN members assemble groups of friends in their homes and d'Allemagne is summoned to appeal for their support.

D'Allemagne and other members of the executive committee map the party's strategy at meetings every other weekend in Montreal or Quebec City.

THE HOME FRONT

André's beautiful blonde wife, Lysiane, 22, a reporter on the French-language newspaper, La Presse, is just as ardent a separatist as her husband. But Lysiane's fervor is tempered, her eager smile fades, at thoughts of harm befalling André, to whom she has been married for a year.

"We have thought—it is very personal—that we should not have children right away. I'm afraid about that. I don't want to be raising kids while André is in the woods somewhere.

"It is normal for a people to want to have a country," she continued as we talked in the small room of their 4½-room apartment which they use as an office. Here, André writes speeches and editorials for the RIN monthly newspaper in longhand and Lysiane composes party notices on a small portable typewriter.

"Quebec is not a real country now. In most fields you can't even work in your language."

The reasons for the anger of the French Canadians are found both in the past and present. Canada was discovered by the French in the 1500s, remained in their control until the British conquest 200 years later.

Quebec has remained French, but its economic power has not left the hands of English Canadians.

Canada was to have been by law a country of two languages. In practice, however, use of English has gained predominance, except in Quebec, and even here, business and proximity to the U.S. have dictated a wide use of English. Surrounded by alien influences, the Québecois settled into an insulated provincial life. Awakening in recent years, Quebec citizens found their poor English left them on the outside looking in at the good life in Canada.

The national government has made gestures apparently intended to placate the dissident Québecois. Most recently, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has proposed a new Canadian flag, displaying red maple leaves on a white field, to replace the present flag and its Union Jack emblem. Pearson has staked the prestige of his government on the proposal, to which there is widespread opposition.

However, government spokesmen say Ottawa is not seriously concerned over the unrest in Quebec and that outlawing the RIN has not been discussed. But if separation ever comes about, the loss of mineral-rich Quebec would devastate Canada.

The American is apt to wonder why separatists rule out any possibility of gaining the treatment and standing they want without tearing apart a nation of 19 million persons.

"We've tried for 200 years and not succeeded," is d'Allemagne's curt reply. "Independence is inevitable.

"The Republic of Quebec will . . ."he says, looking away, and it is plain he can see it very clearly.

my favorite jokes

by Paul Gilbert

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ever since he was 7, Paul Gilbert of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., has never known any life other than show business. His father, Joseph McMahon, was a famous English music hall comedian. His mother, a Frenchwoman, Eleanor Culvier, was equally renowned as a circus aerialist. When Paul was 7, his parents apprenticed him to the El Torreos, a South American family of aerialists. For years, Paul traveled with the El Torreos. At 17 he fell off the high wire from a height of 65 feet. Hospitalized for a year, he managed to survive, but from that point on, he was finished as a trapeze specialist. He then became a night club comedian, breaking in at small clubs and gradually working his way up. Between marriages—he's been married six times—Gilbert has appeared in all the major night clubs as a major stand-up comic telling such jokes as these:

You really see some strange pets around these days. The other day I saw a lady on the street with a big greyhound dog. It had a bus painted on its side.

* * *

A kid I know was complaining about the neighborhood he lived in. He said the house was so bad they finally tore it down and put in a slum district.

* * *

A fellow was accosted on the street by a holdup man. The robber said, "Stick 'em down."

"You mean 'stick 'em up,'" answered the victim.

"Oh, so that's it!" replied the crook. "No wonder I haven't been making any money."

* * *

A kid from the East Side was complaining about his family being too large—that there were so many kids they didn't know what was going on. In fact, he said one day a strange kid moved in with them, was there for three months and one day they found out he wasn't one of theirs when they caught him eating matzoth balls with chopsticks.

Two astronauts in the same capsule were 160 miles up in the stratosphere on their sixth day of circling the earth. One turned to the other and asked: "What do you mean, 'It won't flush?' "

* * *

A World's Fair visitor couldn't find his way in the big city of New York. He stopped a small boy on the street and said: "Can you tell me where Times Square is?"

"Nope," said the kid.

"Well, then," the man went on, "can you tell me where Grand Central Station is?"

"Nope," answered the boy.

"Do you know where the Empire State Building is?" asked the man.

The kid said, "Nope."

"Good heavens!" replied the exasperated tourist. "You certainly don't know very much about where anything is around here!"

"Nope," answered the boy, "but then, I'm not lost."

* * *

A lady told her friend she wanted to go on a diet and asked for suggestions.

"I've heard of a wonderful new diet pill out now," said her friend. "It paralyzes your mouth and you can't eat!"

* * *

A 5-year-old girl was asking her father to explain pay-TV.

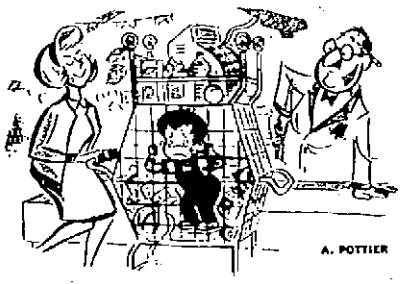

"They will charge you to watch the movies and plays and concerts and sporting events," he explained, "but the good thing about it is that each show will run for about two hours uninterrupted by commercials."

"Well, that sounds good," said the little girl, "but if there are no commercials, how will we know when it's time to go to the bathroom?"

* * *

You hear a lot these days about how prosperous this country has become. Well, I'll tell you what prosperity is—that's when a family is paying off on half a dozen things instead of just one!
